About Town

Sheila Gray, who was unseeded, recently defeated the number one seeded player in the 14 and under Junior Tennis Championships at Tennis NOW in Waltham. She then paired up with the her defeated competitor to take the doubles crown title, in which they were seeded number one. Former Winchester resident Jim Stewart, who now lives in Reading, was the referee.

Myrtle street resident Peter Hazzard will lead the annual concert presentation of Berkeley's Concert Band in Dec. 3 at 8:15 p.m. at the Berkeley Performance Center.

Hazzard will direct the ensemble of over 50 pieces in an assortment of works by modern composers. Hazzard is also the assistant conductor for the Arlington Philharmonic and serves as the chairman of the Music History and Analysis departments at Berkeley.

Among the participants at the Fall Conference of the Mass. Foreign Language Association, recently held at the Sturbridge Sheraton Inn were several teachers from the Winchester Public Schools: Francesco Castellano, John Grange, Susan Austin, Sandi Beachman, Nancy Gelowsky, Barbara Holden and Anna Maria Mancini.

The annual conference brings together foreign language educators from all levels of public and private schools and universities throughout the Commonwealth.

Cecily W. Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Hall of Copley street, participated in the recent Vassar College Drama Department production of Tennessee Williams' "Orpheus Descending."

A graduate of Choate School in Connecticut, Hall is a senior at Vassar. She is now working on the play, "The Portrait," based on an idea by Flaminio Scala.

Recently inducted into Phi Alpha Theta, the international honor society in history, at Stonehill College was Ellen P. Dow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Dow of New Meadows road.

A senior at Stonehill, Dow is majoring in English. She is a member of "The Cairn" staff, a literary campus literary publication, and the English Society.

Barbara Haber, curator of printed books at the Arthur and Elizabeth Schlesinger Library on the History of Women in America, has been designated a special Radcliffe Scholar. As a scholar she will spend time updating her book "Women in America: A Guide to Books, 1963-1975," and working on articles and reviews in the field of women's studies.

Ann Dexter will play for Carleton College in the national Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Division III field hockey championships in Princeton, N.J.

She is a senior link and co-captain of the team which held the Division III Region 6 championship title and is ranked fifth nationally.

For the second year in a row the Belmont Hill School freshmen football team had an undefeated season. Winchester players Mark LaGatta, John Hintlian and Matt Curtis are members of the squad. The freshmen unbeaten string goes back 19 games.

Colby College Sophomore Pat Fortin was a member of this year's varsity soccer team which ended the season with an 8-3 record.

The stopperback contributed to a defense which allowed 14 goals in 12 games. Fortin, a graduate of Belmont Hill School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Fortin of Oxford street.

Town Meeting Votes To Indefinitely Postpone Resource Recovery Article

Acting on a recommendation by the Finance Committee, the Town Meeting voted last Thursday night to indefinitely postpone consideration of Article 9, but did vote to authorize the Selectmen to appoint a committee to study resource recovery alternatives.

Included with the proposal authorizing the study committee, the Town Meeting appropriated $15,000 for the purpose of hiring a professional consultant to assist the committee.

Article 9, a motion which would have permitted the Selectmen to enter into a contract with a resource recovery plant in North Andover, was indefinitely postponed after the Finance Committee presented a number of questions regarding the financial and legal aspects of the North Andover project.

Finance Committee member Robert Frank, speaking on the legal points in question, told the members that "resource recovery in principle is a desirable thing." But he noted that he found a number of legal risks.

Among the points raised by Frank were:

The town must pay for the privilege of dumping at the North Andover plant, "whether or not it is dumping trash" once it enters into the contract.

If construction of the project should come to a halt, the town is still bound to the project until UOP, the group running the plant, decides to release Winchester from their contract.

Also under the present contract, the town would agree to supply trash of a certain composition at a particular fee. If that composition were to change, the town cannot change the rates, only the operator. "The composition of trash is almost certain to change," Frank pointed out. He mentioned the possibility of a bottle bill as an example of how the percentage of trash could change.

The construction cost of the $55 million plant is based on the premise that the member communities and the UOP would receive tax breaks. Should those breaks fail, the added cost would be paid for by the towns.

The transportation cost is "the most important aspect," according to Frank. He mentioned that this expense could hike the disposal fee from $8.70 per ton to as high as $90 per ton by the end of the 20-year contract.

Frank also pointed out that at the present time, there is no landfill associated with the facility. "What does exist are some rather vague statements of principle from the state," said Frank.

Another problem is that the town must guarantee a certain amount of trash, although the volume of rubbish could decline in the next 20 years. "It's pretty easy to hypothesize less trash," Frank noted. If the volume of trash did drop, the town would still have to pay their signed rate, and the cost per ton will rise.

Frank also noted that there is a limited amount of insurance available to protect member communities against third party suits.

The Finance Committee member also noted that Winchester's clout, especially as a small, outside community, is weak.

"Our ability to control the flow of events as it goes along is somewhat limited."

"The task is to reduce risks to a level that is acceptable to the town," Frank told the Town Meeting. "Not eliminate those risks."

John Kupchian, another member of the Finance Committee and a member of the task force, along with Frank, that studied the proposed North Andover plant, told the Town Meeting that if Winchester decides to join the consortium after the Jan. 30 deadline, it could cost the town up to $86,000 in late fees.

But he pointed out that because of the importance and the magnitude of the contract, it would be worth the wait in order that more study could be devoted to the project.

Kupchian also pointed out that if the developers do not get the necessary number of towns to sign by the deadline, the fine could be waived.

The Selectmen, though in favor of appointing a committee to study the project, opposed the motion of appropriating the $15,000 for the consultant, because they felt that the expertise that was being sought could be found among Winchester's citizens.

"We think this is an occasion where spending money provides an opportunity to save money in the future," Frank told the Town Meeting.

The Town Meeting agreed with the Finance Committee and voted 122-8 in favor of the motion.

Dr. Cook Discusses Cross Street Residence With Board Of Selectmen

At their request, Ernest W. Cook, area director of the Mass. Department of Mental Health, this week met with the Board of Selectmen to discuss the issue of community residences and assure them that the unpleasant situation which arose with regard to the Cross street residence won't recur.

Cook outlined Monday night that the state Mystic Valley Area Board has decided to sponsor a series of discussions with Selectmen in areas where a community residence is to be located, "so that when we move in the future we'll have some understanding of each other."

The problem with the Task Oriented Communities (TOC) house, a Cross street community residence for former state hospital patients with mental disorders, was that there was not enough understanding between groups.

This lack of communication, Cook said, arose from the fact that the state budget was not passed until the end of July. Until mid August, at which time the Selectmen were notified, it was not known what the plans of TOC were in setting up the community based facility.

When it was clear what the plans were, Cook said, the communication process then began. The whole problem, Cook said, was short circuited because of this budget delay. He said he would rather that it hadn't happened this way, and will work to make sure it doesn't happen again.

Two projects are currently being developed by the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, however, there is no chance either would be located in Winchester, he said.

Members of the Board of Selectmen posed several questions to Cook, ranging from the per person cost of the community facility residents and whether or not the local residence is in compliance with state rules and regulations, to the attendant staff.

On a question from Selectman Wade Welch, Cook said that the $10,000 per person cost is paid by the community from which the resident originates. Cook also told Selectmen that officials regularly monitor the Cross street residence to ensure that it is in compliance with Department of Mental Health rules and regulations.

When asked by Selectman Edward O'Connell about the selection of residents in the facility, Cook said Commissioner of Mental Health Robert Okin determines who shall participate in community residences.

Welch also asked why the Selectmen don't have any contact with Dr. Amos Nahor from TOC. Cook replied that Nahor conceptualized the deinstitutionalization plan. His forte was the idea, not the operations of this residence, Cook said.

Cook also stated that the Department of Mental Health checks the financial conditions of the facility monthly, and the Department has at least one annual review. The record of TOC in preventing re-hospitalization of its residents is almost twice as good as other groups, said Cook.

Welch noted that in August the Board of Selectmen was presented with a fait accompli. "Who am I going to turn to," Welch said, "to make sure this doesn't happen again?"

Cook replied by saying that in Wilmington, where a residence was recently located to house former mental patients, the Department of Mental Health told the sponsoring group to first contact the Selectmen.

TOC has a one-year contract it with the Department of Mental Health. In April the Department will evaluate the program and decide whether or not to renew the contract, which coincides with the fiscal year calendar.

Cable Advisory Comm. Holds Public Hearing

The Winchester Cable Advisory Committee held an open hearing Tuesday at the Jenks Senior Center to discuss the policy recommendations submitted to the Board of Selectmen about the proposed cable facility in Winchester.

Each of the eight companies that have applied for the cable license, excluding AM Video, attended the open meeting which was designed to give the public general overview of the Cable Advisory Committee's report.

Barbara Hankins, one of four Selectmen at the hearing, urged local officials and company representatives to comment on the committee's recommendations since they would most likely be the main criteria used by the Selectmen in granting the cable license.

The hearing, which was attended by almost 50 persons, was also designed to allow the companies to solicit public response to the committee guidelines, so that they could adjust their own licensing proposals. Bill McCarter, chairman of the Advisory Committee, announced that he had received a waiver from the state, thereby allowing him to set Jan. 10 as the last day for new cable proposal applications or for alterations on any of the eight proposals already submitted.

Before the hearing formally began, Selectman Edward O'Connell told those in attendance that the Selectmen should be compelled to grant the final cable license before the town election in March, since the incumbent Selectmen are the ones most familiar with the cable proposals.

Selectman Wade Welch also pointed out that State Senator Samuel Rotondi had filed legislation in his behalf for possible municipal ownership of common stock from the future Winchester cable group. Welch later stressed that his proposal has nothing to do with individual investments by specific Winchester residents.

In response to questions about the location of the cable facility's receiving tower, O'Connell stated that cable companies might have problems locating one within Winchester. Town Manager Thomas Groux had earlier advised O'Connell that zoning ordinances in residential areas of Winchester could foreseeably block the construction of a 50-foot tower.

Final Master's Decision Gives Town $571,720 In Damages

The final version of the Master's Report concerning the town's law suit against White Construction Company and its bonding company was released on Monday, showing that the town has been awarded $571,720 for damages to the roof, walls and windows of Winchester High School.

The report, a 41 page document detailing the findings of the Master, attorney Malcolm M. Donahue, who had been appointed by the court to listen to the arguments of the parties involved, is a victory for the town in a case that has been continuing since April of 1976.

"We are pleased that the case has finally concluded and we are pleased with the result," said Richard W. Renahan, an attorney with the firm of Hill and Barlow, on Tuesday.

The town entered into a suit against White because of the several leakage problems that have plagued the $10 million project since October of 1972. White was the construction company contracted to build the project.

The Master ruled that the leakage problems were the direct result of "White's failure to comply with workmanlike requirements." In other words, the construction company was in violation of a number of specifications governing the construction.

The Master's Report listed the initial damages as follows:

A. "Fair and reasonable cost for the Town's engagement of consultants. $15,000."

B. "Fair and reasonable cost for removing and replacing existing roof. $480,000."

C. "Fair and reasonable cost for engineering services to supervise the roof removal and replacement. $15,000."

D. "Fair and reasonable cost of window-wall sample repairs. $5869."

E. "Fair and reasonable cost of window-wall corrective work. $327,132."

F. "Fair and reasonable cost of engineering services in connection with window-wall corrective work. $50,000."

The total for the above damages comes to $893,001. However, the town has settled with one of the other parties involved in the suit, whom they are not ready to reveal. The sum which they settled upon, plus what was left of the contract fee which the town never paid White, drops the final figure that White and US Fidelity and Guaranty are liable for to $571,720.

In his report the Master states that "Both representatives of the owner and the architect (Brown, Fisher and Nickerson, Inc.) concluded from their examination that the roof must be re-stripped and replaced because of the problems of faulty workmanship. The expert engaged by White, while in disagreement on whether the fault lay with the design or with workmanship, agreed that the roofing system had completely deteriorated and that it must be re-stripped and replaced."

The other area of leakage was in the "window-wall" area, for which $327,132 was assessed for damages. In this section, White was again found to have ignored specifications.

In October of 1975, an entire window unit was removed in the corridor between Buildings D and PE at the high school. According to the report, it was observed after removal that "(a) water flowed from the lower panel of the window unit, (b) the anchors securing the window unit into the masonry had not been imbedded through the portholes that had been provided for that purpose and the aluminum fasteners were found to be without any protective coating on them as called for in the specifications, (c) the cavity between the brick and block contained a great deal of slush mortar at its base, and (d) the structural connection or joint between the concrete column and the spandrel beam contained a substantial quantity of sawdust, which explained the existence of wet hairline cracks which were observable from the exterior of the building."

The intent of the cavity wall system was to allow water to enter between the brick and block masonry and make it's way to the base of the cavity. From there it would run out of the building through "weep holes" at the base of the wall.

However, because of the slush mortar that built up in the cavity, many of the weep holes were plugged and thus, according to the Master's Report, "forcing water to exit, in part, under the windows or in the walls of the building."

The report also stated that the masonry wall system, as it was constructed, "is the most significant source of window-wall leakage." The Master ruled that White and its subcontractors failed to construct the masonry wall system according to the specifications.

The leakage problems at the high school began even before the high school was occupied in March of 1972. However, the problems were not confined to one area, nor to only a couple of window sills.

According to the report, on March 3, 1972, following a heavy rain storm, "extensive" water damage was reported involving 25 to 30 windows.

A number of teachers supplied testimony for the report concerning the severity of the leaking. Science Department head Francis Finigan, according to the report, observed and complained about water leakage on six dates from March of 1972 to June of 1978. According to the document, Finigan observed "water spread about eight feet from the wall in the Physics Lab and stains extending out five or six feet from the wall in the Physics Recitation Room." William O'Connor, the Director of Social Studies at the high school also supplied data for the report. "Leakage into classroom A208 was so substantial that it required buckets to collect the water from the ceiling. On occasions following rainstorms the leakage into classroom A208 resulted in the closing off of the classroom. Fifteen to 20 tiles ruptured and fell down under the weight of water in this room..." according to the report.

A third teacher, Assistant Principal Thomas Budrewicz made an inspection of window and roof leakage after a storm in October of 1973 and noted leakage on or around 85 windows and 11 roof leaks.

From the time that the leaks were first discovered, White and the architect met several times in an attempt to solve the leakage problems, all without success. After a series of tests extending from November of 1972 to the end of 1974, White and the architect, stated to the permanent Permanent Building Committee on May 13, 1975, that they "had exhausted all of their resources and efforts to understand why the building was leaking, and did not know any other way of finding the causes."

Both sides agreed that expert technical help should be recruited and in July of 1975, the PBC hired the engineering firm of Simpson, Gumpertz and Heger, Inc. to investigate the leakage problem.

In February of 1976, the PBC received a report from Simpson, Gumpertz and Heger as to the cause of the leakage, and began its suit the following April.

Although a final decision has been reached, White and US Fidelity and Guaranty still have the right of appeal. Winchester will now go to a superior court and ask a judge to approve the Master's decision. After the judge has acted, and it is unlikely he would reject the report, White would then make their appeal.

assured the audience that receiving towers don't necessarily have to be 50 feet high. "As long as it is placed in an with clear access to one of the area's transmitting towers," Duffy said, "it can be as small as 25 feet."

McCarte also reminded O'Connell that the Selectmen are empowered to alter local zoning ordinances if necessary.

Despite O'Connell's apparent interest in building ordinance questions, he recognized the Committee's responsibility to keep the receiving tower within, or nearby, town to ensure quality reception.

Sentiments were mixed on how far the receiving tower could be located from Winchester without disrupting the transmission signals.

Duffy felt that there are enough area transmitter towers to justify the location of a receiving tower outside the town without jeopardizing the strength and clarity of the cable signal.

A representative from the Federal Communications Commission, on the other hand, felt that the tower should be built within Winchester.

The next meeting of the Cable Advisory Committee will be Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Town Hall.

Library Has Three Functions, Says Director

By MARGIE MCCARTHY

"There are said to be three parts of a library: the educational, the recreational and the informational," said Leila-Jane Roberts, director of the Winchester Public Library. The library is no longer where one goes just to borrow or read a book.

Over the past few decades the library has expanded from a mere book collection to a cultural center designed to serve the public in a variety of ways. In the early 1940's, with the appointment of Corinne Mead as library director, the Winchester Public Library began its transformation.

Her personal approach to her job, initiation of a weekly film program and the addition of newly developed recordings to the collection contributed to the gradual change in the mood and function of the library. "People found that the library had something to offer them that they didn't have before," Roberts commented.

Although the circulation of library materials has not increased drastically over the past several years, the library itself is busier. People have been taking advantage of those materials for use within the library as well as those which may be taken home.

Audiovisual materials receive wide usage. Filmstrips, cassettes and records may all be used within the library, and filmstrip viewers and cassette players may be borrowed, enabling people to enjoy these materials at home even if they do not own the appropriate equipment. The record collection is extensive, ranging in music from classical to rock and including a wide variety of spoken recordings.

Several residents, especially the elderly, frequently visit the library to read from the magazines and business periodicals available to the public. A collection of art prints is also available to borrow. These prints are purchased through trust funds. Books, however, still remain the major attraction which draws library patrons.

The Children's Department also has a wide variety of audiovisual materials that are used at the library or at the child's home. There are games for all ages of children, restricted to use within the library. The Children's Library also sponsors many other activities.

Holiday programs are held frequently, such as the successful October "Pumpkin Party." Pre-school story hours are conducted in the fall and spring. During the summer months craft classes are usually held, in addition to the popular summer reading program, which has a different theme every year.

According to Roberts, these programs attempt to stress the importance of making constructive use of free time. They try to stimulate the child's imagination and creativity. Roberts says, "Our programs try to involve children in activities that will help them to grow and to learn."

Librarians are now able to better serve the public not only because they try to look at libraries from the point of view of the user. They don't try to influence people, they just try to help people find the appropriate information so that they may form their own decisions and judgments. "Our worst problem," said Roberts, "is getting people to realize that we do have the information."

MIT Host Families: A Home Away From Home

By JIM HARTMAN

Mohammed Mehdi Alishahi is a 25-year-old graduate student from Iran, studying aeronautical engineering at MIT. When he came to the United States last February to begin his studies, it was the first time he had ever travelled outside of Iran.

A diabetic, he was so confused by American foods that he initially lived on pistachio nuts rather than risk eating too much sugar or fat. Finally, he made contact with his host family in Winchester, who was assigned to him through a program run by the MIT Women's League. And, with their help, he was able to begin cooking meals for himself without ruining his health.

The Host Family Program is one of several activities run by this volunteer organization for the wives of faculty and administration members. A major part of the university's services for its foreign student population, which comprise nearly one-seventh of its student population, the Host Family Program was initiated in 1961 to provide "for the incoming foreign student an American family who writes to him in his home country, greets him on arrival, and provides a friendly interest throughout his first year at MIT."

Frequently, however, the relationship between the host family and the foreign student continues throughout a term of study, which, in some Ph.D. programs, might last six or seven years.

Mohammed, whose host family is the Hagges of Ginn road, has become a surrogate family member. Beneath his study engineering textbooks in his MIT dorm room, he keeps a family of the three Hagge children. And when Allison Hagge, the oldest at 12, was asked by a girlfriend to get together, she replied, "my parttime brother will be here so I can't play with you today."

There are currently about 200 foreign students and a like number of Boston area families involved in the program. Although some 10 students who applied have not been placed, because of a lack of families, according to program chairman Susan S. Forrester, the system is generally simple.

After being admitted to MIT, the student receives a card briefly describing the Host Family program, which is then returned to the university if he or she wishes to participate.

The student is matched with a family according to mutual interests and the host family's expressed choice of a student's nationality. Arrangements are made for the student's arrival, after which the family is expected to be available only should the student have any problems, to have the student out for dinner or some other activity about once a month, and for holidays and special occasions.

Mohammed's situation is unusual in that he was not able to mail the Host Family card to MIT because of the Iranian revolution. He was to have started school in September, 1978, but was unable to leave there until February. As a result, it took him one month to get in contact with the Hagges after arriving in Boston last February.

Carl and Nancy Hagge decided to participate in the program because they hoped it would benefit their children. They now feel that this has certainly been the case, and the agreement has been mutually beneficial. Mrs. Hagge finds Mohammed's personality to be uniquely well-disciplined and polite, and she believes that such an influence is both educational and constructive for her children.

Certainly her children seem to agree with her. The youngest, Detlef, a four-year-old boy, frequently plays with Mohammed. Recently he was asked by his Sunday School teacher to draw a picture of the person he'd most like to come live with him and his family; the person he drew was Mohammed.

Last summer, Mohammed, whose schedule allows him little free time, spent many weekend days riding his bicycle to the Hagges. And on several weekends he went with the family to their summer home in western Massachusetts. There, by Lake Goshen, because of his responsible and caring personality, Mrs. Hagge felt relaxed about letting him take the children out on the sailboat and for swims in the lake.

The two Hagge daughters, both of whom participate in local girls' soccer leagues, and Mohammed have played soccer together. He was surprised to see girls playing soccer, and by what he calls the overall "independence" of American children.

He and Mrs. Hagge have discussed the many cultural differences and similarities between the United States and Iran, while her husband, who coordinates the physical plant at MIT, has found Mohammed an engaging person with whom to talk about more technical matters.

It is the family atmosphere provided by the Hagges that is the most important aspect of the program for Mohammed. Mrs. Hagge has cooked Iranian meals for him, and even though she forgot the spinach in her version of Bourani, an Iranian spinach and yogurt dish, it was appreciated by all.

This family atmosphere is what has made the program so important also for Brij Masand, a 23-year-old graduate student from New Delhi, India, majoring in computer sciences.

Brij is a mild and affable young man, whose first encounters with the United States were quite confusing. He found the pace very hectic compared to New Delhi, and the profusion of machines and technology in everyday life was startling.

His host family, Allan and Sandra Rodgers of Myopia Hill road, were extremely helpful in getting Brij over his initial culture shock. The Rodgers, who have been associated with the program since 1965, showed Brij how to use such things as laundry machines, which are a luxury in India, and advised him as to what he should buy for the winter - a season which does not afflict New Delhi with cold weather and snow.

But more importantly, given Brij's confusion over the many dialects and accents of English he discovered in Boston, and his loneliness at being so far from home, the Rodgers made him "feel as though I belonged here."

"Belonging," as Brij put it, is the main point of the Host Family Program. He has found that it is easy in the United States to make acquaintances, but not as easy to form friendships.

Thus, the commitment of families like the Rodgers and the Hagges serves as a solid, emotional base for these foreign students studying in this country.

Part of this base includes helping with practical matters, such as Brij's difficulty in choosing which winter gloves to buy when faced with selecting from over 10 different pairs.

As with the Hagges, so have the Rodgers found their involvement with Brij to be mutually beneficial, especially for their children.

Michael Rodgers, a high school junior, is interested in computers, and Brij has taken him around MIT explaining some of the computers there. David Rodgers, a student at Tufts, is a vegetarian. And on this subject he and Brij, who is also a vegetarian like many Indians, have had much to share.

The Rodgers's youngest son enjoys trains and mechanical things. Again, Brij has been able to spend time with him and his train set. But, as Mrs. Rodgers says, "the benefits are more far reaching than whether we're all vegetarians or into computers. It helps my children learn that we're all people, and that we have things to share and compare. It broadens our children's perspectives, and our own as well."

Caring about other people, and discovering something new, are among the primary benefits of the program. But, as Mrs. Rodgers said, "it is not an easy thing to come to this

Wellesley Club Hears College Music Students

Members of the Winchester Wellesley Club met recently at the home of Mrs. George Vrotsos. After a potluck supper, the attending members were entertained by Wellesley College music students.

Sarah Gray, a pianist, performed two Intermezzi Op. 19 by Brahms. Monica Mackey, Patricia Matsos and Theresa Deschene performed "Trio for Piano, Oboe and Bassoon" by Poulenc. The students were accompanied to the meeting by Evelyn Barry, chairman of the Music Department at Wellesley.

Lola Chaisson, club treasurer, announced the results of the club benefit which was held on Oct. 25. Over $900 was raised for the benefit of Wellesley College and the Winchester Scholarship Fund.

It was also reported that those attending the benefit enjoyed both the theatrical performances of Shakespearean works by Jim Butterfield and Mary Chaisson and the salad bar luncheon which followed.

... On March 20, 1853 the Town of Winchester experienced its first serious fire when, on that Sunday morning, the 12-year-old Congregational Church burned to the ground.

On The Record

The three words most abused in journalistic language are "off the record." And, perhaps ironically, they are most often used not by journalists, but by a journalist's sources.

Now, these sources don't necessarily have to be as crucial to a reporter's job as a Deep Throat. They can be most any friendly face who thinks they are performing a service to the press by disclosing some tidbit of information (the accuracy and importance of which is inconsequential; it's still "off the record").

But, these friendly faces think, by telling reporters juicy scoops they have a handle, a sort of censorship, on the news. By far the most annoying is to have a source relate the "inside" story, or the inside dope as perceived by the source, and then say, "By the way, this is not for print."

This also holds true for public meetings where, by the nature of the meeting, everything is on record unless an executive session is voted. For officials to note, at a public meeting, that subsequent information is off the record is ridiculous. Whether or not the press heeds the warning is almost irrelevant since others present may choose to re-tell the "classified information."

The reason this is so annoying is because of the absurdity of it all. Unless both reporter and source agree at the outset that information is not for publication or attribution, then everything is on the record. And, the only time a reporter will usually agree to off the record information is if it cannot be obtained elsewhere, or if revelation of the source would be potentially damaging.

In spite of Daniel Schorr's post Watergate attempts to equate the relationship between reporters and sources as equal to that of doctors and patients, attorneys and clients, clergy and congregants, it will usually not hold up in a court of law. Journalists can be held in contempt for not revealing information or names of sources. And the price, both financial and emotional, can be heavy as The New York Times and Myron Farber discovered last year.

So, all you helpful sources and public officials, now that the meaning of off the record has been clarified, let's get down to the business of reporting the news.

50 Years Ago

(Editor's note: Henry Simonds, a member of the Winchester Historical Commission whose avocation has long been Winchester history, recounts tales of Winchester in 1929.)

To the Editor of The Star:

In scrutinizing the Town Warrant I was amazed when I observed the following few lines; namely, Article 3, which reads as follows: "To see if the Town will provide temporary school accommodations for pupils above the sixth grade and appropriate money therefore."

Now, Mr. Editor, I take it that Article 3 suggests that we purchase a portable school. You most likely will recall that in the fall of 1920 the old Wyman School was taxed to its utmost capacity, necessitating the purchase of a portable school that cost the taxpayers $2,243.48. It was utilized for school purposes and then was abandoned when the new Wyman School was erected. It was practically as good as the day it was purchased.

That reminds me - at a recent Town Meeting, the chairman of the School Committee informed the voters assembled that from an economic point of view it would be a wise procedure to keep the school under the jurisdiction of the School Committee. But lo and behold, the chairman of the Park Board arose and delivered such a pathetic ovation, declaring that his department could utilize the portable school for a tool house, or words to that effect.

When the voters assembled came out of the huddle, the majority of those present supported the chairman of the Park Board, and the school is now located on the Palmer Street Playground. I believe, without the slightest hesitation, in asserting that it is very expensive to store a few garden rakes, shovels, garden hose, etc.

Surely none of us is infallible, but nevertheless, we all realize that in every community you will discover a group of individuals that are so cross-eyed that the tears run down their backs and their family physician finds it necessary to treat them for bacteria.

Now that the Park Department has plenty of space to store their paraphernalia in the steam-heated $15,000 building on Lake street that we purchased last March, surely, I trust that the Park Board will cooperate with the School Committee and save taxpayers approximately $30,000.

I, for one, shall never vote to purchase a portable school. Why? Because statistics prove conclusively that it is impossible to scientifically or adequately heat that type of building.

Some of the children adjacent to the stove or pipe are too warm and the pupils in the rear, adjacent to the door, are too cold. And furthermore, from an architectural point of view, they do not harmonize with our modern educational institutions of learning.

I shall always support any constructive, progressive school building because education undoubtedly is the foundation stone of America and the children are the greatest asset. In conclusion, I believe of the most non-essential, destructive, incomprehensible, regressive movements that the electorate was ever called upon to defeat was the merging of the Highland School with the new George Washington School. Or, in other words, if we had abolished the Highland School at the time suggested, we would now most likely be called upon to erect a new school in that district or add an addition to the new George Washington School.

Hence, the Town of Winchester, in my opinion, has saved a large sum of money simply by the voters exercising their intelligence.

I write these few lines to inculcate into the hearts of the voters, assembled in Town Meeting, that we must be very careful in the future where we erect our school house and stand pipes.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the above space.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Craughwell

Locatelli Building

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The change in the facade of the Locatelli Building in Winchester Center has prompted me to comment on the future goals of preservation in Winchester.

One of the outstanding architectural, (not historical, mind you) assets of Winchester is the Locatelli Building. It was listed on the Building Survey by the Historical Commission because of its unique character and design. The building is also eligible for the listing on the National Register of Historical Places, which is a list of outstanding historical architectural and cultural structures on a local, state, or national level.

In the case of the Locatelli Building, it was originally built around 1935 as a "brilliantly planned community centre of shops, offices, and studio apartments in a Colonial setting of picturesque terraces, roof gardens, and flagstone courtyard. If you walk around Thompson street and Main street, you will be pleased by the character of this building. It seems a bit Spanish, while Colonial, and yet its European flavor adds a uniqueness to the center of the town.

We all must start making decisions about what changes will occur in Winchester Center. We don't want to wake up one morning and say, "What ever happened to the Locatelli Building? Remember the tiny restaurant in the courtyard? Remember Topsy Turvy, and the News Shop? We don't want Winchester Center to become a gasoline alley, we can't let the unique character of the Center be changed before our eyes.

When you go down town next time, stop and smell the flowers. Look around you at the buildings, and realize how every one of them was added to the center at various times, but they all represent a special point in history.

If we continue to allow changes to the exteriors of these fine old buildings, we will soon lose our sense of the past, our feeling of the history of the town. And it was this fine old history that has attracted us to this fine old Victorian town.

UNICEF Worker

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Mr. Rupert Kuglin is very wrong. UNICEF is not controlled by communists and it does not prop up communist dictatorships. He is also wrong in stating that contributions to UNICEF will not feed starving children. On the contrary, buying UNICEF Christmas cards this year may be your most appreciated gift.

I worked for UNICEF in Bangladesh. For a while I was UNICEF representative in charge of all UNICEF work in Bangladesh. I now work for a private engineering company and have no connection with UNICEF.

I can therefore state with authority that UNICEF does an excellent job in helping the poorest countries of the world. UNICEF directs their programs to mothers and children. Food is distributed in emergency situations but most effort goes to more fundamental assistance in education, nutrition, water supply and sanitation, medical assistance, and programs to encourage the mental attitudes and development of skills which enable people to help themselves.

UNICEF is supported by voluntary donations. This permits UNICEF to respond quickly to emergencies. Other UN agencies have to await UN appropriations which may take years to be approved. Private contributions are therefore particularly e in ensuring flexibility and responsiveness. UNICEF is an effective channel for those who want to help children in poor countries.

Mr. Kuglin has an aversion to the United Nations, many of us do, but in picking out UNICEF he has the wrong target. UNICEF was set up to help European children after World War II.

Many serious staff are American or European. Supplies are purchased through international bids and most supply contracts are awarded to European, Japanese or American companies.

No, Mr. Kuglin, UNICEF is not red, it's not even pinko!!

The Old Winchester Fire Station — 1912.

Before The Official Town The Fire Dept. Was There

By HENRY E. SIMONDS

The beginning of the Fire Department dates back before the town was incorporated in 1850. The southern part of Winchester, known as Symmes Corner, was, until 1850, part of Medford and dependent upon that town for fire protection. In 1763, Medford purchased an engine called the "Grasshopper."

About the year 1835 the "Grasshopper" was placed at Symmes Corner, and kept in the chaise-house of the late Marshall Symmes. This was the first fire engine within the territory now the Town of Winchester. The machine was old and primitive. It was nearly square, and was worked with brakes, with a platform on top from which came copper pipe and nozzle, which was handled by a man standing on the platform.

It had no hose at all for suction or delivery of water. It was filled with water from buckets. A very moderate stream of water would be thrown perhaps 50 feet. The only other means of fighting fires were the old bucket brigade.

In 1840, South Woburn, now a part of Winchester, began to grow to a sizable village and demanded more fire protection. The "Waterwitch" owned by the Town of Woburn was sent down to protect this area and was first housed in a shed attached to a barn on the estate of the late B.F. Thompson. Later a small engine house was built on Main street near the Sullivan Cutter's residence. This engine had no regular company but was manned by young men and boys.

In 1845 the Waterwitch was replaced by the "Washington" and the old engine returned to Woburn. The Washington was kept in the same house on Main street but was manned by a 50-member volunteer company, of which Seth Johnson was foreman.

On May 25, 1851 the Town of Winchester voted to purchase an engine of its own. It bought a Hunneman engine, which was considered one of the best of its kind at that time for $1329.75. The new engine was called a "Hand Tub" and named "Excelsior No. 1" and kept in the same house as the "Washington" which also was returned to Woburn.

A fire company was organized on March 14, 1854 in the vestry of the Congregational Church with John L. Cobb elected foreman. This first company existed only two years, when it was disbanded and succeeded by another company of younger men with Samuel Mills as foreman. The first Constitution and By-Laws of the Fire Department were adopted on March 21, 1854.

Now that the Fire Department was an organized unit, the town decided that it needed a new engine house which was more centrally located with a meeting room for the men. In 1857 the town voted to build an engine house, a two-story affair, with the engine on the first floor, a meeting room on the second, and a lock-up in the basement with two cells. The house was built on Vine street on the site now occupied by the Winchester Co-Operative Bank and it was dedicated on July 30 1857 with a parade.

The only compensation received by the members of the company were refreshments "both solid and liquid" which the town furnished after each fire. In 1863 the town voted the magnificent sum of $3 yearly to each man; in 1871 the sum was raised to $10, per year.

The Fire Department, since 1867, was under the direction of three fire engineers, one of them was Chief Engineer. The engineers were appointed by the Selectmen and they were in charge of the engine at all times. Their was also a steward appointed to see that the engine was kept in good repair and the engine house neat and clean.

The pay of the engineers was $50. per year for each man. The first Board of Engineers were Mathew Oliver, Charles T. Symmes and John D. Sharon. Symmes served on the board until 1890. The bell that formerly was on the Lyceum building was removed to the engine house in 1869 for use of the fire department.

A hand Babcock chemical fire extinguisher was purchased in 1870 for $700. And a company of 10 men was organized to run it. It was placed in the basement of the house. This machine was never satisfactory for it was in continued need of repair and was sold in 1876 for $600. This company was disbanded in 1872. Also a new hose carriage was purchased in 1871.

By 1872 the population and the number of dwelling houses in the town had increased so much since 1850, the town found that it needed improved fire equipment and a new station.

In 1872 the town purchased a lot of land for $1825, on Winchester place and built a new station containing stables to house the new horse drawn apparatus. The station was completed in 1873 at an approximate cost of $6000. At the same time a new horse drawn steamer was purchased from Hunneman Company for $6500, and arrived on Jan. 15, 1873 and was known as the "Mary Ann."

The department in 1874 consisted of one steam fire engine with an engineer, two assistants and a driver. A horse hose-carriage, 11 hosemen, and a driver. A Babcock fire-extinguisher, with a company of some 20 men. Also two spare hand hose-carriages and an ammunition

Animal Killed

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Like a recent correspondent, we recently had a beloved cat killed by a car that didn't stop. A neighbor called the police, who referred him to the highway department, who took her to the dump within half an hour.

Neither the neighbor nor the Highway Department noticed her identification tag and we did not discover that she had been taken to the dump until we called the Highway Department at the suggestion of the town Dog Officer after spending a sleepless night searching the neighborhood.

The fact that she was hit by a car that didn't stop and the fact that a neighbor made so little effort to determine the owner are outrageous enough, but the failure of the town's system for handling people's pets and the stories we were told to cover up its inadequacies are even more outrageous.

We were first told that our cat had been buried in a field. Only when we received inconsistent stories as to who actually did the burial did it become apparent that she had simply been dumped at the Transfer Station. Dog Officer Molea confirmed that despite his pleas this is what happened to most pets.

We went to the Town Manager's office and requested a policy that dead animals who show evidence of being pets be held at the dump for at least 24 hours to give owners an opportunity to claim them. We understand from Officer Molea that this had been approved in the past but never instituted. We were promised action by the Town Manager and a written reply to our request, yet, over a month later, have received no response.

We write this to ask other concerned pet owners to help us establish the right for owners to claim their pets and to dispose of them as they deem proper.

Bill & Selina Woods

(Editor's note: According to Town Manager Thomas Groux, in this instance, where there was proper identification, officials were negligent in locating the owner. The general procedure, Groux said, is to find the dead animal's owner when there is identification. However, when there is no identification, to keep a dead animal for any length of time becomes a health hazard. Groux said he responded to this question in the latter part of November.

Hyde Amendment

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On Nov. 26 the Supreme Court agreed to review the constitutionality of the Hyde Amendment (which prohibits public funding of abortions).

This is most encouraging to us at MORAL (Mass. Organization for the Repeal of Abortion Laws) because we support the right of all women to choose whether or not to bear a child, regardless of their economic situation. The Hyde Amendment blatantly discriminates against poor women: abortions are legal only for those who can pay for them.

However, we cannot rely on the courts to protect women's right to a safe, legal abortion, and the pro-choice majority

New Yorkers Unite! This One's At You

By WILLIAM DONOVAN

Like the Barbara Streisand-Donna Summer song "Enough Is Enough," I've had it with you translated New Yorkers who think that your state and city are so much better than Boston and Massachusetts. In particular I'd like to register my disgust with two individuals who rambled on and on last weekend and who've brought me to this point.

I'd like to note that during their entire rendition of New York's finer points, I remained calm and mature, figuring that I wouldn't get mad, merely even. Since my two companions, she a teacher and he a financial analyst (both of whom were educated in the Boston area I might add), do not have the convenience of a newspaper in which to air their views, I promised them that I would indeed take advantage of this space. And remembering that turnabout is fair play, I guaranteed that this column would be the most one sided article either of them have ever read.

So where should we begin? Let's talk colleges. We've got Harvard, you have Columbia. So what, we have MIT. Wait, don't even begin to mutter Cornell because I'll just counter with Tufts, Northeastern, BC and BU. Nuff said.

The one thing that really stumps me, you New Yorkers, is that despite your contention that things are much better where you come from, you still live here. Explain please.

What's next? Landmarks? Let'er rip. You've got the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty. Big deal. An oversized radio station and a gift from the French with a bunch of Iranians chained to it. The Cradle of Liberty buddy, right here. Old Ironsides, Faneuil Hall, Bunker Hill and the Old North Church. I won't even mention Plymouth Rock.

C'mon, I'm just warming up. What's that? Famous people? Be serious. We've got the Adams boys, John L. Sullivan, Uncle Sam and the Kennedy's. You've got Barry Manilow.

What kills me is the theory that we're paranoid of The Big Apple (The Hub of the Universe). It's not that we sit around keeping track of everything that goes on down there. But how can we help it? You've got more people jammed in down there in that city alone than we have in the entire state. But what other kind of logic can we expect from the metropolis that gave us the nation's longest garbage strike.

You wanna talk sports? Fine. Before must make its position known to our elected officials. We're pro-choice and we vote. Otherwise we may lose the hard-won right to control our own bodies.

Foliage Trip

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On Oct. 17, 89 members of the Winchester Seniors Association made a Fall Foliage Trip to the Old Mill Restaurant in Westminster and then proceeded on to the Cathedral of the Pines in Rindge, N.H.

Reservations at the Cathedral are not required and so none were made. It was expected that each one of us would be on our own during our visit there. It didn't work out that way.

We were met on arrival by a lady and a gentlemen who announced that they had been expecting us and who then invited us on a conducted tour. We accepted this invitation promptly and with thanks, but we were mystified how anyone there would have had advance knowledge of our coming.

At the conclusion of our tour I inquired of our hostess, "Would you please tell me how you knew we were coming?" Our hostess replied, "My name is Holdsworth. I am a member of the Winchester Seniors Association and I read about your trip in the Newsletter. I have a summer home in Rindge and I am on the Board of Trustees of the Cathedral and a voluntary worker here."

In Winchester, Mrs. Holdsworth resides on Lawson Road and in behalf of the members of our trip, I wish to express our gratitude to Mrs. Holdsworth and her colleague for a most interesting and informative visit to the Cathedral of the Pines on the afternoon of Oct. 17.

Joseph J. Moran

Letter Reply

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

To the lady who wrote such a biting rebuke on my small pieces, I write for our paper, here in town I say I can back each one up at any time.

I have been waiting for someone to do just this. If this lady can show me one thing the low paid man has to be happy about, I will never write for our town paper again. I will, in other words (be quiet).

There are people who would love to shut the working class up; but I still think this is a free country, better for some, awful for others. I still maintain this is a one-sided town.

It is true the working class could not endure without the rich, but remember the rich could not endure without the poor to wait on them like paid slaves. Sorry I upset you but this is the way I feel.

Louise Chase
P.S. If The Star sees fit not to print my pieces I will bow out like a lady. I have been sending in small pieces for years. It keeps us on our toes so to speak.

wagon. The pay of the engineer is $175. per year; his assistants and the hosemen are paid $35. per year. The two drivers are paid $15. per year. The first steamer engineer was Sorell Gove and the fireman was C.H. Dupee.

Also, on Dec. 14, 1874 the town voted to buy four hand hose carriages and to build four houses in which to keep them. The hose carriages with hose and equipment cost approximately $800. each and were built by Alex. Symmes of Medford. The four houses cost $200. each and built by F.B. Sanborn of Winchester.

The hand hose carriages were named, numbered and located as follows: Black Horse No. 2, at Symmes Corner; Excelsior No. 3 on Swanton street near Washington street, Rumford No. 4 corner of Main and Swanton streets; and West Side No. 5 on Cambridge street opposite D.W. Locke's house. The pay of the men was $5. per year for each man and the companies consist of 10 men each.

The department also needed a horse drawn hook and ladder so in 1875 the town purchased a carriage from C.P. Pollard of Woburn for $650.

On the upper floor of the new station there were meeting rooms for the use of the several companies that were attached to the different pieces of apparatus. In honor of these donors who furnished these rooms, the following pieces were named: The horse drawn hose wagon was called the "P. Waldner No. 1 Co. The hook and ladder, "J.W. Huse Co., the steamer, "Alex. Mosely Co., and the chemical engine, "J.F. Dwinell Co."

After the new fire station was built, the old fire house on Vine street was still retained by the town. The upper room was fitted up for the Selectmen's use and a bank vault built for the old town records. The lower floor was occupied by the Water Department and the basement still used as a lock-up.

When the Town Hall was built, the Selectmen were moved to the Town Hall and the lock-up moved to the basement of the Town Hall. The Water Department then occupied the whole building until it was demolished to make way for the Winchester Co-Operative Bank built in 1931.

The flow of the first water from the reservoir into the principal main was introduced on Sept. 20, 1874 and 71 hydrants were connected to the system in various parts of the town. This gave the steamer, "Mary Ann," a constant and ample supply of water for almost any part of the town and greater protection against fires. No longer did the firemen have to depend on shallow wells or inadequate cisterns when a fire was not considerate enough to break out convenient to a pond or river. Often the local hose company were able to get a fire under fair control by coupling direct to a hydrant before the steamer could reach the fire.

In 1875 the town placed a steam whistle on the Mosely tannery on Swanton street, later the Beggs & Cobb plant, to be blown for any fires in Winchester. It produced a different sound from any of the whistles in use. The town was divided into five fire districts and a corresponding number of blasts on the whistle told the call firemen what district the fire was in.

A brief mention should be made about the Winchester Firemen's Relief Association which was organized on March 16, 1888. It was composed of only members of the fire department for the purpose of mutual aid and assistance to its members in case of calamities or injuries incurred in his line of duty as a member of the Winchester Fire Department.

This association is still in existence. In order to raise money for this association, it used to hold an Annual Firemen's Concert and Ball in the Hall. The first one was held in 1897 and continued each year until about 1972.

The fire-alarm telegraph system was introduced in 1888 with the placing of four street boxes at each of the following locations: Cross and Washington streets, Swanton and Washington streets, Church and Bacon streets, and Symmes Corner. In 1889 nine more were added to various parts of the town, and the system has been expanded as needed, until today there are approximately 150 boxes.

By 1892 the department was pretty well reorganized. They had permanent drivers and their own horses stationed at the center house. Before the department purchased their own horses, the horses of the Highway Department were taken to the station when an alarm sounded.

This arrangement worked most of the time. But, there were several instances when the horses were working at the extreme ends of the town, so, by the time they reached the station, hitched up and reached the fire, the building was destroyed. After the horses were placed in the fire station, another duty was to use them to water the streets in the vicinity of the center which was discontinued in 1909. In the middle 1890's the neighborhood hose reels were discontinued. With this discontinuance of hose reels, the number of men under pay was reduced from approximately 60 men to three permanent men and 35 call men.

A new Horse 3 Hose house was built on Swanton street in 1894 at a cost of $1500. In 1896 a new horse drawn hose wagon was purchased for $435 and placed in this station with a permanent driver. Also a new Hook & Ladder truck was purchased for $1140 in 1898 to replace the old ladder truck purchased in 1875, which was kept in reserve.

One of the big fires in the late 1890's was the first Unitarian Church, built in 1869 on the site of the present McCall Jr. High School on main street, which was destroyed on Nov. 16, 1897.

At the end of 50 years the fire department has grown to three engineers, four permanent men and 26 call men. Also, it has one one-horse hook and ladder truck, two two-horse hose wagons, one two-horse fuel wagon, and one two-horse steam engine. The fire alarm system has been increased to 33 boxes and the department has answered 45 bell alarms and 18 telephone and still alarms.

Editor's note: this is the first in a two-part series.)

In 780 Winchester had to provide 21,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 12 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

High School Writing Club To Have Contest

The Winchester High School Creative Writing Club, producers of the literary publication "Sassafrass," will be sponsoring a writing contest open to all high school students.

The stories must be on the theme of fantasy; a work of the imagination. Entries will be judged by three faculty members: Mr. Hillier, Ms. Hession and Mrs. Tobin. The winner of the contest will receive a $10 cash prize, as well as publication of their story in "The Winchester Star and Sassafrass."

The general rules of the contest are: 1. All entries must be submitted to Sunil Sharma, Jocelyn Malamy, or dropped in the Creative Writing Club box in the Winchester High School library by Jan. 15.

2. The manuscript's author's name must be printed on the title page, but should not be printed on any of the following pages. All entries must be no longer than 10 typewritten pages.

3. Entries will be judged mainly on creativity, originality and form of expression.

Approximately 10 men from South Woburn, as Winchester was originally known, served in the army during the Revolutionary War.

Seniors Association Plans Christmas Mini-Fair Dec. 15

The Winchester Seniors Association Christmas Mini Fair will be held at the Jenks Senior Center Dec. 15th from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A variety of items will be on sale. The Snack Bar will be open all day to facilitate more leisurely shopping for the holiday season of gift giving.

A representative group of town residents who have recently become eligible to be members of the Winchester Seniors Association attended a morning coffee and reception, held recently at the Jenks Senior Center.

Members of the Council on Aging, the staff, and the Executive Board of the WSA acted as hosts and hostesses to welcome new members to the association. Mrs. John McGuigan, chairman of the Council on Aging, and Walter Dignam, president of the WSA, appreciated the support given by the planning committee, the committee on decorations, the members of the COA, the staff, and the executive board of the WSA in making the occasion one in which hospitality was the keynote.

The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

Mini-Bus Plans Saturday Runs Starting Dec. 15

A number of changes have been made with the mini-bus schedule and routes, as well as the initiation of the mini-bus service on Saturdays, mini-bus coordinator John Henriques reported recently.

According to Henriques, the mini-bus will begin operation on Saturdays starting Dec. 15 and continue to the end of December in an effort to accommodate the holiday shoppers in town.

The starting times for the Saturday routes will differ from the regular starts during the week. The East 1 and Central 2 route will start running at 9:30 a.m. The East 2 and Central 1 routes will begin at 9:45 a.m. and the West route will commence at 9:30 a.m.

The East and Central routes will run every 15 minutes, while the West route will be every 30 minutes because of its size, according to Henriques.

Changes have been made in the loops the buses take. On the East 2 route, the mini-bus will now go down Fenwick road to Mystic Valley parkway and into the center of town. Main street has been eliminated on the return route.

On the Central 1 loop, the mini-bus will no longer travel down Holland street and Westley street. Instead it will go directly down Swanton street to Washington street.

The starting times on two routes will also change during the week. On the East 2 and Central 1 routes, the starting time has been altered from 7:45 a.m. to 7 a.m. On the West route, the service will begin at 7 a.m. instead of 7:30.

The drivers of the buses will now take 15 minute breaks during the morning and afternoon, but will only take a lunch break of 45 minutes as compared to the one hour previously.

The first child born in Winchester belonged to Mr. and Mrs. William A. Coburn. The Coburns lived with Dr. David Youngman who was the first Town Clerk in Winchester.

BOARD OF APPEAL
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The WINCHESTER BOARD OF APPEAL will hold a PUBLIC HEARING on THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1979 at 7:30 P.M. in the BOARD OF HEALTH CLINIC ROOM of the TOWN HALL on the following matters:

(1) PETITION NO. 2470 - That of LEONARD J. SORTINO by HENRY QUILL, ESQ., 223 MAIN STREET, WINCHESTER, MA, concerning the property located at 730-732 MAIN STREET (HAGGERTY'S GARAGE), WINCHESTER, MA. The petitioner is aggrieved by the October 4, 1979 decision of the Building Commissioner-Zoning Enforcement Officer preventing the use of a structure located at the rear of the premises as an auto repair garage and is appealing his determination in accordance with Chapter 40A, Section 8 of the Massachusetts General Laws. The property is located within the GBD (General Business) zoning district and consists of 6556 plus or minus S.F.

(2) PETITION NO. 2471 - That of HILLSIDE REALTY TRUST, MATTEO GALLO TRUSTEE, 134 BELMONT STREET, READING, MA, concerning the premises located at 219 WASHINGTON STREET, WINCHESTER, MA. The petitioner seeks permission to continue to maintain a common kitchen on each of the three (3) floors of these premises. The property is located within the RG (General Residence) zoning district, consists of 20,860 S.F. and is currently maintained as a non-conforming thirteen (13) unit, lodging house use.

(3) PETITION NO. 2472 - That of CHARLES B. PRICE, 41 JEFFERSON ROAD, WINCHESTER, MA. The petitioner seeks a Dimensional Variance pursuant to Chapter 40A, Section 10 of the Massachusetts General Laws from Section 6.1 of the Winchester Zoning Bylaw so as to be permitted to enclose an existing porch and erect a wooden sundeck that will be located too close to the side lot line. The porch is a non-conforming structure with permission to erect granted under a Variance by the Board of Appeal, Decision No. 807 dated November 8, 1949. The property is located within the RDB (Single Family) residential zoning district and consists of 10,870 S.F.

Scholarship Committee Sponsors Aid Meeting

The Scholarship Committee of the Winchester Scholarship Foundation sponsored a financial aid information meeting at Winchester High School on Nov. 27.

Mrs. Ralph Seferian, chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Foundation, and Dean Grant Curtis, director of financial aid at Tufts University were the speakers.

Speaking to an audience of parents and Winchester High School seniors, Seferian talked about the funds available to qualified students from the Winchester Scholarship Foundation. She told the audience that in its 35 years of existence, the Foundation had awarded over $1.5 million to 1,216 Winchester residents, monies having been solicited from local individuals, businesses, and some trusts and bequests.

Curtis, a recognized expert in the field of financial aid, and adviser to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, described state, federal and private funding sources for further education, and clarified questions of eligibility for the audience.

Forms for applying to the Winchester Foundation, and informational material

...In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

about other funds are available at the Guidance Office at Winchester High School, and for Winchester residents at the Northeast Regional Vocational School.

Winton Club Gears Up For Cabaret Show

With the snap of winter in the air, the Winton Club is gearing up for the production of the 59th Annual Winton Club Cabaret Show. The 1980 Show, entitled "Moving Right Along," will be held at the Winchester Town Hall Jan. 29 through Feb. 2.

Motion of all kinds - from transportation to dancing to a snail's pace, is the theme which will unify the musical, dance, and comic scenes.

Mrs. Paul Gleason, chairman of the 1980 Cabaret, has chosen Clint Hamblin, formerly resident choreographer at the Chateau de Ville, as director and choreographer. Edward Madden, composer and teacher, is the musical director. Volunteer singers and dancers will be auditioned at tryout night on Jan. 7.

The Annual Cabaret Show is the prime fund raising project of the Winton Club. All proceeds from the show are used to help maintain the linen supply at the Winchester Hospital.

Winton Club Cabaret Chairman Phyllis Gleason has Director Clint Hamblin moving right along as they prepare for the 1980 Winton Club Show.

Blood Drive Planned At St. Mary's Next Week

The Red Cross Community Blood Drive will visit St. Mary's Parish Hall on Washington street on Dec. 15, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Vin Berger, Winchester Chapter donor recruitment chairman, said, "Our visit to St. Mary's is a semi-annual event of great importance to this chapter's making its blood-collection goal. We are running slightly behind last year's total at this time with 408 units collected. I urge any member of St. Mary's Parish who hasn't donated recently to take this opportunity to do so. I also extend that invitation to other members of the Winchester community. When you are called upon by a Red Cross volunteer to make an appointment, please say 'yes.' In this holiday season, one of the gifts we should make is the gift of life."

To be a donor you have to be over 17 with parental permission and under 65, weigh over 110 pounds, and be in good health. To make an appointment, call the Winchester Red Cross. The Jay-Cettes will be assisting the Chapter in this drive by doing telephone solicitations. The Chapter will also sponsor its Fourth Annual Christmas Blood Drive on Dec. 26, 2 to 8 p.m. at the Chapter House on Church street.

Lecture On Cambodia December 13

Dr. Stephen Young, associate dean of the Harvard Law School, will present a free slide and lecture presentation on Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. at the Jenks Center on the "Cambodian Holocaust."

Young is being sponsored by the Refugee Committee of St. Eulalia's and other area churches, which was formed last month to bring at least one refugee family from Southeast Asia to the Winchester-Arlington Community. The Refugee Committee is progressing towards its goal of resettling a family in the area, and will do so as soon as housing for the family can be found.

Furniture and household furnishings are also needed, and if you can be of service in this area, the committee can arrange for pickup.

Young, an area expert on Southeast Asian Affairs, recently returned from Cambodia, and will attempt to show what has been happening recently in that country.

CPR Review Course Is Next Week

A new intensive CPR (Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation) Basic Life Support review course will be held at the Winchester Red Cross Chapter House at 39 Church st. The course will be held Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m. The instructor will be Disaster Team Leader David Thompson, an authorized Red Cross CPR instructor.

The purpose of this course is to update the skills and renew certification of area residents who have been trained within the past year but whose certificates are due to expire.

Anyone who wishes to enroll in this course should contact the Winchester Red Cross.

MR. HOME COMFORT
AIR CONDITIONING, HEATING,
HUMIDIFICATION, ELECTRONIC AIR CLEANING
SOME AREAS OF YOUR HOME
A "NO MAN'S LAND"?

When colder weather comes, do you find that some areas of your home, such as the third floor or basement area, are so cold that you would rather stay out of them completely?

Some housewives, for instance, forced to do their laundry work in an improperly heated basement, resemble a woman outfitted for an arctic expedition with all the clothing they wear.

"No man's land" areas in your home may be costing you money in higher fuel bills and wasted space; while often a simple redesigning of your furnace or distribution system can lower fuel bills and redistribute heat properly.

We'll be glad to assist you with any heating problem, whether it may be a small unheated space or an entire floor or section of your home. Our engineering survey is free, and there's absolutely no obligation for you.

Don't forget though, that if you've been nursing along an outdated and worn out heating system for years, our readjustment may not be the answer. You may need a new furnace system, and you'll probably save money by installing it now.

Cincinnati manufactured WILLIAMSON furnaces will guarantee you properly controlled heat for years to come. A new WILLIAMSON furnace system installed by us at FEDERAL HEATING, could pay for itself in savings on fuel costs in as little as 3 or 4 years. Those "no man's land" areas can then be converted into useful living space. It's almost like building another room on your house.

Why don't you call FEDERAL HEATING today for a solution to your heating problem, or for information on the new line of WILLIAMSON furnaces?

For a free survey or any questions call FEDERAL HEATING at 623-1515 or 729-6866.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There is a new group for Children's Theatre planned for Winchester and "tryouts" are announced already for children from third to sixth grades for a delightful popular story in play form under the title of The Winchester Cooperative Children's Theatre. This group will add to the increasingly valuable participation of Winchester's eager youth in stage experience.

Since 1956, the continual functioning of the present Winchester Community Theatre, Inc., Children's Theatre has produced an average of two productions a year, contributing scenery and lighting equipment as gifts to the school.

In 1956, the now McCall School was enlarged with the only well-designed professional stage and auditorium for the town. "The Light Board" and control for the ceiling space lights were installed and designed by the top expert of stage lighting - Stanley McCandless. This expert was the head of lighting at the Yale University Drama Department and a director of Century Lighting Company and consultant for all lighting for Radio City in New York.

This letter to The Star is partly a tribute to Stanley McCandless and his wife, Agnes - James McCandless, whose encouragement of new theatre groups (as the Wharf Theatre in New Haven) was valuable to many.

In the effort to reduce our school costs in maintenance, in Winchester, let us not forget the importance of a fine "Meeting House" and "Performance Spot," the McCall Junior High for this town.

As founder and a director of The Winchester Community Theatre, Inc., Children's Theatre I have made every effort to add to the children and adult participation in theatre. It is an experience of team work, and should be an outlet for creative expression and the Magic of communication for each actor and team member.

Our "actors" are exposed to putting their ideas about the dramatic theme to be used, in color with paint, at least on paper. These are used for posters. They have body movement in dance and mime and dramatic action.

Our theatre workshop this Saturday and Sunday at 2 p.m. at McCall Junior High is an example of the difference between our improvisational approach to conventional, set, script. It is an experience for the child in creative expression and communication with others in sight, word and gesture.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1849 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

Jaycee-ettes Plans Speaker For Wednesday

On Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. George McKay, 211 Ridge st., the Winchester Jaycee-ettes guest speaker will be Kim Swallow from Verna's Cake Decoration and Baking Co., Cambridge.

Swallow will give a lecture and demonstration on the art of making homemade chocolate candy, which includes chocolate lollipops, almond bars and chocolate and cocoa are made from cacao beans, but in manufacturing the natural fat is removed from the cocoa and left in the chocolate.

Unknown to many people this process makes chocolate more nutritious than cocoa. She will also show how chocolate comes in a mold and with the use of an electric frying pan you can make your own candy at home.

Following the demonstration there will be a Christmas party including a recipe swap and Christmas grab.

WHS 1948 Class Reunion Held

In October

Jane (Beggs) and Harry Easton hosted a get together at their home in Newtown Square, Pa., during the Oct. 27 weekend.

Those in attendance were: Janet Foley, Frank Weidman, Sally (Jackson) Frailey, Doris (Zimmerman) and Don Mitchell, Jane (Beggs) and Harry Easton. The Mitchell's had flown in from California to visit Doris's parents in Winchester.

Since it was a rainy Sunday, "Social Director" Frank Weidman organized a relay bridge game, which the Mitchell's won. It was a gala and nostalgic time for all, and everyone came equipped with a photographic album. There was much reminiscing; Jane Easton and Sally Frailey went as far back as kindergarten at the Mystic School.

Some of the people hadn't seen each other for 31 years, but everyone was still recognizable. There were a few long distance calls made - one to Sally (Vincent) Martens in New York, and the other to Wanda (Whiting) Robinson in Illinois.

It was great to renew such close and old friendships. All were sorry to see the weekend come to an end, and promises were made to get together again within a maximum of two years.

Bartlett School Parents Plan Dec Activities

At the Board Meeting of the Bartlett School Parents Association, held at the home of Director Norine T. Casey, plans were made for December activities at the school.

The annual fund raising event, the Holly Party, will be held this year at the home of Dr. & Mrs. Antonio Boschetti, Crosby street, Arlington, Tuesday at 8 p.m. Monies raised at this event will be spent on items for school including a new screen, a bicycle rack, geology models and a kindergarten see-saw.

Children will all have parties in their classrooms on Dec. 21 with refreshments and an exchange of presents. Younger children will see a film "The Littlest Angel" that day. Older children and parents may attend a school party, to be held in the gym tomorrow. Steve White, the sixth grade dance instructor, will give lessons in disco and line dancing and the "White Lightning" band will perform.

Donation boxes have been placed in classrooms. Funds received will be divided between Globe Santa and the Tom Dooley Hospital in Thailand where Casey is a board member. Students in grades four, five and six will sing Christmas carols at the Winchester Nursing Home Saturday. Students in grades seven and eight will sing carols

Dec. 20 at the Wellington Nursing Home in Arlington.

Class field trips this month include seventh graders visiting the Gardner Museum; sixth graders the Museum of Fine Arts; fifth graders to see the Boston Opera Company perform "Hansel and Gretel;" and fourth graders to see the "Nutcracker" performed by the Boston Ballet.

Winchester parents active in the Bartlett Parents Association include Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Senna of Foxcroft rd., chairmen of the Holly Party, and Mrs. Robert Graves of Sawmill Brook road, Treasurer of the Parents' Association.

The Star welcomes letters to the editor of interest to the citizens of Winchester, written by Winchester residents or former Winchester residents. Letters should be typed, double-spaced, and no longer than 250 words. They must also be signed and accompanied by the author's printed name, address and phone number in order that we may verify letters. Names and addresses will be withheld on request.

Visiting Nurse Team Leader Speaks At Recent Quarterly Meeting

Martha Heigham, RN, Winchester-Burlington nursing team leader for Visiting Nurse and Community Health, Inc., was the featured speaker at the recent quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors and members-at-large of the home health care agency.

Presiding at the meeting was the newly elected first vice president, Howard Niblock. Niblock is the former director of pupil services for the Winchester Public Schools and former principal of Winchester High School.

The subject of Heigham's talk was: "A Day in the Life of a Community Health Nurse in Winchester." She described a typical day as starting around 7:15 a.m. and including three hours at a mental health clinic monitoring patients receiving peolix therapy for anxiety; testing the school children or caring for health problems pointed out by the principal; and seeing patients in their homes.

She said that a community health nurse would see five patients requiring home health care plus visit two schools in the course of a day. Heigham reported that her team members monitor infectious diseases and make newborn visits through Board of Health contracts.

Heigham had high praise for Enka and the charitable deeds that members of this organization do for Winchester. Included, she said are donating plants at Christmas and Easter which her team nurses deliver to home-bound patients. "Enka cares for any need we see in Winchester," Heigham said.

An important aspect of the nurses' work is calling their patients' physicians to report condition changes, such as: sudden weight gain, hypertension, congestive heart cases. Occasionally nurses have to administer CPR to patients.

In conclusion, Heigham told her audience that, in addition to being a superior nurse, qualities a community health nurse must possess are "independence, flexibility and the ability to interact with co-workers and the elderly."

Two special needs in Winchester were pointed out at the VNCH Quarterly Meeting: one for the addition of more volunteer members at large and the other is a shortage of home health aides.

Residents interested in becoming members-at-large of the agency serving the home health care needs of Winchester should call Jayne Tapia, professional director, at 643-6090. Men and women interested in employment in the para-professional position of home health aide, should call Mary Desmond, HHA Coordinator, for details at the same number.

Quarterly meeting members heard an optimistic report from the professional director on the increase in service by the agency in the first four months. Combining professional and home health aide visits, there is an increase of 44 percent she said.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1979 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

Cable TV Wants To Install 50-Channel System

Representatives from Winchester Cable TV say they hope to install the first 50-channel cable television system in the nation.

An applicant for Winchester's cable television license, the local firm took its nationally based competitors by surprise by being the only one to propose a system with the capacity to carry up to 50 television channels, according to Winchester Cable TV President Richard Sampson. The current maximum is 35 channels over a single channel.

Sampson said his firm's plans moved a step closer to reality with a recent announcement by General Instrument Corporation's Jerrold division that deliveries of 52-channel transmission equipment will begin in early 1980. This coincides with the expected timing of the Town of Winchester's choice of a company to install its Cable TV system.

Obituaries

William Thompson

Former Winchester resident William O. Thompson, 84, died unexpectedly Nov. 17 at his New Boston, N.H. residence.

Mr. Thompson had been a Winchester resident until his retirement from the E.I. DuPont de Nemours Co. He had been a member of the Winchester Country Club, the First Congregational Church, a 50-year member of the American Legion and 50-year member of the Corona Lodge of the Free & Accepted Masons in New Jersey.

He is survived by a daughter, Anne Carolyn Thompson of Peterborough, N.H.; three sisters, Emma Thompson, Esther Thompson, both of Jersey City, N.J.; and Mrs. John Pedersen of Largo, Fla.; and a brother, Thomas E. Thompson of Detroit, Mich.; and three grandchildren.

Philip Gange

Richardson street resident Philip Gange, 77, died Nov. 29 at Winchester Hospital after a long illness.

Born in Boston, Mr. Gange lived in Winchester for 55 years. He attended Boston schools and was a graduate of the Wentworth Institute and the Franklin Institute in Boston.

Mr. Gange was employed as an electrical engineer at the General Electric Plant in Lynn for 38 years until his retirement in 1962.

He was a member of the Winchester Knights of Columbus, Bishop Cheverus General Assembly Knights of Columbus fourth degree and Immaculate Conception Holy Name Society in Winchester.

Mr. Gange was the husband of the late Mildred E. (Flaherty) Gange; two daughters, Mrs. Daniel Coss of Winchester and Mrs. Frederic Kranefuss of Stoneham; five grandchildren; three sisters, and one brother.

A funeral mass was celebrated Saturday by Rev. George Dufor in Immaculate Conception Church. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery in Woburn. Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the Winchester Hospital.

Marjorie Shaffer

Marjorie (Harper) Shaffer, 78, a Winchester resident for the last 25 years, died Nov. 30 at Winchester Hospital after a long illness.

She was born in Malden and attended public schools there. Mrs. Shaffer lived in Malden until she moved to Winchester.

Mrs. Shaffer was a pianist. She was a member of the Old and New Club of Malden and the Malden Garden Club. During World War II she was active in the Malden Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Shaffer was the wife of the late Louis R. Shaffer. She is survived by two daughters, Natalie DeAngelis of West Peabody and Naomi Tomney of Elkhart, Ind.; a sister, Doris Osmond of Seabrook, N.H.; and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Sprague-Margeson Funeral Home in Malden. Rev. Harold G. Landwehr Jr. of the First Church in Malden officiated. Burial was at Puritan Lawn Cemetery, Peabody.

MIT Alumnae

Talk On Careers For Women

A pilot program by the association of MIT Alumnae was recently presented at Winchester High School, sponsored by the guidance, math, and science departments.

A four-member panel spoke to high school girls about the career opportunities available in the engineering, math, and science fields, as long as they start taking as many science and math courses in high school as possible. The panel will be visiting many high schools in the greater Boston area to speak to young women about colleges and careers.

The panel consisted of Marjorie Stow Johnson, an electrical engineering graduate student at MIT and a 1974 graduate of Winchester High School; Peggy Hopper, a biochemist at MIT; Betsy Goeke, a mechanical engineering instructor at MIT and a Winchester resident; and Tom Stagliano, an aeronautical engineer and Winchester resident.

THE SPIDER

During Mark Twain's days as a newspaperman, he was editor of a small Missouri paper. One day he received a letter from a subscriber, stating that he had found a spider in his paper, and asked if this was an omen of good or bad luck.

Twain replied: "Finding a spider in your paper is neither good nor bad luck. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant was not advertising so that he could go to that store, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

THE WINCHESTER STAR

will keep the spider away from your door

REAL ESTATE

A GOOD FLOOR PLAN

When considering the purchase or construction of a new home, one of the major considerations should be a good floor plan. What do I mean by a good floor plan? Most importantly, a sound floor plan is one where you can get to the separate areas of the house without going through another area (a mistake most often found in bedrooms). The different areas should be well separated. The kitchen should be easily accessible from the dining room and recreation area. Proper placement of closets and stairs should add convenience. Bedroom closets are better placed on inside walls to function as a sound barrier between bedrooms. Improperly placed or oversized windows can make furniture arrangement impossible. Naturally, the size of the rooms will vary from house to house, but the living room should be large enough to contain at least one conversation group and allow room for movement and circulation. A good floor plan is only appreciated when you have suffered through a bad one.

Aberjona Collaborative To Meet Saturday To Discuss River's Problems

Who is working on the problems of the Aberjona River? Are there overlaps or gaps in what is being done? What should each of the communities involved be doing? How do citizens fit in?

On Saturday, the Aberjona Collaborative will meet at the Jenks Senior Center to be briefed on who is now working on which problems of the Aberjona.

A panel of area State Representatives has been invited to respond to the presentation and suggest possible future action, before general discussion and planning.

Toxic Wastes, Aquifers and Floods

At least nine potentially dangerous chemicals, including arsenic, chromium and lead, have been identified in the old North Woburn chemical dump on the Aberjona. The US Army Corps of Engineers, the EPA and DEQE are among those studying how these chemicals may be leaching through the soil.

Once in the aquifer (underground water storage of the watershed), are those chemicals threatening the water supplies of Woburn and adjoining towns? What is being carried down the Aberjona to Boston Harbor?

The toxic wastes have probably been accumulating from the 1850s until 1971. A chemical company formerly operating in Woburn has also contributed to the problem.

Every new parking lot, brook relocation and industrial, office and housing development contributes to the problem. In a 25 square mile area including much of Burlington, Wilmington and Stoneham, as well as Reading (source of the Aberjona), Woburn and Winchester, the areas which used to store rain water underground and allow a gradual purifying process are being eliminated. Other major effects are "low flow" (drying up of the river stream in summer) and increasingly severe flooding.

Missing Low Grade Uranium Ore

Lost: fifty 55-gallon drums of low-grade uranium ore dumped in the old North Woburn dump about 1960. Produced in a research program in a Winchester plant, the material was trucked to the Woburn site and later moved during excavations for the Woburn Industrial Park. Authorities say there is no more danger from radioactivity than from New England granite. Still, where is the ore? What else is out there that we don't know about?

Local Oil Spills; Open Storm Sewers

In addition to several small oil spills into the Aberjona in recent years, a major source of pollution is from oil going into open storm sewers throughout the Aberjona system. Oil washes from parking lots. Back-yard oil changes are often dumped into "the sewer." Repair garages are often located so that any spills find their way into the river.

Fertilizer, Mallards, Geese And Salt

Every bit of lawn fertilizer washed away or leached through the aquifer ends up in the Aberjona. The friendly waterfowl paddling on local ponds leave enough extra fertilizer to cause those ponds to disappear in the next decade or two. Both kinds of fertilizer encourage plant life in the watershed which will choke out the brooks, ponds and river. Should we have an area-wide harvesting program? How effective is chemical treatment? Should we dredge? More important, in the long run how can we control the amount of fertilizer in the Aberjona system?

Every bit of salt used on sidewalks and roads in the watershed works its way into the aquifer and the river. Everything else dumped outdoors that can find its way to a storm sewer finds its way to the Aberjona. As an example of how quickly some materials can work into the system, in August, 1978 a tank truck leaked a toxic chemical on Route 128 in Burlington. Although treated with a solvent and sand by the Burlington Fire Department, residue from the chemical worked its way from Burlington through Woburn into Horn Pond. Wedge Pond in Winchester was closed for swimming until five days after the spill.

Flooding, Low Flow, Erosion And Silt

With the loss of aquifers upstream, the flooding problem increases downstream. Low flow is an increasing problem in summer. Not only are homes devastated and stores closed by flood damage, but the river itself is rapidly eroding along many banks from the mad surges of water - and also silt from the soil washed into it during floods.

When the alternate low flow occurs, plant life thrives, water supplies are destroyed, and the death of the system is hastened.

Aberjona Collaborative

After an informative meeting of concerned citizens in June, the informal Collaborative agreed that more information and awareness were needed. The League of Women Voters of the watershed communities, with the Mystic River Watershed Association are convening the Saturday meeting. Summaries of studies made of the watershed are being prepared.

The Winchester League of Women Voters is host for the December meeting. Photographs of situations affecting the watershed and reports of incidents or possible threats not commonly known are welcome.

Local Resident Wins Outstanding Business Award

Local resident Janet M. Pavliska, president of the Arlington Five Cents Savings Bank, was honored as the "Outstanding Business Person of the Year 1979" by the Arlington Chamber of Commerce.

The award, presented at the chamber's annual award dinner Nov. 2nd, was in recognition of Pavliska's efforts in the achievement of the bank in serving its community. From its beginning, the bank's objective has been to serve its community not only its banking needs, but in other services to its community.

Pavliska joined the Arlington Five in June, 1955 as secretary to the president. In 1975, she was elected president of the Bank, followed shortly by her appointment as chief executive officer in 1977.

Also honored at the Awards Dinner was another Winchester resident Philip L. Russo, vice president of the Arlington Five, who was presented with a "Distinguished Service Award." Russo is married; he and his wife Elaine, and have two children.

UNICEF Sale Underway At Two Locations

Have you noticed those gay orange posters featuring the children of the world in our local merchants' windows or other pictures displaying the familiar letters UNICEF? The sale of UNICEF Christmas cards and note paper, sponsored by Church Women United, is under way.

According to the General Chairman Mrs. David Dettinger, the sale is moving along smoothly. There have been two locations, one downtown at Swanson Associates, Realtors from Nov. 15 through tomorrow, and the other at Woburn Star Market, beginning Nov. 26 through Dec. 15. Both places are open 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

This year UNICEF has tried several innovative events to focus on the International Year of the Child. A special two-hour telethon premiered in six "test" locations throughout the US earlier in the year. Later the TV special entitled "Celebrate the Children" was broadcast over 150 TV stations in order that by the end of the year it would reach an audience of millions. Some people who made guest appearances on behalf of UNICEF were: Danny Kaye, Pearl Bailey, David Hartman, Eve Arden, Johnny Mathis and Sarah Vaughan.

On Jan. 10 an unusual concert was presented in the General Assembly Hall of the United Nations to inaugurate the International Year of the Child and launch the UNICEF program. This special concert was performed by the nationally known recording artists: Bee Gees, John Denver, Kris Kristofferson, Olivia Newton-John, Rod Stewart, and Donna Summer. Each one has signed a pledge donating a song to UNICEF.

The "Music For UNICEF Concert," shown in over 70 countries since its first telecast, sparked an explosion of other music-related events in various parts of the country. With these nation-wide programs, plus the many area sales of the UNICEF greeting cards, the 800 million boys and girls in the world's developing countries, many of whom are malnourished, chronically sick, and living in conditions of extreme poverty, will benefit.

A reminder of what contributions can do:

Two cents will buy a sterile gauze pad for treating a child's wound.

Nine cents will buy a vial of penicillin to cure a child's infection; fifteen cents will buy a nasal feeding tube for a seriously malnourished child.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Casassa of Arlington announce the engagement of their daughter, Marianne, to John R. Oliver, son of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Oliver of Winchester and the late Karl E. Oliver. A May wedding is planned.

With $1 UNICEF can provide: Exercise books for 25 school children; four clinical thermometers for a health center; a pound of pea seeds or seven packets of lettuce seeds for a school or community garden.

In 1780 Winchester had to provide 24,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 42 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

Reading Program For Young Adults Is Next Week

The Young Adult Reading Program sponsored by the teachers of English, McCall and Lynch Junior High Schools, will continue on Wednesday from 2:45 to 3:45 p.m. in the meeting room of the Winchester Public Library.

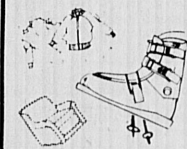

Beverly Cronan, a member of the Lynch Junior High School faculty, will lead a discussion of J.R.R. Tolkien's "The Hobbit." English teachers at both schools will help students obtain copies of the book.

Dr. M. Tadros of Winchester and his daughter Michelle, a second grader at Belmont Day School, enjoy a moment working together during the recent Father's Visiting Day.

Bonn Receives Degree

Lieutenant Keith E. Bonn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith J. Bonn of 63 Pond St., has recently graduated from the Post Nuclear, Biological and Chemical Warfare Officer's course at Ft. Bragg, North Carolina. The course emphasizes field defense against chemical, biological and radiological threats on the battlefield and as such contributes to the U.S. Army's ability to operate effectively in any environment.

Lieut. Bonn is presently a rifle platoon leader with Company B, 2nd Battalion (Airborne) 505th Infantry of the 82nd Airborne Division and has served as the 81mm mortar platoon leader. He is a graduate of the US Army's Basic Airborne, Infantry Officer's and Ranger Courses as well as the 82nd Airborne Division's jumpmaster school at Pope Air Force Base, North Carolina.

Lieut. Bonn is a 1974 graduate of Winchester High School and a 1978 graduate of the US Military Academy at West Point.

Nadeau Receives Medal

Staff Sergeant Donald F. Nadeau, who distinguished himself while assigned to the Conceptual Munitions Section, 42nd Munitions Maintenance Squadron and the Quality Control Division, 42nd Bombardment Wing Loring at Loring Air Force Base in Maine, from Oct. 15, 1975 to March 1, 1978, has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal (First Old Leaf Cluster). During his stay in Maine, he consistently demonstrated outstanding technical knowledge and leadership in the performance of his duty. His innate management ability and insistence upon professionalism were important contributing factors to the mission effectiveness of his organization.

Anderson Assigned

Airman Thomas J. Anderson III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Anderson Jr., of 34 Grove St., has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training. During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airman who complete basic training earn credits towards an associates degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Anderson will now receive specialized training in the personnel field. He is a 1976 graduate of Winchester High School.

A Youth Movement In Hockey, Houghton Goes With The Sophs

Once again, a Winchester High varsity hockey team begins a new season as the defending holder of last place in the Middlesex League. But if things go as Sachem coach Mike Houghton plans, this may be the year they surrender the title.

"Last year we accomplished what we were trying to do and that was be competitive with the bottom half of the league," Houghton stated on Monday. "We're going to surprise a lot of people this year. We're not going to roll over and die for anybody."

Noble words from a coach team was 2-16 last year and lost a number of seniors through graduation. But Houghton has four seniors back from that club as well as a number of sophomores from "a couple of good junior high teams."

"The goalie is definitely strong," said the second year coach of senior Bob Surabian. "He's quick."

But the returning goalie also likes to stroll from the net a bit, something Houghton hopes to correct. "I'll put a string on him this year. He's a wanderer. But he was wandering last year because he wasn't getting any help from the defensemen," Houghton recalls. "I'm not saying anything against them. But that's the way it was."

But that may not be the case this year as Houghton and Surabian are counting on junior John Ferullo and sophomores Steve Marino and Paul White to provide some relief in the defensive end. The fourth defenseman has not yet been named.

Up front Houghton has two of his three lines completed. Buddy Pronski and Mike Jackson, two seniors who were on the team last year but injured for a large part of it, join another senior, Danny Hines to comprise what Houghton describes as a "pretty good line."

The second line consists of three sophomores, Bill Ferry centering between Steve Tucci and Jeff Stackpole. The trio has played well together so far, according to Houghton. The third line has not been finalized yet by Houghton.

Experience is the obvious weakness for the Sachems, but Houghton feels that going with the sophomores will pay off in the long run.

"It's definitely a youth movement," the Sachem coach noted. "There are an awful lot of underclassmen and if they stay in it they're going to see some improvement. The skills are definitely there."

One only needs to look at defending Middlesex League champion Burlington High to see what the experience early exposure will do. The Red Devil team that went 16-2 last year was comprised mainly of seniors who all saw plenty of ice time as sophomores. The idea is to build the program with the kids.

But the team faces a tough season regardless of the youth. They practice mornings from 6 to 7:15 because they don't have their own rink to practice on. Another offshoot of the rink problem is that the Sachems won't play a home game all season. They play each of their opponents twice at their own rink. "And that's not easy when you have to go into that snake-pit in Lexington and out to Billerica," Houghton pointed out.

Which makes one wonder just what direction the program in this town is heading and if there is any hope for success. "Right now," Houghton begins, "Winchester hockey is healthy and that's the way we've got to look at it. I don't think they'll talk about the problems if we set out and accomplish what we're trying. We've got to win some games this year."

And though the playoffs would take an exceptional season, the wins won't be too rare and the lopsided scores that hit this team last year will be. "There are some people that we'd love to get a hold of," said Houghton thinking back to some of last season's embarrassments.

"I think we're going to get better and better every game. There'll be a blend there but the sophomores have got to step in and have a good year."

So the 79-80 Sachem hockey team is somewhat of a beginning, with so many new, young players being thrust to the front. They may get taught a few things by the Stonehams and the Wakefields in the league, but this year, that's part of the idea.

All-Stars Pick From Booters, Swim Team

The Winchester High boys' varsity soccer team and girls' swimming team placed a number of players on the Middlesex and Eastern Conference league all-star teams this season.

In soccer, Sachem f Jim Kohr, a fullback on this year's team which finished third in the Middlesex League, was named to the Division 1 all-star team as well as the ML all-stars.

Joining Kohr on the Middlesex League all-stars are Sachems Rob Horne and Stu McCord.

In the Eastern Conference of girls' varsity swimming this year, Winchester placed four girls on the all-star team. From this season's 6-4 club, Sachettes P.K. Porter, Lynne Van Umreessen, Carol Schueller and Julie DeCarlo were honored.

In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

Swim Team Banking On Added Depth

It's 5 a.m. on a January morning, the temperature outside is around 11 degrees. You begin your stretching exercises, jog a bit to get loose and then take off your warm-up suit. And before you can say goose bumps, you dive into the pool and begin swimming laps.

Sound crazy? Well now that the boys' varsity swim season has begun, that's what the Winchester Sachems will be doing every school morning as they practice at the Northeast Regional Vocational School in Wakefield.

"That's one of the reasons it's tough to get kids to come out for the team," said Winchester coach Vin Palumbo on Tuesday. "But everyone pretty much knows what goes into swimming, so the kids that come out usually stay."

This year the Sachems have a rise in recruits, a factor which Palumbo hopes will help his team improve on its 5-5 record of last year. "We got a much better turnout than we expected," said Palumbo of his 18 swimmers. "Last year there were only 11 kids on the team so having 18 gives us a lot more depth than we've had."

Leading this year's team will be Mickey Minutoli, a freestyler and butterfly event swimmer who's been sidelined recently with a couple of broken bones in his hand. "He's just about the best swimmer on the team," Palumbo points out. "He'll be ready for our first meet." The Sachems begin their season Dec. 14 at Don Bosco.

Joining Minutoli will be returning tri-captain Chris Porter ("He's going to be one of our mainstays"), along with sophomores Rich Webber and Bobby McGillicuddy.

"Those two sophomores are really helping out the team a lot," Palumbo notes. Webber will handle the 500 and 200 yard freestyle events while McGillicuddy, who also swims for the Medford AAU team, will be a freestyler.

In the breaststroke competition and also diving will be Mark Estabrook. "We're really deep in breaststrokers and Minutoli takes care of us in the butterfly and sprint freestyle," Palumbo adds.

But the Sachem coach also points out that his club will be weak in the individual medley, a 200 yard event that

"We should see an improvement this year because of the added depth and because we didn't lose anyone from last year," Palumbo feels. "We were right in the middle last year but we should have been 6-4. We took a disqualification at one of the meets because we didn't have enough kids."

Despite the promising chance for improvement, Palumbo still thinks it would be difficult to knock off the Belmonts and Lexingtons of the Middlesex League as both schools are loaded with AAU swimmers.

"We should be a little better than last year," the Sachem coach begins, "and if the kids improve up to their potential, we could pull off a couple of upsets."

The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

Watts Brings PINGuins To 3-Point Lead

Chat Watts led the league-leading PINGuins to a 3-point gain by bowling 73 pins over average in Saturday night's couples contest. He was assisted by teammates Isabel Hart (58 over) and Eric Ewald (48 over). The 3-point pick up puts the PINGuins substantially ahead with 13 points to eight for the Porcupines and seven for the FLOUNDERING Dolphins.

While feasting on Nancy and Chat Watts chili, the up-coming Christmas party was discussed. That annual event will be held at the home of the Vangells on Dec. 15 at 8:30 p.m. Jill Kennedy will attend.

Bigelow Joins Tufts' Staff As Assistant Basketball Coach

Winchester's Bob Bigelow, a former high school and college standout and professional basketball veteran, has been hired as assistant basketball coach at Tufts University, it was announced by head coach John White recently.

Bigelow, 25, played on three Ivy League champion teams at the University of Pennsylvania before becoming the first round draft choice of the Kansas City Kings of the National Basketball Association in 1975. The 6'6" forward-guard played four seasons with the Kings, Boston Celtics and the San Diego Clippers before retiring in 1979.

"Bob's presence here is a tremendous asset to our program and school," White pointed out. "He is a top caliber person with a great amount of basketball knowledge and a great ability to teach it."

Youth Basketball Starts Saturday

At Junior Highs

The Winchester Youth Basketball Program begins this Saturday, at Lincoln and McCall Schools.

Third and fourth graders should report to McCall at 8:30 a.m.; their session will end at approximately 10 a.m. Fifth and sixth graders should report to McCall at 10 a.m., and their session will end at approximately 11:30 a.m. Seventh and eighth graders should report to McCall at 11:30 a.m., and their session will end at approximately 1 p.m.

Parents who have volunteered to coach or assist are asked to report one half hour before their session begins. At this time, Kevin Thomas will explain the philosophy and goals of the program.

Parents are advised that the first two sessions (grades three through six) are over-subscribed, and no additional applications will be taken. Each child should wear sneakers and shorts or warm-ups. Team shirts will be given out in late December or early January.

Winchester was named for Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown, a wealthy Boston merchant who was a Colonel in the Corps of Cadets volunteer regiment.

Jr. High Drama Workshop To Present Scenes Wednesday

Attempting to create scenes from their own experience, members of the Jr. High Drama Workshop often felt like Pirandello's lost souls in his play, "Six Characters in Search of an Author."

However, by drawing their personal "Coats of Arms" in pictures and designs expressing the feelings and experiences significant to them, they found a springboard to playing full dimensional characters instead of stereotypes and imitations of T.V. stars. The resulting group scenes, combining individual material, will be presented to the public on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Social Studies Open Area of Winchester High School.

Teachers, administrators, scout leaders, theatre groups and every one interested in expressive arts education will be welcome along with families and friends of participants. Boys and girls in grades three to six are invited with their parents to preview a similar workshop which will start for them on Jan. 16.

In addition to the Coat of Arms scenes, familiar fables will be played first by animals and then by humans with animal characteristics. The workshop process leading up to these improvisations will be shown with samples of body work in Hatha Yoga; basic movement patterns; mime; theater games; and sensory awareness exercises focusing on the self, on others and on the environment.

Co leaders of the 12-week series are Paulett Taggart, Winchester Drama Workshop; Ruth Levy of Reality Theater; and Tony Johnson of Curtain and Cue. Participants are: Kathy Callahan, Chris Duffy, Laura Guild, Chip Katoff, Lucy Maiullari, Beth Manning, Nicola O'Connell, Denise Preston, Christine Ross, Kim Trevett and Matthew Trotter. Music is provided by Liz Marko and Margie Johnson.

The tuition free workshops are co-sponsored by the Recreation Dept. Kenneth J. Cereghino, director.

Registration opens there on Jan. 2 for a new series for boys and girls in grades 4-6 beginning Jan. 16. For further information, contact Paulett Taggart, Winchester Drama Workshop, 17 Ridgfield rd

Local Residents Take Part In Arlington Play

Several Winchester and Arlington residents have been working in the acting and production areas of the play, "Night Watch," which will be performed tonight through Sunday at the Arlington Friends of the Drama, 22 Academy St., Arlington.

Tonight through Saturday the play will begin at 8:15 p.m. Sunday's performance begins at 7 p.m.

Dirk Stryker of Winchester plays the male lead. John Wheeler, Albert E. Smith, Neta S. Frattallone and Ken Stern, all of Arlington, play supporting roles.

Jo Ricciardelli of Winchester was the assistant producer of the show. Arlington resident Bill Cochran and Winchester resident Byron Keene helped design and build the set. Also working on set construction were Arlington residents Dot Lansil and Charlotte Sullivan.

Nancy Richardson of Arlington was property chairman. Sr. Christopher, O.S.A., worked on the lighting committee. Marion Horgan and Don Richardson worked on makeup and publicity, respectively. Winchester resident Ann Foskett helped with the costumes.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1849 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

Actions speak louder than words in the Winchester Drama Workshop as Amy Marquis and Tony Molica portray the "Fox and the Crow" with body language. A human version will follow this animal fable in a demonstration for the public marking the end of the current junior high series on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., in the Social Studies open area of the high school.

Senior Citizens

All seniors are invited to the annual Christmas Party, to be held Dec. 12 at the Jenks Senior Center, following the 1 p.m. general meeting. Entertainment will include music, a Christmas reading and carol singing. Please bring a $1 gift to be swapped, appropriately marked "His" or "Hers."

On Dec. 15 there will be a Christmas mini-fair from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Jenks Senior Center to provide last minute shopping opportunities, with selections from items left from the October Fiesta Fair. There will be tables for men's and women's boutiques, a Christmas table, Claxton fruit cakes, jewelry, knit goods, a silent auction, a white elephant table, and chances on a new set of dishes, crewel pillow and afghan.

The annual Christmas Bazaar of the Winchester Nursing Home will be held Saturday from 1-4 p.m.

An antique child's chair, brought to the Jenks Senior Center for caning repairs, was inadvertently sold during the October Fall Fiesta Fair. An appeal is being made to the purchaser of this chair to return it to the Center where the purchase price will be refunded.

With the coming of the Holiday season, the Center reminds seniors to remember the envelope size regulations put into effect July 15. An envelope smaller than three and one-half by five inches will be returned to the sender; and one larger than six and one-half by 11 and one-half inches requires an additional seven cents postage.

On the December calendar: a cookie workshop will be held from 9:30 a.m. to noon today, a keep-well clinic will be from 9:30-11:30 a.m., and cards will be at 12:30 p.m.

The cookie workshop, will be held today from 9:30 a.m. to noon will feature Christmas cookies and other goodies to be served at the Christmas party. It is requested that those interested sign up through the Senior Service Line, 729-2111.

Family Film Schedule For This Week

The family film program of the Winchester Public Library this week features Laurel and Hardy's "Tit for Tat," "Six Penguins" and "Winter Carousel."

The Sunday program, held in the Story Hour Room of the Junior Library, begins at 2:30 p.m. It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children. There will be a Tuesday afternoon film program for school age children at 3:30 p.m.

The films for these library programs are provided through the state's Eastern Mass. Regional Library system.

Selectmen's Notes

MAPC Representative

Otto Schaeffer, the town's representative to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, this week told the Selectmen that the town should investigate the possibility of filing a housing request policy. Schaeffer said Winchester is in the minority of communities in the MAPC region that has not filed such a policy.

Schaeffer said that a policy, even if it is a simple one, should be developed.

O'Connell Reports

Selectman Edward O'Connell reported to Board members on a conference he recently attended in Las Vegas, sponsored by the National League of Cities and Towns. O'Connell outlined the list of priorities drawn up by conference attendees, some of which included a welfare reform policy, comprehensive energy policy, and the primary priority of gaining reauthorization of the general revenue sharing act.

Licenses

A public amusement license was granted to the Winchester Community Children's Theater group for this week's performance; common victualer's and public amusement licenses were granted to the Enka Society for their May 16-17 street fair; and a common victualer's license was issued to the Dragon Pearl Restaurant, which is under new management.

Holiday Concert Planned At Lynch For Next Week

The Lynch Junior High School will hold a Holiday Concert next Thursday at 7:45 p.m. in the cafeteria.

The concert will include the Chorus, Jazz Band, Orchestra, and Band. The Parents' Association will be holding a bake sale, featuring many holiday goodies. There will be a contest with the drawing during intermission. Included will be a gingerbread house, fruit basket, and cheese tray. The chances are 3 for $1 or 50 cents each.

The bake sale will begin at 7 p.m. the night of the concert. Chances will be sold during the lunch periods at Lynch Tuesday through Thursday and prior to the concert on Thursday.

Travel Along with

MAVIS

There are some wonderful cruises leaving from New York this winter. Three of Holland America's most luxurious liners, the S.S. Rotterdam, S.S. Statendam, and S.S. Volendam, are leaving from New York for Nassau and Bermuda. Some of the cruises will be musical extravaganzas, each cruise featuring a different musical theme, big band, jazz, country and western. A special Christmas cruise on the Rotterdam will roam the Caribbean for twelve days, leaving from New York on December 21st. On January 2nd, a 13-day New Year cruise will travel the same route.

MCGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE 14 Eaton Ave., Woburn can help to make your vacation a wonderful experience. If you've always wanted to go on a dream cruise, our knowledgeable staff is happy to assist you. They have travelled extensively and can answer your questions. Give us a call at 935-0600 and you too can be on your way to the Caribbean or anywhere you choose. There is never an extra charge for our service. Open Mon. - Fri. 9-5; Saturdays and evenings by appointment.

TRAVEL TIP: Ask your travel agent whether children are allowed to come along on special cruise packages.

Theater Group Presents Demonstration At McCall

Winchester Community Theater Inc., Children's Theater, now in its 27th year, presents this season's Theater Workshop's Demonstration Saturday and Sunday at 2 p.m. at McCall Jr. High.

Over these 27 years, this Community Theater has provided an opportunity for hundreds of children and adults (Winchester Community Theater has performed several adult plays) to be exposed, participate in, and learn about the many aspects of theater from acting to advertising.

It has long been the hope and desire of this Theater that the Town of Winchester would recognize with increasing interest and enthusiasm and support, the need for more and more involvement in the area of the "arts."

It is with a great deal of pleasure that Winchester Community Theater Inc., Children's Theater, welcomes the emergence of the "just born" "Winchester Cooperative Theater," under the direction of Kathy Alexander, whose production of the children's classic "Charlotte's Web" will be performed in February.

Between the many high school and junior high productions, the drama workshops, the church theater groups, and the community theaters, Winchester has been fortunate to have hundreds of talented, devoted, and interested people working diligently for the development of its talented and hardworking artists.

The following is a list of cast members in this week's production:

Voke School Guidance Visit Locally Today

Guidance personnel from Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational High School will be visiting the junior high schools in Winchester today to talk with potential student applicants.

Winchester students considering application for admission to Northeast's freshman class next fall will be given an opportunity to obtain information from the regional school counselors during these visits.

The counselors will visit Winchester schools on the following schedule: McCall Junior High, at 8:55 a.m., and St. Mary's, at 9:30 a.m.

Ability tests will be given at Northeast on Feb. 9 and March 1, 1980, for those students unable to be tested at their own schools.

Open House for eighth grade students in the district considering application to the vocational school will be held at Northeast Feb. 6, 1980.

Churches Combine To Aid Cambodian Relief

Winchester churches have combined to contribute over $10,000 toward the relief of Cambodia's starving population, and there is still more to come. A social action group of the Winchester Ecumenical Association is meeting to plan for continuing support. The group is made up of representatives from various churches.

Two major events helped to stimulate this giving. The Breaking of the Fast took place at St. Eulalia's Church Nov. 15. A very large number of people assembled for a worship service followed by a supper in Manion Hall. Money saved from fasting was contributed in the amount of $4,750. The Arts Festival at Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Nov. 17 netted $800. In addition to these events special offerings and individual gifts combined to bring the total to the $10,000 figure.

There were innumerable evidences of sacrificial giving on the part of individuals. One young couple, on being married, chose to contribute $200 each in place of giving each other a wedding present. Others decided to contribute money that would have been used for Christmas gifts.

In addition, an Ecumenical Association sub-committee is promoting the movement to relocate boat people in Winchester homes. St. Mary's Church has already made its plans to resettle one family.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1979 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

Aaron Lacharite, 5, Wins An Honorable Mention

By PEYTON FLEMING
Allan Cornack, the 1979 recipient of the Nobel Prize for Medicine, isn't the only Winchester resident receiving international acclaim these days. Aaron Lacharite, 5, of Bradford St., was recently awarded Honorable Mention in Cricket Magazine's September drawing contest.

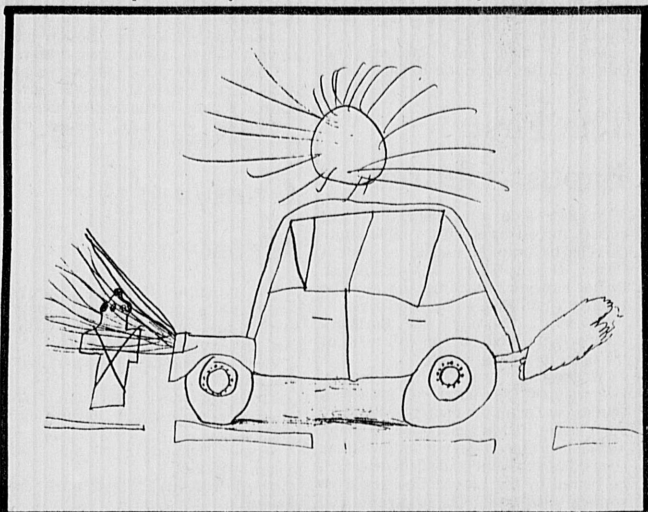

It is the second time that Aaron has received such an award from the international children's magazine. Only six-year-olds, Aaron also won the drawing competition at the Winchester Art School this past summer for his terrifying colored sketch of a yellow-fanged monster. But, despite all of this recognition for his artwork, Aaron considers drawing as just another hobby.

The son of Richard and Liz Lacharite, Aaron rarely has enough time to enter the Cricket competition every month. A Muraco School first grader Aaron also attends weekly violin and art classes. Having played the violin for three years, Aaron has already performed as a soloist at the Belmont Music School. Besides all of that, Aaron is also in his second year at the Montclair Gymnastics School in Woburn, an activity he likes because, as he says, "I can run around the mat doing cartwheels."

Aaron isn't the only active child in the Lacharite family. His 10-year-old sister, Magda, has already been playing the violin for seven years. Besides going to Muraco School, where she is in the fifth grade, Magda also takes weekly art and swimming classes. Asked if she had any interest in swimming competitively, Magda responded, "No, I just want to learn how to do it."

Neither child seems affected by their remarkable accomplishments at such an early age. Magda was more preoccupied with a magazine that she is both writing and publishing, than with her weekly obligations.

Constantly fidgeting, it was easy to see how both children managed to cram so much activity into a seven-day week. During our conversation the children's father was seated on the other side of the room, gently resting his head on top of the dining table. An accomplished viola player himself, he had to attend a practice session that night with the Belmont Symphony Orchestra. When asked if he had a hard time keeping up with his children's hectic lifestyle all he could say was, "Thank God for Sunday."

ne Christmas, we gave a copy of the Song of the Hump-backed Whale to everyone we knew. The year before that, we sent out Lucite block puzzles that were the delight of our friends and the despair of our enemies, and you can't ask for more than that from a Christmas present. But we don't always come up with terrific ideas; sometimes we run dry. Luckily, we get a lot of mail at METROGUIDE, and much of it lately has to do with unusual Christmas presents offered by area institutions.

For instance, for $10 and up, you can give a friend a gift certificate exchangeable for tickets to the South Shore Music Circus in Cohasset, which opens its 30th season in June. The Music Circus is always a popular feature of summer life in Massachusetts, and already booked for shows in 1980 are Liberace, Johnny Mathis, Neil Sedaka, and Tom Jones. You can buy South Shore Music Circus gift certificates at the BOSTIX ticket kiosk next to Faneuil Hall in downtown Boston, or by mail. If you are ordering by mail, include a check for the certificate amount, plus 50 cents for handling. Give the name and address of the giver (you), and the name of the person to whom the certificate will be given. Send everything to the South Shore Music Circus, Post Office Box 325, Cohasset, MA 02025. The certificate will be returned to you. And while you've got the stamp on the envelope, ask for a subscription form for yourself.

From the Loon and Heron Theatre, a unique high-ticket item. Members of the theatre will present a full-length production for a large audience in your home, or in the hall you have rented separately; shows include the new Grunion the Grouch, and cost from $175 to $350. Also available, workshops for small groups in dance, theatre, music, puppetry, and masks, for $50. Loon and Heron operates only in the Greater Boston area. For information, write the Loon and Heron Theatre, 169 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, MA 02115; or call 247-8156.

A cooperative of Boston artists has also addressed itself to the present problem. The Artist's Store will be open through December 21 at 955 Boylston Street in Boston, in the old police station next to the Institute of Contemporary Art. Among the objects on sale: miniature editions of paintings and sculpture, masks and wearable art, environmental boxes, "nomadic trappings for an uncertain future, and visions of the Eighties." The Artist's Store is open daily, noon to 6 pm.

And this week only, the Danforth Museum offers for sale a selection of prints chosen for the season by the Acquisitions Committee. Works by Winslow Homer, Piranesi, Rowlandson, Forain, and Maillol (to name a few) are included in Prints for Purchase; prices range from $15 to $100. The hours for the sale are 1 to 4:30 pm, December 8 through 16. The Danforth Museum is at 123 Union Avenue in Framingham, and admission is always free. For more information, call 620-0050.

High school students with a musical bent are advised of the Ninth Annual Massachusetts High School Chamber Music Competition, sponsored by the Brookline Chamber Music Society. The competition will be held March 2, 1980, at Pine Manor Junior College, and substantial prizes will be given in two categories—strings, and all other instrumental groups. Eligibility is limited to instrumental chamber-music ensembles (trios, quartets, and quintets) that meet these qualifications: Each member of the ensemble must attend the same high school, and one group in each category may enter from each school. The repertoire is limited to chamber music, and a participant may not appear in more than one group. Former winners are not eligible.

The competition has the endorsement (and the encouragement) of the Massachusetts Music Teachers Association. For complete rules and an application, write to Laura Schlesinger, Brookline Chamber Music Society Chamber Music Competition, 215 Clark Road, Brookline, MA 02146. All applications are due by February 1, 1980. □

Before you spend one penny on a Canon, Nikon, Olympus or Pentax automatic camera, spend 2 minutes with this ad.

The Minolta XG-1. There are a lot of good 35mm automatic SLR cameras out there. But no other camera in its price class can give you the same creative versatility of the Minolta XG-1. Because unlike the Canon AV-1, Nikon EM or Pentax ME, only the Minolta XG-1 lets you set the full range of shutter speeds manually. You can set speeds manually on the Olympus OM-10, but only when you add an optional-cost attachment. Minolta's built-in combination of manual and automatic operation gives you the creative leeway of a more expensive camera, without having to pay a more expensive price.

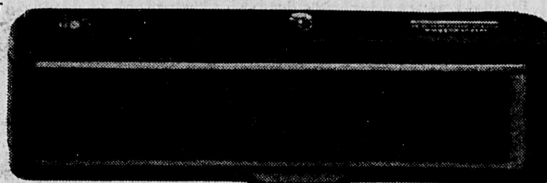

The view from the viewfinder. When you look into the viewfinder of the XG-1, easy-to-read solid state LEDs show you the shutter speed you're shooting at. If you want the same information from the Canon or the Nikon, you have to follow a less advanced mechanical needle system.

And while the Pentax, Nikon and Olympus cram shutter speed information into the viewfinder area, the XG-1 has simplified the same information and neatly placed it to the side of the viewfinder to give you a clear unobstructed view of the scene you're shooting.

Too much light gives you an overexposed picture. If it's too bright to shoot, the Nikon beeps at you. The Canon, Olympus and Pentax visually warn you, but only the Minolta XG-1 locks itself to prevent you from ruining a shot and wasting film.

Why you would use an automatic camera manually. For greater creativity. As you get to know more about photography and your XG-1, you'll discover that using it manually gives you the freedom to take pictures beyond the capability of the built-in computer. You'll be able to stop action the way you want it. Or selectively blur the action for a "painted" effect. Nikon, Pentax and Canon won't let you go full manual. But Olympus will, if you pay extra.

The XG-1 is human engineered: it fits like a glove.

If we put the Minolta XG-1 and its competition on a counter, you could probably pick out the Minolta by handling alone. It's that comfortable. Pick up an XG-1. Notice how easily its padded body fits your hand. Your fingers fall into place on oversize controls like you've been using them all your life. The XG-1 also gives you smooth and easy handling. From its exclusive feather-touch metering system to its almost effortless film advance lever. Picture taking has never felt this comfortable.

How it all works for you.

The automatic Minolta XG-1, with its aperture priority system, gives you real versatility. You can let the camera automatically pick the shutter speed, or you can shoot with full manual control of both the lens opening and shutter speed. Either way, there's no easier way to get picture perfect pictures. Except by adding the Minolta Auto Winder. It advances the film at nearly 2 frames per second. So you can catch the action as fast as it happens. Then there's the Minolta Auto Electroflash. It calculates how much flash to flash automatically. There's so much more to the 35mm automatic Minolta XG-1. Like the way it grows into a system as you grow into photography. You can add super close-up lenses, mirror telephoto lenses, and everything in between. So before you spend one penny on an automatic camera, stop by your Minolta dealer. And spend a few minutes with the XG-1.

Parker Brothers:

By Kimberly French

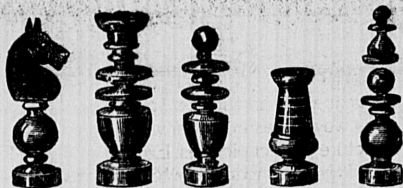

To the nation's toys and games makers, Christmas is D-Day—the do-or-die culmination of a year or more of planning, designing, manufacturing, and merchandising. In the multi-million-dollar games business a company's future can hang on one or more products with an average lifespan of two years, if successful.

This year, store shelves are again stuffed with new offerings, with electronic toys and games leading the way. One of the nation's oldest and most successful manufacturers is Parker Brothers of Salem. With Yankee shrewdness and conservatism, Parker Brothers, by avoiding the fad game, is an industry trendsetter in its own way. To find out what Parker Brothers is planning for Christmas, METROGUIDE toured the company's plant, which is open to the public, and tried out some of this year's models.

Parker Brothers may not have a monopoly on the game business, but Monopoly has one on the hearts of gamemasters everywhere.

This Christmas season it is selling better than ever. More than 80 million sets have been sold since Monopoly's origin in 1935, making it consistently the biggest-selling company-patented board game in the country. Parker Brothers prints more Monopoly money each year than the US Treasury prints real currency. But the 96-year-old company doesn't stop with Monopoly money.

With each new Christmas season, Parker Brothers' marketing strategy is to find the game staples that last and last, as Monopoly has. This year the selection includes a few of the new electronic toys and games as well as a few board-game hopefuls.

A 1976 addition to the company's line that has already become a staple is Boggle, a jumbled-word game, and this year the company is introducing Big Boggle, with 50 percent more letter cubes. Other long-time Parker Brothers staples include Clue, Risk, Sorry, Pay Day, Careers, Pit, Flinch, and Rook.

The long line of Parker Brothers successes began in 1883, when George F Parker dropped out of high school to market his new game called Banking. He set up his first office in the Hawthorne Hotel in Salem. Five years later his brother Charles joined the George F Parker Company to make it Parker Brothers. Before Monopoly came along—in 1935, the Parkers stayed busy with other successes, such as Tiddley Winks, Ping Pong (whose trademark the company sold in 1971), the first commercial jigsaw puzzles, and Mah-Jongg, a game imported from China that was as popular in the Twenties as bridge is now.

During the Depression Monopoly gave people the chance to pretend they had big money, and it also brought in some big money for the company. George and Charles almost turned the idea for the game down, citing 52 fundamental errors. They felt it was too long, had no absolute ending, and was too sophisticated for children. In 1936 George nearly discontinued it in hopes of preventing a slump before it happened. Fortunately, he was dissuaded, and Monopoly continues to grow in popularity.

Today about half the ideas for Parker Brothers games come from in-house inventors; the rest come from hundreds of independent professional game designers, including the Marvin Glass Company of Chicago, which does nothing else but think up games. Parker Brothers does not accept unsolicited games or ideas from unrecognized designers. The company is careful to return all they receive unopened to the senders, lest they be accused of stealing amateurs' ideas.

Each idea is considered by the research and development department, then passed on to the marketing department for further analysis. Here the games are tested anonymously in marketing-organized consumer groups all over the country.

Each game or toy must meet specific criteria before it is ever manufactured. A game must have long-term play value, which is measured by how well it can keep the interest of the children who do the testing. Parker Brothers also pays attention to what is selling well. This year outer space is a popular theme in games, and Parker Brothers is introducing Rom the Space Knight. In addition to electronic games and toys and word games, board games are more popular than ever, and Parker Brothers has ten new ones this season. Strategy games are still popular with teens and young adults; new this year is All the King's Men. Trivia games are a new area for Parker Brothers with Quiz 500, a $2 box full of game-show-type questions and answers.

While Parker Brothers is careful to test each new game or toy and only picks the few that seem sure sellers, sometimes they're wrong. About ten years ago the firm introduced Instant Insanity, a puzzle of four colored plastic cubes, which sold more than any other game had in its first year. The next year another puzzle game, called Phony Baloney, bombed, and the company found itself with an extra million sets in its warehouse.

Most of the information about the inventors, research and development department, and sales and production statistics is strictly confidential, but one can find out how the games are put together by taking one of the tours at the manufacturing plant at 190 Bridge Street in Salem. Tours are given on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 10 am and 2 pm, mostly to children's groups. The maximum number of people, including two required adult sponsors, is ten per tour guide. All children must be at least seven years old.

The tour begins with a display of current games and a glimpse at the gift box, a large chest full of games, from which each visitor is allowed to pick from at the end of the tour.

The first two floors of the plant consist of packaging machines and assembly lines for the electronic games. What visitors see being made depends on the season's demand and how many games are being produced that day. On the Rom the Space Knight line, the longest of any of the assembly lines, each has a particular part to add or solder to the robot doll or check for quality. The assemblers' chairs are on rubber pads, and each person is "grounded" at the wrist with a band to prevent electric shock. The finished electronic products are something of a marvel in themselves, and seeing how the pieces fit together is an education in sophisticated manufacturing.

The Christmas season is the time to unveil new games that the company hopes will last and last, the way Monopoly has.

Behind the Rom line is where the cardboard for the board games is hinged with tape and cut, where playing pieces are stored, and where the games are packaged and shipped. Troughs are full of miniature plastic green houses and red hotels and metal top hats, thimbles, irons, ships, Scotties, and other game tokens. A couple of the not-so-interesting machines have been painted to make them intriguing; they look like huge ducks whose beaks push down box tops to get the games ready for shipping.

The third floor is the Monopoly floor. Workers put together Chance and Community Chest cards, dice, tokens, houses, and paper money, double checking to make sure every game has the right amount. The machines on all the floors are incredibly specialized. The Monopoly-card-cutting machine takes just seconds to cut huge sheets into little game cards and arranges them into packs for each game.

To arrange for a tour in January or February call 744-5951 on December 31 only. Since tours are so popular you have to book well in advance. □

Fair Game for Holiday Giving

This season's collection of new products from Parker Brothers includes three electronic toys and games and ten more old-fashioned types. The METROGUIDE game-testing crew looked at some new ones and one that's been on the market for a while, and came to these conclusions.

Rom the Space Knight

The 13-inch-tall silver-plastic robot doll is a glorified GI Joe with a few added sound effects. He comes with accessories, three similar-looking gadgets of silver plastic with translucent maroon light covers. Our 11-year-old tester was disappointed that Rom doesn't do more and that he is so rigid—his neck doesn't turn and his elbows and knees don't bend much. Indeed, even on a perfectly flat surface he tends to fall over. At the touch of two switches, his electronic innards allow kids to produce six variations of beeps and basic radio static—one of the sounds does resemble breathing—and cause the lights in his face mask, chest, rocket pods on back, and accessories to flash. Recommended retail price is $25.

Stop Thief

This cops-and-robbers game has a hand-held electronic crime scanner, which gives coded clues about the changing whereabouts of the thief. Detectives must deduce where the thief is and then—by rolling the dice—get close enough to make an arrest. By pressing the arrest button on the crime scanner, players can determine whether they have found the right spot and whether the thief escapes. The sound effects from the electronic gadget are fun—floors and doors creak, glass breaks, footsteps fall, subways run, sirens wail, shots ring out, buzzers beep, and thieves sneer. The game requires a great deal of reason and memory; it is recommended for ages ten to adult. Our crew found the instructions complicated and our ears in need of training for figuring out what all the sounds meant. But Stop Thief has great potential for an entire Christmas morning decoding and sleuthing session—even if all you discover are the rules, the first time around. The recommended retail price is $30; its predecessor by more than 20 years, the nonelectronic Clue game, also made by Parker Brothers, costs $8.50.

The Mad Magazine Game

This daffy board game scored a "go-directly-to-store-and-get-one" rating from our team. The board is covered with illustrations from Mad Magazine, whose staff collaborated on its development. Players travel counterclockwise and must always roll the dice with the left hand or suffer a penalty. The game is a spoof on board games, with such directions as: change money with anyone, everyone move one chair to the right, and go ahead 27 spaces. The object is to be the first to lose all your money. By the way, one of the instructions tells you to move anywhere if you are magnificent. Who could resist? All egotists from age eight to adult are invited to try it. The list price is $7.50.

Mork & Mindy

Recommended for ages seven to 14, this new board game may have been a bit young for our players, who found it tedious; punching out all the cardboard grebble (money) and cards may be another all-Christmas-morning production. Once you've got the playing pieces all punched out you've got no place to store them. While this game may be great fun for Mork from Ork fans, it may not last around the house any longer than the trendiness of the show, if that long. Each collection of cardboard pieces and board is $5.

All the King's Men

Another board game, this one is a simplified version of chess; it can be played in an hour or less. There are only three kinds of playing pieces—knights, archers, and two kings. Players try to capture the opponent's king, following arrows diagrammed on the board. Recommended ages are eight to adult. While this game of lazy man's chess may appeal to serious gamemasters, it could be a good introduction for youngsters who'd like to work up to the real thing. The price is $7.50.

Black Box

Black Box, which has been around since last year, is listed as a strategy game, "the ultimate game of hide and seek." It seemed to us a cross between Milton Bradley's Battleship and Invicta's Master Mind. The black box is a playing board with hollows lined up in a grid of 64 spaces. One person marks four or five places on a pattern sheet, while the other guesses where they are on the grid. The seeker sends imaginary "rays" into the box, and the hider gives clues by saying where they bounce out of it, according to numbered spaces. The seeker marks the clues with a rather complicated system of colored chips. Deduction is the main skill, and the object is to discover all the hiding places with the fewest possible clues. We never quite got the hang of this one, though it looked like it might be fun with some practice. Recommended for ages ten to adult, the game retails for $8. □

Messiah Performances and Sings

George Frederick Handel's oratorio, The Messiah has been a seasonal tradition among choral groups for generations. The tradition is carried on again this year among ensembles throughout MetroBoston. Here, a listing of some of the performances and Messiah sing-alongs in the area.

The Handel & Haydn Society, under the baton of Thomas Dunn, presents its annual performances (since 1854) Friday, December 7, and Sunday, December 9, in Symphony Hall, 251 Huntington Avenue, Boston. Both performances begin promptly at 8 pm. Tickets cost $6, $10.50, and $15.50, available at the box office (266-1492). The Friday night performance will be broadcast live over GBH radio (FM 90).

On Saturday, December 8, at 8 pm, the Framingham Choral Society, under the direction of Christopher Carlson, presents a variety of seasonal compositions, including selections from The Messiah at the Grace Congregational Church, 73 Union Avenue, Framingham. Admission is $4; students and elders pay $2. Phone 263-9387 for additional information.

The Masterworks Chorale holds its 18th annual Messiah Sing on December 14 and 15 at 8 both nights in Cary Hall on Massachusetts Avenue in Lexington. The audience is invited to participate. Allen Lannom does the conducting, and admission is free. Call 235-6210 for details.

On December 16, Astrid Thelheimer leads the audience, orchestra, and soloists at 3 pm in the Memorial Congregational Church, Concord Road and Church Street in South Sudbury. Admission is free. Please bring along your own scores, if possible. Call 443-9320.

PROTECT YOUR CAR'S FINISH AGAINST WINTER'S WORST IN 45 MINUTES - For Only $5⁹⁸!

GLASSCOTE™ ONE-STEP POLYMER Glass Sealant
Shields Paint and Brightwork Against SNOW, ICE, SLUSH, MUD, and Damaging ROAD SALT!

Preserve "Showroom Shine" and never wax or polish again!

New car or old — once you seal its finish and chrome with this amazing one-step Glasscote Polymer Glass Shield — you can stop worrying about what the worst weather can do to it.

Forget about snow, ice and slush. Forget about mud that splashes on, cakes and dries. Forget about damaging road salt that can pit chrome and provide an entry for oxidation and spreading rust. Forget about strong detergents used in car washes, too.

A "GLASS OVERCOAT" PROTECTS YOUR FINISH

None of those things can harm your finish or brightwork, because Glasscote's tough, transparent, glossy, polymer shield provides an invisible barrier that literally seals in "showroom shine." It's like wrapping your car in a protective "glass overcoat" — and it couldn't be easier to do!

In just one easy step, in 45 minutes or less, you simply wipe it on, let it dry, then wipe again. Even on a car you've owned for years, you'll be astonished at the difference. Glasscote removes the oxidation, restores the color, actually bonds itself to the finish and dries quickly to a super tough protective shield. Non-stick, like those frying pans! And that glossy shine is more than just for looks. Glasscote contains the same kind of non-stick ingredient used in frying pans — so a lot of the mud, slush snow and road salt can't get a foothold on the slippery Glasscote shield. What does cling slides off almost as easily as your morning egg slides out of the pan — simply hose it off or use a damp cloth and a little Glasscote — and the glossy shine returns as if by magic.

PROTECTS AGAINST DETERGENTS TOO

It's a good idea to run your car through a car wash regularly in winter to help remove salt and dirt from underneath — but even the detergents they use won't dull your Glasscote finish. And you won't need to pay extra for waxing — in fact, you'll never need wax or polish again.

ONE TREATMENT LASTS ALL WINTER

Your Glasscote shield should see you through the worst winter — and a touch up with Glasscote next spring will protect against tree sap, bug splatters, road tar and bird droppings too.

TRY THIS TEST AND AMAZE YOUR FRIENDS!

Apply Glasscote to your fender or trunk (or on his car, if you really want to shake him up) then take a felt pen and deliberately scribble on it. While he's still speechless, take a cloth moistened with Glasscote and simply wipe it off without a trace! (This is a demonstration new car dealers sometimes use in selling a polymer glass treatment — at prices like $85 to $175 extra. Now you can enjoy the same protection for only $5⁹⁸!)

DELIGHTED USERS WRITE!

Mrs. N.L., Joplin, MO.

"... I'm so pleased that I'm ordering two more bottles for my daughters."

Mrs. T.D., Danbury, CT.

"This is the second bottle of Glasscote we have ordered and we are well pleased with it. Now we are going to use this second bottle on our travel trailer."

J.T. Barney, GA.

"I'm old but still drive my car and it looks wonderful. I can't praise your Glasscote enough, it's the first time I have ever sent away for something that really works. "Love It".

J.H., West Milton OH

Dining Out Italian Style

By Gary Provost

The Boston area has one of the largest Italian populations outside Italy, thus, as might be expected, the largest number of Italian restaurants (not even counting the ubiquitous pizza parlor).

The problem is choosing from dozens of first-rate Italian restaurants between the Cape and New Hampshire border. We've selected five as representative of the ambience, cooking, and distinctive qualities that make Italian dining something special.

With Italian food, quantity is a principal characteristic. That's because Italians eat lightly at breakfast and lunch and expect dinner to last several hours. The American habit of quickie dining defeats the art of Italian cuisine. So plan to make it an evening, preferably a long one with the many courses interspersed with much wine, conversation, and enjoyment of the atmosphere.

As with Chinese cooking, Italian cooking comprises regional differences, which are often represented on the same menu. The difference, according to Ralph Cibelli, manager of Polcari's restaurant in Boston's North End, is in the seasonings. Southern Italian cooking is generally spicy with garlic and oregano and goes heavily on oils and pork fat, while northern cooking is closer to French cuisine in many ways. Tomatoes don't grow abundantly in the mountainous northern region so the food there depends on gravies and sauces instead of southern Italian cooking's tomato base. Southern cooking is most common in American restaurants, and the staple is pasta—the endless variety of wheat noodles Americans know best as spaghetti. Ravioli, by the way, is only ravioli in Genoa and Piedmont; elsewhere it's known as tortellini, tortelli, agnolotti, anolini, cappelletti, and melfatti—all of them stuffable.

Pasta is offered with every course except the first one, the antipasto, which is a heavy starter usually made of salami, provolone cheese, olives, anchovies, prosciutto

(ham), and hard-boiled eggs. (If it comes with lettuce, tomatoes, and cucumbers, it's an American version.)

JOE TECCE'S, 53 Washington Street, Boston (North End, under the Expressway), 742-6210.

The first sensation at this long-time Boston favorite is the decor of the five connecting rooms, ranging from the quaint to the gaudy. All of it, from the first red brick to the last glass grape, comes from Italy, and almost all of it was personally selected and escorted to Boston by Joe Tecce himself.

The decor is important in telling the visitor the care and consideration Joe has put into everything since opening with one room in 1962. Then as now the cuisine included a mammoth array of dishes he or his three sons prepared and chilled red wine served in quart Coke bottles. The popular place is frequented by politicians, hockey players, and other lovers of quality and bulk (doggy bags are a necessity).

Joe himself will aid you in selecting from the menu; he most often recommends Steak alla Mafia, a groaning platter of steak, potatoes, mushrooms, onions, and peppers. By all means have the antipasto, but allow an hour before continuing with dinner.

Entrees range from $4 to $8.50.

ROSALIE'S, 18 Sewell Street, Marblehead, 631-9888.

Instead of glass grapes and gilded lamps, you'll find a treasury of Victorian antiques in this charming restaurant, which is housed in an old red-brick shoe factory. The bar was once a desk at a New Hampshire hotel, which is also the source of an enormous oak refrigerator now used for white wine; the chandeliers once hung from the ceilings of the Hotel Vendome.

Be sure to make reservations when going to Rosalie's, where the cuisine is mostly northern Italian. Entrees range from $7.95 to $11.50.

GINO'S ITALIAN CUISINE, 475 Moody Street, Waltham, 893-9646.

Forget the decor because at Gino's the emphasis is on

The Boar Has No Head For Aristotle

There are some who believe the English tradition of the Boar's Head Procession was inspired by an old Norse custom. But from Queen's College, Oxford, a second story emerges:

In the early days of the College, a young student was strolling through the forest, engrossed in his Aristotle, when a wild boar charged him. With great presence of mind, the scholar rammed the volume down the boar's throat, whereby it promptly proceeded to choke to death.

Probably not the first of Oxford's citizens who found Aristotle hard to digest.

In An English Christmas from Robert Todd, you'll find other revealing stories like this, as well as examples of the beautiful collection of English clothing which we brought back with us from a recent trip to England. Just in time for the holidays.

All My Sons - Arthur Miller's exploration of guilt is performed at 8:15 pm through December 8 at the Tufts Arena Theater, Talbot Ave on the campus in Medford. Tickets are $4, students and senior citizens $3. For reservations call 623-3880.

Annie - The Tony-Award-winning musical based on Harold Gray's comic strip, Little Orphan Annie, returns to Boston through Sun, January 6, at the Colonial Theatre, 106 Boylston St. Ten-year-old Mary K. Lombardi stars in the title role, with Norwood Smith as Daddy Warbucks and the shaggy Sandy as himself. Performances are at 8 pm Tues-Sats, at 2 pm for matinees on Wed and Sats, and at 3 pm Sun. Tickets range from $10-$20. Tickets are available at the box office (426-9366) and through TeleCharge (426-8383).

Belle of Amherst - Julie Harris portrays poet Emily Dickinson in the play by William Luce. The script draws from the 1775 poems by Dickinson and the scanty knowledge about the private reclusive woman to create an intimate evening of self-disclosure. Directed by Charles Nelson Reilly, the play runs through at least December 8 at the Wilbur Theatre, 246 Tremont St., Boston, closing the fall season. Curtain is at 8 pm Mons-Sats and at 2 pm for matinees Weds and Sats. Tickets are $6-$14 and are available at the box office (426-8361).

Bosoms and Neglect - John Guare's newest play makes its Boston premiere at the Charles Playhouse, 74 Warren St., Boston, through December 16. The comedy has little to do with bosoms, somewhat more to do with neglect, and the lot to do with psychotics—but the acting is tremendous. Performances are at 8 pm Tues-Fris, 6 and 9:30 pm Sats, and 3 and 7:30 pm Sun. Tickets are $7.95-$9.95, with student-rush tickets available a half-hour before the show for $5. For information call 426-6912. Tickets are also available through Ticket Charge (426-6912). For group rates call 542-3204.

O Happy Day and A Child's Christmas in Wales - The first is a musical of people who gather in a theatre to tell the Christmas story. The second is an intimate chamber dramatization of the remembrance of a man's childhood. Both are performed at 8 pm Fri-Sat, December 7-8, and at 2 pm Sun, December 9, at the Lucy Wheelock Auditorium, 180 The Riverway, Boston, at Wheelock College. Tickets are $2.50. For reservations call 734-5200.

Saints and Martyrs - James Carroll's play of a fugitive from the Irish Republican Army, who is hunted down in New York, makes its world premiere at the Next Move Theatre, 955 Boylston St., Boston. Performances are at Six graduate programs that could change the course of your life.

A Master's degree can open the door to a lot of opportunities. But it takes a lot of time, effort, and money to get one. So you'll want to be sure that you get your degree from a school that believes in quality education.

Boston University's Metropolitan College is such a school. We have six excellent Graduate Programs that part-time students can choose from: Computer Science, History, Philosophy, Liberal Studies, Urban Affairs, and City Planning. If you're interested in earning a Master's degree in any of these disciplines, then you should be very interested in Metropolitan College.

For further information or a copy of our latest catalogue, call 353-3000, or write Metropolitan College, Office of Graduate Admissions, 755 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts 02215. Classes start January 14, and you can register weeknights 5:30 to 8:30, January 9-11 and 14-16. You can also register anytime during the day.

A Brookstone gift is more than it seems.

◀ Wide angle binoculars. Fit in the palm of your hand, yet presents a field of view 431 feet wide at 1000 yards. Power is 8 x 20. With center focusing, coated lenses.

▶ Fire starter sticks. Replace kindling for pennies apiece. A must for wood stoves or fireplaces. Cheaper, cleaner, easier-to-use than kindling.

English constable's whistle. The same as used by British Bobbies for over 100 years. Shrill two-tone whistle alerts cabbies, calls children, alarms prowlers.

▶ No-kink jump rope. Provides excellent aerobic exercise with a small investment in equipment. This solid rubber "rope" can't kink or fold up in mid-air. Ball-bearing handles prevent rope twisting.

▶ Mat cutter. A professional tool for cutting mat board, thin plastic, even wood veneer. Blade adjusts for depth and angle, makes clean, straight or beveled cuts. With five blades. Heavy polished zinc casting.

▶ World's finest flashlight. Used by professionals because it's virtually indestructible. Aircraft aluminum body is strongest made; unbreakable lens.

▶ Turkish shish kebab skewers. Flat, sword-like stainless steel shafts keep meat from falling into the fire. Solid brass handles.

▶ Leather lasts longer. These heavy work gloves last longer than most because they are made of tough cowhide, stitched with both thread and wire. Yet they're soft and supple. Should last for years. One size fits all — even big hands.

Most gifts make a big splash on Christmas morning... then they're forgotten. When you give a Brookstone gift, you know it will be appreciated for years to come. For our high-quality tools last and last, save money and time, and often provide introduction to a whole new way of life.

We sell hard-to-find tools of all kinds; for shop work, for repairing the house, for cooking, for gardening, for keeping in shape.

Brookstone sells the tools for a more rewarding way of life — and backs up each with a lifetime guarantee.

Sandy, the lovable pooch in Annie, at Boston's Colonial Theatre.

That's because our whole tour of Boston begins and ends in the Hancock Tower Observatory on the 60th floor, atop the tallest building in New England.

See the most spectacular view of Boston there is, with 60 miles of breathtaking scenery. Then experience the Boston of 200 years ago through our unique multi-media exhibits. Like a photorama of Massachusetts' rich historical heritage. A show about Boston in 1775, featuring a 20-foot scale model. And a lot more.

The Observatory is open Monday through Saturday from 9am to 11pm, and Sundays from noon till 11pm, every day except Thanksgiving and Christmas. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 75¢ for children 5 through 15. Group and Convention rates are available; call 247-1976. Our ticket office is located on St. James Avenue opposite Copley Square.

Visit the Hancock Tower Observatory. It's a walking tour of Boston that's pleasing to the eye—and easy on the feet.

Dinner on us?

Call it an eating contest.
Call it a chance to try a new restaurant.
Or simply call it an opportunity to eat your heart out at an old favorite, compliments of METROGUIDE.
Whatever, simply send in this coupon* with the name of any restaurant you see advertised (not listed) in this week's issue, and we'll draw a winner from the entries submitted.
If your name is chosen, you'll win a free dinner for two (tax and tip included), at the restaurant you've chosen.
So mail your entry today.
Who said there's no such thing as a free lunch?

This week's winner is Ms. J. O'Donnell of Randolph. Enjoy your dinner at the PEWTER POT.

Hub

The Ground Round—Prudential Center, Boston. Also in Natick, Framingham, Danvers, Peabody, Andover, Cambridge, Braintree, Norwell, Cohasset, and Norwood. From half pound hamburgers to sizzling steaks, a wide variety of foods at easy prices. There's also live entertainment, large screen TV, old time movies and cartoons. Hours: Daily from 11:30-2 a.m. No reservations except for children's birthday parties. Full bar. No credit cards.

Locke-Ober—3 Winter Pl., Boston, 542-1340. For more than a century, Locke-Ober has been a bastion for local politicians and businessmen. Even today, ladies may feel more comfortable upstairs. Continental cuisine; everything is a la carte; impeccable service; expensive but not extravagant. Hours: 11 am-3 pm and 7-10 pm Mon-Sat. Closed Sun. Full bar, reservations, AE, BA/V, MC.

99 Restaurant—125 Pearl St. Boston, 423-4792. One of a number of branches, sandwiches and burgers in a saloon style setting. Inexpensive, fully licensed. Hours: Daily, 11-30-1 am. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

North

Bisuteki—407 Squire Rd., Revere, 284-7200. Steakhouse, Japanese-style, with hibachi steak, chicken, and sahrimp. Moderately expensive, fully licensed. Reservations accepted. Hours: 5-11 pm Mon-Sat, from 4 pm Sun. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC, Exxon.

Captain Courageous—25 Rogers St., Gloucester, 283-0007. Eat fish, while you look out across the boats as they arrive in. Also steaks and chops. Fully licensed. Winter hours: Sun-Thurs, 11:30 am-9 pm; Fri-Sat, until 10 pm. Reservations are accepted. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

West

Cafe l'Orange—Thoreau St., Concord, 369-8700. Upstairs in the Concord Depot, the Cafe is low-key, contemporary, and the cuisine is French: boneless rack of lamb, coquilles St. Jacques, duckling. Prices are moderate, reservations are accepted. Fully licensed. Hours: Mon-Sat, 11:30 am-2:30 pm, and 6-9, (til 10 pm Fri-Sat), closed Sun. AE, MC.

Legal: The #1 seafood restaurant in Boston.

New Year's Eve at the Hyatt is horns, hats, a circus and a whole lot more.

Our President's Ballroom will host the Circus Circus Plan—the most exciting and festive celebration anywhere. We will present some of the greatest international circus acts throughout the evening: fire eaters, magicians, jugglers and acrobats, just to name a few. And here's the rest of this exciting package:

• A luxurious room for two so you won't be driving home. • A formal gourmet sit-down dinner served at 8 PM, with your choice of Tourneados of Beef or Lobster Thermidor entree.

• Bottle of champagne or wine for each couple • Dancing to the Bob Anthony and Jerry Ball Band until the wee hours • Circus Circus party favors and sensational circus decorations • Complimentary January 1st Bloody Mary's • Leisurely January 1st check-out until 2 PM • Complimentary parking

THE PRICE PER COUPLE $160

We also have two other wonderful choices: The Elegant Empress Plan and Jonah's Is Jumpin' Plan. For a brochure describing all three exciting New Year's Eve Plans, please call.

eating, eating, and more eating. Eleven courses are served during four or more hours. With a fixed price of $20 per person, the fare is Neapolitan. The chef is owner Gino Ciampa, who shops for fresh food every day, kneads the pasta, grinds the sausage, and suggests you make your reservations a week or two in advance. During the much-needed intermission you may dance to recorded music.

THE GARDENS RESTAURANT AND LOUNGE,

269 Washington Street, Dedham, 326-9809.
This is a place to bring the kids; The Gardens has a family atmosphere, family lounge, and low family prices (entrees range from $3.75 to $6.25). The decor is simple, and the accent is on good food, especially the homemade ravioli and lasagna.

POLCARI'S, 283 Causeway Street, Boston, 742-4142.

Polcari's is an extremely popular restaurant, especially for dining before a game or event at Boston Garden, which is just down the street. Polcari's, with ornate surroundings and uptown decor, features home-made pasta and a very large and largely-southern Italian menu. Veal Scallopini (sauteed with mushrooms in a marsala wine sauce) is recommended, as is the variety of French and Italian pastries from the cart.

Reservations are suggested for weekends. Valet parking is free. Dinner entrees range from $6 to $18. □

#106 Cawck

By Don Rubin

Photographers may have their multiple exposures and sandwich shots, and people in the recording industry their overdubs and mixes. But the only thing writers have are their mistakes.

In an effort to elevate the strikeover to its rightful position alongside these techniques, we'd like you to identify and/or decipher the following words over words.

Answer to Puzzle #104 Soup to Nuts

All right, so it does sound a bit funny. The important part is though, that each and every puzzle respondent got it right. The answer is:

MARES EAT
LITTLE LAMBS EAT
IVY. A KID'LL EAT
YOU?

The first ten winners are: Patricia Hitchcock, Winchester; John Ivester, Belmont; Judy Bernier, Holliston; Tim Vaughan, Lowell; Scott Hunt, Ashland; Mike Morris, Arlington; Cynthia Cohen, Chelmsford; Doreen Taylor, Hudson; Gloria Sheehan, Framingham; Michael Kaplow, Framingham.

Rules of the Game

1. Names of the first ten contestants with the correct answer will be published in METROGUIDE. All contestants submitting correct answers to any of the puzzles through January 3 by the usual deadline will qualify for the New Year's Lottery and a grand prize of dinner for two with all the trimmings. The METRODINNER winner will be announced in the January 10 issue of METRO-

GUIDE.

2. All entries in The Puzzle Contest must be received at the METROGUIDE puzzle desk, 227 Statler Office Building, Boston, MA 02116, by noon, the Thursday one week after publication.
3. All entries must be accompanied by the name and address of the contestant.
4. Employees of METROGUIDE and their immediate families are not eligible.

5. Whenever possible, the Puzzle answer should be entered on the form provided.

WONDER HEATER

The Energy Wise quartz heater produces warmth instantly, has been known to reduce by 40 percent the heating bill for a Back Bay house with 11-foot ceilings and large windows, and even continues to radiate heat when it is off. It weighs 5 pounds and has been approved by Underwriters Laboratories (UL).

The unit has two quartz tubes in which there are electric resistance coils and a polished shield that acts as a reflection screen which is cold to the touch.

Energy Wise radiates heat to objects rather than air, and as objects and people absorb heat they also throw off heat. The unit, which is manufactured in California, is rated at 120 volts, 1500 watts, 12.5 amps, and uses 1 1/2 kilowatts per hour. (Boston Edison currently charges an average of 5.8 cents per kw-hour.)

About Town

During their recent fall conference New England English teachers honored Winchester High School's Director of English Frances Russell for her contributions to English teachers and students in New England.

Russell, who came to Winchester from Lexington almost five years ago, served as the executive secretary-treasurer of the New England Association of Teachers of English for eight years. During that time she planned professional conferences, conducted workshops and in-service programs and distributed professional materials.

Andrew E. Wilsack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilsack of Englewood road, is enrolled as a freshman at Northeastern University's College of Engineering.

Wilsack is a 1979 graduate of Winchester High School where he was a member of the cross country and track teams.

Local resident Robert Hesses recently presented a slide show and lecture on "Growing Orchids in Your Home" to the Putterham Garden Club.

Hesse has been growing orchids for the past 13 years. He is a member of the Massachusetts Orchid Society, the Massachusetts Horticulture Society, and is a probationary judge of the American Orchid Society.

Local residents participating in the recent annual Christmas Concert at the Boston Archdiocesan Choir School include: Philip A. Hager, and Gavin P. Hager.

Glenwood avenue residents Mr. and Mrs. William Haggerty recently returned from Honolulu, Hawaii, where they spent Thanksgiving with their son, William, who is stationed on the island of Oahu.

Lisa Rogers is a freshman at Denison University in Granville, Ohio, where she led the Varsity soccer team in scoring and received "The Most Valuable Player Award."

Winchester Savings Bank Opens New Three-Story Main Street Office

A new three-story main office building of the Winchester Savings Bank was inaugurated at a ribbon cutting ceremony Monday, held just prior to the opening of the Main street structure for its first regular day of banking business.

"This new main office of the Winchester Savings Bank is a very important jewel in the Winchester Community," Bank President Robert B. Nickerson said at the ribbon cutting ceremony. "It symbolizes our growth in assets of $103,000,000 since our founding in 1871. It reflects an investment of $2,000,000 by us in the future of Winchester."

"A Savings Bank touches people every day in a town like Winchester. We have been partners in their dreams and aspirations for several generations. We want to continue in that role, and feel certain that this magnificent new structure, combined with the talents of our Bank personnel, will help us achieve this objective."

The opening of the Bank completes a one-year construction program by the financial institution. The limestone exterior building has a modern architectural appearance and contains a large glassed-in courtyard.

The main lobby has 10 teller stations, a customer service area and safe deposit box vault. The second floor contains the executive offices and meeting facilities for the Board of Investment.

The third floor houses the internal financial operations that carry on the daily routine of the Bank. Although it is expected that future banking business will use this space, there is now third floor office space for rent.

The Bank has parking for 83 cars, contains two drive-in windows and designated parking areas for handicapped persons. Bank officials expect that the glassed-in courtyard and rooftop solar collectors will help reduce the Bank's energy use.

The history of the Bank in Winchester can be traced to 187 when the Bank opened for business in the Cutter Building. Additional facilities were added 9 years later, after which the Bank relocated to Mount Vernon street. This 85-year-old structure has been designated as a historic landmark.

Local business and civic leaders attending the opening ceremony include: Nickerson; James F. Dwinell Jr., chairman of the Board of the Winchester Savings Bank; Joseph C. Cioni, executive vice president of the Bank; State Representative Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr.; Richard Wilsack, chairman of the Board of Selectmen; Town Manager Thomas Serratore; Building Inspector Dominic Serratore; Arnold M. Gibson, past president, Winchester Savings Bank; Herman K. Portei, Philo P. Wadsworth and James R. Willing, members of the Board of Investment for Winchester Savings Bank; Barbara Crowell, executive vice president, Winchester Chamber of Commerce; Edmund White of Richard White Sons, Inc., the contractor for the Bank; Robert Rier of Financial Concepts, the design firm for the Bank interior; and Kenneth F. Parry, architect of the bank.

The new facility will be open Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Friday 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Saturday 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Drive-up hours are Monday through Thursday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Friday 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Nickerson concluded his remarks Monday by saying, "Today is a beginning, but it is also an ending. We look back, but we also look forward too."

Question Of Minority Opinion Causes Split Among Selectmen

Behind the urging of Selectman Wade Welch, who demanded that his opinion be recorded, the Board of Selectmen voted Monday night, to attach a minority opinion to a report they adopted from the Cable Advisory Committee.

Welch's argument concerned his belief that the Selectmen should consider the possibility of the town owning stock in the cable television company that is awarded a contract to construct a system in Winchester. The report, which had to be voted on by the Selectmen by yesterday, was the latest in a series of steps which the town must take in the Cable TV licensing process.

The Selectmen made only minor changes in the report, with the exception of Welch's motion. The first year Selectman's motion proposed that the town only consider owning stock, but that was opposed by Selectman Chairman Richard Wilsack and Selectman Barbara Hankins, as well as William McCarter, chairman of the Cable Advisory Committee.

"I don't think it's been seriously considered," Welch told the Selectmen of the possibility of owning stock. "I think it ought to be." He added that if the committee's report was accepted without his motion, it would "foreclose" any further discussion of the matter with the companies.

Welch is interested in the town owning about 20 percent of the contracted company's stock in Winchester. However, McCarter feels that this would be too much of a bite in any of the applicants profits and might scare off some candidates.

"We are unanimously and adamantly opposed to Selectman Welch's proposal," McCarter told the Board. "This report is the last chance that the Selectmen will have to dictate policy to the companies." He then stated that to accept this motion would leave a major area open.

McCarter pointed out that if a company had to surrender 20 percent of its stock to the town, it would try to make up the loss in profits elsewhere, probably in higher rates for the consumer. In other words, the residents in town would be taxed indirectly for profits Winchester is making on the company.

"Winchester is not so potentially profitable that the companies could afford to give away a fifth of their profits," McCarter added. He also pointed out that it normally takes the companies about seven to eight years to recover their initial investment.

McCarter also noted that Winchester is in an enviable position because the town is moving swiftly with the licensing process at the same time that a couple of neighboring communities are also involved in the process. Many companies are considering package plans where all of the towns might be wired together. "I think by the grace of God we are in a position where we're in the right place at the right time," said McCarter.

"I cannot see how we could possibly not consider it," Welch stated. He mentioned the revenue that could be brought into the town through the profits on the town's shares of stock.

Hankins pointed out that the town already will be receiving a good deal of revenue from the companies through real estate taxes. "I'm getting the feeling that maybe we're getting a little greedy in wanting stock," Hankins said.

Welch became more determined as it seemed his proposal would not be included. "I'm a Selectman and I want this in the report. I have a right as a Selectman," he stated.

Town Counsel Douglas Randall was asked for an opinion and stated that "It would appear to me that the Selectmen's solicitation for a license is a group effort. The Selectmen have a right to decide if they want to include a minority opinion or not."

Welch noted that since his questions to the candidates during the interview process concerning stock investment could not be ruled out of order, a minority opinion should be included if only to inform the companies that the Selectmen intend to question them on that matter.

Randall agreed with this, but pointed out that the more information that is put into the report will mean the more the companies would have to prepare for. This could result in the companies not knowing which areas to address in their presentation.

Welch did not want to have his motion put to a vote, feeling that he would be defeated. "I think to silence me as a minority will be a mistake to the board."

Wilsack was against Welch recording his own opinion in the report. "This is a rather substantive charge," said the School Committee Tightens School Open Campus Policy

For high school students to participate in the Open Campus - Study Hall Release Plan, they will have to maintain a minimum "C" grade point average in all courses, and will not be eligible to participate until the beginning of their junior year, according to a School Committee vote Monday night.

Two of the present requirements for students to participate in the program are eligibility at the beginning of the fourth quarter of a student's sophomore year and passing grades in all subjects.

The School Committee vote, which is effective in September, 1980, came as a result of School Committee member Catherine Alexander's recommendation. Alexander, who had been one of the 20-member Open Campus Study Committee, said that her recommendation had been the minority report of that committee.

Alexander cited several reasons for her recommendations. She said that the program should be implemented at the beginning of an academic year, and that a student should be at the high school for two years instead of one and three-quarters. Hence, her recommendation that the program start at the beginning of a student's junior year.

Alexander also said that instead of requiring students to have passed (passing grade is a "D") all courses in the previous quarter, eligibility in the program should be raised to a "C" level. Academic performance, Alexander said, must also be a requirement, and the program could serve as an incentive for a student to maintain good grades.

The School Committee also voted to rename the Open Campus Program the "Study Hall Release Plan"; students must meet all behavior and attendance requirements; a study hall release contract must be signed by a parent or guardian; and parents or guardians must be notified when a student is taken off the program. Winchester High School Principal Vincent Larocco noted, and the Committee agreed, that no "F's" would be allowed since the average of an "A" and "F" grade might be construed as a "C" average.

The School Committee vote to further tighten Study Hall Release Plan restrictions came on the heels of much debate from committee members, administrators, and high school students.

Winchester High School Assistant Principal Evander French said that after a meeting last week of the original Open Campus Study Committee members, it was decided to maintain two of the committee's original recommendations on open campus. These original recommendations are that students be eligible to participate in the program at the beginning of the fourth quarter of their sophomore year and that passing grades in all courses be the minimum academic standard.

In outlining the committee's reasons for support of the two original recommendations, French said that releasing students in the spring does not cause the same confusion it would at the beginning of an academic year.

The committee, French said, also felt that the original recommendation of a passing grade in all courses should be maintained. This was done for two reasons, he said. Some students, who are "basically good kids" and present no behavioral or disciplinary problems, are struggling with their classes and could not meet the "C" requirement. A "C" average requirement would further tend to perpetuate the academic division between students, and a more vigorous grade point standard might discourage students from taking more difficult courses.

James Duffy, chairman of the Student Activities Council at the high school, said the SAC met to discuss the School Committee's proposals. It was agreed that a "C" average should be a standard requirement in all courses, but SAC members disagreed that the program should not start until the beginning of a student's junior year.

Duffy said that one and one-half years is more than enough time to see if a student is worthy of participating in the program and "it's nice to look forward to in the sophomore year. It's a reason to attend study halls." Duffy said later in the meeting there are not too many students for whom their "absolute best" is a "D" average.

School Committee Chairman Constance Papas, who has come under fire for her remarks two weeks ago on open campus, says it is not her position to put everyone into study halls. Instead, it's to keep students in the school building during the day to maximize the educational offerings available.

Papas said these are not intended to be punitive or negative measures. Her concern, she said, comes from what will happen to students who are downtown or in the parking lots during their free time. Students should be led in using free time in school and they shouldn't have the alternative of going downtown, she said.

Papas said she heard from a "surprising" number of residents on this issue. Some parents feel there is no

Fire Causes Extensive Damage To Cross Street Building

Extensive smoke and water damage was caused to the basement, second, third and attic floors of a two-story wood frame building on Cross street during a two-alarm fire Wednesday. The cause of the fire is under investigation, according to Fire Department Chief Robert McElhinney.

When fire officials arrived at the scene, a dog, which officials said resembled a Doberman Pinscher, was found dead in one of the two second floor apartments. No other injuries were reported.

The Fire Department was notified of the fire by a telephone call. The first alarm was sounded at 1:07 p.m., the second was sounded at 1:11 p.m. McElhinney said the fire was under control approximately 40 minutes later.

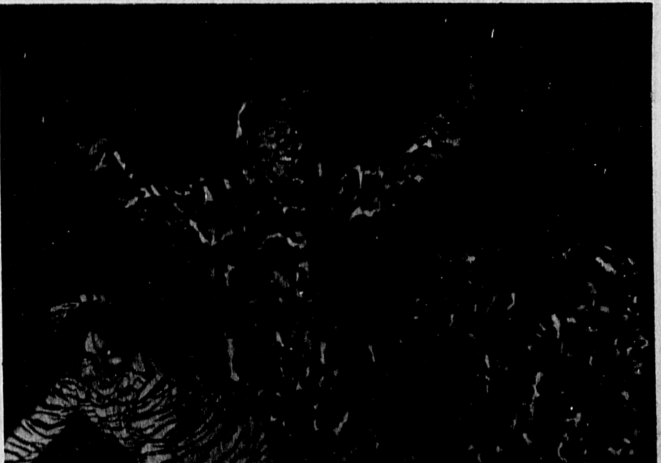

The fire, McElhinney said, started in the second floor apartment above the door to the Cross Street Superette. When officials arrived at the scene electric wires were "dancing" in the street and smoke was seen from the basement and second story windows. Little damage was done to the Superette or to the adjacent Mantini's Restaurant.

One second floor apartment was completely burned out, McElhinney said, while extensive smoke and water damage was caused to the other. Nobody was at home in either apartment at the time.

McElhinney said a passerby notified the Cross street Superette storekeeper of the fire, who had smelled the smoke of the upstairs fire, and then alerted the restaurant patrons. A call was placed into the Fire Department from restaurant.

Three Winchester fire pumps, a Woburn Engine Company and a Medford ladder were used in fighting the fire. Twenty Winchester firefighters were also at the scene.

reason to deny their child's participation in open campus. However, Papas said, the attitude she received was that if the School Committee set limits, then parents wouldn't be put in the sometimes awkward position of granting their children's requests to participate. One parent, Papas said, told her that it was difficult to deny open campus, however, the school shouldn't have the policy to begin with.

School Committee member Mary Jean Weylman noted that it's interesting to see that the open campus policy, since it was instituted 10 years ago, has tightened over the years.

The final School Committee vote to raise a student's overall grade point average to a "C" for participation in open campus was 5-1; Papas opposed. On the vote to raise the eligibility level to the beginning of a student's junior year the vote was 4-2 with Sandra Rodgers and Papas opposed.

chairman. "I believe on substantive issues the board should vote as a board.

All of us have felt strongly in the past about a matter where we were in the minority." He added that "I have not ever silenced a member of this board and it is not my intent to, ever, as long as I serve."

The Selectmen then voted on including Welch's motion in the main report, and it was defeated 1-2-1, with Hankins and Wilsack voting in the negative. Selectman Arthur Dunbar did not vote on the motion and Selectman Edward O'Connell was not present.

"The record will reflect that I was defeated by a minority of the board," Welch said to secretary Caroline Shaw after the vote.

The Board then voted to attach

Welch's motion to the main report as a minority opinion and it passed 3-0, with Dunbar again not voting. "I vote only so I am not silenced," said a still upset Welch. "But I think I have a right to have it included within the majority report."

Girl Found Naked, Beaten Near Reservoir

A 14-year old Winchester girl was found naked and beaten Monday night at the edge of North Reservoir behind the Washington School. According to Winchester Police Inspector William O'Neil, there is no evidence that the girl was sexually assaulted.

According to O'Neil, the police were alerted to the assault between 10:10-15 p.m. by an unidentified caller who stated that he had seen the girl being dragged from a car near the reservoir. Officers James Pierce and James Gallant were sent to the scene and found the girl naked, beaten and unconscious. She was taken to Winchester Hospital and later transferred to Choate Hospital. She was released by Tuesday afternoon.

"We really don't have any suspects at this time," O'Neil stated on Tuesday afternoon.

Earlier in the day, Inspector Richard Beaton said, "We're still working on it very heavily." He added that a number of interviews were being conducted in hope that they might lead to the attacker.

First Congregational Holds Covenant Sunday Recently

Sunday was "Covenant Sunday" at First Church.

The 10 a.m. service focused on the idea of the covenant as an important and vital part of the Christian church. The ninth grade class of First Church participated in the service as ushers, junior deacons, and liturgists, showing in the morning litany, their year of study leading toward a decision in June as to their own confirmation and membership in the church.

The ninth graders wrote individual covenants with the congregation, with the Rev. Kenneth Orth, minister of youth, acting as a representative of that body.

Included in many of the covenants were things such as attendance at the regular weekly class sessions from 4 to 5:30 p.m. on Sundays; reading and completing exercises in the text, "My Confirmation;" studying and knowing the central passages of the Christian faith; participation in outreach projects of various kinds; establishing relationships with deacons of the congregation; writing a personal statement of faith; and attendance at the weekly worship services of the church.

The individual covenants with the congregation, outlining the efforts of the ninth graders in this year, were viewed in the Tucker Room at the coffee hour following the service.

Youth Group Plans Events For This Weekend

The Forum, the senior high youth group at the First Congregational Church, will offer two events for its members and the entire community this weekend.

Tomorrow from 8 to 11 p.m. will be the Coffee House in the Tucker Room of the church. The Coffee House is open to all community residents. Coffee, tea, and refreshments will be provided along with the entertainment by two musical groups.

Steve Williams and Mike Reeves will offer guitar and vocal selections with Laura McGovern, Lisa Meyer, Richard Rule, and Peter Zudeck offering some rock selections.

On Sunday morning, following the special musical service by the First Church Senior Choir in the sanctuary at 10 a.m., will be the Forum Chowder House. Homemade chowders will be preceded by carols and storytelling for all ages in Chidley Hall.

Proceeds from the Chowder House will be used to support Cambodian relief. The Forum is under the direction of Minister of Youth Rev. Kenneth Orth.

Title 9 Study Committee Submits Final Report

The School Committee this week accepted an evaluation of the Winchester Public School system's compliance with Title 9 - Chapter 622 (federal and state legislation prohibiting sex discrimination in education) as compiled by a group of Winchester citizens.

According to Jeanne Duffy, spokesman for the Title 9 - Chapter 622 Implementation Committee, the evaluation was undertaken in the summer of 1977, approximately one year after educational institutions receiving state and federal aid had to be in compliance with the regulations.

In outlining the committee's reasons for undertaking the study, Duffy said the committee decided to assist the School Committee through a study. Had the committee instead decided to file a complaint with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the school system could have potentially lost federal and state assistance.

At the time the study was undertaken, Duffy said, it was clear that the implementation of Title 9 was not a priority of the school system. However, since the study was started, Duffy said, there has been a dramatic increase in awareness of Title 9. She noted that some of the committee's recommendations are general, but it is up to the School Committee to further refine and develop them.

Sentiment among School Committee members was generally favorable towards the report. While recognizing the need for a monitoring of Title 9, it was felt that the Implementation Committee has done a great deal of work.

Committee Chairman Constance Papas said, "You've raised our level of consciousness in the last few years. There's a lot that's here that is, and needs to be, addressed."

Supt. of Schools William MacDonald said that this committee has given the

MBTA Has Hearing Tues. In Cambridge

The MBTA will hold a public meeting on Tuesday, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the US Department of Transportation's Transportation Systems Center, 55 Broadway, Cambridge, to review federal requirements to make stations and vehicles accessible to handicapped persons.

The purpose of the meeting is to involve handicapped persons as well as the general public in developing over the next several months a Transition Plan for the MBTA to submit to the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) for approval.

The Transition Plan will propose steps for the MBTA to take in compliance with UMTA's recent regulations to change the existing system to one that is accessible to handicapped persons.

Deadline

The Winchester Star offices will be closed Dec. 25 and Jan. 1. The deadline for news and advertising for these two weeks will be Dec. 21 and Dec. 28 at 3 p.m.

THE BURNER IN A BOX

The time has come when these real cold days turn your burner on all day long. Is your present burner ready for the really cold days ahead this winter?

Now is the time to replace that worn-out burner with a new RIELLO high speed burner... the burner in a box with modern heating efficiency and carefully selected modern controls. Your heating system is only as good as your burner.

The major cause of high fuel bills is a burner that gobbles up more oil than it should to produce the heat you need.

An oil burner is an energy converter; it converts petroleum energy to heat. The more heat extracted by your burner from oil the less oil you require to heat your home. And the less energy goes up the chimney in wasted heat. Unfortunately, MOST older oil burners are inefficient "heat extractors."

The RIELLO retention head burner is the efficient "heat extractor" in a box that puts MONEY IN YOUR POCKET.

'TIS THE SEASON...
GIVE BLOOD.

Dear Friend,

YOU'VE HELPED US BEFORE TO HELP OTHERS — HELP US AGAIN THIS HOLIDAY SEASON....

There will be two community blood drives this month, so when a volunteer calls you to make an appointment, we hope you'll be able to say "YES". Your blood donation at this time of year is especially important. We'll be at:

ST. MARY'S PARISH HALL, 158 Washington St., Winchester
Saturday, December 15 — 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

RED CROSS CHAPTER OFFICE, 39 Church St., Winchester
Wednesday, December 26 — 2:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.

Congress Fails Nuclear Safety Test

By: Congressman Ed Markey

In late November, the House of Representatives sent a vote of confidence to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. By a vote of 254-135, a majority of House Members said that a troubled and befuddled NRC is capable of serving as our nation's watchdog agency for nuclear safety.

I think the House majority made a serious mistake. The NRC is a discredited agency badly needing reform from top to bottom.

I visited the reactor site at Three Mile Island. I was named to the fact-finding task force of the House to study the accident in Pennsylvania. I talked with the nuclear control operators. I asked NRC officials to tell me how the accident could have happened.

The answer was they never expected the accident to happen in the first place. And they weren't ready to cope with it when it did.

As a senior NRC official said shortly after the accident began, "We are seeing failure modes we never thought possible." The NRC chairman said at the height of the crisis, "We are operating almost totally in the blind."

The House action in favor of continued trust in this agency came on my amendment to mandate by law a limited moratorium on the startup of construction on new nuclear plants. In July, Senator Kennedy offered the same proposal in the Senate. Now the House, like the Senate last summer, has said "no" to our proposal.

This vote of confidence in the present NRC came despite the conclusion reached by the President's Commission on the Accident at Three Mile Island that such an accident was "eventually inevitable."

"With its present organization, staff, and attitudes," said all 12 members of the President's Commission, "the NRC is unable to fulfill its responsibility for providing an acceptable level of safety for nuclear power plants."

I think that the proposal offered by myself and Senator Kennedy was a responsible proposal, which clearly made sense to the American people, and according to recent surveys was supported by most Americans. We believed it to be neither pro nor anti nuclear. Instead, it was pro safety.

There were several compelling arguments in favor of such a moratorium, lasting only until Congress could have reviewed, by next spring, the nuclear safety recommendations of the Commission on Three Mile Island.

First, it would have put in no uncertain terms Congressional instructions to the NRC to concentrate efforts on policing the 72 reactors already licensed and the 94 now being built. These are the reactors that need closest scrutiny now. A short pause on starting to build any new ones is just common sense.

Second, it would have enabled the NRC and Congress to determine crucial reforms necessary at the construction permit stage. Many people do not realize that construction permits are granted by the NRC before they review complete blueprints of safety designs. It is only after a nuclear plant is constructed - at a point when hundreds of millions of dollars create an unrelenting pressure to overlook safety questions - that the NRC sees a final blue print. This and other fundamental questions, such as reactor siting and plant standardization need to be resolved as soon as possible.

Third, Congress needs to decide how to restructure the NRC itself. Whether it should be abolished and replaced by a new agency or simply reformed from within needs the careful consideration of public officials.

Many of the strongest supporters of the moratorium proposal believe that nuclear energy is a necessary energy option in the future. Nuclear proponents fear that an unsafe program will doom that option.

New England is now dependent on nuclear power to provide about one-third of our electric power. We may continue to need nuclear power for some time in the future. But the public interest demands that we provide the highest safeguards against accidents.

Opponents of the moratorium on the House floor sought to misrepresent it as an attempt to end nuclear power. They summoned forth numerous red herrings. They talked about gasoline lines, the Iranian crisis, and oil imports.

Not only were they wrong; they missed the point. The NRC itself has put into effect a de facto temporary moratorium, an indication that the agency is aware that the American people are not prepared to see nuclear development go unchecked.

Any concern over oil imports should be put in perspective. A short moratorium on new nuclear construction would not have forced an increase in oil imports. Many authoritative reports make this clear. Nor is the choice for future electricity between oil and nuclear, but between coal and nuclear.

The real issue is that the nuclear industry must be put to the test of improving nuclear safety. It was time for Congress to act boldly. Only clear, decisive action would have restored public confidence in nuclear safety.

50 Years Ago

One of the most interesting business transactions to take place in Winchester for some years was reported Dec. 3, when final papers were passed for the purchase of the Parker & Lane Coal and Wood Co. by John D. Coakley, owner of the local J.F. Winn Co.

The Parker & Lane Co. has long been considered one of Winchester's substantial business houses. It has lately been conducted by Charles A. Lane and Charles A. Burnham. In May, 1924 Burnham bought the interest of the late Justin L. Parker.

Parker originally bought the business, then known as the Winchester Coal Co., from Benjamin Guernsey approximately in 1894. For some years the former conducted it with his brother, Harry Parker of Reading, whose interest Lane took over in 1904. The firm of Parker & Lane was incorporated in April of that year.

The original office of Parker was in the store now occupied by Thompson's Jewelry Shop. Later the Parker & Lane Co. was quartered on Main street, in the building since replaced by the Fells Market Market and adjacent to the former Winchester National Bank. The firm moved to its present quarters in the National Bank Building Jan. 10, 1915.

Figures are not available for the entire growth of the business, but from 1904 to 1929 the growth has been approximately 6000 tons.

Coakley, the new owner, announced that the Parker & Lane Co. will retain its identity and remain in its present offices at 14 Church st. Cassie Sands, who for 22 years has served the firm, was the office manager. The coal and wood yards are located at 49 Cross st.

Coakley has had a long experience with the coal business, having been associated with the J.F. Winn & Co. for 20 years as manager and for six years as co-partner. He took over the business in September, 1926, and it has prospered under his direction. He plans to continue the operation of the J.F. Winn & Co., which is now maintaining offices in both Winchester and Woburn.

Hanukkah: The Festival Of Lights

Hanukkah, the festival of lights. The eight-day remembrance of the successful Maccabean revolt against Syrian oppressors. The Jewish holiday for exchanging gifts, eating potato latkes (pancakes), and lighting an eight-pronged Menorah (candleabra) to remember a small flask of oil which burned eight days instead of one.

It was in the year 165 B.C. that Judah Maccabee waged a successful campaign against Syrian invaders which ended in the recapture and rededication of the Temple in Jerusalem. While the Temple was being cleansed of all forms of pagan worship, a small flask of untouched oil was found. And although it was only enough to have burned for one day, according to legend, the oil lasted eight days.

Although Hanukkah is a relatively minor holiday in the Jewish religion, it is a time for remembering the Maccabean revolt.

For eight days at sundown the Menorah is lit in an increasing order. On the first night the "shamash" candle, which stands apart from the row of eight, is lit and used to kindle one candle on the far right of the Menorah. On the second night the shamash is used to light two candles, and so on, until all eight are lit on the eighth night. Three prayers are said while lighting the first night's candles. Two are said every night thereafter. Traditionally, all family members are present while the candles are lighted.

The holiday begins on the 25th day of the Hebrew month of Kislev, which, this year, is Saturday at sundown.

Iran: The Military Options

As Americans grow increasingly restive with the situation in Iran, we frequently hear calls for military action — and as quickly hear these calls dismissed as impractical or ill-advised.

Just what is the likely scenario of U.S. military intervention, and what are its likely consequences?

To answer these questions we have subscribed to a special analysis by two of the most respected senior military men in the country — men popular with all shades of the political spectrum.

They are Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., retired chief of Naval Operations, and Worth H. Bagley, retired deputy Chief of Naval Operations. Zumwalt, while enjoying the confidence of top military figures, is the popular admiral who instituted the "Z-grams," which did away with much of the "Mickey Mouse" routine of the U.S. Navy. Bagley is a respected naval scholar and historian.

In a thoughtful analysis these two, who write a column for the Los Angeles Times Syndicate, explore our military alternatives in Iran. Their conclusions are provocative and surprising.

By Elmo Zumwalt and W. H. Bagley

Contrary to much popular thought, military options do exist in the Iranian crisis.

Under some circumstances military operations add strength to diplomatic negotiations. They can also become necessary when diplomacy fails and a nation cannot accept the failure.

A decision on the use of military options can only be made by the President, who alone knows the subtleties of negotiations, foreign influences, and U.S. domestic political factors. For example, if the U.S. attacks Iran — an Islamic country — Arab autocratic governments who control most of the Middle East oil monopoly may have to take political actions against the U.S. to appease their Islamic populations and Islamic neighbors. The President is now considering the full range of diplomatic actions, backed up by the threatened use of force.

The President's decision not to use power to date is proper, given the sensitive position of our hostages in Iran. But Mr. Carter's past mistakes place limits on what he can do with force when the time comes to use it.

Throughout the three years of his administration, President Carter has repudiated the utility of power and failed to seek defense budgets needed to maintain international credibility and deterrence. Instead, he has declared our power "second to none," hoping to avoid challenge, despite warnings from defense experts that our military weaknesses are obvious to all.

Inadequate armed strength contributed to, and perhaps even motivated, the Iranian incident. These defense deficiencies also made it impossible even to consider an always dangerous rescue operation with military forces.

Military readiness to support diplomacy or to control crises depends on the availability of forces to react quickly and the capability to deploy these forces in superior numbers. Iran is half the globe distant from Washington. To apply pressure there would require: 1) forces continuously deployed near the Persian Gulf, or 2) forces dispatched quickly from the U.S., or 3) geographic positions overseas that support and facilitate the employment of arms.

Carter's security policies failed to provide adequately for any of these alternatives.

Our foreign policies have failed to secure strategic geographic locations that give flexibility to American power.

We are unable to use bases in Turkey or in the Middle East as staging bases or fueling stops for deploying forces.

Deployments from the U.S. must traverse the 11,000 mile ocean routes from our coasts. This places heavy demands on air and sea lift, and on mobile refueling systems. The result is extended delays in relevant forces reaching the Persian Gulf.

The Administration has not pressed for Congressional action to expand the U.S.-British Indian Ocean naval and air base on the Island of Diego Garcia.

The President lost valuable time in flirting with Moscow about demilitarization of the Indian Ocean — an initiative that would have benefited Moscow and set back the U.S. Had demilitarization occurred, Moscow could have continued to apply force from regionally or home-based USSR aircraft and through local guerrilla movements.

Our interests in Iran have not been harmonized with NATO or Pacific allies — though the principle of embassy integrity and regional stability is vital to all Western countries. If we use military power in the Iranian crisis, we will do it alone. Nevertheless, for some three weeks, Carter delayed deploying the carrier Kitty Hawk from the Western Pacific to the Arabian Sea.

The need to deploy Kitty Hawk and other forces from other areas occurred because the U.S. has insufficient arms to keep striking power in the Persian Gulf region continuously. That deficiency was reported to the President early this year by the Pentagon. Despite the fall of the Shah and growing instability in the vital Gulf area, no action was taken to establish strike forces there to deter or react. Only after the fact has the minimum required naval strength been deployed from the Pacific, by removing all carrier task groups from the defense of the Western Pacific.

The consequences were: 1) Khomeini decided he could risk supporting the embassy seizure; 2) there was no capability to release the hostages with force; 3) for a long period, no military forces were available to react in any other way.

Without relevant power, U.S. diplomatic actions have not been persuasive. We may be reaching a point when military action, carefully structured, will give some backing to our diplomacy.

In this context, we have analyzed independently the suitable military options to which the President could choose to turn.

1) Aircraft mining of the close approaches to Kharg Island (where Iran exports its oil) and mining of other Iranian ports, cutting off all trade by sea. When the mining is announced, the U.S. could commit itself to sweeping the mines when all hostages were released safely.

This option would be designed for economic effect without physical injury to Iranians. Time, now working to the advantage of Iran, would turn to Khomeini's disadvantage. He would be under great pressure to return the embassy and its people to the U.S. Privately, it could be made clear to Khomeini that if he killed hostages in retaliation to our mining, the U.S. would attack Iranian facilities on land.

The economic deterioration resulting from mining, over time, would exacerbate internal political dissension, increasing the probability of a Soviet-supported leftist coup, which Khomeini fears. And the second phase destruction of his military capability, if he harmed our citizens, would leave him vulnerable to loss of territory to Iraq and to Kurdish Nationalists.

Releasing the hostages, to obtain the lifting of the mine barrier, would become less painful than the increased threat from Iraq, the Kurds or a leftist coup.

2) A limited air and sea envelopment of a coastal Iranian port-airfield. The operation, under the air cover of U.S. naval task forces, would create a base for subsequent introduction of American land-based aircraft, ground forces, and air defenses. Some Iranian casualties could be expected, even in the relatively under-populated areas where some southern Iranian ports are located. But the lodgment would give the capability for ground and air excursions further into Iran and the seizure of oil fields, should circumstances warrant.

This military action would hazard the hostages more than mining, because there would be Iranian casualties. But the beachhead would also become an explicit and visible trade-off for the hostages' safe release. American armed operations from the coastal lodgment, or voluntary withdrawal, could be matched to the Ayatollah's response.

With this military option, the President would have numerous subsequent choices in escalating American responses to the continuing captivity of our citizens.

Either the mining action or the lodgment on the Iranian coast have both political and military advantages as compared to air strikes launched from aircraft carriers near Iran. Such attacks would be immediately destructive, in comparison to the relatively immaculate act of mining or the more deliberate port-airfield envelopment.

Either would make it easier for the Ayatollah to accommodate, without the great loss of national pride which would result from the high loss of Iranian lives and resources if air strikes were used at the outset.

In undertaking either of these options, policy-makers must judge the possibility of Soviet armed intrusions into or an outright major invasion of Iran in reaction to American operations. On the one hand, the Soviet military power in this region is much greater than the U.S. can muster. On the other hand, vital U.S. interests are at stake and the American people are aroused and relatively unified on this matter. Whatever one thinks about Soviet willingness to invade Iran in the event of an American military response to seizure of its embassy, some considerations are relevant:

In the mining case, the Soviets would have no U.S. armed presence within Iranian land borders on which to justify intervention.

For the coastal envelopment operation, American forces would be positioned at extreme ranges from Soviet borders with Iran. The U.S. could specify that they were there as a temporary lodgment to reinforce diplomacy.

Part II: The Fire Department

By HENRY E. SIMONDS

This week we will continue the history of the Fire Department from 1900 to the present.

From 1900 to 1912 the department remained the same. However, one important event occurred in 1909. The Blank Bros. tannery on Lake street, which was built in the middle 1880's, was practically destroyed by fire. Until 1912 the department had been entirely horse drawn. The Town Meeting of March 20, 1912 voted to purchase its first piece of motorized apparatus which was a Knox combination chemical and hose truck for $5,725.

In 1913 the department was reorganized with a Permanent Chief and an Assistant Chief appointed by the Selectmen. The rest of the department members were appointed by the chief, subject to the approval of the Selectmen.

The Board of Engineers ceased to exist. The department consists of a Chief at $1,100. per year; an Assistant Chief at $1,050. per year; five permanent men at $1,000. per year; and 25 call men at $100.

each per year. David H. DeCourcy was appointed the first Permanent Chief, and John H. McCarthy the first Assistant Chief.

At the Town Meeting of March 9, 1914 it was voted that the Town Treasurer be authorized to issue and sell bonds to the amount of $85,000 for the purchase of land and for the construction of a new Fire and Police Building, to be spent under the direction of a committee of five elected at this meeting.

The committee consisted of Elbridge K. Jewett, Vincent Farnsworth, Frank W. Reynolds, James H. Dwinell, and Roland E. Simonds. The architect was Edward R. Wait and the General Contractor was Fred C. Alexander, both Winchester residents. At this same meeting it was voted to purchase its second motorized piece which was a tractor for the old horse drawn hook and ladder at a cost of $3,500.

The third motorized piece, which was

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
I am pleased to note that Mr. Shawcross shares my "aversion to the United Nations." And, after all, does not the UN in UNICEF refer to United Nations?

I also am pleased to note that Mr. Shawcross has left the employ of UNICEF and taken up more ethical employment in the engineering field.

In his letter of last week Mr. Shawcross did not (could not) disprove my charges regarding the butchery of the UN troops (financed by UNICEF) in Katanga.

Stanton Evans's column in the Indianapolis News at the time stated "when the UN was out of money for the Congo aggression it borrowed $10 million earmarked for UNICEF from the US government. This was UNICEF money, handed over with UNICEF's express consent. In short, UNICEF monies were used to subsidize the Katanga aggression."

I might add that in March, 1960, only a few months after the bloody takeover of Cuba by Castro, UNICEF sent his regime $120,000 for "health services" and "environmental services."

In 1964 UNICEF sent Castro another $125,000 to spend, among other things, on a fleet of trucks and jeeps plus spare parts to keep them in running condition.

This was in addition to UNICEF's appropriation to Communist Cuba that same year of $205,000. The DAR magazine for April, 1969 contained an article about UNICEF which noted: "The general public looked with jaundiced eye on UNICEF gifts of food and drugs to Cuba where underground sources in that unhappy island reported that the drugs are already aboard a Russian ship on their way to the Soviet Union."

Recently it was revealed that UNICEF money was used to finance the supplying of medical combat packs for the Communist terrorists who have been slaughtering innocent black and white Rhodesian men, women and children.

Even without considering the Communists exploitation of UNICEF one would want to caution Americans against supporting it purely on ground of incompetence. One can do far more good with his money by supporting bonafide religious and charitable causes.

The UNICEF publication "Children of the Developing Countries," for example, admits that in 1961 UNICEF had 575 employees and distributed about $25 million. In typical contrast, the Catholic Relief Services for that same year distributed $125 million in aid with a staff of only 130 employees.

The communist permeation of UNICEF explains the many strange ways this "charitable" organization spends its money. The newsletter of the McGraw-Edison Company, Committee For Public Affairs of December, 1961 pointed out: "The United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund... appropriated $59 million between 1947 and 1958 to Communist countries. "In a ratio not unlike that of other UN ventures, the United States had furnished approximately $42 million of the money. Also, as with any 'aid' program, the assistance does not go to the needy but is administered through governments."

And as any student of the Communist conspiracy can tell you, food and medicine are used as political weapons to keep enslaved peoples under subjection, witness the systematic, international starvation by the Reds of 10 million Ukrainians in the 1930s and the Communists brutal use of UNRRA supplies in the late 1940s in Poland as described by Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane in his book "I saw Poland Betrayed."

In conclusion, Mr. Shawcross, yes UNICEF is indeed Red!

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
Have you evtionally heard of 4-H? In the past, 4-H has traditionally been involved with teaching skills to youth in rural areas. If 4-H is to be a viable, growing, on the move kind of program, it is necessary to look beyond rural areas and into towns and cities where a growing majority of youth live and are seeking the best way to become successful adults.

Because 4-H has so much to offer young people, today it is incorporated into urban areas through various vehicles, such as schools, libraries, church groups, and youth organizations.

Programs are offered, depending upon needs and interests of youth, and the resources available. Some of the more traditional clubs (which you may be aware of) are animals, horticulture, cooking, sewing, small engines and leadership.

Possible non-tradition programs which could be incorporated in a variety of organizations are child care, health and safety, nutrition, photography, career search, environment studies, embryology, community improvement, creative arts, and communications.

The key to the success of 4-H in the present and in the future is volunteer leaders. Therefore, I wish to take this opportunity to ask you to explore 4-H further. See what 4-H can do for your community.

Call me at the Middlesex County Extension Office to arrange an informational meeting.

UNICEF Funds

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
With all eight elementary schools and two of our churches reporting, Winchester children can be proud to say that they raised $842.23 for UNICEF this Halloween.

Halloween is National UNICEF Day in the US and children here volunteer to collect money for the world's children while they trick or treat for themselves. This year all the money is going to a special Cambodian relief fund.

The busiest collectors in town this year were the children from one of our smallest schools, Parkhurst, where $123. was gathered.

Many thanks to the volunteers in each school and church who distributed boxes and counted money money, and to the Winchester Trust and Winchester Savings Bank who handled all that change! And of course thanks to the households who remembered to have money for UNICEF to give. Congratulations, kids!!

Teletype

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
On a matter of life and death case, I ran to the Police Station to secure help and back home even without getting a lift in a police cruiser which arrived minutes later.

Therefore, I urge that the Police Department and Winchester Hospital each should have a teletype to handle emergency cases. Having one at home, I would have communicated directly with either of them, thus preventing a loss of many minutes. In spite of it, fortunately, the life was saved.

Earlier this year, Clarence Borggaard demonstrated a portable teletype to Chief John McHugh by communicating with me at home. I had hoped he would be fully convinced by the valuable use of the TDD in his department, by Mr. Borggaard, to serve the needs of the deaf, regardless of the tiny population of the deaf in Winchester. So far, no action was taken. It may not need the experience expensive equipment, but an old, workable teletype.

To date, in Massachusetts, teletypes have been installed in three police stations in different towns and one fire department in the other.

Nationally, so have Louisville, Ky. Police Department, Washington, D.C. Police Department, Dallas, Texas, Police Department, and New York City Police Department to name a few, and smaller towns.

Mrs. J. Thomas Rule

EDITOR OF THE STAR:
For many years Winchester business men have been faulted for their seeming unwillingness to do anything about the bombed-out aspect of the center of town.

The truth is that many attempts were made over the years to build apartment houses, etc., on the vacant area, but in almost all cases, the conditions imposed by the various regulatory bodies of the town proved too restrictive and the projects were abandoned.

The latest example of this restrictive tendency was the refusal by the Planning Board to approve the badly needed "low and moderate income" Winchester House. This project, although strongly endorsed by the Council on Aging, Winchester Chamber of Commerce, the Winchester Seniors Association and the executive committee of the Winchester Ecumenical Council, was nevertheless throttled by a single vote (3 to 2) in the Planning Board.

I predict that because of the imperative need for such low and moderate income housing (witness the growing tendency towards "condo conversion" which is accelerating the flight of elderly residents from this town) I predict, I say, that Winchester House will come up again and this time will pass, with flying colors.

The elderly residents desperately need the housing; the town needs the tax revenue; the various businesses in town need the patronage; the churches need to retain their membership. All the project needs is a more favorable attitude on the part of the regulatory bodies in town. (A further bonus-last, but by no means least - is the attainment of a better lighted, better regulated, better policed and better maintained central Railroad Station area!)

Perhaps a new more favorable climate toward business is already dawning in town. Witness the New Savings Bank Building, the new Randall's Restaurant (liquor served with meals for the first time). Witness, also, the strenuous effort by a number of representative Winchester investors to obtain for local residents the forthcoming permit to supply Winchester with its first "cable TV service."

My wife and I are members of this group and we stress the fact that we feel, with the other members of the group, that Winchester people should have the Winchester permit. Certainly it seems reasonable to assume that local residents will be more sensitive to local needs and demands than outsiders from remote places like Woburn, New York, or Hollywood.

Let's give our Winchester business men and investors some encouragement for a change. Maybe "progress" will sprout up then, all over the place and Winchester will begin to look more like a town and less like a bomb crater.

I submit that here are two opportunities for Winchester regulatory bodies to demonstrate a willingness to cooperate. First, on behalf of the elderly, who desperately need new low and moderate income housing; second, with local business men and investors who are anxious to demonstrate their faith in a local business enterprise.

Energy Task Force Report

Following a report by Town Manager Thomas Groux on the Energy Task Force in Winchester, the Board of Selectmen voted 2-2 Monday night on a proposal to close the town's administration offices on Dec. 24. The split vote defeated the motion.

The proposal was made following a suggestion by Groux to close the Town Hall and the Public Works building. The idea was originally brought up at one of the energy committee meetings, noting that it would conserve energy by having the boiler shut off for four days, the long weekend, instead of two and then Christmas.

As planned now, the two buildings will be open for a half-day, with only a skeleton crew of employees. Selectmen Chairman Richard Wilsack and Selectman Barbara Hankins both expressed concern about giving those employees the full day off, when it is not included in their contracts, and how it would effect other town employees on that day.

Groux pointed out that besides the day off applying only to the Town Hall and the DPW building, the time off would have to be made up at a later date by those employees. He also noted that of 10 neighboring communities in the area, seven of them plan on closing for the full day on Dec. 24.

"I personally think we should stay open that day and allow all department heads maximum flexibility," concerning whether they want their employees to work or not, Wilsack stated.

Hankins added that the public gets a "little upset" when the Town Hall is closed.

Doherty Appointed

The Selectmen voted to appoint Bernard J. Doherty, a resident of Winchester for six years and a stockbroker for the past 14, to the Pension Liability Committee.

This committee, has been formed to study what the pension payback policy of the town should be to its employees. According to Chairman Wilsack, the committee will be studying how the town can avoid setting aside too much money for pensions each year, thus causing a rise in the tax rate, and how to avoid setting aside too little.

The Pension Liability Committee will make a presentation to the Town Meeting in the spring.

Conservation Comm. Gears For Future Financial Needs

James Lane, chairman of the Capital Planning Committee, advised Conservation Commission members this week to "clarify where they are going," so that the Finance Committee and local officials could have a better idea of what their future financial needs might be.

Frustrated at not receiving any money from the town last year, the Commission solicited Lane's remarks so they might have better luck when preparing the budget for Town Meeting in the spring.

Not having any new projects, Conservation Commission Chairman Bradley Ross told Lane that they decided to not even ask for money last year since they felt there was little chance of receiving it.

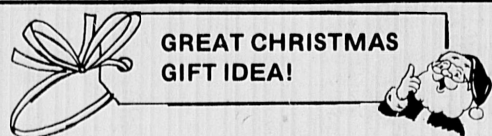

Lane admitted that the Commission was probably right in staying out of last year's debate, since practically all of the town's money was tied up in Department of Public Works projects. He added, though, that the Commission should apply for money this year since the town would probably be able to better afford more capital outlays.

Lane urged the Commission to return to forms to the Capital Planning Committee "as quickly as possible," with information about their long term objectives. By "operating within the local mechanism," Lane assured the Commission that they would have greater success in building a reserve fund and being able to get a large capital outlay when the opportunity presented itself.

"Since the political and economic needs of the Commission haven't yet been identified," Lane indicated that the Commission should concentrate on making their philosophy more clear, thereby allowing local officials to have a better idea of what the Commission planned to do with their landholdings.

a 750-gallon Ahrens-Fox Pumper (known as Engine 1), was purchased in 1915 at a cost of $8,500. This replaced the old steamer "Mary Ann." The chemical tank that came with the pumping engine has been mounted on the Chief's car, making a valuable addition to the equipment.

On June 19, 1915 the Fire Department moved from its old station on Winchester street to the new modern station on Mt. Vernon street. The Fire Department was now completely motorized at the central station while Hose 3 at Swanton street was still horse drawn.

The Police Department moved into the building on June 10, 1915 from the basement of the Town Hall. The old station house was torn down and the bell on this old station was placed on Hose 3 house on Swanton street.

In 1918 a good second hand Packard chassis was purchased and Hose 3 body fitted to it carrying the same equipment as originally. It was placed in the center station and the Hose 3 house closed. The next year the old steamer "Mary Ann," after many years of faithful service, was sold for $400. to James Filluel and Son of Manchester, N.H. The same year the first permanent Captain, Eugene S. Flaherty, was appointed.

By 1920 the Chief's pay had advanced to $2,100 per year, the Assistant Chief to $2,000, the Captain to $1,950, the permanent men to $1,825, each, and the call men to $150. each. A 1921 MacFarland chassis, rated at 110 horse power and guaranteed to do 100 miles or better, was purchased in 1921 for the Chief's use. It was fitted with a new body holding the small chemical tank and hose, taken from the previous Chief's car.

A new Ahrens-Fox Ladder No. 1 was purchased in 1924 to replace the old tractor driven ladder truck which was stored in the old Hose 3 house for a spare. Also a new Ahrens-Fox Pump, known as Engine 3, was purchased in 1924 for $12,500.

A used Reo chassis was purchased in 1926 and the body of a Reo truck bought in 1924 was transferred to it to be used as a fire alarm truck. A new body was built on the 1924 Reo which carries hose, chemicals, ladders, etc. and also the new six way deck gun which came with the new 1924 pumper. A new Studebaker passenger sedan was purchased in 1929 to replace the old MacFarland chief's car. The department in 1930 had only four more men but answered 350 more calls than 30 years ago. The old Hose 3 house and land on Swanton street was sold in 1929 which later was occupied by the Sons of Italy in 1938.

A new 500-gallon Ahrens-Fox pumper, known as Engine 2, was purchased in 1935 to replace the old 1912 Knox Combination A. Also a Ford chassis was bought and equipped with a body, front end pump, water tank, and hose reel with other equipment to be known as Engine 4. This replaced the old 1926 Reo.

In the year of 1937 the office of lieutenant was created and J. Edward Noonan, David J. Meskill, Raymond C. Hanscom and James W. Callahan were appointed. The only one living today is J. Edward Noonan. A 150-gallon booster pump and extra hose reel was added to Engine 4 in 1938.

The year 1942 saw a new Chief appointed. Deputy Chief John J. Gorman was appointed Chief to succeed David H. DeCourcy who retired after serving 51 years as a call man and member of the hand drawn Hose 3 and later the driver of Hose 3 horse drawn wagon on Swanton street. He was promoted to Captain and shifted to the center station in 1905 and made assistant Chief in 1907. In 1912 he was made the first permanent Chief.

Four years later, in 1946, Captain James E. Callahan was appointed chief to succeed John J. Gorman who retired after serving over 40 years in the department, 29 of them as Assistant Chief. Also the 74-hour work week was put into effect, down from the 108-hour week in the thirties. The members of the department were increased to 24 permanent men and 18 call men.

The late 1940s saw two new pieces of apparatus added to the department. The first was a new 75-foot American LaFrance Ladder truck received in 1948 to replace the old Ladder truck purchased in 1924 which was kept as a reserve. The second piece was a 750-gallon Mack Pumper which was purchased in 1949 to replace the old Ahrens-Fox, Engine 1, in 1914. This engine was also kept in reserve.

A general alarm fire occurred Dec. 14, 1950 in the Lyceum building in the center. The big dance hall and auditorium on the top floor was virtually destroyed which was later removed and the building remodeled into a two story building. The second floor suffered from excessive water and smoke damage as well as the first floor where Chitel's Men Shop was destroyed. Seven departments from surrounding towns and cities aided at the fire.

Since the 1940s the Chief of the department and many residents of the West Side, especially the hill section, have been advocating the need of a fire station, due to the rapid growth of this section. Finally, at the April 1953 Town Meeting, it was voted to purchase a lot of land at the corner of Lockland road and Ridge street for a future station.

The first Rescue truck for the department was purchased in 1934. Also, in 1958 a 1000 gallon Mack Pumper, known as Engine 3, was purchased to replace the old Ahrens-Fox pumper purchased in 1925. The old Engine 3 was sold to Royal Firmman of Mento, Ohio to be used on his farm. The same year a compressed air whistle was installed on the center fire station to replace the old steam whistle at Beggs & Cobb Tannery due to their power plant being shut down.

On Sept. 17, 1959 at 11 a.m., the biggest fire which ever happened in Winchester, occurred at the old Beggs & Cobb Tannery on Swanton street. A general alarm was sounded for the fire which was a mass of searing flame when it was discovered. The intense heat and flames hampered the firefighting efforts. The local department was aided by 12 out-of-town departments. The plant was destroyed and the all out was not sounded until 6 p.m. the next day.

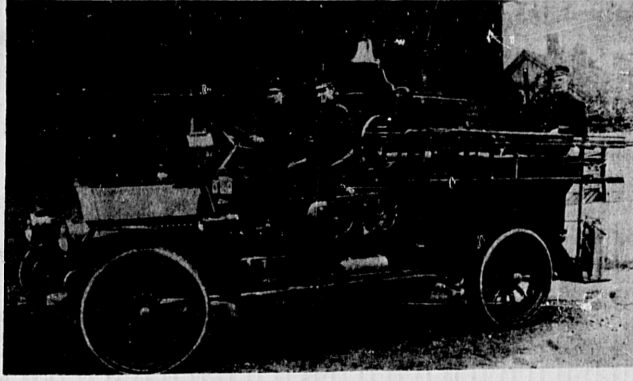

The 1960s saw many changes in the department with several disastrous fires. A new 1000-gallon Mack pumper was delivered in 1962 to replace the old Engine 4 purchased in 1935 and the old engine given to the Water Department for their use.

Francis Amico was appointed Chief in 1963 to replace Chief Callahan who died in office. Chief Callahan had served 39 years in the department. Also the 46-hour work week was put into effect and the department was increased to 43 permanent men and six call men.

The old fire alarm system, which was installed in 1914, was replaced with a new Gamewell system in 1966. An addition was built on the west side of the station to house this new system and a new watch desk installed.

A new automatic mutual aid fire alarm response system was put into effect in Winchester and the four neighboring communities in 1966. In recent years the Town had a mutual aid system with Woburn, Arlington, Stoneham, and Medford whereby they would send men and equipment to cover in at the local station, generally on second or third alarms, or by telephone request.

The new system is different in that it has both automatic aid response from specific municipalities on every second or third alarm fire, and with specific assignments of equipment and personnel to both the fire scene and or to the fire station. Also Winchester firefighters affiliated with the International Association of Fire Fighters, and became known as local 1564 on July 21, 1965.

The first serious fire occurred on May 4, 1961 when the Waterfield Building on Waterfield road was practically destroyed in a two-alarm fire. It was torn down and rebuilt. The next fire occurred on Aug. 22, 1961 when the Old Chapin School on Swanton street built in 1875, was destroyed. It was occupied at the time of the fire by Winchester Building Materials Co. Both of these were two alarm fires with Woburn, Arlington and Stoneham aiding the local firefighters.

The most disastrous fire occurred on Jan. 13, 1966 at the Boodakin Rug Cleaning Storage Plant on Lochwan street. The loss was $250,000 and destroyed the plant. It was one of the largest property loss fires in Winchester for many years, even greater than Beggs & Cobb in 1959. Woburn, Arlington, Stoneham and Medford assisted at the three-alarm fire.

A new 1000-gallon Mack Pumper was received in 1968 to replace the old Engine 2 purchased in 1935. The old Engine 2 was turned over to Auxiliary Fireman John Cleary and now rests in the Museum of Transportation in Brookline.

At a 1963 Town Meeting a committee of five were appointed to study the building of a fire station at the West Side site purchased in 1953. After much heated debate the Town Meeting of 1964 rejected the proposal of the committee. The matter laid dormant until 1970. This time the Town Meeting a subcommittee to the Permanent Building Committee which was called the "West Side Fire Station Subcommittee." A Special Town Meeting was held on Jan. 21, 1971 and it approved an appropriation of $168,000 to erect a new station. It was occupied in February, 1972 and dedicated June 16, 1973. Engine 4 and the Rescue truck was housed there with a Lieutenant and two men on duty at each shift.

The 42-hour work week was put into effect in 1972. In 1973 a new 100-foot Mack Ladder truck was purchased and received in 1975 to replace the old Ladder 1 purchased in 1948 which was stored in the West Side Station along with the old hand Black Horse No. 2 hose reel. Also a new Ford Rescue truck was received in 1974 to replace the old Rescue truck purchased in 1954.

Robert W. McElhinney was appointed Chief in 1975 to replace Chief Amico who retired after 40 years of service.

The new Master Box and Auxiliary Fire Alarm System was connected to the Municipal System in 1977. Also, the Police Ambulance was transferred to the Central Fire Station to be in charge of the Fire Department. A Hurst Tool called the "Jaws of Life" was donated to the department by the Kiwanis Club. It is a valuable tool in rescuing trapped persons in automobile accidents.

The department now consists of a Chief, five Captains, seven Lieutenants, 40 firefighters and 10 call men. It has answered approximately 1600 still, box, and mutual alarms this year compared to 325 alarms 50 years ago. Also the department now consists of four Mack Pumps, two ladder trucks, one rescue truck, one chief's car, one fire prevention car, one fire alarm truck, one life boat with trailer, and one ambulance.

The department has grown to become a highly trained and efficient organization as well as being one of the best equipped town fire departments in this area.

A word should be mentioned about the Auxiliary Fire Department which was formed in 1942 during World War II and directed by Chief T. Parker Clark. It now consists of Deputy Chief John W. Baldwin, two captains, two lieutenants, and 19 firefighters. The Auxiliary is located on Alben street in the old Water Department pumping station and maintains a pumper and a Lighting Unit. It has given approximately 6000 man hours of volunteer service to the town and is an asset to both the town and the regular Fire Department.

Washington Students Hear Library Speaker

Washington School first and second graders recently heard Phyllis B. Twitchell from the Winchester Public Library speak on several folk tales and poems in honor of Book Week.

Twitchell, who is known by many of the children who have attended her story hours at the library, distributed book lists and book marks to each child. She has assisted many in their reading choices when they have visited the Children's Library.

MAVIS

Spend a winter vacation visiting the Alps. The land of Heidi and William Tell is as enchanting and refreshing a place as you will find on earth. The Alps are not only the answer for the person who wants to get away to a quiet, unhurried atmosphere. The air is clean; the mountains are spectacular. Cable cars will take you to the peaks and pretty chalets and villages look like something too story-book perfect to be real.

It's fun to plan a vacation. McGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE can help you arrange a perfect trip. Our experienced staff will answer your question about transportation, accommodations, rates, passport, immunizations and more. So if the Alps is your destination, McGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE will help you arrive there with all the details planned. Call us at 935-0600 or stop in at 14 Eaton Ave., Woburn. We're here to serve you Mon.-Fri. 9-5; Saturdays and evenings by appointment.

In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

INSULATION

(Blown in or Batts)

Ceiling insulation can save up to 38% on your heating bill year after year.

Ceiling is a superior loose fill cellulose insulation which is blown into walls, floors and ceilings. Only Cellulose offers all these advantages. Safe and reliable. Cellulose is non-toxic, non-irritating to the touch, flame retardant and non-conductive. It meets or exceeds federal specification HH-1-515C, Type 1, Class 25, and carries an Underwriters Laboratories labeling. Natural product. Cellulose consists of short cellulose wood fibers made of selected newsprint which has been processed and chemically treated. Total coverage. Unlike many insulations, Cellulose fills every possible space, giving you even complete coverage. Higher R-value. Cellulose has a greater R-value resistance to heat flow — the measure for insulation per inch than most insulations. Non-corrosive and moisture resistant. There's no rotting of wood in walls and ceilings. Other advantages. Cellulose is vermin-resistant, reduces noise levels and is long-lasting.

Jeanine Smalley

Chesterford road resident Jeanine B. (Beranger) Smalley died unexpectedly at her home Dec. 3. She was 55.

Born in Boston, Mrs. Smalley lived in Winchester for 15 years. She graduated from Winchester High School in 1941 and from Westbrook Jr. College in 1943.

For 25 years Mrs. Smalley was a secretary for the Boston Herald American. She had also been employed by the Orleans Star in Orleans for 10 years.

Mrs. Smalley was the wife of Walter S. Smalley. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Marion (Echorn) Beranger of Winchester; one brother, Robert J. Beranger of Rochester, N.H., formerly of Winchester; five nephews and one niece.

A funeral mass was celebrated Dec. 6 by Rev. James Mawn at St. Mary's Church. Burial was at Milton Cemetery in Milton. Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the charity of one's choice.

Lucy Elliott

Longtime Stevens street resident Lucy (Heath) Elliott, 83, died Dec. 6 at her granddaughter's home in Machias, Maine.

Mrs. Elliott was the wife of the late Dwight D. Elliott. She is survived by a son, Richard of Monson; a daughter, Mrs. O.V. Neidigk of Hobbs, N.M.; a sister, Mrs. Clara H. Marsh, with whom she shared her home; nine grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

The Star welcomes letters to the editor of interest to the citizens of Winchester, written by Winchester residents or former Winchester residents. Letters should be typed, double-spaced, and no longer than 250 words. They must also be signed and accompanied by the author's printed name, address and phone number in order that we may verify letters. Names and addresses will be withheld on request.

Methodist Church

Christmas Parties

The children and teachers at Methodist Nursery School are preparing for a week of Christmas parties and visits to Santa. For parties the children are helping with snacks and decorations. They are also rehearsing for a Christmas program to be presented to parents on party days.

Morning parents are invited on Dec. 18th and 19th at 10:30; afternoon parents are invited on Dec. 20th at 1:30.

The children anticipate their visit to Santa at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm. With the help of their teachers they are composing group letters to Santa and making individual picture cards with name of special toy wished for at Christmas.

Morning drivers are to meet at Mahoney's on the 20th and 21st at 9:15; afternoon drivers will meet at 12:30 on the 21st.

Family Film Program At Library

The Winchester Public Library's family film program this week features "Little Drummer Boy," "Curious George Rides a Bike," and "Caps for Sale."

On Sunday the program will be held in the story hour room of the Junior Library at 2:30 p.m. There will be a Tuesday afternoon film program for school age children at 3:30.

It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children to the Sunday showing.

DAR Committee Meeting Monday

The next meeting of the Committee of Safety Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held Monday at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Maxwell McCreery, 4 Curtis st.

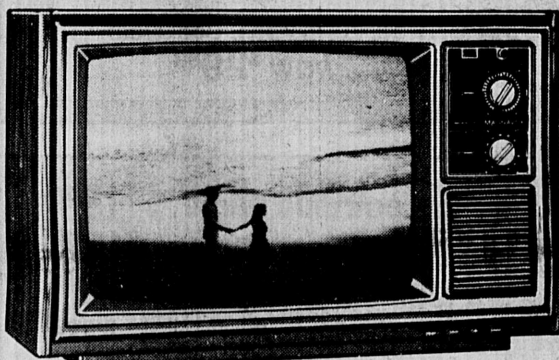

Dessert and coffee will be served. The historical program to follow is about Christmas music and is entitled "Christmas Weaves Its Spell."

Deadline

The Winchester Star offices will be closed Dec. 25 and Jan. 1. The deadline for advertising and submitting news releases for each of those week's issues will be Jan. 21 and Jan. 28 at 4:30 p.m.

Question And Answer: U.S. Involvement In Iran

By LAURA WALKER

The Winchester Star this week conducted a series of informal "man on the street" interviews to determine what local views are of the way the United States is handling the Iranian hostage situation.

Maggie Russell: "I think the government seems to be doing what it can. It's a very tense situation and it's important not to 'shoot from the hip.' I am not pleased with the situation but I don't have any solutions myself."

Andrew Amato: "Carter is handling it as well as he can, there seems to be no other way of dealing with these pirates and bandits. I suppose the US has learned pretty well what the consequences could be of invading a foreign country."

Karl Robert Kuntz, visiting Winchester from Germany: "I think that you are at the point that something has to happen. It could be war."

David Trainer, Peabody resident: "I do believe we'll have to set a time limit sooner or later. I think that Carter's doing good, but the longer they stay there, the more trouble they'll be in."

Bill Cooper, Arlington resident: "I don't know. It seems that their hands are tied. The only alternative is military, nothing else seems to be working. They should try a blockade first."

Barbara Leonardi: "At first I thought it was the right way but it doesn't seem to be producing any results. I can't think of a better way; it seems to be the logical and correct way of doing it, but it doesn't seem to be producing any results."

Ollie Campbell: "Carter's got a good good, basic approach by keeping things clearheaded and level, and not making a big rah rah issue out of it. His approach to international court is excellent, there is no way that other countries can do anything but agree with us. The situation has got Americans off the tremendous guilt syndrome we've felt since the Vietnam War and that was dramatically needed. Of course it hasn't hurt Carter any politically and it has put dear old Ted Kennedy at the bottom of the list. It's pointed out some of his faults."

Phoebe Knopf: "I have faith in Carter. I'm glad that he is being calm and not using any violent means."

Mary Battie, Winthrop resident: "He's probably doing his best under the circumstances, hopefully he'll do better soon."

Name withheld on request: "I don't really think that Carter is doing anything else than what he can do, he's got his hands tied. He can't do much more than go in and start bombing."

Michael Alcione: "I think Carter is handling it good. He's staying calm and not making any quick moves, that is good."

Carolyn Curry: "I think we should go over there and get them (our hostages) back and take some of them as hostages."

William Solari, Arlington resident: "They are not releasing much press about the situation but I assume they are doing a lot more than they are letting out. My gut feeling is that they are not doing enough. I'd like to go in there and get them out but that's not civilized or logical. On the surface it doesn't seem like they are doing beans."

Group Studies Kindergarten Program

(Editor's note: the following is a report compiled by a group of residents interested in having the kindergarten program extended to three hours daily.)

Growing numbers of Winchester families have a serious complaint about Kindergarten - not enough of it. They have this goal: to provide each child three hours of Kindergarten (K) on each school day throughout the school year. The feasible way to do this is to provide morning K sessions.

When the K schedule situation was being studied in early 1978, Supt. of Schools William MacDonald said: "I believe that there was general agreement that we could not add additional staff for the coming year and we all agreed that our ultimate goal is to eventually schedule all Kindergarten sessions for a minimum of three hours, with the elimination of total afternoon sessions. However, this cannot happen in September, 1978." (Memo to School Committee date Feb. 23, 1978.)

Now is the time to make good on that commitment.

Advantages Of Morning Kindergarten

Morning K makes sense from many points of view. For the Kindergarteners, the morning sessions assure them of three hours every school day - which they are not now getting. They are fresh in the morning - ready and eager for social experience and stimulation. Some still require a rest in the afternoon which afternoon K interrupts.

Many morning Kindergarteners are delighted to be able to walk to school with older brothers and sisters - an important learning experience in itself. Because there can be a K session every school day, the children who attend mornings all year have a consistency and routine congruent with older siblings' school schedule that tends to foster their development. In contrast is the present mid-year switch with frequent no-school days which tends to be disorienting for youngsters.

With morning K all year, children have sufficient time to overcome hesitations and to become engaged in the classroom experience - with the teacher, each other, and their projects. Helpful preparation for their being away at school for six hours a day in first grade would be a K session half as long.

And most importantly, with all-year morning K children are more likely to develop a liking for school - which can positively impact all of their subsequent schooling. A Winchester parent and Kindergarten teacher of ten years confirms that "morning is the optimum time for learning and teaching."

Morning K has advantages for the teacher, too. Being rested and full of energy, the teacher can do her best and enjoy work. An all-morning schedule gives the teacher the time needed to implement Winchester's recently improved and expanded K curriculum. And for each individual teaching morning K, new and interesting possibilities are opened for the use of the freed-up afternoon.

The Skippy Status Quo

Though many townspeople do not realize it, Winchester's present system provides 103 hours less or the equivalent of 33 sessions less K per year for a child than could be provided for the same amount of tax money if only morning K was provided.

Under the current system, Kindergarten's attend mornings for half of the year, afternoons for the other half. The mornings are two and three quarter hours long - from 8:45 to 11:30 a.m. The afternoons are only two and one-half hours long - from 12:15 to 2:45. And on 25 school days there is no afternoon Kindergarten at all.

This K schedule is especially bad for the children assigned to attend mornings first semester and afternoons second semester. Although they look forward to at least as much K as was provided in the first half, the children get one-third less.

This undesirable situation is all the more serious in light of the fact that most Winchester children participate in some sort of playgroup or nursery school for a year or two prior to K. Many of these preschool programs last for three hours or more. At one, the Children's Own School, pre-Kindergarteners have a basic three-hour morning nursery session and then continue in a playgroup situation for several more hours if the parents wish. (Children's Own Kindergarten is from 8:45 to 2:30 daily.)

A less-than-three-hour Kindergarten schedule is quite a come down for experienced children so primed for the stimulation K should provide.

Growing Concern, Attempted Solution

Parent sentiment to improve the K schedule has been building in recent years. Prior to the beginning of the 1978-79 school year, a joint effort was made by a few interested parents, a School Committee representative, with the Supt. of Schools. They tried to find a way to lengthen the afternoon K, while staying within the 8:45 a.m. - 2:45 p.m. school day and crossing guard schedules at midday.

In theory two three-hour sessions are possible: morning from 8:45 to 11:45, afternoons from 11:45 to 2:45. However, a full time primary teacher has student contact for only five or five and one-quarter hours a day. Thus, under the present contract and school schedule, it is impossible for one K teacher to conduct three-hour sessions both morning and afternoon. Furthermore, afternoon K's have no school at all on 25 release days a year.

The failed attempt in 1978-79 convinced the group of concerned parents that the solution is: morning Kindergarten all school year for all children.

First Decision: On Education Grounds

The first task before the Winchester School Committee is to decide this issue on its educational merits. Does the School Committee believe, as Supt. MacDonald wrote in Feb., 1978, that three hours of K on each school day should become the offering?

Precedents Have Been Set

At least four other communities in the Boston area with excellent records and reputations now provide three-hour morning K all year long for all children: Wellesley, Weston, Brookline & Concord.

Even more germane, Winchester has a successful example in its own community. The Ambrose School has provided morning K all year long for the past several years. And for the first time this 1979-80 year, the children of Noonan School will have the morning-all-year-long arrangement as well. Schools that switch at mid-year provide 103 fewer hours, the equivalent of six school weeks less K than would be possible with only morning K for 3 hours.

Parents all around town are speaking out: Children need and are entitled to the 3 hours of K each school day from September to June. That is the educational foundation that Winchester ought to provide if it intends to offer its children something more than mediocre education.

Listen And Speak Out

This issue is on the School Committee agenda and is likely to come to a crescendo Dec. 17. At this time the School Committee will be asked to reconfirm its commitment on educational grounds to the concept of morning K for all, all school year. And the School Committee shall be asked to work now to develop and implement action plans to make the concept reality for the school 1980-81.

Standard mechanisms and legal means do exist to accomplish this. By proceeding now and systematically managing the processes of alternative testing and selection, planning and arranging, budgeting, notifying, and negotiating, Winchester will have adequate K in time for the next school year.

St. Mary's Plans Family Mass For December 16

St. Mary's religious education will have a special family mass in preparation for Christmas Dec. 16, at 10:15 a.m. in St. Mary's lower church. Rev. Robert Fay will be the celebrant.

Children will bring gifts to be distributed to Mail for Tots during the offertory procession and will sing "Happy Birthday, Jesus" while they progress. The candles of a large birthday cake will be lighted; children representing each grade level will do the readings and singing.

The purpose of the program is to promote greater participation in liturgy, make the children more aware of the needs of others less fortunate, to counteract the commercialism of the Christmas season and get families to worship together.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1949 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

Scholarship Foundation Gives $39,550 In 1979 Grants

The Winchester Scholarship Foundation granted a total of $39,550 in funds to 88 students in 1979, according to Terry Seferian, chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Foundation.

Seferian, speaking at the Foundation's annual meeting last week at the Winchester Library, presented a report on behalf of outgoing chairman Marion Crandall, who was unable to attend the meeting.

From the report, Seferian told the Foundation members that one of the major concerns of the Scholarship Committee is that a number of colleges are beginning to take back some of the grant monies they provide for students, when they realize the students can get funds from outside groups.

"Some let the student keep the total scholarship amount, some let the student keep the first $200-$300 or more before reducing their own scholarship award, some schools reduce their own scholarship first dollar for dollar, others reduce the work-loan scholarship first," the report stated.

In the spring the Scholarship Committee begin to investigate how much this trend was growing. The 1980 committee is expected to carry on this investigation by asking the students who apply for funds, to provide for them a copy of the college financial aid policy.

The Foundation members also discussed possible new fundraising methods. "You've got to put in the personal approach," said Harris Richardson, chairman of the Trustees. "They (residents) don't respond very well when you just put a piece in the paper," Richardson went on to state that "if we're going to keep up with inflation, we've got to find a way to do a better job of putting the 'B' on people to come up with money."

Robert Baron, chairman of the Finance Committee, said that the Foundation should find ways of keeping their organization more visible in Winchester. "Our biggest goal is to try and get the scholarship foundation in the minds of people more often," Baron pointed out.

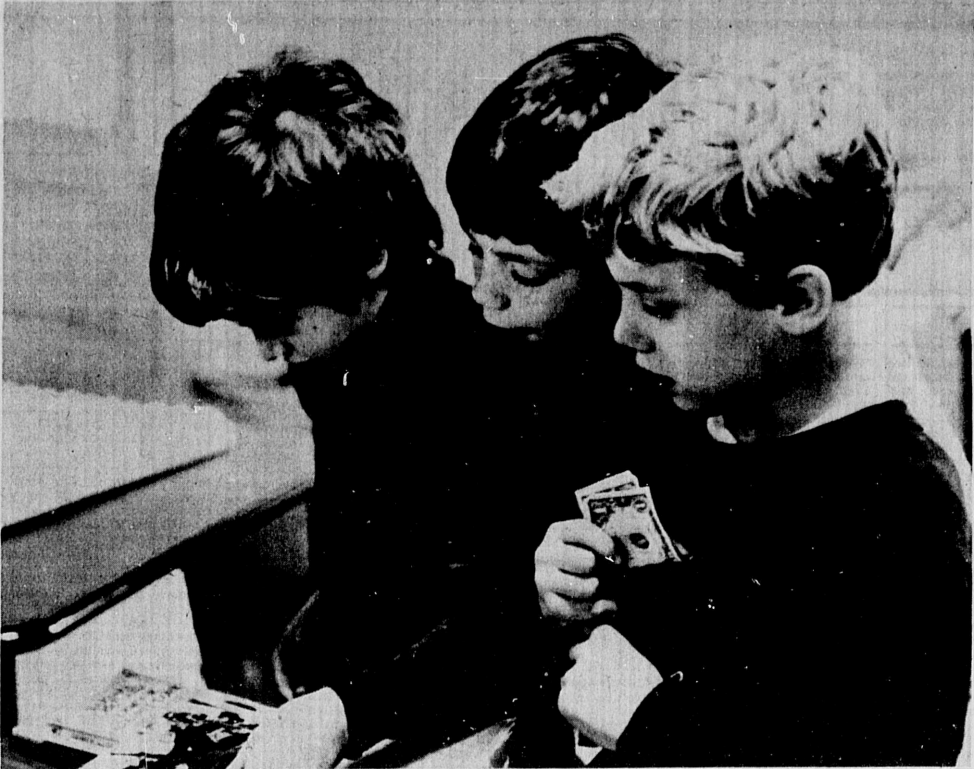

On the possibility of having a bi-annual rather than merely an annual fundraiser, Baron stated that "I don't think that's a feasible thing. After you've done it once, I don't think you're too welcome again."

"We have an obligation to raise as much money as we can for these students in need," said new Foundation chairman, Paul Amico.

"I wish we could give away $50,000 instead of just $30,000 this year," added Robert Ingraham, the newly installed treasurer of the Foundation.

Among the other officers elected for the 1980 year are: Elaine Delaney, vice-chairman; Susan Johnson, secretary.

After the funds that were given out in 1979, the Foundation has now given out in scholarships over $500,000.

WHS Class Plans Fifth Year Reunion

The Winchester High School Class of 1974 is planning a holiday reunion on Dec. 22.

Class officers have organized a buffet dinner which will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall at 7 p.m. There will be music and dancing and the opportunity for class members and their guests to exchange news five years after graduation.

Class members who have not received invitations are urged to contact Sara McGovern, Janice Triglione or Lisa Pilagoria McGoldrick.

In 1780 Winchester had to provide 24,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 42 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

REAL ESTATE by Ann Blackham

THE TRUE MIDDLEMAN

When a REALTOR executes the purchase and sale of real estate he customarily receives his entire remuneration in the form of a commission on the transaction. For the most part, though, the REALTOR is the true middleman. He is legally entitled to receive his commission, under the laws of most states, from either the seller or buyer, but in practice he represents the seller and receives his commission out of the price that is paid to the seller.

The interest of the buyer as well as the seller because of his status as the licensed professional who executes the sale. Also, as a matter of practicality, the agent also wants both buyer and seller as future clients or as satisfied customers who will recommend him to their friends.

In all your real estate needs — buying — selling — rentals — appraisals — consultation — please phone or drop in at

This does not mean that the REALTOR, as seller's agent, is not in a position to protect the interests of the buyer. Indeed, under the law and codes of ethics, the REALTOR must protect

Employment

AS&E

Our Offer:

You will work in a true high technology environment with ranking senior specialists. Our work covers a spectrum of long range commercial and government contract commitments, including our highly successful ASEP® Electric Utility Load Management Systems, MICRO-DOSE® X-Ray Systems for medical and security applications and Aerospace Research.

ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS Aerospace

You will join a highly competent team of engineering professionals involved with the conception, design and development of state-of-the-art electronic systems for our sensitive and innovative space instrumentation in the field of astronomy. Experience should include a BSEE and at least 4 years of digital circuit design, with a knowledge of microprocessors and NASA specifications preferred.

E/M LAYOUT DESIGNERS/DRAFTERS

New contracts have created several immediate openings for experienced Designers/Drafters to assist in the design, development and documentation of Medical, Security, Public Utilities and Aerospace Instrumentation.

PROGRAM MANAGER

Continued expansion of our ASEP® Utility Load Management Program requires a capable engineer able to oversee and control the operations of several new and on-going installations.

RELIABILITY ENGINEERS

New openings at all levels in our expanding ASEP® electrical power management program for failure analysis of circuits, components and materials, as well as generation of standards and interface with Design Engineering. A BS in Applied Science or Engineering and experience in commercial systems is preferred.

SOFTWARE DESIGNERS

In our expanding Space Physics Research Projects we have openings at all levels for individuals experienced in minicomputer or microprocessor systems. Projects range from real time operating systems to database management and test/data analysis. Qualifications should include a minimum of 3 years' experience in Fortran and Assembly languages.

SENIOR MECHANICAL ENGINEER Aerospace

You will conceive, design and develop state-of-the-art opto-mechanical devices and structures for space research projects involved with astronomy. Qualifications should include a BS or MSME and a minimum of 6 years' experience in mechanical design with some structural and thermal analysis desirable.

BASF is the solution

- If family scheduling problems prevent you from working during the morning hours....
- If you dislike rush-hour crowds and traffic....
- If you find that a morning working schedule robs you of prime day-time hours ideal to conduct personal business....
- If you are a student looking for work hours that won't conflict with your classes....
- If the idea of a 10% addition to your regular salary appeals to you....

then you should look into the BASF alternative.

BASF Systems is a fast-growing manufacturer of magnetic media and as a result of expansion, there are a number of opportunities available on the second shift.

With the convenience of a 3-11 PM work schedule in a dynamic yet relaxed environment, our second shift is the solution and alternative to the above situations. In addition to excellent starting salaries, our second shift provides an additional 10% as shift premium.

We seek willing, enthusiastic applicants to perform a variety of manufacturing functions such as machine operating, disk and tape processing, and packing. Our jobs require manual dexterity and are set-up in an open atmosphere free from eye-straining devices and procedures.

Our benefits are among the best offering company paid medical, dental, life, accident and short-term disability insurance and a lot more.

Start Now, Or After The First Of The Year, Whichever Is Better For You.

Come talk with us about a fresh start for the decade ahead. There's never been a better time — and there's never been a better place for you than Dennison Kybe. Your work will consist of both short-run production that allows you to see the results of your work, and experimental work with our engineers and technicians that allows you to feel the excitement of something completely new. We plan to install NC machinery in 1980, so there's another way for you to learn and grow.

If pride is a big part of how you work, if solid, long-range security could make everything else better for you, the right move is Dennison Kybe. And the time to talk with us is right now.

Call Dave White at 899-0012 to arrange an interview, or apply in person.

Infant Saviour Plans Party For Tuesday

Members of the Winchester Chapter of the Guild of the Infant Saviour will meet Tuesday, at 1 p.m. at the Gifford Hall, Crawford Memorial Church, for their annual Christmas Party and president's reception for new members.
Mrs. Frederick Connor, president, will welcome the following five members into the Guild: Mrs. Kenneth Carnes, Mrs. John Fahey, Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, Mrs. George S. Tattan, and Mrs. Michael Tierney.
A program of entertainment will start at 2 p.m. followed by the exchange of Christmas gifts. Mrs. Charles McLaughlin and Miss Alice O'Leary are co-chairmen, assisted by the following committee: Mrs. Walter Crotty, Mrs. Edward Connors, Mrs. Patrick Curley, Mrs. Lionel Curtin, Mrs. Newell Hare, Mrs. John Flaherty, Mrs. Edward James, Miss Adelaide McGovern, Miss Mary McLaughlin, Miss Esther Lydon, Mrs. Matthew Noonan, Mrs. C. Philip O'Rourke, Miss Mary O'Connor, Miss Mary Power, Mrs. Henry Valcourt, Mrs. Martin Titiliah, and Miss Mary Walker.
The affair will be brought to a close with a festive collation served by the hostesses.

Chamber Of Commerce Celebrates Anniversary

Over 100 business people, local and state representatives and other community spirited people turned out at the Winchester Country Club recently to celebrate the Winchester Chamber of Commerce's first anniversary.
In his comments to the group Robert B. Nickerson, president, highlighted the chamber's activities and accomplishments in its first year and expressed his enthusiasm and optimism for 1980. Some of the chamber's major accomplishments he cited were:
- A comprehensive low-cost health insurance plan was established for local businesses; the Winchester Chamber was the first chamber in the state to sponsor the program;
- One hundred seventy-seven business firms joined the Chamber, representing approximately 30 percent of the town's businesses, including five Key Charter memberships and one Charter membership;
- A budget of over $25,000 was generated which was $5000 higher than original projections;
- Strong ties with local government and the community were established, including the creation of an ex-officio board of director's position currently being filled by the Town Manager;
- A shopping and entertainment festival entitled "Discover Winchester Day" was sponsored and attended by over 5000 people;
- The Chamber publicly supported the development of a restaurant with a liquor license, granted to Randall's Restaurant, and the Chamber also publicly supported increased housing for the elderly in Winchester.

Nickerson thanked all chamber members for their support throughout the year and gave special recognition to the five people who had served on the steering committee which created the chamber one year earlier.
That committee included: Ted Allen (Allen Real Estate); Bill Caci (Winchester Realty Company); Charles Fiske (Fitzgerald Fuel); Anne Rebello (AR Decorating Center); Ruann Warford (Beehive of Knots).
Barbara Crowell, executive vice-president, outlined some of the chamber's planned programs for 1980 including the establishment of a membership goal of 300.

Red Cross Blood Pressure Clinic Saturday

The Red Cross Monthly Blood Pressure Clinic will be held this Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Winchester Chapter House on Church Street.
"This is the last blood pressure clinic to be held in 1979," said Walter Armstrong, Winchester chapter chairman. "Over 200 Winchester men and women this year have taken advantage of this opportunity to check on their blood pressures—some monthly, some every few months. Many physicians recommend that their patients use this free service. We are glad that the chapter can provide this service and we publicly thank all those who work in the clinic."
The volunteer R.N.'s who will be taking the blood pressure readings this week are Nan Landers and Norma Foti. The other members of the staff will be Lou Maroney, Grace Mahoney, Gertrude McPeake and Molly Davis.

Consumer Affairs Office Has Inflation Fighting Guides

The Executive Office of Consumer Affairs has published three guides to aid Massachusetts residents in coping with inflation.

In making the announcement, Consumer Affairs Secretary Eileen Schell said, "Better money management is essential in every household because of continually rising prices. The Consumer's Savings Guide, Consumer's Budget Guide, and the Consumer's Credit Guide are filled with guidelines for handling money better and tips on how to make more informed purchases. They are available at no cost."

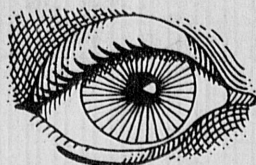

The Consumer's Savings Guide shows how to save money. There are hundreds of savings tips for such items as food, energy, car operation, clothing purchases and telephone service.

The Consumer's Budget Guide is a mini text on financial planning. It shows how an individual or family can set up a budget and then exercise budget control.

The Consumer's Debt and Credit Guide shows how to establish credit. It notes warnings signs associated with debt and outlines how to keep a debt inventory in order to better evaluate the use of credit.

The guides are available without charge by writing Consumer Guides, Executive Office of Consumer Affairs, One Ashburton Place, Boston, 02108.

Robbery Of St. Mary's Could Be Part Of Ring

In what police believe may be an organized ring of burglaries, St. Mary's Rectory was illegally entered early Monday morning, with intruders ransacking the building and escaping with an eight piece silver service valued at $1800. In the past couple of weeks, according to police reports, parishes in Lexington, Fitchburg and Leominster have also been robbed.

In other police news, a number of illegal entries were reported in the past week. A Ledgewood road home was reported robbed on Sunday, with intruders making off with two color television sets. In a couple of burglaries that appeared to have been done by the same individuals, police reported homes on Prince avenue and Highland Avenue illegally entered on Monday. At the Prince avenue home, entry was gained by prying the rear door open, according to the police report. The entire house was ransacked but it is unknown what is missing.

At the Highland avenue house, police found marks on the rear door similar to those on the Prince avenue home. An inside bolt prevented the door from opening however, and entry was gained through a window according to the police. The home was entirely ransacked, but the owner is unsure what was taken. Two homes were reported robbed last week, one on Forest street, where police report that intruders stole a gold watch, and a 3-M copy machine valued at $100. On Wolcott terrace, a $600 stereo system and an assortment of jewelry, valued at $200-$300 were taken.

On Saturday a Wildwood terrace home was ransacked with looters escaping with an oriental rug, a stereo system and $30 in cash as well as a bicentennial coin set. Finally, a Sheridan circle home was robbed last week, as intruders made off with a gold bracelet, a silver necklace, a gold necklace, two gold chains, a pair of gold cufflinks and a watch worth a total of approximately $840. Forty dollars in quarters was also stolen.

A farmington, N.H. youth was arrested and cited for speeding and reckless driving after he had struck a hydrant and then a fence on Charles road.

According to the police report, the youth had apparently had an argument with his girlfriend and as he drove off in anger he failed to negotiate a curve and struck the hydrant. The driver then circled the block two more times, upsetting neighbors, before crashing into the fence to avoid two youths in the road.

Following the crash into the fence, the youth fled the scene, according to the police report, because he feared that the neighbors were angry enough to attempt to injure him. Police later apprehended him.

Hollis Feels Sachemettes Could Improve On Last Year

When you lose two all-star players from your club, one the highest scorer in the school's history and the other the ideal floor leader, you've got some holes to fill. But Winchester Sachemette coach Barbara Hollis thinks this year's girls' basketball team could be better than last year.

"I think we'll probably have better all around scoring," said Hollis recently. "I also think defensively we'll be a little better than last year."

Gone from last year's club are co-captains Linda Pierce, the high scoring all-scholastic center and Kelley Gately, a Middlesex League all-star and the team's leader. "We've got to replace Linda and that's a tough job because we could count on her for her points," Hollis points out. "Kelly was our gal who could settle our kids down on the court."

Hollis will be looking to forwards Lorrie Redmond and Barbara Jacobs, as well as centers Gail Oram and Kathy Corkery, to pick the scoring gap that Pierce left.

In the guard spots, the Sachemettes are well skilled with Kathy Day, Kathy Heffernan, Ann Porell and Jean Powers. "Kathy Day is going to be our playmaker," Hollis points out.

The Sachemettes, with eight players returning from last year's club, which lost in the opening round of the state tournament to top seeded Acton-Boxboro 41-40, will be counting on their experience this season. "I think that it came through in our scrimmage with Tewksbury the other day," Hollis points out. "The game went into overtime and then we just blew them out. That strictly was from the experience of a lot of close games last year."

Joanne Maloney and Chris Driscoll will give the Sachemettes versatility in that they can play both forward and guard. Driscoll is a question mark at this point however, as she's still recovering from knee surgery as a result of an injury she sustained during the soccer season. "I'm really not looking for her until the middle of January," Hollis comments.

Oram and Corkery will probably split time at center, the team's other question mark. In Jacobs and Day the Sachemettes have two players with three years of starting behind them.

Hollis sees Burlington and Lexington as being strong competitors in the league, with Watertown an outside threat. The Sachemettes will be right up there for the league crown. "I think this group has the capability of doing it," agrees Hollis.

The Sachemettes, who open their season on Tuesday, will find out early how they match up against the iron of the league as they travel to Burlington on the following Friday.

Bellino Named All-Scholastic ML All-Star

Winchester High lineman Len Bellino, a senior tri-captain on this year's 8-2 Sachem squad, has been named to the 1979 Boston Globe All-Scholastic football team, while three of his teammates were chosen for the Middlesex League all-star club.

Bellino, who made the all-scholastic team as an offensive lineman, also made the ML all-star team as a middle guard. He was the anchor in the line for this year's outstanding Sachem club.

Sports Arena

Sachem tri-captain Len Bellino, here talking with coach Manny Marshall during their 7-0 victory over Natick this season, was recently named to the 1979 Boston Globe All-Scholastic football team. Bellino was a key player in this year's 8-2 Winchester club, leading the team in tackles while also playing on the offensive line. (Staff Photo)

Joining Bellino on the ML all-star team was Sachem end Steve Wolfe, who lead the team in pass receiving, fullback Jeff Micciche, another tri-captain and the man who picked up the tough yardage for Winchester and offensive guard Pete Tracey, another lineman who was outstanding on defense as well as offense.

With the signature of Gov. George N. Briggs, Winchester was incorporated into a separate community from its original status as South Woburn.

Gymnastic Team Plans Move Up In Standings

After finishing 1-8 and in second to last place in the Colonial League, it would appear that the Winchester High boys' varsity gymnastic team has practically no where to go but up. Should everything go as planned, that's exactly what Sachem coach Steve Hood expects.

"Even though we have less people, we will probably be a few degrees better than we were last season," Hood noted recently. "We should probably finish in fourth or fifth place."

Hood will be counting on captain Steve Galante, who competes on all six pieces of apparatus, to propel his Sachems upwards. "Steven is probably the best natural gymnast. He's competed for three years now and although he hasn't won any trophies in the league meets, he has done well in them," Hood points out.

Providing the support for Galante will be Paul Abbanat, a junior who is also an all-around gymnast and Rafael Acevedo, an ABC student with no previous experience before he came to Winchester. Acevedo, a senior, will be competing in the floor exercises.

"This year we just haven't had the turnout in sophomores," Hood commented. "That shouldn't be a problem for the for the Sachems this season, but as Hood admits, 'it'll really hurt us next year.'"

This season Hood is looking for big things from sophomore Jonas Bjarngard, who'll compete on the rings, parallel bars and vaulting. "Jonas worked out with the varsity as a freshman," Hood stated. "He's quite a bit more advanced for a sophomore. I look forward to him being on another piece of apparatus by the end of the year."

The rest of the team will also be expected to come through, as all of them will be competing on at least three pieces because of a new high school rule eliminating specialization.

Senior Lance Cowens, another ABC student involved in the program, will be competing on the sidehorse and the floor exercises. Junior Tommy Florillo will be in the floor exercise and the high bar, and classmate David Lawton will perform on the parallel bars and the still rings. Paul Fuller, another junior, will compete on the high bar and the floor exercises.

The Sachems begin their season Dec. 27 against Masconomet.

St. Eulalia's Basketball Clinic Dec. 16

A basketball clinic to open the St. Eulalia's Intramural Program for boys will be held Dec. 16 at 2 in the McCall Junior High gym.

As a result of the response, the program will be expanded over the eight-team league of prior years. A limited number of openings for boys between the ages of eight and 12 are still available. For further information call 729-1373 or 729-4963.

Navy Electronics Technician 3rd Class Patricia A. Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Harrington of 6 Bonad rd., recently graduated from Basic Electronics Technician School. The course was conducted at the Navy Service School Command, Great Lakes, Ill. Students received introductory instruction on electronic circuit concepts, radar principles and the basics of radio transmitters and receivers. In addition, they studied the procedures for repairing amplifiers, transmitters, receivers and power supply lines.

A 1977 graduate of Winchester High School, Harrington joined the Navy in July of 1978.

O'Connell In Reserves

Edward F. O'Connell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. O'Connell of 25 Arlington st., is participating in the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps (NROTC) program at the University of Rochester, N.Y.

College students are selected for the NROTC program on the basis of scores attained on national college aptitude tests, leadership potential and physical aptitude. They must be recommended for the program by school authorities and approved by a board of officers.

NROTC midshipmen study Naval Science subjects and perform military drills in addition to their college studies. At least one summer is spent training with the Navy or Marine Corps in exercises at sea or at shore installations. Those who complete four years of NROTC participation are commissioned as reserve officers in the Navy or Marine Corps upon graduation.

Middlesex Hockey Preview: Strength And Balance

The Middlesex League has been so easy to pick a winner in hockey these past few years. Just pencil in Burlington and then start watching everyone else.

Well times have changed and this season there'll be no strolls through the schedule for any ML club. "With perhaps the exception of the Catholic Conference, I'd call it the best league around," says Lexington coach George Mechem. "From top to bottom no game is easy."

Three teams have a legitimate shot at the crown, while two others, with a little luck and some breaks, might sneak in. Wakefield and Lexington have a whole host of skaters returning, as does Lexington. Stoneham lost the league's scoring leader but still has the talent and coaching to take it all.

Burlington lost just about everyone from last year's wagon, but still might have the two best goaltenders in the league. Woburn has a promising group of sophomores.

And the story goes on with Melrose, having lost the state's top scoring line, facing a rebuilding year as is Reading. Winchester, Belmont and Watertown will all be ready to knock off anyone on top. A general consensus of how the teams could finish, with a flip-flop here and there, is as follows:

Lexington

No flash, no fancy footwork, no slight of hand, the Minutemen think defense all the time and let the goals take care of themselves. They don't have the big guns, but they still go home smiling.

"Our strength in the last two seasons has been our goals against average," says coach George Mechem. "We work very hard in our own end. The key to winning is in your own end."

Unfortunately for Mechem, it's in his own end where graduation has hurt the most. Gone from last year's 13-3-2 club are all-scholastic defenseman Mark Leach and all-league defenseman Doug Shaw. "They were two outstanding defensemen," says their former coach.

But what is returning should keep the Minutemen in their winning ways. Five players from the first two lines are back including juniors John Coughlin and Mike Sadeghpour and seniors Chuck DeFrancisco, Glenn Nazarian and Joe DiGrazia. They'll be joined this season by senior Steve Ayvazian.

On defense Lexington is still strong. Seniors Tim Hinkle and David Savage return after fine seasons as juniors. Andy Young, a senior who saw only a bit of action last year, will be the third defenseman.

Returning in goal will be senior Paul Bates. "He's a fine goalie," says Mechem. "But we talk as a team, not individuals."

"We forecheck viciously to try to break up any three-on-two breaks," Mechem notes. "The key to how successful we're going to be is the goals against column. We cannot get in any shootouts."

Despite returning most of the team that made it to the semifinals of the Eastern Mass. tournament last season, the Minutemen do have some problems. "We're a little weak at the center position. We have some good forwards, but I'm still a little concerned with our transition game."

So the season looks promising. If the Minutemen continue to execute their "defensive system," they could win the league yet be one of the lower scoring clubs.

Wakefield

Should Lexington get a little sloppy, and that's all it will take, the Warriors are more than ready to step in and claim the crown. Coach Charlie Driscoll's boys feel this is their year.

Driscoll, a veteran who's coached winners before at Malden Catholic in the early 70's, isn't one to dwell on his team's strength, preferring to let his opponents find out for themselves. But he knows his boys can play.

"Our biggest strength is our experience of course," says Driscoll, "especially in the forwards."

Indeed Wakefield's three lines will be its strong point with seven of the nine forwards returning from last year. Included in that crew will be junior center Tom Evangelista, who missed most of the second half of last year with an injury. At the time he was disabled, the splendid sophomore was leading his team in scoring.

Although Driscoll has yet to decide on his lines, veterans Richie Stevens, Bobby Mazzone and Mark Roberto will add to the size and firepower up front. "We're awfully big," Driscoll admits. "It's probably the biggest high school team I've coached."

Even if the Warrior's overall defensive play becomes a problem, it certainly won't cause Driscoll to lose any sleep. In returning all-star Jimmy Chisolm Wakefield has one of the finer players in the Middlesex League. He'll be paired with senior Tommy Melanson, another fine defenseman.

The goaltender is Wakefield's only noticeable flaw. "We need better consistency in the goal," Driscoll points out. Presently there are two candidates for the position with senior Mike Gallugi and junior John Merry fighting for the starting nod. Gallugi recently injured his knee and could be slowed down for awhile.

"We've been fighting to get up to respectability," Driscoll notes. "Now we need consistency and we have to get hungry."

With the club they have this year, the Warriors may find themselves with much more than just respect.

Stoneham

In Stoneham, they're looking forward to this season with "great anticipation," according to first year coach Dick Burnham. This, despite losing the league's leading scorer last year, Billy McDonough, to graduation.

"That will be our biggest problem," Burnham agrees, "whether or not we can compensate with him gone." Filling the gap for the high scoring McDonough will be waves of junior and sophomores that the Spartans are very high on. "We have a pretty good class of juniors and a real good class of sophomores," Burnham points out.

The Spartans' first line, all underclassmen, is an indication of the confidence Burnham has in the kids. Junior Scott Boretti, an outstanding forward is being moved from right wing to center this season between junior Tony Marfeo and sophomore Richie Santoro. "They move the puck pretty well," their coach comments. "We're kind of hoping they'll take up some of the slack that McDonough leaves with us."

The second line is made up of three seniors, Steve Burke, Tom Howe and Paul Schecia, while the third row will have Jack Flonda, up from the junior varsity team of last year and sophomores Bill Connell and John Romano. "We're kind of hoping the sophomores will fit in," Burnham adds.

The strength of the club clearly lies in its defense, as all of the defensemen return from last year's team. Junior Bobby Weizorek, one of the better defensemen in the league, joins three seniors, Mark Nazarian, Brian Girouard and Frank Simonetti. The swing man on the Spartan club will be Tom Duff who can play forward or defense. "We'll use him on defense and up front to kill penalties," says Burnham.

In goal the Spartans are deep with Matignon transfer Bill Crosby and John Errico. Their third goaltender is Lisa Whitcomb, a senior who played on the Stoneham girls' team that won the national championship a couple of years ago. "She's really only a step behind the top two," Burnham says of the Middlesex League's only female.

Burnham is also deep in the coaching staff, a thought that comforts him in this tough division. Former New England goalie Bill Bergland has been working with the goalies, while former Harvard freshman coach Bob Carr has been tutoring the defensemen.

"We're probably a step below the top two," Burnham admits. "We'll be fairly good sized on defense and a little small up front. Our weakness will be that the coach is new to the league."

The Spartans, though probably a year away, are bound to make some noise this season. But with a few breaks, they just might slide in.

Burlington

Gone is Matt Shramek, gone is Jack Fahey, gone is Chuckie Robinson, gone is Bobby Harris. Graduation has arrived in Burlington.

The team that has ruled Middlesex League hockey for the past few years is going to have some problems finishing number one again with all of the above all-stars having moved along. But coach Ed Cahoon is optimistic.

"We've got some good kids. They don't look too bad," says Cahoon. "I don't think we're too bad off."

When you have what many thought was the best goaltender in the league returning, junior Wayne Collins, backed up by another outstanding goalie you're on the right in Dana DeMoule, track. "Goaltending is 50 percent of the game," the Red Devil coach points out. "They've both looked real sharp."

Who will start the season is still up in the air as Cahoon usually leaves those things for the last minute. Collins had an outstanding cast in front of him last year, but at 6-2 with catlike reflexes, he rarely is beaten on first or even second shots. DeMoule started last year but was replaced after the fourth game when Stoneham scored five goals in a row off of him. "From that point, confidence or lack of it, was a factor as he tried to get back into the lineup."

The goal should be a real strong point," Cahoon figures. "If we can put it in the net we shouldn't be too bad off."

Collins joins forward Joey Sampson and defenseman Kevin Dunn as returning all-stars, three of seven the Red Devils placed on the ML team last season. But as Cahoon admits, putting the puck in the net will be a problem for his club. With the exception of Sampson, there just isn't any real varsity experience in his three lines. Inexperience will also be a problem with the defensemen, especially with Dunn, as steady a player as you'll see, hurt with a broken collarbone. "He many not be back in time for the first game," says Cahoon.

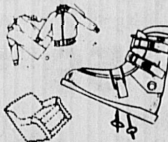

"We have some real good hockey players," the Red Devil coach points out. "They're all young, they're not superstars. They're willing to learn, no matter what you tell them they really try."

Cahoon has missed the playoffs only once in his 13 years at Burlington. If inexperience is the factor that everyone always says it is, he might miss them again.

Woburn

If there's a dark horse in this league the Tanners are it. With 12 returning players and depth in goal, Woburn will be trouble for any club they play.

"We'll have good size and excellent speed," says Tanner coach Ed McColgan. "We've also got some people who can move the puck around."

Back this season are all of the Tanner defensemen. Co-captains David Donovan and Scott Kenton join junior defensemen Jerry Gately, Hank Owen, Bob DeFranco and Randy Labriola. "They all have good size and experience," McColgan notes.

But experience could be a problem up front as the Tanners are a little thin on experienced forwards. Back are the team's two top scorers from a year ago, senior Randy Parker and junior Joey Rabian. They'll be joined by senior Jamie Kilbride. After this line, the underclassmen dominate.

McColgan feels a problem will be blending the talent he has together in the right combinations. "The kinetics of getting everybody to put it together, the harmony of it all," is important according to the Tanner coach. "We're going to need a couple of breaks until we get the harmony of everything going together."

In goal Woburn will be counting on seniors Peter Lawton and Jim Murray to bar the door, two other reasons that make the defense the Tanners' strong suit.

The Tanners too could be a year away from a title. If the underclassmen come through, they could surprise everyone and easily finish at least third. The playoffs are certainly within grasp. But with the talent in this division, the breaks will be needed.

Melrose

In Melrose there isn't a great deal of excitement over this season's club. Gone from last year's third place and tournament team is the state's highest scoring line of Andy Brickly, Dave Rose and Larry Kimball. The first two have graduated the third has transferred to prep school.

Red Raider coach Henry Hughes is counting on an all-junior line of Dan Muse between John Feeney and Tim Reilly to compensate. "Hopefully this junior line will pick up the slack," Hughes says wistfully.

The other two lines feature Don McCoy between Mike Runge and football halfback Dean Antonucci and another all-junior line of Terry Knight between Randy Rocha and Steve LaMarche. LaMarche's father was a former Winchester High star who later went on to play at Harvard.

On defense, where Hughes likes to use three pairs, three of the six defensemen are back from last season. Co-captains Mike Timmons and Mark Drago will be one starting couple, while Paul Bruce and junior Gene Gulino are the second set.

The third set will probably be John Ferrira and Scott Brison. "We're not that strong that there's any real difference in the units."

Senior Jim Gregorio will hold down the goaltenders' position. ("He's got good size, good moves and quick hands.") backed up by Rick Rose.

"We're about average size this year," Hughes states. "Normally we're very small. Defensively I think we should be alright, though we won't score as many goals."

It is a lean year for the Red Raiders but if the juniors develop faster than Hughes plans, the townies might have something to get excited about.

Reading

It is truly a rebuilding year for the Rockets. Gone is slick center Scott Burns, a first team ML all-star last year and goalie Paul Turenne, the league's first team all-star.

"We've got some real hard working kids that are left," says coach John Burns of his six returning skaters. "But we're probably one of the worst towns in the state for kids going to private schools. That's one of the things that's been murdering us for years."

Tops among the vets on the club is co-captain Kevin Lawrence, a smooth skating forward who was one of the best kept secrets in the ML last season. "He would have made the all-star team last season except that we had Scott and Paul already on it," Burns points out.

Also returning is standout defenseman Robbie Krekorian, who'll team with senior Billy Henigar to provide the Rockets with a talented pair at the blue line.

In goal Reading has three prospects, including seniors Chris MacDonald and Timmy Connors and sophomore Bob Westwater. Like Cahoon in Burlington, Burns just hasn't decided who'll be starting.

Burns will also be looking for big things from forward Donny Smith, who was having a fine season last year until he broke his arm and missed around 12 games.

"We hope that the first two lines will be strong," Burns comments. "They're not excellent but they're two pretty good lines. I think the strongest out of our team will be the defensemen."

The Rockets will be competitive if their underclassmen come through. If not, they'll never get off the pad.

The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

Belmont

If there's one thing you can count on with a Belmont High hockey team, it's that they'll be aggressive. Last year's club was no exception and this season finds 10 of those Marauders returning.

"The Marauders will be decent," says Belmont coach Skip Vigliore. "We'll hold our own."

Which is easier said than done as the Marauders simply don't have the talent to compete with the upper upper half of the league and is quite vulnerable to an upset from any of the lower teams. Experience is fine, but you have to have the horses.

Belmont will be solid in goal with returning senior Bob Cavanaugh guarding the cage. "Bobby should do a strong job," Vigliore notes. "That's important because with any team you've got to start with the goal."

Another strong spot for the Marauders will be at the center position where Brian Nally and Billy Allard return. Joining them up front will be junior David Silvio, Billy O'Brien and Brian Meehan. Sophomore defensemen Michael Gallagher and Michael Hume could surprise many.

"I think this year will be a better balanced team," the Marauder coach states. "We have a very good attitude. We'll be decent."

The Marauders have had tough luck in hockey for the past several seasons, unfortunately this year will be no different.

Winchester

From the team that gave us the double figured defeat last season, we now get a program on the rebound weaved around a number of underclassmen.

"We got something like 21 sophomores out this year," Sachem coach Mike Houghton says. "I think that just that number alone dictates how we proceed."

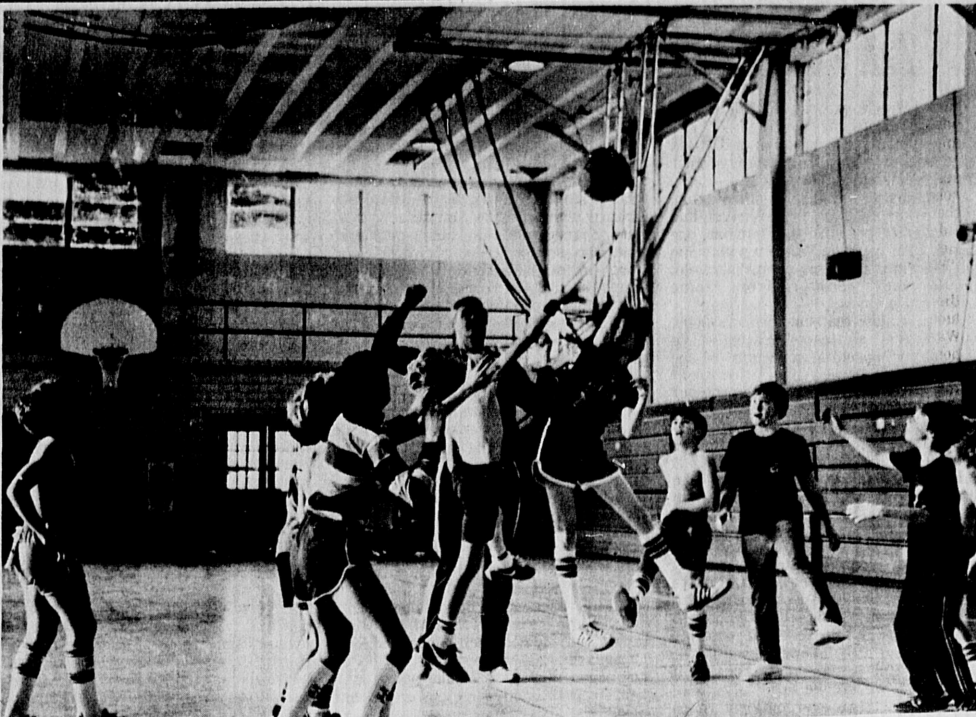

Back from last season's 2-16 squad is goalie Bob Surabian, a senior with a knack for roaming. This year, Houghton promises to "tie a string to him," and keep him in the net.

Houghton's hoping Surabian will get enough support from his defensemen so that it isn't necessary for him to leave his crease. In defensemen Steve Marino and Paul White, Houghton has a couple of sophomores who are "very good."

He also has a first line that should score some goals in Buddy Pronski, Mike Jackson, both back from last season and Danny Hines. They'll be complemented by a line of sophomores in Steve Tucci, Bill Ferry and Jeff Stackpole. Also up front will be returning forwards Ean Donehy, a junior and Doug Ross.

"There'll be a blend there," says Houghton. "But the sophomores have got to step in and have a good year."

Last season the Sachems won two games, two more than the season before.

With such a young team, doubling that mark would be an accomplishment, but perhaps not the limit. "We're going to surprise a lot of people this year," Houghton warns. "We're not going to roll over and die for anybody."

Watertown

"Small, young, inexperienced." So sums up this edition of the Watertown hockey team, according to its coach Dick Umile.

"We hope to be competitive," Umile states. "We should have four or five sophomores doing a lot of playing."

Only four players from last year's 7-10 team return, two defensemen and two forwards. Captain Don Kelly and Don McCaughey give the Red Raiders experience at the blue line, while Bob McPhail and Earl Doggett plan on scoring some points for their club up front this season.

"Our defensemen will be our strongest suit," Umile points out. "On paper, with what we've got returning we'll just have to work our way up."

In goal the Red Raiders are shaky. Senior Bill Avgtes and junior Ed O'Brien will battle for the starting nod all year, but what awaits the winner will not be pleasant.

The waves of underclassmen that Umile will be using have to come through if Watertown is to get out of the cellar. "We feel that our program is just going to start with this sophomore group and see what happens. We're just going to work with them this year."

Which means it might be a cold winter in Raider town.

Middlesex Basketball Preview: Lexington's The Favorite

In the Middlesex League, the question is "Who can beat Lexington?" The Minutemen are the number two rated team in eastern Mass. with many of their key players returning.

The answer might be Burlington, with the largest team in the league and possessor of perhaps the number one guard. Or it could be Woburn with some fine returning talent or even Wakefield, should they recover from some preseason injuries.

It's a league that has two divisions, with the final six teams beating heads and maybe upsetting a couple of the above.

"All four of those teams are in another class," says Belmont coach Paul Lyons. But it's a long season and luck, injuries and second guessing will all be heard from at least a few times. A somewhat cloudy crystal ball says the finish could be as follows:

Lexington

"We have no weakness," says Minutemen coach Bob Farias without a bit of hesitation. "If somebody wanted to elaborate the point I suppose you could say that we are a little inexperienced in the backcourt. But if somebody asks us if we're good, we say we are."

A braggar? An overconfident coach blowing off steam? Well if there's any coach in this league, and even all of eastern Mass. who could feel like that, Farias is the man. He has the best player in the league back for his third and final year, mixed with a blend of height, speed, shooting and defense.

"We have some kids back who can play," Farias agrees. "We have some pretty tough kids."

Leading the parade is two-time all-scholastic Gene Mewborn, the 6-4 do all forward who lead the Minutemen to a state championship in his sophomore year two seasons ago. Mewborn has power inside, an outside shot and he jumps through the roof.

"Gene's a great player," Farias says of his co-captain. "He's the best player in the league in my opinion and he's a very good team leader."

Of course the cast he is leading isn't so bad either. Up front Mewborn will be joined by co-captain Jimmy Roberge, a 6-3 forward and 6-5 senior center Ron Judkins. Both are strong rebounders with Judkins looking "very good in the preseason," according to Farias.

Spelling the forwards when they need it will be junior Joe Potlow, who didn't play too much last year due to an injury. The Minutemen won't be losing too much when Potlow replaces one of the starters, he too is 6-5.

In the backcourt, opponents might find some success against the Minutemen, but not much. Mark Hettler, a 6-2 guard is an outside threat. "He's a very powerful player," Farias points out. "His strength is offensive power and he can shoot unbelievable." He'll be joined by 5-9 senior Don McCarthy, an outstanding defensive player.

Does the pressure of being number one bother the Minutemen? "We've lived with that for a number of years," Farias states. "Whether we're first or last our goal is to win. We'll be disappointed if we finish fourth or fifth. Our goal is to win the championship."

Last season the Minutemen lost to Somerville in the semifinals of tournament play. This season, they're looking for more.

Burlington

Everyone knew that it was only a matter of time before the kids in Burlington stopped swatting away every basketball with a hockey stick and decided to pick up a few. This season, the Red Devils are looking for a winter championship on the hardwood, rather than the ice.

"We're big, we're experienced, we're quick, we're strong, we're good and there's so many of them," says Devil coach Ray Lang. They also have the league's finest scoring machine in John Paganetti, a 6-1 guard who scored more points than anyone in eastern Mass. last season, but was ignored when it came time to select all-scholastic players.

But this year, unlike past season's, stopping Paganetti won't necessarily stop the Devils. "I hope they try," Lang offers. "I'd like people to think that way. Of course stopping John won't be all that easy anyway."

Joining SPaganetti as the other co-captain will be 6-4 forward Dave Catalano, also a senior. He's part of the league's tallest front line with senior Frank Melanson, a 6-5 forward and 6-9 junior center Tim Morley. "Keep your eye on the Morley kid," Lang advises. "He could be a great one."

In the backcourt with Paganetti, Lang plans to alternate two guards, senior Dave Shields at 6-1 and 5-10 junior guard Skip Lang, the coach's son.

Lang promises that this year he'll not think twice about going to his bench where the Devils are deep. Up front he has 6-3 Dennis Aisemault, 6-2 Bob Bramanti and 6-2 Mike Sabatino. Backing up Morley is 6-8 junior Paul Kendriken.

If he needs help in the guard position, Lang will call on 6-1 junior Mark Shields. "Quite truthfully, all of them are going to play," Lang admits.

But despite their size and depth, the big men are young and that could be a problem. "They have limited stamina and endurance," Lang points out. "Our young kids are also a bit slow."

But the raw talent on the Burlington club should be enough to keep them winning the close ones, until the kids develop some strength and finesse.

Woburn

In Woburn, coach Paul Ramano is trying to figure out some way to make up for the loss of Bobby Swymer, Andy Clivio and Ralph Brook, who combined for about 50 points a game last year, to graduation.

"We won't have the scoring punch of last year," Ramano admits. "But I think we have the potential to be a good team."

He certainly has the talent. With a front line of 6-6 center Paul Dwyer, 6-4 forward Doug Clemons and 6-4 forward Craig Sculos, Ramano has the horses to pull down the rebounds. In the guard spots, he again is rich with co-captains Bobby Tarpy at 5-10 and Mark Tully at 6-0. They're backed up by 5-10 Michael Bry, 6-0 junior Ron Hobby and 6-0 Andy Hines.

"I believe I have a very fast team, with some intelligent, coachable kids," says Ramano. Plus the fact that many of them are on a winning high, having played for the Super Bowl champion football team, which they don't want to come down from.

The Tanners finished at 14-7 last season, tied for third with Wakefield, but were bounced out of the tourney in the first round by a solid Don Bosco team. The playoffs are practically a given this season, the Tanners want another title.

Wakefield

At this point, Wakefield should look forward to a season loaded with good luck. Face it, when your third guard breaks his leg playing soccer and your 6-5 center has knee surgery in the summer, you've had your bad breaks already. "Right now we're carrying nine juniors and I think we're about a year away," says Warrior coach Sonny Lane.

Among the six returning players this year, Lane welcomes back his top two scorers from last season, forward Dave Spur and guard John Ginnella, both of whom will bring consistency to his young squad.

Joining Spur up front will be a couple of forwards who will divide up the floor time. Junior Chris Green, a 6-2 forward and senior Jim Halliday, a 6-3 senior will hopefully bring some rebounding strength to the Warriors frontcourt. Their 6-5 junior center Pete Sydowski won't hurt either.

At the guard position, the 6-2 Ginnella will be paired with 5-7 captain Rick Boyages. "He's an excellent little playmaker," Lane boasts.

"We don't have much depth at this stage," Lane admits. "I'm going to try to develop the bench. They'll be out there playing. I'll probably use seven to nine regularly because they don't learn on the bench."

Lane's lack of depth began this summer when 6-5 center Bill Markel underwent knee surgery. He's come back, but his progress has been slow. This was complicated further when Lane's third guard, Len Tarnoff, broke his leg playing soccer this fall. He's also back but still showing signs of the accident.

"I think our strength is in the backcourt," Lane says. "We have two outstanding guards in those two. But we do lack a little scoring punch up in the forecourt."

The Warriors might have problems on the boards, though, especially on the offensive end. "We hope to have a good season," says the Warrior coach. "We'll be competitive."

Last season Wakefield lost in the second round of the tournament to the eventual state champ, Cambridge Ringe & Latin. But like Lane admits, it could be wait until next year for the Warriors.

Reading

It is truly a rebuilding year for the defending ML champs. Gone from last season's 19-1, state quarterfinalists is 6-8 all-arounding center Kelly Heineke, along with Dave Perkins and Bruce Campbell. Graduation has done its thing on the Rockets.

This season, coach Bill Carrole welcomes back captain Bob Brigida, a 5-10 senior guard, along with John McKenna, a 5-8 junior guard.

In the front court, Carrole is thin, relying heavily on 6-3 forward Darrell Doe and Biff Crowley. The big man in the middle this year will be senior Chris Pack, a 6-5 leaper.

Last season the Rockets failed only once, that to the Tanners in Woburn. This season the bottom half of the league seems a very good possibility, certainly a run at the title is beyond their grasp.

Stoneham

The Spartans welcome a new coach this season and practically a whole new team, with only two returning players from last year's club. But rookie coach Nels Nelson doesn't plan to get kicked around. "I expect to be competitive in the league," says Nelson. "We'll have to be quick and we'll have to play an intelligent brand of basketball."

Certainly Stoneham's quickness and team speed will be a factor as the Spartans are hurting for big men. Back from last year is 6-4 co-captain John Coudier at either forward or center. He'll be joined by the other returning Spartan, 6-0 Ed Vargas and 6-2 Tim Palermo.

In the backcourt Nelson will start 5-10 co-captain Tony Gentile and 6-0 Jimmy Warren. "I don't think we have any real great individual talent," Nelson admits. "But I'm happy with some of our team play. We're going to have to have a balanced team effort every night."

The Spartans finished in the middle of the league at 9-9 last season and Nelson, a former assistant coach at Northeastern and an ex-Middlesex League player himself under John Killelea at Melrose, really can't expect too much more.

"I hope you're going to see a well coached team," says the Spartan coach. "We'll use our scouting reports and expose the other teams' weaknesses. Hopefully if we lose a game it will be because the other team was better than us and not because we failed to execute in one area or another."

For Winchester, to finish this high in the league after their 1-19 season of a year ago, would be akin to capturing the NBA crown. But if new coach John Myers can put his team together, he has the height to climb over the bottom three.

Returning to the club this season up front is 6-7 senior center Bill Herder, who'll be complemented by a number of large bodies along side. 8 Tri-captain Jim Kohr, a 6-3 forward, senior Eddie Pratt a 6-3 forward, Mike Blackwood, another 6-3 forward and junior Blair Bradley, a 6-2 forward all give the Sachems rebounding strength. "Except with the better teams," Myers agrees. "They've got that much height and more. The better clubs are going to be big."

In the guard spots, Myers has a good deal of experience in 5-8 tri-captain Jeff McGoldrick, 5-8 senior Jeff Cahill, 6-0 tri-captain John Brosnan and 6-2 senior Don Jordan.

"I think overall I'm very pleased with the progress we've made," Myers states. "Our biggest problem will be playing consistently without the mistakes. It's more a mental discipline and mental toughness than physical."

Myers is hoping his players will adopt his system and stick to it. The inside game and team play are crucial to the Sachems this season. "If we do that we'll cover up some individual weaknesses," the Winchester coach points out.

Myers needs a big year to get the Winchester program back on its feet. A seventh place finish would do just the trick.

Belmont

Belmont has a problem with height, namely lack of it. "Height is a big problem for us," says Marauder coach Paul Lyons. "But I think we'll be a relatively quick team."

Three players return from last season's 9-9 club. In 6-2 senior Kevin Hynes, the Marauders' height dilemma is highlighted as he is the team's center. The two other vets on this young Belmont team are 6-0 forward Bob Ramsey and 5-10 guard Jim Sylvia. "He's the ball handling guard and he's also the point man on our press," says Lyons.

"I think a lot of our offense is going to come as a result of our pressing," Lyons notes. "A lot of people are going to get plenty of playing time. There's some good sophomores coming along for us also."

Lyons feels that his team's success depends on how well he does against the bottom six teams in the league. "I hope that we can pick up six or seven wins in the bottom half," the Marauder coach admits. "I'd be a happy with that and then perhaps to knock off one of the big four."

Melrose

For Melrose, it will be a struggle to avoid not repeating last season's 3-19 record. But Red Raider coach John O'Neil is optimistic. "We're very inexperienced. I'll probably play some of the seniors at first, then I'll go more with the sophomores. I like my seniors, they're good kids."

They also better be good ballplayers if Melrose is going to make any noise this season. Returning seniors Paul Sharrro and Greg Strieckis, both guards, and forward Tony Kalelis will be counted on to lead the youngsters.

The Red Raiders do have some big men up front in junior Bill MacIndewar, a 6-8 center and 6-5 sophomore Richard Lynch, at forward. Also seeing action will be 6-3 sophomore Billy Donovan, 6-1 senior Steve Keohane and 6-0 guard David Leary.

"Our biggest problem will be scoring," O'Neil concedes. "We're not going to hold the ball. If we can score we'll run."

But if the Raiders are to make any progress this season, the youngsters are going to have to develop fast.

Watertown

For second year coach Russ Hammond, last year was his baptism to the ML. This year he wants a few more wins than the three his club recorded last year.

But this year the big man is on the other team and Watertown, like Belmont, will be hurting for size in the front line. At center will be 6-3 senior Richard Thompson, who'll be flanked by 6-2 forward Kenny Barringer and 6-1 Jimmy Johnson, a junior.

At guard the Red Raiders will be looking to 5-9 Raffi Boyadjian, along with 5-10 senior Emidio Natale and Eddie Garrity, another 5-10 senior.

"Our experience could be a plus," says Hammond. "This year I'm not going to be afraid to use anybody on the bench."

Johnson, Natale and junior guard Emilio Coppola give the Red Raiders scoring from the outside, but Hammond must find a way to compensate for the loss of center Steve Khederian who averaged about 15 points a game last season. "We're going to have to take the shot that they give us," notes Hammond.

Watertown is looking to get their program on the road back, unfortunately for Hammond, in this year's ML, he might make progress and finish lower than he did last year.

Squirts Tie Newton In Youth Hockey

The Winchester Squirts playing in the Middlesex Youth Hockey League tied Newton 3 to 3 recently with a balanced attack.

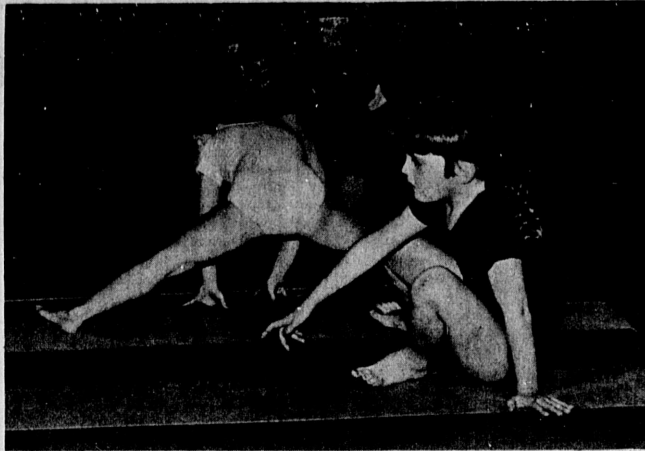

Pete Regan opened the scoring in the first period when he swung through the slot, pulled the goalie left, and beat him high right. This opener was set up off assists from Scotty Paine and Bill Coppins.

David Butt sprung out of his own end in the second period. Off leads from Suk-jung Chung and Tony Cucinatti, stick handled right down the slot and tipped home a backhand in the lower corner.

In the third period Alternate Captain Greg Winn cranked up and pulled the trigger at the blue line. He beat the goalie with a blast in the corner. The opener on this rush was from Marc Todisco.

At the last stop net minders Jim McInerney and Kevin Boyle were outstanding.

Up front the forwards were sparked by Tim Day and Sean McDonough at center with the quality wingers made up of Pete Cote, Ted Dever and Dan Limerick.

Ambrose gymnasts perfect their skills as part of the school's extra curricular activities. These school programs, under the direction of Gertrude Boyack, are in the ninth year of operation.

Ambrose School Has Extra Activities For 9th Year

For the ninth year, the Ambrose Parents' Association is sponsoring an extra-curricular gymnastics program under the direction of Gertrude Boyack.

The aim of the program is to give each child an opportunity to gain a better understanding of personal movement development as it relates to good health, recreation and safety. Running, jumping, skipping, leaping, tumbling, vaulting, balancing and dancing are the basic gymnastic activities through which the child will develop basic motor skills.

Boyack's philosophy is "to create in the gym an atmosphere in which feelings have as much of a place as task-orientation. Everyone is important, not just the physically strong. Enjoyment and self-realization through physical activities can come to everyone, not just the athletically gifted."

Sixty-nine children are participating in the Ambrose program. Inge Mulvaney, extra-curricular events chairperson, is in charge of arrangements.

Hanukkah Party Planned For This Sunday Afternoon

A family Hanukkah party, sponsored by the Winchester Jewish community, will be held Sunday from 2-5 p.m. at the Ambrose School gym.

Activities which have been planned include Israeli dancing, songs, music, games, arts and crafts and cookie decorating. There will be a Menorah lighting ceremony and potato latkes will be served. For more information call 729-1016.

In 780 Winchester had to provide 24,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 42 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

HOW TO SURVIVE WITH TWO TEENAGERS AND ONE TELEPHONE NUMBER.

Call Waiting.
$2.50 a month lets calls get through when your line is busy.

If you're a Winchester or Woburn customer with a one-party line and your phone number starts with 721, 729, 933 or 935, New England Telephone has a terrific service we think you'll be interested in.

It's called Call Waiting. And here's how it works.

Let's say your son is on the phone while your daughter is expecting an important call. He'll hear a "beep", which lets him know someone else is calling. To answer that call, he just presses the hang-up button down briefly. This puts his call on hold while he answers the second call. Then he can end his conversation and put his sister on the phone, or put his call on hold, take a message and go back to his original conversation without hanging up.

It's like having a second phone number at a fraction of the cost.

Call Waiting can be connected to your present dial or Touch-Tone phones. No new equipment is needed. And you don't have to wait at home for the installer, because we connect it right from our office.

Call Waiting costs just $2.50 a month, or less than 9¢ a day. There's a one-time $9.50 service order charge to connect it. And, if you order any - or all - of these other Custom Calling Services at the same time, the single $9.50 charge will also cover the cost of connecting them:

Call Forwarding.
Leave home without missing your calls.

Just "code in" the phone number of the place you're planning to be, and your calls will be automatically transferred to you. $2.50 a month.

3-Way Calling. Talk to two people at two different places at once.

3-Way Calling lets you make plans with two other people at once. It'll save you time and eliminate call-backs. $3.00 a month.

Speed Calling. Dialing with one or two digits.

Reach frequently-called numbers by dialing only one or two digits. It's especially valuable in emergencies.

Speed Calling for 8 phone numbers.....$2.00 a month.

Speed Calling for 30 phone numbers.....$4.00 a month.

For more information on Call Waiting or any of the other Custom Calling Services, call us Monday through Friday, 8:30 to 5:00.

 New England Telephone

Call Toll Free 1-800-922-8383 for Call Waiting.

The rates for Custom Calling Services apply to residence customers only and do not include tax. Business customers are invited to check with their Service Representative for rates and charges that apply to them.

The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

Ambrose School Holds Two Holiday Events

The holiday season was ushered in by the Ambrose School community on Dec. 5 when the Ambrose Parents' Association sponsored two events on that day.

Under the direction of Elizabeth Sayre, enrichment chairperson, the children of Ambrose were invited to the premiere matinee performance of Boston Ballet's "Nutcracker." One-hundred-thirty children, chaperoned by 20 parents, attended. New scenery and costumes were added to the production this year, intensifying the spell of the Sugar Plum Fairy over all.

From 3 to 5 p.m. the parents and staff of Ambrose enjoyed a holiday gathering at the home of the Buckley Family at 20 Foxcroft rd. Cathleen Green, social chairperson, coordinated the event which has become an Ambrose tradition.

The Winchester Star's news copy deadline is 3 p.m. Mondays for the following Thursday's edition.

Area Recreation Departments To Expand Programs

Under the direction of Dale R. Porter, a newly hired supervisor, the Lexington and Winchester Recreation Departments are seeking to expand the program for special needs children and young adults. Names are being gathered of those who are interested in participating in recreational and social programs.

Special events will be planned for children of school age. The departments are also interested in doing some programming for special needs adults who are no longer in the school system. Some of the outings will include sporting events, parties, dining out, and bowling. A holiday party is in the planning stages.

Those who have or know a child or young person who would enjoy being involved in these programs should contact the Lexington Recreation Department or the Winchester Recreation Department as soon as possible.

Porter, the supervisor of the program, is a teacher in the Wilmington public schools. He has directed special needs programs for many years for the town of Billerica and the John T. Berry Rehabilitation Center in Wilmington.

Senior Citizens

A Christmas mini-fair will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Jenks Senior Center. Some of the items to be featured include men's and women's boutiques, a Christmas table, jewelry, knit goods and a white elephant table.

Also on Saturday the Winchester Nursing Home on Swanton street will hold its annual Christmas Bazaar from 1-4 p.m.

The annual Jenks Senior Center Christmas Party will be held at the Center Wednesday, after an open general meeting at 1 p.m. Activities will include a Christmas reading and carole singing. Gifts, priced at approximately $1, should be brought for swapping.

The January luncheon, sponsored by Church Women United, will be held Jan. 8 at noon at the First Congregational Church. Contact Sally Templeton or Ruth Albee after Dec. 27 to sign up for more information.

Yoga classes will continue in the Center's crafts room Tuesday mornings at 9:15.

Energy tips from the Center include: don't turn the thermostat lower than 65 degrees during the day; wear layers of clothes; talk with a physician about medications you may be taking to learn if they will make the winter harder; don't drink alcoholic beverages to warm up, since they decrease heat reserves.

Federal and state funds for fuel assistance have recently become available. Those interested in finding out about eligibility requirements should contact the Senior Service Line; applications are available at the Center.

When the Winchester Public Schools are closed as a result of bad weather, activities at the Senior Center will also be cancelled. However, the Senior Service Line (729-2111) will make every effort to be operating during snow emergencies.

The management of the Parker House in Boston invites 50 Winchester seniors to a pre-New Year's Eve celebration of cocktails and hors d'oeuvres on Dec. 31 from 2-5 p.m. Reservations must be made by contacting the Center.

Browsers to the recent Lincoln School Christmas Fair found several items from which to do some early Christmas shopping. (Photo by Laura Walker)

School Committee

WHS Band

The School Committee this week approved a request that an invitation to allow the Winchester High School Band to participate in the 350th anniversary parade in Boston next year. The only cost, it was noted, would be transportation.

Voke School

Supt. of Schools William MacDonald noted that to date there has been no response from a letter sent to the Northeast Vocational School concerning the lack of a computer to be used in class at that school.

Jr. High Subcommittee

The School Committee approved the following recommendations from the Jr. High Subcommittee: that general music be a required course for all seventh and eighth grade students one period weekly, that band, orchestra and chorus be offered to all seventh and eighth grade students as elective subjects, and that no action be taken on the suggestion of a reading program at present.

Chanukah begins this Friday evening (see The Week), and a customary dish are latkes, or potato pancakes. We thought that everyone should be able to enjoy some, so being our thoughtful selves, we looked up a recipe in The Complete American Jewish Cookbook, by Anne London and Bertha Kahn Bishov. And here it is.

You need six medium-size potatoes, one small onion (optional), two eggs slightly beaten, three tablespoons of flour, a quarter teaspoon of pepper, one teaspoon of salt, and half a teaspoon of baking powder. Peel and grate the potatoes and onion. Let them stand for ten minutes so the liquid will rise to the top. Remove the liquid. Stir in the eggs, then add the other ingredients. Drop the mixture by spoonfuls into a hot, well-greased skillet and brown on both sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve the latkes hot, with apple sauce, sugar, or sour cream. Enjoy!

The Ashmet Holly Reservation of the Massachusetts Audubon Society holds its annual Christmas Holly Sale this week. Swags, wreaths, pots of holly and other holiday greens are included. Hours for the sale are 10 am to 4 pm, December 15 and 16. Ashmet is on Route 151 in East Falmouth. Fa la la la la, la la la la. □

FIORIELLO

One of New York's best-loved mayors, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, has more than an airport to keep his memory alive. The play Fiorello, once performed on Broadway, is now presented by the Newton North High School tonight through Saturday at 8 pm at the school, located at 360 Lowell Avenue, Newton. Tickets cost $2. For additional information call 552-7493.

STRUTS AND FRETS

Struts and Frets: The Final Runthrough, a play within a play about the final runthrough of a revue called The Seven Ages of Man, in which the theatre's janitor appears dressed as Shakespeare and transforms the troubled production. The musical comedy is presented tonight at 8:15 at the Berklee Performance Center, 136 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston. Tickets cost $2, and they're available at the box office (266-7455).

14 • Friday

CHANNUKAH

Spin those dreidels, light the menorahs, it's Channukah! The festival of light commemorates the victory of the Maccabees over the Greek-Syrians in 165 BCE (Before the Common Era), and the rededication of the Temple of Jerusalem. The holiday lasts for eight days. One candle is lit on each night on the menorah—the ceremonial candelabra—in remembrance of the miracle associated with the holiday. The miracle was that a single day's supply of oil kindled the lights of the Temple for a full eight days. Gift-giving on Channukah is a contemporary American institution, but eating latkes (potato pancakes) goes back a long way in tradition.

MARIO BERTOLINO

The renowned Metropolitan Opera star, Mario Bertolino, performs arias by Mozart, Donizetti, and others in a special appearance tonight at 8 at the East Boston High School, 86 White Street in East Boston. Also performing are soprano Beatriz Parra, pianist Maestro Jaime Leon, and a group called Il Gruppo Folcloristico Giovanile Italiano de East Boston. Tickets cost $4, $6.50, and $9, with special sponsors' tickets going for $20. For ticket information call 569-1955, 482-1484, or BOSTIX at 723-5181.

WAVERLY CONSORT

The Waverly Consort presents a concert of Medieval Christmas music entitled The Christmas Story, As Told in the Music of the Middle Ages, tonight at 8 in Jordan Hall, 30 Gainsborough Street, Boston. Tickets cost $6.50 and $8.50 and are available at the box office (536-2412). The performance is part of the Boston University Celebrity Series.

15 • Saturday

THE NUTCRACKER

The Boston Repertory Ballet's production of Tchaikovsky's The Nutcracker travels to the Framingham North High School, A Street in Framingham (just off Route 126), today at 3 pm and again at 7:30 pm. The matinee costs $3.50 for kids, $4.50 for adults, and the evening performance costs $5 and $6 for kids, $6 and $7 for adults. Tickets are going fast and may very well be gone by now. To be sure, call 879-3176 for information and reservations.

WOODY HERMAN

Big-band leader Woody Herman and his Young Thunderin' Herd charge into Dorchester's Strand Theatre, Columbia Road at Upham's Corner, tonight at 8. Tickets cost $7, $8, and $9 and can be had at the box office (282-8000).

16 • Sunday

BOSTON TEA PARTY'S 206TH

The 206th anniversary of the Boston Tea Party is celebrated with a Protest, featuring the Massachusetts Council of Minutemen and Militia, officers of the British Mariners and Fifth Regiment Afoot, Disabled American Veterans, and direct descendants of the original protesters. These groups re-enact the Tea Party today at 1 at the Congress Street Bridge, site of the Boston Tea Party Ship and Museum. The public is invited (wear a feather, if you like). Free shuttle buses leave regularly from the rear of the Old State House (Devonshire and State Streets). The day's doings are free, as is the hot tea available at the site. Call 338-1773 for details.

HARVARD JAZZ BAND

The Harvard University Jazz Band presents a varied program of music of the big-band era, highlighting the styles of Benny Goodman, Charles Mingus, and Miles Davis. The concert begins at 2 pm at the Museum of Our National Heritage, 33 Marrett Road, Lexington. Admission is free. Call 861-6559 for more information.

METROMUSIC •

The Chorus Pro Musica, directed by Donald Palumbo, presents its annual Christmas concert tonight at 7:30 at the Old South Church in Boston's Copley Square. The program features works by Lutosky, Pinkham, and Holst, along with traditional carols that the audience is invited to partake in. The concert is free, on a first-come-first-served basis. If, however, you want to reserve seats, there's a $2 charge. For information call 267-7442. In West Newton, a scholarship concert benefiting the All Newton Music School begins at 8 pm at the school at 321 Chestnut Street. Violinist Sheila Fiekowsky, viola player Burton Fine, cellist Jules Eskin, double bassist Edwin Barker, and pianist Andre-Michel Schub (whew!) present the all-Schubert performance. Tickets cost $5, students $4. Call 527-4553 for details.

THE WHO

One of the most popular rock 'n' roll bands ever, The Who, brings its smashing sounds to the Boston Garden, North Station, Boston, tonight at 8. The show is sold out, reserved seats only. To see if any tickets are refunded, call the box office (227-3215) one day in advance.

17 • Monday

DANCE COLLECTIVE

The Dance Collective presents Quilt, a program of patterns of masculinity and femininity in dance, highlighted by new choreography by members of the company. Performances are at 6 and 8 pm at the Institute of Contemporary Art, 955 Boylston Street, Boston. Admission is $4, ICA members $3.50, and ARTS/Boston vouchers are welcome. ANGEL HUNT

The Museum of Fine Arts in Boston has planned an Angel Hunt, in which families hunt for images of angels and other winged creatures in the museum's collections of prints, drawings, paintings, and sculpture. Ten year-long Family Memberships are to be awarded to the families discovering the greatest number of images. The hunt takes place today at 3:30 pm and again on January 6 at 3 pm; families must attend both days to be eligible for prizes. In addition is a Wings Workshop, in which all the families participating can create their own angels or wings. It's all free at the Museum of Fine Art's Huntington Room, 465 Huntington Avenue, Boston. Call 267-9300, extension 290.

POPS CHRISTMAS CONCERTS

The Boston Pops Orchestra opens its annual series of Christmas performances tonight at 7:30 when Harry Ellis-Dickson leads the BPO in a program including the March of Toys, Les Patineurs Suite, the Hallelujah Chorus, Feast of Lights (Channukah songs), along with traditional seasonal favorites such as selections from the Nutcracker Suite, Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, White Christmas, and lots more. John Covelli directs the New England Conservatory Chorus, which also performs in the concerts. The series runs tonight through December 22, with performances at 7:30 and a 3:30 pm matinee scheduled for December 22. Tickets range from $6 to $12 ($5.50 to $11 for the matinee) and are available at the box office, 251 Huntington Avenue, Boston. Call 266-1492 for information.

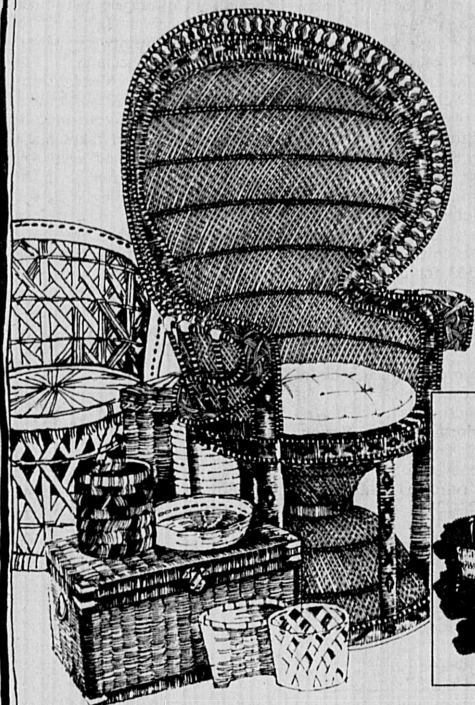

19 • Wednesday

CHRISTMAS REVELS

The Christmas Revels, already an institution in Cambridge after nine years, recreates the brilliance of the Medieval French court and cathedral, including French and English carols and dances; an irreverent version of a popular mummings' play written in Franglais, a production of Sir Gawain and the Green Knight; and merriment galore. Performances are at 8 tonight through December 23, with 3 pm matinees scheduled for December 22 and 23. Tickets cost $6, $3 for kids under 12, and are available at Goods Department Store, 11 Boylston Street, Cambridge. Performances are in the Sanders Theatre, Kirkland and Quincy Streets in Cambridge. For further information call 864-9183.

Play by Play— Saints and Martyrs

By Kimberly French

In his new play, which is premiering at the Next Move Theatre, James Carroll plays around with the appearance-vs-reality theme in a way that warps both space and time.

Carroll has laid the foundation for dramatic creativity in every aspect of the production, and the Next Move company lives up to the challenge. The set, a Fifth Avenue apartment throughout, combines with lighting and sound effects to give the immediacy of terrorized Ireland and the mock complacency of New York twelve years later, both at the same time. The actors skillfully switch characters and accents—from Irish brogue to imitation Yank—with costumes.

Although Carroll resorts to the gimmick of equating the Irish political situation with a fictional horror, he also manages many astute religious/political comments: "Protestants in America imitate atheists. . . and the atheists imitate God" and "Revolution is the opiate of the envious."

The well-wrought drama in three short acts has only three characters: a principled but insecure man, an actress who desperately wants children, and a mysterious Irish man. In the first act the first two characters appear as Kevin (Joe Muzikar), a fugitive running from the Irish Republican Army who has recently arrived in New York, and Deirdre (Geraldine Librandi), his lover, a devoted IRA member who has tracked him down. Both are posing as movers who are packing up the belongings of a Fifth Avenue couple. He suspects she has been sent as his assassin; she seems sincere in her motive of love, but, as they say, all's fair. . .

In the second act the same two actors appear as that Fifth Avenue couple, psychiatrist Roger and actress Natalie, who pretend they're other people in order to overcome Roger's impotence. But are they pretending they're the Irish fugitive and his lover to fulfill their sexual fantasies, or are the fugitives acting as the rich couple, making off with a $7000 fur coat, to fool the IRA? One could make a case for both.

Meanwhile the mysterious Irish man makes a few appearances, confusing things even further. Is he the assassin or merely the moving-company foreman hunting down a couple of delinquent new employees?

The third act, thank goodness, puts everything together. Or does it? That's the marvel of this play: You can't ever be too sure. When people live a lie to the extent this couple does, not only time and space become warped, but also the character of those who live the lie. Even in the resolution, perhaps the man is only lying to provoke his lover/wife—it's in his character. And perhaps the woman is lying when she says she lied before only to cover up her disappointment with her marriage—that's in her character.

To be more specific would ruin the fun. Despite the deadly seriousness of the play's subjects—terrorist politics, family murders, and desperate loneliness and frustration—the fun for the audience lies in the suspense, the not knowing, the playing around with what's real.

At the Next Move Theatre, 955 Boylston Street, Boston, through December 23, 536-0600.

Geraldine Librandi and Joe Muzikar star in the premiere of James Carroll's Saints and Martyrs at the Next Move Theatre through December 23.

vouchers are accepted for both productions; group, senior-citizen, and student discounts are available. For information and reservations call 536-6769.

The Seagull—Chekhov's comic tragedy, which changed the melodramatic tradition of Russian theatre when first presented in the 1890s, is revived at Nucleo Eclettico, 37 Clark St, Boston. The story is Chekhov's personal testimony about the artistic world. Performances are at 8 pm Fri-Sun through December 30. Tickets are $4.50. For information call 742-7445 after 5 pm.

SnapShots—A new comedy by Ralph Fredericks, who became the Pope's official playwright in 1975, continues at the Boston Arts Group, 367 Boylston St, Boston, at least through the end of December. The play is about six women who work together and have to face the truth about themselves at a Christmas party. Performances are at 8 pm Thurs-Sats and at 3 pm Sun. Tickets are $5-$6. Call 267-8518 for reservations.

The Water Engine—David Mamet's one-act, about the invention of the century—a combustion engine that runs only on distilled water—and how the corrupt capitalist American society of the Thirties ruins its naive inventor, plays at 8:15 pm through December 15 at Reality Theatre, 26 Overland St, near Kenmore Sq in Boston's Back Bay. The environmental-theatre-style set alone, with its automated cogs and sloped playing areas, is reason enough to go. Tickets are $3.75-$5.25, and student, group, and senior-citizen discounts are available. ARTS/Boston vouchers are accepted. For more information call 262-4780.

SPECTACULAR DECORATOR PRINT IN FULL COLOR — ORIGINAL OIL PAINTING!

Lumen Winter is famous for his true-to-life horse paintings, and "Stallion in Moonlight" depicting a magnificent white stallion and his mares, almost ghost-like in the pale moonlight, is a notable example of his best. Imagine this panoramic giant mural as the focus of all eyes — all 24' x 48' of it — in your living room, study or bedroom! And you may order it ready to frame risk-free — actually admire it in your home for up to two weeks! Then if you aren't every bit as delighted and thrilled as when you first saw it — if friends don't exclaim over it — send it back within 14 days for full refund, except postage and handling. We suggest making reservations, whenever possible, to avoid disappointment.

Hub

Another Season—99 Mt Vernon St, Boston, 367-0880. A creative a la carte menu with a French accent, rather expensive. Reservations are a must. Wine and beer. Hours: 5:30-10:30 pm. Mon-Thurs, until 11 Fri and Sat. Closed Sun. AE, MC.

Charley's Eating and Drinking Saloon—344 Newbury St, Boston, 266-3000, and in Braintree and Chestnut Hill. Good food: crab-stuffed shrimp, London broil, and excellent service, in an active Victorian room. Full bar and moderate prices. Hours: Daily, 11:30-1 am. AE, CB, DC, MC.

Chez Ranier—85 Washington St, Brookline, 566-9161. Cozy and French: Sole with mustard sauce, beef Wellington, coq au vin. Moderately expensive, full bar. Reservations for large parties. Hours: Daily except Mon, 5-10 pm. BA/V, MC.

Martiate Restaurant—10 Bosworth St, Boston, 423-6340. Italian food like veal parmigiana and pasta specialties, all priced so that you can, here in the shopping district, put your money on your back, not in your tummy. Full bar. Hours: Daily except Sun, 11 am-10 pm. AE, BA/V, MC.

Moon Villa—23 Edinboro St, Boston, 423-2061. Dim sum, those platters of Chinese pastries and savory tidbits: just point and it's yours. Other Cantonese dishes as well. Hours: Daily, 9-4 am. No liquor and no credit cards.

New Market Steak House—274 Southampton St, Boston, 445-3938. A steak house right in the heart of the city's wholesale meat district. The dining room has a Colonial atmosphere and the menu includes seafood as well. Plenty of parking. Hours: 11:30 am-10:30 pm Mon-Fri, Sat from 4:30 pm-10:30 pm, Sun noon-10:30 pm. MC, BA/V, AE.

St Botolph Restaurant—99 St Botolph St, Boston, 266-3030.

In a chicly remodeled townhouse, Franglais cuisine: filet of sole caprice, biftek maison moutarde. Prices range from inexpensive to rather expensive. Full bar, reservations a good idea. Hours: Daily, noon-3 and 5:30-midnight. Closed for lunch on Mon, bar open until 1 am daily. AE, MC.

Scotch 'n Sirloin—77 N Washington St, Boston, 723-3677. Menu specials include teriyaki steak, ale-battered shrimp, and King Crab. Full bar, moderate prices, reservations accepted. Live entertainment. Hours: Daily, 5:30-10:30 pm, until 11:30 Fri and Sat. Dinner from 5 when the Bruins or Celtics play the Garden. Sun 3:30-9:30.

Friday's—26 Exeter St, Boston, 266-9040. Housed in a kind of solarium next to the Exeter Street Theatre, it is a very popular spot. Steaks and shrimps are two favorite choices. Full bar. Hours: Daily 11:30-1 am. AE, BA/V, MC.

South

Barnes Tavern—Assinippi Corners, Rte 3, Hanover, 878-9814. Sprawling and always crowded, it's Americana from the word go: prime rib and shrimp are among the favorites. Salad and dessert bars. Full bar. Hours: Daily from 11:30 am-10 pm; from 1-9 pm on Sun. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Casa Berrini—Main St, Marshfield, 834-8765. Continental embellishments on a traditional menu: veal, prime rib, seafood, and Salad Gazebo. Moderate prices, full bar. Open daily except Mon, 11 am-1 am. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Winsor House Inn—390 Washington St, Duxbury, 934-2548. The Winsor House is grandly Federalist without, warmly paneled within. Continental menu: Saltimbocca, coquilles St Jacques, sole Jacqueline. Moderately expensive. Fully licensed. Hours: Tues-Sat 11:30 am-2 pm; Tues-Sat 6 pm-9 pm, Fri-Sat 6-10 pm.

Reservations are a good idea for weekend dining. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

North

Pegasus Steak House—150 Newbury St (Rte 1), Ipswich, 356-9753. Among the specialties of the house are sirloin strip steak and lobster pie. Inexpensive, with dancing to boot. Hours: Tues-Sat 11:30 am-2:30 pm and 6-10 pm. BA/V, MC.

Woodman's—121 Main St, Essex, 768-6451. Highly informal, this place is seafood city. Clams, scallops, sole, shrimp, lobster: an ocean of fish. It's inexpensive, and in winter, not too crowded. Full bar, but no credit cards, and no reservations. Hours: Daily, 11 am-9 pm; Fri-Sun, til 10 pm.

West

LeBellocour—10 Muzzey St, Lexington, 861-9400. Now open under new management, LeBellocour offers French cooking with some other touches, like an Indonesian Sate Babi at lunch, and medallions de chevreuil, which is venison. Full bar, reservations are recommended. Hours: Mon-Fri, 11:30-2 and 6-10; Sat, 6-10:30 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, MC.

Upper Crust—At the Sheraton-Tara Hotel, Framingham, 879-7200, and Braintree, 848-0600. Steaks and fish, chicken Hongroise, and the Tom Jones Dinner, a massive feast that requires two days notice. Fully licensed. Hours: Mon-Fri, 5 pm-10:30 pm; until 11 Sat; Sun, 3:30 pm-10 pm. Lunch, 11:30 am-3 pm. Mon-Fri. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

The Deli—Shopper's World, Framingham, 872-4442. A nice self-explanatory name, and a nice spot to take a break from shopping. Complimentary cole slaw and pickles. Beer and wine only, reservations not required. Hours: open daily at 7 am; Mon-Thurs until 10 pm; Fri-Sat until 1 am; Sun until 8 pm. BA/V.

#107 The Rebi

By Don Rubin

A rebus, according to our friends at American Heritage Dictionary, is "a riddle composed of words or syllables depicted by symbols or pictures that suggest the sound of words or syllables they represent." (Well, that's easy for them to say.)

The first rebuses—hieroglyphics—were restrictive and were developed so as to prove illegible and indecipherable to all but the highest priests of ancient Egypt. It wasn't until the seventeenth century that the rest of us were let in on its secrets, and not until... well... now that you and I have had an opportunity to really sharpen our skills.

The following rebuses (rebi?) date back to the mid-19th century. And we've actually given you the answers. Of course, the very least you could do is point them out.

Rules of the Game

1. Names of the first ten contestants with the correct answer will be published in METROGUIDE. All contestants submitting correct answers to any of the puzzles through January 3 by the usual deadline will qualify for the New Year's Lottery and a grand prize of dinner for two with all the trimmings. The METRODINNER winner will be announced in the January 10 issue of METROGUIDE.

2 All entries in The Puzzle Contest must be received at the METROGUIDE puzzle desk, 227 Statler Office Building, Boston, MA 02116, by noon, the Thursday one week after publication.

3. All entries must be accompanied by the name and address of the contestant.

4. Employees of METROGUIDE and their immediate families are not eligible.

5. Whenever possible, the Puzzle answer should be entered on the form provided.

Answer To Puzzle #105 "The Game"

Evidently many of you have not been living in caves, because everyone got this puzzle right. Movie... quote... eight words... first word... two syllables... first syllable... sounds like... crank... second syllable... sounds like knee... second word... sounds like... tie... third word... deer... fourth word... eye... fifth word dunk or donut... sixth word... give... seventh word... (a little word)... eighth word... sounds like... gam. Put all of that together and you've got, "Crank-knee tie deer eye dunk (or donut) give a gam." Sounds like a gem dropped by Rhett Butler to Scarlett O'Hara in Gone With the Wind. Right! "Frankly my dear, I don't give a damn."

The first ten winners: Ronald Skahan, N Quincy; Anne Gorman, Lexington; T Towey, Billerica; Bruce Nichols, Winchester; Martha Rocha, Lowell; Ray Prescott, Lowell; Anne Marie Malavich, Lowell; Nancy Meisner, Hanover; Lynda Traub, Framingham; Lee Schlorff, Winchester.

New Year's Eve at the Hyatt is horns, hats, a circus and a whole lot more.

Our President's Ballroom will host the Circus Circus Plan—the most exciting and festive celebration anywhere. We will present some of the greatest international circus acts throughout the evening: fire eaters, magicians, jugglers and acrobats, just to name a few. And here's the rest of this exciting package:

• A luxurious room for two so you won't be driving home. • A formal gourmet sit-down dinner served at 8 PM, with your choice of Tourneados of Beef or Lobster Thermidor entree.

THE PRICE PER COUPLE $160

We also have two other wonderful choices: The Elegant Empress Plan and Jonah's Is Jumpin' Plan. For a brochure describing all three exciting New Year's Eve Plans, please call.

Canon AT-1 Telephoto Outfit- $249⁹⁷

ADD $25 for Canon AV-1 in place of AT-1.
ADD $65 for Canon AE-1 in place of AT-1.

The outfit includes:

- Canon AT-1 camera body
- Lifetime Warranty on Canon (includes free annual clean and checks!)

- 135mm f2.8 telephoto lens
- Skylight filter
- Electronic flash
- Gadget bag

Chinon 35EE with case $69⁹⁷

PRO CK-1200 Automatic Flash $34⁹⁷

The Promaster CK-1200 is a powerful, yet compact, electronic flash with two automatic ranges plus manual. It only requires about seven seconds to re-cycle between flashes in most cases.

Beat the crowds! Mail & phone credit card orders shipped out within 24 hours!

for Minolta and Pentax universal screw-mount cameras (add $15 for most cameras)

Deluxe 6-Piece Accessory Outfit $99⁹⁷

(for Canon, Minolta and Pentax k-mount cameras)

Vivitar 283 Auto Electronic Flash $79⁹⁷

The popular Vivitar electronic flash offers a choice of automatic or manual ranges for total control of depth-of-field. It has thyristor circuitry to greatly extend battery life — and an adjustable flash head so you can bounce the light off the ceiling. It's a great flash, at a great price!

Pentax MV with 50mm f2 lens $199⁹⁷

Bell & Howell EFT Pocket Camera $32⁹⁷

Chinon 213P XL & Whisper Silent Movie Outfit-$199⁹⁷

You can't beat this 2-piece Super-8 outfit for quality home movies on a budget. It features the Chinon 213P XL — a very compact and easy to use silent super-8 camera with a 2 to 1 power zoom lens and auto exposure control. The Chinon "Whisper" silent Dual-8 movie projector is as quiet as its name implies! It boasts a zoom lens, automatic threading, and variable speed control.

About Town

Carolyn and Susan Richards, granddaughters of local residents Mr. and Mrs. Leon F. Sargent, are on the fall term high honors list of The New Hampton School. Susan is a senior at the school while her sister, Carolyn, is a sophomore.

Laurie Glynn ran in the recent sectional and regional competition of the Junior Olympics. She is a member of the Liberty Athletic Club, which is one of the oldest women's track clubs in the United States and is located in Cambridge.

Mary McCue, Jeanne Sheehy and Ann Blackham of Ann Blackham & Co., Inc. Realtors were recipients of 1979 MLS Million Dollar Sales and Listing Awards from the Mass. Association of Realtors at the recent 23rd Annual Multiple Listings Service Seminar.

The award recognizes those state association members with combined residential MLS listings and sales in excess of $1 million.

Blackham also received a special award for participating in excess of $2.5 million and received a Life Membership Award for having earned million dollar awards every year since 1971.

Moirra McGoldrick, a senior at Boston College, has been elected to membership in the National Economics Honor Society.

Edgell road resident Richmond Gardner was the recent winner of a new AMF moped in the recent BayBank Winchester Trust drawing. Other residents who won prizes include: Frank T. Barnes Jr., who won $100 worth of gas at Keenan's Cigo; John J. McDonald III, who won $50 worth of gas at Winchester Exxon; and Anne M. Strout, who won $25 worth of gas, also at Winchester Exxon.

Linda Ceruti of Thornberry road was recently named to the Central Missouri State University's deans dean's list for the fall term.

Robert Mirak, adjunct professor of history at Boston University, is a contributor to "Uprooted Americans: Essays to Honor Oscar Handlin," recently published by Little, Brown. All of the contributors to the volume wrote their doctoral dissertations at Harvard under Handlin's direction.

William F. Caci, realtor, Paul Crotty, Jean Fitzgerald, Norma Foti, Judy Lynch and Mary Ann O'Callaghan recently attended a week long seminar sponsored by the Realtors Institute of Massachusetts. All five passed the final examination at the end of the week which qualifies them to take the second course.

High street resident Karl Mayer, a June, 1979 Suffolk University graduate, won second prize in the Student Manuscript Contest sponsored by the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants. Mayer, who graduated summa cum laude, entitled his manuscript "Advertising and the Accountant."

Sister Mary Christopher O'Rourke, SRM, educational consultant and former adult education coordinator of St. Mary's Parish and presently director of training programs for the Dept. of Mental Health, was the guest speaker at the annual convention of the Archdiocesan Principals in Holyoke. She spoke to over 150 principals on "Education: its changing role in the 80s."

Sr. Mary has been involved in several areas of education from elementary school through college president.

Christmases Past And Present

By ELIZABETH FERRARINI

Several customs of joy and merrymaking which have become synonymous with the celebration of Christmas have grown out of Roman and other non Christian festivities.

Roman friends used to exchange green branches for good luck, and sent holly as gifts. In the 14th century a legend spread through Holland, Germany and France that a Christian bishop, St. Nicholas, brought gifts to children at Christmas. The image of St. Nicholas as a heavy man dressed in red and riding in a sled pulled by reindeer was brought to the United States by early Dutch settlers.

While local residents may not remember the earliest customs, many recall other traditions, some long forgotten; some still maintained.

Agnes Aiken, a retired Winchester Latin teacher, says that although Christmas is now more commercial because of radio and television, it is still fun to be with the family, count the number of presents, and to give gifts to those one cares for. She adds that people today have to travel further to see their families.

Aiken remembers when she was a child there were no Christmas tree lights. Instead, small candles were lit in metal holders clipped to the tree's branches; and burning candles were placed at window sills. She can't seem to recall a great deal of concern for fires.

It was hard to wrap presents, says Aiken, because there was no scotch tape. One had to resort to the glue pot instead.

There is less belief today in Santa Claus, she thinks. When she taught school in Vermont in the 1930s children went to school and groceries were delivered by a horse drawn sleigh. The everyday appearance of the sleigh made it easier for children to imagine a person coming to their homes by sleigh to climb down the chimney and deliver presents.

Aiken recalls indulging in the Christmas prank of opening a gift ahead of time. When she was seven or eight, she unwrapped a Bobsey Twins book, read the book, and then rewrapped it. She never told her family about the incident.

Outdoor recreation decorations started to appear after World War II, and it was common to drive the family around town to see the decorations, she recalls.

Another tradition of decorating a tree, a universal symbol of Christmas, first appeared in Germany during the Middle Ages. On a Christmas Eve in the 15th century, Martin Luther supposedly tried to capture the spirit of the first Christmas Eve by using a tree with burning candles in his home to reflect the heavens that looked down upon Bethlehem on the first Christmas Eve.

German soldiers (Hessians) fighting in Washington's army during the American Revolutionary War brought the custom of the Christmas tree to America. However, it didn't spread throughout the country until the middle of the 19th century.

Today one has a wide variety of choices in Christmas trees: to purchase a Scotch pine or Douglas fir tree, a tree that looks like the real thing and can be packed away each year, or a tree that is uniquely one's own creation.

Winchester photographer Arthur Griffin has started some 20th century Christmas tree traditions, and claims to be the first person in the world to hang a Christmas tree upside down.

One Christmas during the 1950s Griffin molded a piece of copper into a Christmas tree. To commemorate his statuesque cylindrical creation, Griffin wrote a poem fashioned after Joyce Kilmer's "A Tree."

I think that I shall never see
A tree as lovely made by me,
A tree whose copper coils spin a round
Tis something that's not seen the ground;

A tree that hangs aloft all day, and sees its glory fade away;
A tree that may at summer wear
A new nest of cobwebs in her hair:
Upon whose bosom angels reign
But doesn't wear a candy cane
Trees are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

When Griffin took down the tree, he wrote another poem as a eulogy to the mess he was left to clean.

Griffin once decided to hang a 15-foot tree from one of the beams of the living room in his Euclid avenue home. Associated Press then wired the news of Griffin's upside down Christmas tree worldwide that year.

For a decade Griffin continued to hang his Christmas trees upside down. "It's just as pretty that way and is more out of the way and less of a fire hazard." One year he mounted the base of a tree to the wall and suspended the rest of it diagonally to the ceiling so the tree appeared to be growing out of the wall.

Last year Griffin decorated a five-foot artificial tree with lights and ornaments, and hung the tree above his fireplace. The tree, which has graced his living room for one year, will serve as this year's Christmas tree.

Along with the tradition of decorating a Christmas tree, the hanging of stockings by the fireplace has become an American custom. It is believed that the custom grew out of a story in France about St. Nicholas visiting a home of three daughters who had no dowry. The daughters had placed their stockings by the fireplace to dry one Christmas Eve. St. Nicholas dropped three bags of gold down the chimney with each stocking serving as a receptacle for the gold.

Former Town Meeting Member Joan Pelletier recalls being told while growing up, "if children were not good, Santa Claus would put a piece of coal in their stockings." Before Pelletier went to bed each night she had to bank the furnace for the heat to continue through the night. She says she didn't want to get a piece of coal in her stocking.

She also recalls that citrus fruit, especially oranges, was a popular gift to receive in one's stocking Christmas morning.

Lesley Wilcox, a Calumet street resident, says every year her family, starting with the youngest grandchild, hang their stockings by the fireplace on Christmas Eve.

The joys of Christmas are well expressed in the many carols written for this day, especially those such as "Silent Night" and "Come All Ye Faithful," that have been sung every Christmas Eve for over 50 years by Winchester families and friends around a lighted tree on the Common.

This event, known as the Fortnightly sing, was started in the 1920s by a club of the same name. When the club disbanded many years ago, Mary Witham stepped in and kept the event going each year. Witham recalls caroling in all types of weather, even with fumes being dispelled from diesel buses parked near the First Congregational Church.

She says crowds of up to 500 always turned out, and children sometimes wore long strings of bells. She recalls always having a brass quartet to play "March of Kings," singing traditional carols, and ending with "Jingle Bells." Witham says George Fortune, a baritone with the Berlin Opera, joined the caroling one year.

Although Witham has had to give up her leadership of the event because of health reasons, she says it is always a pleasure to see the faces of happy children and to know she was responsible for instilling in those assembled the memorable spirit of an old fashioned Christmas. She says many Winchester

County Government Needs Visibility Say Representatives

Representatives of the Middlesex County Advisory Board from Winchester, Belmont and Arlington agree that the county commissioners have shied away from attention because it would lead to the discovery of widespread patronage and possible mishandling of funds.

"I think it's intentional," said Belmont representative Walter Flewelling on Tuesday. "As long as people don't know what they're doing they can do their own thing."

"County government in eastern Massachusetts is invisible," pointed out Winchester representative Barbara Hankins on Monday. "Unless there's a scandal, when do you hear about it?"

Arlington's representative, Richard Fanning also agrees. "They keep a low profile so that nobody knows what goes on. They slipped in a director of tourism. What a joke."

Flewelling, Hankins and Fanning are only three of a number of Advisory Board representatives who are unhappy with the workings of the Middlesex County government and it's three commissioners, S. Lester Ralph, Michael McLaughlin and John Danehy. Recently Mayor Theodore Mann of Newton, that city's Advisory Board representative, filed legislation that would abolish county government by having the 54 cities and towns belonging to Middlesex County withhold payments on their county assessments.

Hankins and Fanning are in favor of abolishing county government, while Flewelling would like to see it revised. "I'm not sure that it should be completely abolished, but I think it should be drastically revamped," said Flewelling, a selectman in Belmont. "There are many communities that rely on county government for some services."

In towns such as Winchester, Arlington and Belmont, the county functions are rather limited. The county offers surveying services for highways, but all three towns have engineering departments which serve the same function. The court system, which was previously run by the county is now under state control and all three towns have their own hospitals.

"It kind of lost it's biggest function with the removal of the courts," said

Hankins, a selectman in Winchester. She added that what remains in county government is "rather redundant" to what the cities, town and state offer.

Fanning, a member of the Finance Committee in Arlington, feels that county government is "strictly a political football" with a "tremendous amount of political patronage" and should be taken over by the state. He noted that some towns use the engineering crews of the county, but other departments like the Registry of Deeds could be taken over by the state.

Although some of the mishandling of funds that the members suspect, could be eliminated, there is the question of how much more efficient county functions would be if they were run by the state. Flewelling would rather see the towns accept the services the county provides. "I think the towns have got to. That which is under local control is the most efficient operation."

With the much publicized battle between the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority Advisory Board and the Chairman of the T as an example, none of the three members feel that the relationship between the county commissioners and their advisory board has reached that level of animosity.

"I don't think it's as serious as that," says Flewelling. "But I think it's close to it. There's a lack of understanding."

The attitudes between the two groups is slightly similar to the MBTA situation, according to Hankins. But she added that this bit of tension is "perfectly normal" between directors of an organization and a body that is trying to tell them what to do.

Fanning agrees. "You're dealing with three individuals and I think the county commissioners sort of resent the Advisory Board. We're sort of stepping on their toes."

The major difference between the MBTA Advisory Board and the Middlesex County Advisory Board is that the MBTA board has some clout with their budget veto power. The county board does not. County commissioners submit their budgets to the legislature and the advisory board proposes cuts. The residents who go off to college, or move away, often come back on Christmas Eve for the caroling. During the Korean War, she recalls, Allen McDougall wrote a correspondent piece about the caroling traditions in his home town of Winchester.

This year Joan Pelletier and her family are looking forward to the community caroling as they do every year. Lesley Wilcox's family instead sings Christmas carols while they parade throughout the house.

Another way to express good wishes and greet families and friends is to send Christmas cards. The first card was designed by an Englishman named T.C. Horsely for Henry Cole, a Victorian public figure who ran an art shop on old Bond Street in London.

Despite the abundance of commercially available cards, two Winchester residents send cards which reflect their individual talents. For many years Arthur Griffin's Christmas cards have featured a black and white photograph of one of his many Christmas trees with an occasional poem. Jane Coates, a calligraphist, sends hand-lettered cards in a style reminiscent of medieval times.

The Christmas Day feast is as common today as it was many centuries ago.

In the 14th century King Richard II of England one year served a "moderate" Christmas dinner of: 2000 oxen, a capon, a chine of roast beef, a roasted goose, a neat's tongue roasted, a roasted pig, a roasted swan, a roasted turkey, a haunch of venison roasted and a custard.

This year Lesley Wilcox's Christmas dinner menu consists of two turkeys, one stuffed with chestnut dressing and the other with oyster dressing, cauliflower, creamed onions, squash, and for dessert, plum pudding, mince and pumpkin pies and cheeses. Joan Pelletier's family is having Beef Wellington for dinner.

In keeping with the religious element of Christmas, the Pelletiers plan to attend a Christmas service at a Winchester home with 40 other couples. She feels that the spiritual aspect of the day is especially apparent this year with the Iranian hostage situation. Her children, she says, like many other Americans, wish that the American hostages could be home with their families on this day to have a Merry Christmas.

Deadline

The Winchester Star offices will be closed Dec. 25 and Jan. 1. The deadline for news and advertising for these two weeks is tomorrow and Dec. 28 at 3 p.m. legislature takes into consideration arguments from both sides and then makes its decision, usually in favor of the commissioners.

"The commissioners hold budget hearings and the commissioners are never there," points out Hankins. "They usually send assistants to answer questions. The only time the commissioners show up is to object to something we propose to do. I think they think we're a paper tiger."

The 1980 fiscal budget for Middlesex County is $23,500,000, which is down $1,500,000 from last year. Of that total, $11,607,451 is for salaries for the 1600 county employees in the 10 departments.

All three towns reported increases in their recent county assessment over last year. This is another question that puzzles observers, because the county had estimated that when the courts were taken out of county government control, it would save communities around 40 percent on their tax rate. Instead, according to Winchester Comptroller Alphonse Faggiano, the savings was only about 20-25 percent. The savings were eaten away by other county costs, figures Faggiano.

In Winchester last year, the town was assessed $304,047.46 in county taxes, a rise of approximately 20 percent over the previous year.

The increases were similar in other towns. In Arlington the assessment was $504,259.83 last year. This year, Town Comptroller Al Minervini figures the bill will be over $600,000. In Belmont the bill last year was $446,878.58, while this year it will be around $510,187.99.

"We don't have much dealings with the county," said Belmont Town Accountant Ted Sparrow. "Who are they," he added in jest.

According to Fanning, though the Advisory Board is gaining respect, it would be without any strength if Cambridge and Newton were like most cities in the county and went along with the commissioners. "When it came to voting on the budget," began Fanning, "we found that the cities came in and voted heavily in favor of the commissioners' recommendations." When asked why, Fanning replied, "because they're politically motivated."

"If it wasn't for Cambridge and Newton the Advisory Board would fall apart," he continued. Newton's threat to withhold funds to the county is one way that member communities can apply some clout.

Flewelling would like to see the Advisory Board strengthened as the initial step to reviving county government. "They have some power and I hope it's going to increase. They have to come up with constructive criticisms and positive suggestions. If the county commissioners aren't doing they're jobs then there's a remedy, throw the rascals out. If we're going to have it let's make it a viable organization."

Rotary Club Hears Tufts Professor Speak

The Rotary Club recently listened to an informative discussion by Arpad von Lazar, professor at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University. His topic was Iran, present and future, on which Arpad gave his views. While he did discuss the present Iranian issue, the curbs of his talk was the repercussions within Iran, OPEC and around the world because of the present hostage situation.

Of immediate concern to von Lazar was the upcoming OPEC meeting at which he foresees a decrease in production and an increase in price. As most experts agree, the strongly urged reduced consumption on the part of the United States. OPEC believes that the price of oil should be commensurate with the replacement cost of alternate energy.

As for the hostage predicament, von Lazar felt that the United States movement away from a bilateral discussion toward a multinational one was a step in the right direction. The United Nations Security Council and the World Court could hold the key to a settlement.

Three Local Girls Suspected In Beating

The Winchester Police investigation into the beating of a 14-year old Winchester girl has "centered on three local girls," according to Winchester Police Chief John McHugh.

"We have lots of circumstantial evidence at this point," said McHugh on Tuesday. He added that the three girls in question were seen in the area where the beaten youth was found and that the victim was with them the night of the incident.

The Winchester youth was found Dec. 10 at the North Reservoir, behind the Washington School, beaten and stripped of her clothing. Police were alerted to the incident when they received an anonymous phone call on Monday night. The caller told the police that had seen a body being pulled from a car and left there. The girl was treated at Winchester and Choate Hospitals before being released.

A hearing is planned in early January for the three girls suspected.

An unarmed robbery was reported last Wednesday when a woman had her purse snatched as she crossed a parking lot towards her apartment on Swanton street. Inside the purse was approximately $700 in bills the woman had just withdrawn from the bank, credit cards and a bag of synthetic diamonds.

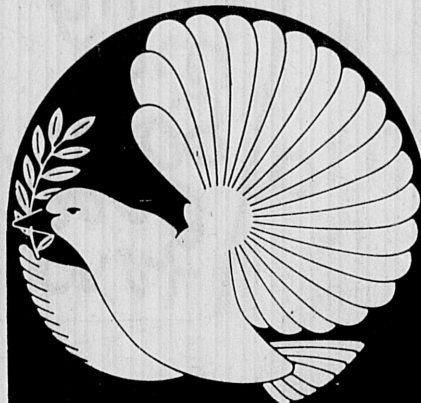

Police are searching for a black male, approximately five feet, six inches tall with short hair, as described by the victim.

Illegal entries were reported at a number of sites last week, according to the police reports. On Vine street, an IBM typewriter, valued at $100 and two skill saws, valued at $150 each, were taken from the office of the Coronis Construction Company.

On Pilgrim drive, intruders broke into the garage of a home but nothing was taken.

Letters From Readers

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There has been a continuing controversy in your newspaper as to whether state legislators should have a raise. I know and respect both of Winchester's "own" who took different positions when this question was presented for decision. While there may be disappointment with the way the salary increase was enacted, and with the date it becomes effective, the true issue should be whether the job is worth the money.

The time commitment required of a state legislator is for practical purposes that of a full time job. This is particularly so when, as in the case of Senator Rotondi, one is a committee chairman. As your paper has reported, he is, while the legislature is in recess, heavily engaged in conducting hearings on legislative matters.

The responsibility that legislators assume, and the effort required by the proper performance of their duties to their constituents (as both Rotondi and Representative Saltmarsh have so excellently demonstrated) make it clear that the dollars they receive for their work, even after the payraise, is, in actuality, modest.

I would ask you and your readers which other of your "employees" you feel at liberty to call any day of the week and complain about their performance? Or ask them to provide you a service? Which of your other "employees" would cheerfully talk with you under these circumstances for what Messrs. Rotondi and Saltmarsh are being paid?

Robert Bigelow

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Once you have achieved your bachelors' degree and master's degree, no one can take that away from you. It is your business, your background, a plateau which you never drop below - from that point you build and advance.

A person with a small business usually has a ground floor beginning, and this is particularly the case of Joe Mantini, the proprietor of Mantini's Restaurant, on Cross street. There is a misconception about business owners and that is that all of us have a buck stashed away, because "Gee, they have a gold mine in that little place."

Often is missed that the "gold mine" requires 60 - 80 hours per week of work and worry, just to earn a living and that depends on whose standard of making a living you're referring to.

Joe Mantini's means to earn a living has been wiped away in a fire; he is now at a sub-plateau position with six children and a wife to support. He had no insurance to rebuild with. He does have drive and determination.

When I look at Joe's face I see my face and many of the faces of business people who have served us all so well. I know the pain he must be feeling because to create a business with full acceptance is like having a child - it is a part of us, for which we sacrifice and walk the floors when it is ailing.

To some people business has a dirty name and I wish to declare that we in business have as much dedication as other human beings and in many instances we have more.

Since I so passionately feel the pain of the Mantinis, I have established a fund for them. Anyone wishing to contribute to "Friends of Mantini" may do so at the Old Colony Bank or at my shop.

On Jan. 4, an Open House will be held for all "Friends of Mantini" at A.R. Decorating Center. No matter how small - your donations will be appreciated - come and look in this man's face - you'll need no other thank you.

UNICEF Reply

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Rather than "stifle it," as some of your readers would do, I would encourage the Star to continue to foster vocal participation in local, national and international affairs.

For example, I suggest that each of us send a UNICEF Christmas card to Mr. Rupert W. Kuglin, 10a Winthrop st.

If this suggestion proves that I'm part of the conspiracy, so be it.

John E. Kent

Many of us "victims" truly wonder how you hold your heads up
When it's MY watch and rings you're giving!

(If the rhyme and meter in this poem by now blows your mind, bear with me a bit longer 'til some resolution we find.)
New life breaks through in the darkest of places,

We've all seen a new born baby light up the meanest of faces!
So I hope and I pray, and resist easy blame,
Trusting His love may touch some robber's sense of compassion and shame.
In my heart I must somehow still be able to say:

"Merry Christmas to ALL and-without spite-to ALL a "good-night!"
Kitty Fixx Davis

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Dedicated to all anonymous robbers who will accept the challenge of reading this Christmas poem:

'Twas the night before Christmas
And all through the robber's house
Not a creature was stirring,
Not even a louse.

Their stockings weren't hung by the chimney with care;
By now, they had swiped other people's treasures so no further need to prepare.
Their wallets were bulging with little kids savings,
Their consciences deadened to mothers' and policemen's ravings.

In far too many Winchester homes this season the happy clatter on the rooftops was replaced by another-without seeming reason: the sound of shattered glass and retreating muddy boot.
As thieves quickly snatched much hard-earned "loot,"
So you people out there who rob for a living:

Mini-Fair

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Hearty thanks are extended to the many workers who gave unstintingly their time and efforts at this business of seasons in making the Winchester Seniors Association Christmas Mini Fair a success on Dec. 15th.

Gratitude is extended, also, to the townspeople who supported the endeavor by purchasing from the several tables. At the present time, 98 percent of the $10,000 goal set by the Ways and Means Committee has been reached through sales at the Fall Fiesta Fair and the Christmas Mini Fair. This shows an increase of $1600 over last year's receipts.

Holders of the winning tickets at the Christmas Mini Fair were as follows:
Hooked rug - Alice O'Leary
Crewel pillow - Anne Anderson
Afghan - Rita Moran
Set of dishes for six - Helen Weinstein Wine - Norman Reed
Snowman - Jean Cammon
Santa Claus - Marty Whittemore

The Winchester Seniors Association appreciates the staunch support given continuously by its many friends in the community.

Leonor M. Rich

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Co-operative Theatre for Children would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the children who came down to the Congregational Church to try out for a part in "Charlotte's Web."

We were thrilled by the interest and enthusiasm that was displayed by so many talented children. Our only regret is that space is limited.

Therefore, some children will not have the opportunity to participate this year. Fortunately, the Recreation Dept. will be sponsoring a drama workshop beginning in January, which might be of interest to some of you.

The Co-operative Theatre for Children hopes to do another production next year. We look forward to seeing you then.

Library Service

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

How many organizations in Winchester know that there is in the public library an engagement book in which they may enter their various activities?

There have been several occasions this fall and particularly in this holiday season when three or four interesting and special events have been scheduled for the same day. It certainly would be helpful in arranging the dates for meetings if we first consulted the engagement book and then entered the necessary information.

Let us all join in using this service which the library has provided for some 30 years.

Agnes M. Aiken

Emergency Thanks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

We wish to express our deepest thank you to the firemen and police for the quick response to our call for emergency. They worked so hard and so fast to the very end.

Our deepest thanks to the great and wonderful people at the emergency room in the Winchester Hospital. Thank you all.

Elderly Visits

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

With so many elderly in nursing homes it would be so nice if folks would visit some of them at this time of each year.

Even if you do not know them, they would appreciate a visit from someone. Some of them do not have anyone. A little fruit or candy would be nice also or some kind of a small gift. Most people have too much these days and could spare a little time and a small gift.

Have a nice holiday everybody.

50 Years Ago

If you didn't get some of the cards you were expecting this Christmas, don't blame those who you thought would send them until you're sure of the omission, and don't subject the force at the local post office to censure until sure of your ground. Neither may be to blame.

Last Friday about noon a sack of mail, in being tossed from a northbound train at the usual point near the beginning of the Woburn loop, fell under the wheels of one of the cars and was rather thoroughly distributed about the landscape between here and East Billerica. Pieces of mail have been picked up all along the route between Winchester and the previously named point. Some of it went into Black Ball.

Just how the accident occurred isn't known. Postmaster George Lochman believes a man, unused to tossing off the sack, struck the signal wires along the side of the tracks and was hurled back under the wheels of the train.

Lochman stated that by far the greater part of the mail was recovered and delivered. That which went into the pond was fished out, but, of course some of it was destroyed beyond redemption. And that card you were expecting from Cousin Billy or Aunt Sue may have fallen in the last named category.

The postal authorities are sorry, but they can't deliver what's left of a card or letter if the portion they happen to have doesn't include the address.

They have delivered, so far as they could tell, the heaviest mail ever this season. From Monday Dec. 16 through Monday Dec. 23, 145,000 letters and cards went through the local office and the end was then by no means in sight. Extra carriers and parcel post men were on the jump and the package mail was distributed daily with the aid of the big army truck. Christmas was a busy time at the Winchester post office this year.

Crittenton League Has Christmas Parties

Mrs. Ralph Norton, vice president of the Circle, is in charge of the event.

A Christmas party was also held Dec. 11 at the home of Mrs. Ralph Swanson. Mrs. Aram Mouradian, president, presided and introduced several new members.

Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, program chairman, presented "Les Troubadours," the Winchester High School French singing group under the direction of Eleanor A. Thistlewaite, musical director.

The group sang a medley of Christmas and Spanish carols. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sam Goutanis and Mrs. George Pacetti, chairmen.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1949 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

Advisory Board Could Face Changes After Denying Funds Says Saltmarsh

By William Donovan

Winchester State Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh, the town's representative on the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority Advisory Board, feels that Monday's vote by the Board against additional funds for the T for the rest of this year, could mean some changes in the Advisory Board.

"I think as a result of this there'll be legislation filed to reorganize the Advisory Board," Saltmarsh said Tuesday night. He added that "there's been comments all along about diluting the power of the Advisory Board but I haven't seen anything."

Saltmarsh's comments follow a vote by the Advisory Board Monday to deny the T $12.1 million needed to continue service through the end of the year. MBTA Chairman Robert Foster had said that the transit service, which includes 79 cities and towns, would stop running if the T did not receive those funds.

Since the T was denied the funds needed, Gov. Edward J. King took emergency control of the T, vetoing the Advisory Board's vote and supplying the service with the funds. Foster remains in charge, but the state now funds the system.

Saltmarsh, who voted against denying the T funds and in favor of a proposal that would supply the transit system $8.6 million to continue operation, felt that the move by the Advisory Board was somewhat irresponsible.

"I felt we had to do something," said Saltmarsh. "If you just vote zero and walk away from it you're really shirking your responsibilities." He added that even though he is unsatisfied with many areas of the T, with the conditions that exist, the Christmas season, the cold climate, some positive action should have been taken by the Advisory Board. "I felt we should at least compromise somewhere between $4 and $8 million."

But Saltmarsh doesn't find the reasoning behind the Board's action difficult to understand. "I think that the Advisory Board felt that because of the lack of controls, the board should not condone this overspending and therefore throw it back into the state's lap. But we've got a responsibility to make sure the system operates and throwing it back to the state is not going to cut the cost down."

One of the repercussions of the state take over could be that the cities and towns in the service will be assessed with the bill to pay for the additional $12.1 million. Saltmarsh is completely against this and is in the process of drawing up legislation which would require the state to assume 100 percent of the bill.

"If we had voted for some money the state would probably have picked up half of it," Saltmarsh points out, adding that this is usually standard procedure.

Saltmarsh stated that there are a number of reasons why the T is suffering at this point, other than the obvious problem of a large consumption of fuel, the prices of which have risen drastically.

Another major headache for the T has been the unions. Presently the T labor force is comprised of 28 unions. Their contracts and archaic work laws add to the systems inefficiency.

"Some of the unions have automatic cost of living increases each year," Saltmarsh noted. "A year ago the legislature passed legislation to take that out and the governor signed it. They went to the Labor Relations Board and they said the legislation didn't hold up."

Saltmarsh also feels that the old work laws are a problem in that only certain people can do specific tasks. "They make people very unproductive." Which has been one of the charges against the unions recently when the efficiency of the transit system is discussed.

Concerning Chairman Foster, Saltmarsh stated that he is presently being evaluated by the administration and that "the next 45 to 60 days are going to be the barometer of whether he stays on as the head of the MBTA."

Continuing on Foster, Saltmarsh noted that "I think he's limited in the respect that he really never had any prior experience in government." He added that this lack has severely hampered the T chairman, particularly when dealing with the Advisory Board. "It's a glaring weakness that you just can't put aside."

With Foster in charge of the T management, conditions between his group and the Advisory Board have slowly deteriorated. "I've never seen such polarization between management and the Advisory Board. The result is coming to the point which we came to yesterday (Monday)," said Saltmarsh.

The problems for the T will be mounting soon, as the Advisory Board has not yet approved the 1980 budget for which Foster has requested $300 million. "The true budget should be about $354 million," Saltmarsh pointed out, noting that the T has to stay under the four percent tax cap in 1980 and thus was requesting a conservative figure.

"I think we definitely have to have a fare increase," offers Saltmarsh. "We have the lowest fare of any major transit system in the United States."

But that would only be one of the changes the T needs to remedy its fall. Whether conditions between the Advisory Board and the T management improve remains to be seen.

Relief Fund Started To Aid Burnt Out Restaurant Owner

The fire which destroyed most of the upper portion of a building on Cross street last Wednesday really only caused smoke and water damage to Mantini's Restaurant. But the predicament it has left owner Joe Mantini in is a dire one and has provided the impetus for a recently started fund to help him get back on his feet.

"As far as my business goes I'm out," Mantini said on Tuesday from his Wilmington home. He noted that when a fire occurs in a building it terminates the existing lease. He also stated that the owner of the building, John Hall of Winchester plans on converting the structure to an apartment complex.

On Tuesday night, Hall stated that he won't be sure what he'll do with the building until he knows how much the insurance company will pay him. Hall stated that the building is insured for $80,000, but if the insurance company only gives him around $30,000-$40,000 he would only restore the structure.

But what is an even greater problem for Mantini is the fact that his business was not insured for fire. "The rates were too high to afford," says Mantini who currently pays $850 annually in liability insurance.

Mantini, who discovered the fire which was caused by a carelessly disposed cigarette, figures he'll need about $8000-$9000 to get his business going again. "I'm liquidating now, with the holidays coming," he stated. "I need some capital."

He has no form of income at the moment but is hoping to find a job until he can reestablish his business. Mantini would like to remain in Winchester. "I do want to stay in Winchester. I've made a lot of good friends there," he points out. The fund which has been started, called the "Friends of Mantini" is directed by Ann Rebello of A&R Wallpaper and Paints in Winchester (See

The fund will be conducted through the Old Colony Bank on Main street and Rebello plans an open house for Mantini at her shop on Jan. 4. "We'll be taking contributions then." She added that "so far, the response has been great from people I've talked to."

Mantini is quite grateful for the help that the fund might bring. "That was super nice. I don't know what to say I'm really taken by all of this."

Groux Expects Problems With Cap For Next Budget

Stating that "I know we're going to have problems with the tax cap, even a four percent cap," Town Manager Thomas Groux gave a brief presentation to the Board of Selectmen Monday night on budget considerations for the 1981 fiscal year.

"I would say we're pretty far along with all the preliminary material submitted by all the departments," Groux told the Selectmen. He noted that he wants to have a budget that recommends continuing the same services the town now offers. "After four budgets, my feeling is that we have reduced those services that seem to make sense."

Groux also mentioned that he did not wish to recommend any "wholesale" reductions in personnel or programs at this time, but when pressed for some possible "retail" cuts from Selectman Edward O'Connell, Groux mentioned the possibility of reductions in public safety.

"I would hope, before you get too far down the line in seeking any reductions in public safety," began O'Connell, "I would hope you would inform this board for discussion."

Selectman Barbara Hankins

Relations Between Town And DMH Improving According To Wilsack

Relations and communications between the Department of Mental Health (DMH), including Task Oriented Communities (TOC) and the Town of Winchester, have been steadily improving after the disastrous start of last summer, according to Board of Selectmen Chairman Richard N. Wilsack.

"They're attempting to work with the town, that's clear to me," Wilsack said on Monday. "They're kind of closing a loop at this point. What happened, happened and I think we're all trying to learn from it so it doesn't happen again."

A letter from Dr. Barbara Hoffman, regional services administrator of DMH, explaining difficulties which DMH had in obtaining funding to contract TOC for the house on 87-89 Cross street, is the most recent communication between the two groups. The letter is another in a series of attempts to explain the confusion concerning TOC's occupying of that home.

The Selectmen were originally contacted by TOC in October of 1978 and informed that TOC was interested in establishing a community residence in town. A community residence is a home with approximately 10 former state hospital patients who are being reoriented into society. The patients suffer from emotional disorders such as schizophrenia.

From October of 1978 until last August, the Selectmen were not informed of the progress of TOC in securing a house in Winchester. In August they received a letter from TOC stating that a house on Cross street had been leased and that the residents would be moving in within two weeks.

The residents of the area and the Selectmen were outraged, feeling that they had been deceived by TOC. The representatives from TOC had guaranteed that they would keep the Selectmen informed about their proceedings, yet this was the first they had heard of the purchase. The neighbors were upset because they claimed they had not been informed as to what community residences were all about and that they were never consulted. TOC claims they were.

In the letter from Hoffman, she mentions that, along with the problem of Winchester residents who were unwilling to show properties to TOC, in January the budget for fiscal year 1980, which was presented to the legislature by DMH, did not contain sufficient funding to permit DMH to continue operating TOC's program in the coming fiscal year. With this in the way, according to Hoffman, TOC stopped their search for a house.

The funding problem continued throughout this past spring. The Senate version of the DMH fiscal year 1980 budget did not include any funding for TOC programs, planned or in progress. However, the House version supplied the necessary money for all of the programs. Since there was an obvious difference between the two legislative bodies, the matter was referred to the Joint Conference Committee for resolution.

Meanwhile, in May of this year, realtor Sherman Josephson, who was contacted along with other real estate agents in town in October of 1978 by TOC, notified that group that the house on Cross Street had been placed on the market. TOC informed him of the budget complications and that they were only interested in leasing the property, not purchasing.

"When I bought the house I called Ellen McTigue (administrator of TOC)," said Josephson on Monday. "She thanked me and then told me that she didn't have any money. So I began looking elsewhere. I didn't buy the place with them in mind, but I thought of them shortly afterwards."

In May, still without budget approval, DMH decided to continue the contract with TOC for the 1980 fiscal year, subject to appropriation. TOC went ahead with their plans and finally learned in the middle of July, according to Hoffman's letter, that the 1980 budget had been approved.

Once they were assured of funding, TOC contacted Josephson to indicate they were interested in the Cross street home.

According to Wilsack, he had heard of some budget trouble earlier, but the information he had was not totally clear. "After the people moved in there was some indication that there was some budget problem," Wilsack stated. "But this is certainly the most detailed explanation."

The Selectmen chairman feels that Hoffman's letter is just another in an effort by both sides to make sure that the hostility that was created with the first house, isn't created again. "They're still trying to justify what happened. It's not going to change the reality of it, but at least they're trying to make an attempt to explain what did happen," Wilsack noted. He added that communication between the two groups at first was "abysmal."

Committees Discuss Attitudinal Survey Express Need To Revitalize Center

By PEYTON FLEMING

At a meeting this week to discuss the results of the Planning Board's Attitudinal Survey of Winchester Center and Housing, Selectmen and Planning Board members alike acknowledged that local officials and representatives from the business community will have to work in trying to attract a greater number of shoppers to the Center.

"You need one hand to wash the other," Planning Board member Joseph Geary commented, "for local merchants and the town to both benefit from the response to the May survey."

The survey "regarding issues related to Winchester Center and Housing" is a response to the growing concern towards Winchester Center's declining tax base and revenues during recent years.

Selectman Edward O'Connell lamented "that parts of the town right now are on the verge of decay." While Planning Board Chairman Charles Tseckares added that "in the 12 years since I've lived here, Winchester has become tarnished and tired looking."

The purpose of the town wide survey was "to obtain the opinion of a representative sampling of the citizens of the town, Town Meeting members and members of the Chamber of Commerce," so local officials could have a better idea of how to combat Winchester Center's commercial lethargy.

A total of 433 citizens, 110 Town Meeting members and 45 Chamber of Commerce members responded to the seven-page questionnaire. Two hundred and 16 citizens polled said that they were dissatisfied with Winchester Center's performance, which has caused many to shop elsewhere. The reasons most commonly stated for their disenchantment were: a lack of shopping variety; poor parking facilities; and increases in costs.

Approximately 362 residents also mentioned that they would use Winchester more often if the town offered a good restaurant; 307 if it had a movie house; 227 if it had a liquor store; and 129 if it had a department store. However, 94 percent of the those polled supported the "idea" of having an active center for their community.

Planning Board members and Selectmen alike appeared pleased with the enthusiastic response to the questionnaire; 41 percent of the 1061 citizens that received the questionnaire responded.

It was generally concluded that the existent parking arrangement in Winchester is quite suspect and could be improved. Selectman Barbara Hankins suggested that owners who park in front of their stores all day could be forced to park elsewhere.

Tseckares felt that it didn't seem right that persons parking all day on Thompson street paid less when fined than persons legally parking elsewhere.

Selectman Wade Welch also pointed out that parking facilities could be improved through state funding, however, that parking was not the crux of the problem. Welch's position was reinforced when Board of Selectmen Chairman Richard Wilsack mentioned that Harvard Square is a centralized area lacking in parking facilities but thriving commercially.

Stephen Anderson of the Planning Board added that "it is a very rare day when one has to park more than three minutes away from the store that one wants to go into in Winchester."

The strongest reason mentioned for not shopping in Winchester was lack of variety. Besides the 149 persons that come into town to use the banks and the 242 who come in to buy food, very few venture into the Center for any other reason. Only 18 said they come into Winchester at least once a week to buy clothes. Two-thirds of those polled said they hardly ever come into Winchester to purchase clothes, if at all.

Of the 433 citizens who responded to the questionnaire, only 43 said they come into Winchester at least once a month for entertainment or relaxation - the rest never come in.

Anderson was critical of citizens' response when they indicated they would like to have a good bookstore, movie theatre and gift store since, when they did have one (movie theatre) before, it wasn't supported.

John Brown, a consultant, stated that "the town needs an anchor store, and that the smaller commercial stores can only act as a supplement, not a major force." Brown also pointed out that a town of Winchester's size is not large enough to support a large store such as Sear or Caldors.

Another question that the Survey addressed was Winchester's present zoning bylaws which are restrictive to the extent that many residents, regardless of age, have been forced to find suitable housing elsewhere.

The Attitudinal Survey asked citizens to respond to a number of zoning bylaw changes that would help increase the local population and eventually facilitate the commercial growth of the Center.

Residents were asked if they would approve of small accessory apartments within some of Winchester's large homes; if they would approve of having vacant parcels of land three acres or more developed into three-story garden apartments; whether they would approve of having zoning for limited mid-rise apartments in Winchester; or whether the number of units on a given piece of land could be reduced so that the purchase price would be lowered to attract smaller buildings.

Residents were generally supportive of the three types of apartments. Fifty-six percent of those polled said that they would not be opposed to zoning changes that would permit larger homes in Winchester to contain an accessory apartment.

Fifty-one percent said that they would not be opposed to developing vacant parcels of land over three acres in their own neighborhoods into two or three-story apartments. And 64 percent said they were in favor of either increasing the existent height limitation on mid-rise apartments to 65 feet or of reducing the maximum number of apartment units on each plot so that land values would decrease.

In response to this support for increased housing, Welch emphasized that a proposal should be drawn up to increase the limitations on mid-rise apartments from 45 to 65 feet. A similar proposal was defeated at the Spring, 1978 Town Meeting.

Stop excusing your life away.

Everyone has an excuse for not seeing their doctor about colorectal cancer. However, every year 52,000 men and women die of colorectal cancer in this country alone. Two out of three of these people might be saved by early detection and treatment. Two out of three.

So what is your excuse? Today you have a new, simple, practical way of providing your doctor with a stool specimen on which he can perform the guaiac test. This can detect signs of colorectal cancer in its early stages before symptoms appear. While two out of three people can be saved. Ask your doctor about a guaiac test, and stop excusing your life away.

MORTGAGE PROTECTION

Homeowners insurance is great. It can protect you against almost any conceivable damage or accident that can happen in, on, around and even away from your home. But do not make the mistake of thinking that your homeowners insurance will pay off your mortgage upon the breadwinner's death. It won't.

For this type of protection, and it is desirable, you must purchase a certain type of term life insurance policy for a period of time equal to the length of the mortgage loan.

The premiums on such policies are relatively low—in fact, they are about the lowest cost life insurance policies you can buy because the insurance protection decreases with the reduction of your mortgage. Most insurance companies will tailor a plan to fit your needs and in many cases you can have the payments included in your mortgage payment to the bank. Check with your insurance agent and he will be able to give you the details regarding this protection.

In all your real estate needs—buying—selling—rentals—appraisals—consultation—please phone or drop in at

Tseckares added that "the concept of condominiums is stronger now than it was when the citizens responded to our questions in May." Because of related events in Boston, Tseckares felt that the mechanics are there for a private entrepreneur to go into a place, like Parkview apartments, and be able to convert them into condominiums.

The overall response to the results of the Survey were positive. Hankins felt "that since we now have an indication from the people that everyone wants a town center, we now have the responsibility to pick up the commercial sector and the town's revenue."

Tseckares wished that at least one representative from the Chamber of Commerce attended the Monday night meeting. He felt that local merchants would be enthusiastic to the citizens' purported interest in the town's center, and hoped they would do whatever possible to facilitate future commercial activity.

Wilsack mentioned in closing that each representative body should discuss the Survey results and come up with suggestions on how they can get more mileage out of the Center.

About Town

Vice president of the junior and senior high Volunteer Association at New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn is Margie Johnson.

Dr. Randie Black-Schaffer recently joined the medical staff of New England Rehabilitation Hospital in Woburn as an attending physician.

Black-Schaffer received a bachelor of arts degree from Swarthmore College, a master of arts degree from Indiana University and a medical degree from the Indiana University School of Medicine. She served an internship at Rhode Island Hospital.

Fairview terrace resident Steven J. Sahaney was recently appointed sales manager in Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's office in Woburn.

Sahaney joined Metropolitan Life last year as a sales representative in the Malden office. He has completed one part of the Life Underwriters Training Council course and is a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters. A native of West Roxbury, Sahaney is a graduate of Boston Technical High School and received a bachelor of science degree from Boston State College.

Two Winchester residents were recently elected senior officers at John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. as of Jan. 1. They are: William B. Budd and Edward J. Boudreau.

Budd was promoted to vice president of the portfolio management department. He joined John Hancock in 1960 as a trainee in the bond and stock department. A graduate of Yale University, Budd holds a master's degree in business administration from Harvard Business School. He is a chartered financial analyst, a member of the Boston Society of Security Analysts and an instructor for its education program. He is also an instructor for the Boston Chartered Financial Analysts Program.

Boudreau was elected second vice president of the treasury department. He joined the company in 1967 as a management trainee where he served in various capacities, most recently as general director of the banking and short term investments division.

A graduate of Boston University, Boudreau has a master's degree in business administration from Suffolk University. He is a member of the cash management committee of the Life Office Management Corporation Association, served on the faculty at Suffolk since 1976, and was previously an instructor for Fisher Jr. College, the American Management Association and the Wharton Entrepreneurial Center.

International Committee Discusses Plans For Fair

The International Fair Committee held a meeting at the high school Dec. 11 to give participants in the fair a chance to ask questions and to hear the plans discussed by the steering committee.

McCall's International Club was represented by three students: Smriti Shah, president; Leena Rai, vice president; Ann Cullen, secretary; and Kim Morgan, treasurer. This club will be representing India with dances, costumes and exhibits.

Also discussed was a recently formed Irish group which proposes to erect an Irish cottage, complete with thatched roof. Here they will serve tea, traditional foods, and perform Irish folk songs and tales. The committee also hopes to hire the Taylors, a couple who perform folk dances, to lead group dancing.

It was decided that the fair would be March 15 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. A proposal was brought by Multicultural Specialist Lee Behnke that the fair be focused entirely within Winchester.

Originally, the steering committee had intended to publicize the fair throughout the Boston area. However, many committee members now feel the fair would be more successful if limited to Winchester residents.

Those interested in becoming involved in the International Fair should contact Behnke or Frank Bronzo at Winchester High School.

Public Works Gears Up For Winter

The Department of Public Works is "in good shape for this winter" according to Director Walter Tonaszuck. With approximately 75 employees and a budget of $110,000 in overtime and new equipment, Tonaszuck says they are well prepared for snow.

New equipment will "reduce costs, and should provide better services. This year, with a new snow blower, we anticipate that the removal of snow will be done at a faster rate," he said.

The Department of Public Works has also acquired three automatically controlled sand-salt spreaders. According to Tonaszuck, these will save on costs by "regulating the speed at which sand and salt is dispersed according to the speed of the vehicle."

Sand now costs approximately $3.50 a ton while salt, the cost of which has been increasing during the last few years, is stabilized at about $26 per ton.

A sand-salt combination is used to aid in melting the snow. However, the proportion used in each storm is dependent on "the time of the storm, traffic conditions, anticipated precipitation and weather conditions after the storm." Usually, Tonaszuck says, the combination is two parts sand to one part salt in the beginning of winter. But, since salt raises the point at which snow freezes more is used in January and February when the temperature drops.

During major snowfalls, travel conditions are most dangerous on the west side of town, particularly on Johnson road and High street which are at higher elevations than other parts of town said Tonaszuck. These streets are heavily travelled and are given priority when sanding and plowing.

The budget for overtime pay is based on an anticipated snowfall of 60 to 65 inches. Last year the Department of Public Works didn't need the entire amount allotted for overtime, Tonaszuck said. Whereas in 1977-1978 snowfall was so severe that the Department had to petition the Finance Committee for additional monies.

Last week the Department of Public Works had its first bout this year with snow when a 16-hour storm dumped one and one-half inches in Winchester.

"Last week's storm was a hefty one but it didn't require a lot of sand and salt to be used because of mild temperatures," said Tonaszuck. Crews sanded and plowed until midnight on Thursday and resumed work Friday at 5 a.m. to combat icy road conditions. Overtime pay amounted to $750; $1144 was spent for 44 tons of salt; and $449 for 123 tons of sand.

Winchester was named for Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown, a wealthy Boston merchant who was a Colonel in the Corps of Cadets volunteer regiment.

Former Governor John Volpe returned to Winchester recently and was the feature speaker at the annual joint meeting of the service clubs of Winchester hosted by the Winchester Lions Club. Close to a hundred members of the Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis and Jaycees were in attendance as Volpe spoke of his home in Winchester, his term as governor, his year as Secretary of Transportation and his experience as Ambassador to Italy. With Volpe are (left to right): Robert Fiore, Lions Club president, Sen. Sam Rotondi, Volpe, Rep. Whip Saltmarsh and Board of Health Director Michael Saraco, the Master of Ceremonies for the evening. Woman Tied Up, Then Robbed By Intruder

A Fells road woman was tied up and robbed in her home Dec. 11, with the intruder making off with over $3500 in cash and merchandise, according to the Winchester Police.

"Nothing has broken in that case at all," said Winchester Police Chief John McHugh on Tuesday. "We thought we had a suspect but it turned out he wasn't the one."

According to the police report, the woman returned home around 8 p.m. and found the intruder in the hallway. Although the house was mostly in darkness, the victim described the robber as a white male in his middle 30s, approximately six feet, three inches tall with a very prominent nose.

The intruder took the woman upstairs and tied her up onto the bed, facing down. At no time was she molested, according to the police report.

According to the woman, the robber told her that he was a drug addict and asked her if she had any drugs in the home. She replied that she did not. At that point the robber began to ransack the house.

According to the police list, the intruder took a gold pendant, valued at about $400, a woman's ring, valued at $200, two cameras with total value of about $600 as well as two stereo speakers from the living room.

The robber also made off with a tea set from the dining room, and a sterling silver place setting valued at $2000. Taken from the living room was a color television worth $500 and $50 in cash.

The first Town Clerk in the Town of Winchester was Dr. David Youngman who not only ran an apothecary shop but was also a bookseller and stationer.

Track Team Off Right Foot, Beats Belmont

The Winchester High boys' track team began their season in grand fashion last Saturday with a 68-16 triumph over Belmont High at Lexington Field House.

"We had some good performances," Sachem coach Tom Kline said Monday. "I think it's probably the most balanced team that I've had in some time. The amount of depth is impressive."

The Sachems captured first place in every event except the 1000 yard race and the high jump. Brian Donnellan finished in a tie for first in the high jump, but dropped to second when he didn't make his fourth jump at five feet six inches.

"We were really strong in the 300 and the 600," Kline noted. In the 600 yard race, Kenny Kirk took the top spot for the locals with a time of 1:19.2, followed by Ken Jacobson and sophomore Al Chen. In the 300, Don MacMillan, just back after recovering from a broken jaw he suffered during the football season, finished first with a time of 34.8. Tom Wilsack and John Alcione placed second and third in the event.

In a time of just over six seconds, Luke Natsis won the hurdles for the locals, while Steve Criscione, in a time of 5.5 won the 45 yard dash.

In the 1000 yard event, Danny Joslin and John Weisman placed second and third with times of 2:36 and 2:36.4, behind the winning time of 2:35.2.

Winchester swept the shotput with Bobby Cooke first at 43.8 feet. He was followed by sophomore Paul Manganaro and Rich Montouri. The Sachems also swept the mile and two mile events as Joe Flynn finished first in the mile with a time of 4:45, followed by Tom Ducey and Mark Costello. In the two mile, John Provenzo with a time of 10:52 was first, followed by sophomores Pat Kennedy and Joe Callahan.

Finally, the team of MacMillan, Kopruc, Jacobson and Kirk won the relay with a time of 3:41.7.

"We were pretty strong in the 600 and the 300," Kline pointed out. "The other events we have the ability to take a first. The relay should give us five points every time."

In 1780 Winchester had to provide 24,078 pounds of beef under the levied "beef taxes" for the revolutionary army. The town, like all Massachusetts communities, was also required to provide as many shirts, shoes and stockings as would cover one-seventh of the town's male population. In Winchester this meant 21 blankets and 42 each of shirts, stockings and shoes.

Hoopsters Start Season Slow, Drop Opener To Arlington, 58-42

It was not an impressive beginning for a program that's trying to come back. The Winchester High varsity basketball team fell into an early hole and never really recovered, losing their season opener to Arlington High last week, 58-42 in Arlington.

"We were very nervous in that first game," said Sachem coach John Myers on Monday. "We kind of drew blanks. A lot of things we tried to do we did better in the first part of the week."

Winchester had problems with a full-court press the Spy Ponders applied early in the first quarter, falling behind 17-2 minutes into the game. "I think if we reacted better to the press, it would have been a ballgame the whole time," Myers pointed out.

Instead, the Sachems were hesitant and began forcing their passes, many of which were stolen. To complicate matters, Arlington was shooting well from the outside in the first quarter.

The second quarter was a different story as the Sachems, behind some torrid foul shooting climbed back into the contest. "They ran the offense the way it's supposed to be run," said the Sachem coach. "That second quarter is what we're trying to bottle and spread around."

Winchester started running their plays and working the ball inside to center Bill Herder. After missing a number of shots right under the hoop, Herder began to bank a few in and the Sachems started coming back. IPD At the other end of the floor, Arlington started playing sloppy ball, falling out of their patterns and the Sachems were their for the rebound. By the end of the half, Winchester had pulled to within one, 29-28 and we had a ballgame.

Arlington quickly eliminated any ideas of Winchester equalling their total number of wins of a year ago when they again started pressing the Sachems early in the second half. Kevin Thomas did most of the ballhandling for the Sachems, but usually could only find Herder to pass to when trying to break Arlington's pressure. "Billy Herder reacted very well," Myers pointed out. "He seemed to be kind of relaxed about it."

The Spy Ponders slowly pulled away and salted the game in the fourth quarter, holding Winchester to only four points.

Myers was optimistic about the loss. "Actually I'm kind of glad they pressed us," the first year coach began. "Sooner or later, if we're going to be a ballteam, we're going to have to handle that pressure."

Another good sign was Myers' use of his bench. Nearly all of the players dressed appeared in the game, all acquiring early season playing time that could pay off in a deep team later on in the season.

Driscoll Named To Girls' Soccer All-Scholastic Team

Winchester High senior Christine Driscoll joined a number of her classmates in post-season honors recently, as she was named to the 1979 Boston Globe All-Scholastic Girls' Soccer Team.

For Driscoll it was her second year on the team, having also made it as a junior. This year Driscoll tri-captained the Sachemettes who cruised through their schedule undefeated, only to be upset in the first round of the Eastern Mass. tournament by Needham High. Driscoll did not play in that contest because of a knee injury and coach Chris Scanlon noted at that time that her loss severely effected his club's play.

Joining Driscoll on the Middlesex-Merrimack League All-Star team were Sachemettes Barbara Jacobs, another of the team's tri-captains, and junior Ann Porell.

Jacobs had an outstanding season at left-halfback and was a threat from virtually anywhere in the opponents end of the field. Porell lead the Sachemettes in scoring this season and should be one of the league's dominant players next season.

Swimmers Open With Win Over Don Bosco

By BRIAN BERKLEY

After two hard weeks of practice, the Sachem swimmers came out of the weekend, with a win and a tie. For eight days, the boy's swim team has got up around 4:30 a.m., drove to Wakefield, started swimming by 5:30 a.m. and got to school by 8 a.m. Their hard work paid off.

Coached by Vincent Palumbo, and his son, Vincent Jr., the team came home with a well deserved win and tie. The opening meet, versus Don Bosco showed the potential of this years team.

The opening race, the 200 yard medley relay was just one of the nine first places by Winchester in a 13-event meet. The winning relay was swum by Alan Christy, John MacNamara, Mark Estabrook, and Bobby McGillicuddy.

The next event, the 200 yard freestyle was won by the newly elected Co-Captain Mickey Minutoli, and was followed up by Jon Krueger. The 200 yard medley captured the Sachems their third straight first place, won by Richard Webber with junior Collin Green placing fourth.

The 500 free, was taken one two, by Seth MacDonald and sophomore McGillicuddy, respectively. Mark Estabrook then followed with a second place finish in the diving.

After the break for diving, Minutoli and John MacNamara prepared for the

The Town of Winchester, Massachusetts announces the availability of the report of the Board of Selectmen setting forth policy guidelines with respect to the proposed license for the construction and operation of a cable television system for the Town of Winchester. Copies of the report are available for public inspection in the Town Clerk's Office and the Board of Selectmen's Office, Town Hall, Winchester, Massachusetts, during regular business hours and for reproduction at a reasonable fee.

The Town of Winchester will accept additional applications for a cable television license until 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, January 10, 1980 at the Office of the Board of Selectmen, Town Hall, Winchester, Massachusetts. At least two copies of each additional application should be filed on Form 100 of the Massachusetts Community Antenna Television Commission and should be accompanied by $100 non-refundable filing fee payable to the Town of Winchester. A copy of the application should also be filed with the Massachusetts Community Antenna Television Commission.

January 10, 1980 will be the final filing date for new applications in Winchester and for amendments to previously filed applications and no applications or amendments will be accepted after that date. Copies shall be made available in the Town Clerk's Office and the Board of Selectmen's Office for inspection during regular business hours and for reproduction at a reasonable fee.

strenuous 100 yard butterfly, again winning first and fourth place. Then came the race of the day, with senior sensation, and two year captain, Chris Porter. He won the 100 yard freestyle easily, with a shocking time of 53.1 seconds, smashing his personal best by over two seconds.

The gruelling 500 yard free, was won by Rich Webber, and was follo ed by a close fourth place finish by the ever faithful Brian Sullivan. A first and third place finish by Allen Christy and Collin Green in the 100 yard backstroke just about wrapped up the first meet of the season for the Sachems.

When Estabrook placed second, and Mark Kennedy placed fourth in the 100 yard breaststroke they knew they had won the meet. The ninth first place finish by the Sachems came from a relay by Porter, Minutoli, McGillicuddy and Webber, with an impressive time of 3:53.32 for the 400 yard free relay.

The next day the Sachems swam against a tough Malden Catholic. Again the first relay showed promise, by taking the 200 medley relay, swum by Webber, Estabrook, MacNamara, and Macdonald. The second first place was by Minutoli and a fourth by Jon Krueger in the 200 yard freestyle.

But by the end of the diving, even with Estabrook's first place finish, Winchester was down by one. Minutoli and MacNamara then tied it up with a first and fourth in the 100 yard fly. Again the amazing Porter showed his dominance in the 100 yard free, by posting an impressive 52.8 second swim.

However, Winchester fell behind again when, Webber and Sullivan could only place third and fourth, in the trying 500 yard freestyle. They then dropped down further, when Green and Mike Cruanaccia finish third and fourth, in the 100 yard backstroke.

But when the going got tough, the tough get going, and Porter and Estabrook did just that, by placing one two, in the 100 yard breast.

All Winchester had to do was win the relay, and that they did, Minutoli, Porter, McGillicuddy and Macdonald, won it going away, to stretch the Sachems undefeated streak to two.

Disaster Appeal Drive Has Goal Of $1700

"Our National Disaster Relief budget is exhausted," said Walter Armstrong, chairman of the Winchester Chapter of the American National Red Cross as he announced the start of a Special Disaster Appeal drive in Winchester.

"Red Cross chapters across the country are helping to raise the $15 million we'll need to make it through the coming winter storms and spring floods," he said. "This chapter will do its best to reach its goal of $1700. Winchester people responded very generously in 1978 when a disaster, the blizzard, happened here. I urge my fellow Winchester residents to respond that way again in order to help their fellow Americans."

John R. Ellis, 259 Washington st., was named as Chairman for this drive. "Emergency is the word for it. Nationally, this has been the worst year for disasters since 1974. The victims behind this financial crisis were two hurricanes named David and Frederic. They were responsible for nearly $13.4 million of the $23 million expended on preparedness and relief since July 1."

Red Cross disaster services are aimed at meeting the emergency needs of victims to provide additional assistance to individual families with "urgent and verified disaster-related needs." All assistance is an outright gift, with no strings attached, made on behalf of Americans to other Americans.

The Red Cross has dealt with 21 national disaster relief operations since July 1. Its funds have been spent to provide shelter, food, clothing, essential furnishings and basic health needs to over 450,000 victims. The Red Cross does this because it is chartered by Congress as the nation's primary volunteer disaster agency in providing immediate relief.

Ellis explained that the chapter would be contacting its previous donors and local businesses in order to meet its goal. "Many people chose to make their charitable contributions at this time of year. For those who were thinking of the Red Cross, I urge you to specifically earmark your gift for the Disaster Relief campaign. Send it to the Winchester Chapter, 39 Church st. Your help will keep the Red Cross on the scene to help come high water, wind or fire."

...In 1914, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

Even the most cautious traveler can run out of money while traveling. American Express card holders can go to the nearest American Express office and cash a check. Others should immediately contact the American embassy or nearest U.S. consular office. Unfortunately, though they cannot cash checks or issue emergency money. The embassy or consular office will, however, advise you about procedures, put you in touch with family, friends, or your employer and act as an intermediary when you try to obtain funds.

The cautious and wise traveller knows how to plan ahead by using the services of a travel agent. McGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE can help you whatever your travel needs. TRAVEL TIP: If you lose your passport in the U.S., immediately notify your local passport office or the U.S. Passport Office, Department of State, Washington, D.C. 20524.

If nobody else is planning for your retirement, maybe you'd better.

Don't let retirement sneak up on you unprepared. Start planning for it now with a Medford Savings Individual Retirement Account (IRA). Designed specifically for people who don't belong to a qualified retirement plan where they work, our IRA allows you to deposit 15% of annual income, up to a maximum of $1,500. A married person with a non-working spouse may contribute up to $1,750 or 15% of annual income (whichever is less). But married or single your IRA deposits are tax deductible... that is they are totally free from federal income tax until you retire and start to withdraw from your account. By that time, you'll probably be in a much lower tax bracket. So be smart at 30 and rich at 60. Sign up for a Medford Savings IRA. And remember, all IRA deposits made up to April 15, 1980 may be deducted from your 1979 federal income tax.

HOW AN IRA TAX-SHELTER HELPS YOUR RETIREMENT NEST EGG GROW

Age	Age 60	Age 65
25	$193,760.97	$293,363.18
35	81,116.16	126,515.84
45	29,771.52	50,465.15

The above table is based on an annual contribution of $1,000.00 placed in a 6-8 Year Term Deposit Certificate earning a nominal rate of interest of 7 3/4% per annum, 8.17% effective yield. This interest is compounded daily. You may, of course, place your IRA deposits in one of our other savings accounts or certificates. But no matter which plan you choose, you'll be earning the highest legal interest. All IRA term certificate deposits are subject to an interest penalty if withdrawn before maturity.

School Committee News

Redistricting

An earlier School Committee vote specifying the open enrollment policy for Muraco School students under next year's redistricting plan was changed at this week's meeting.

On Nov. 6 the Committee accepted what was thought to have been Supt. of Schools William MacDonald's recommendation that Cross, Lowell, Newton, Holton and Baldwin streets remain in the Lynch district, "but absolute preference be given to those given to open enrollment in the Muraco School for those children residing on those streets if so requested by their parents."

This week the School Committee corrected this to what should have been MacDonald's recommendation: that Cross, Lowell, Newton, Holton, Baldwin and East streets remain in the Lynch district, "but absolute preference be given to those given to open enrollment in the Muraco School for those children residing in homes numbered 1 through 174 on Cross, Lowell, Newton, Holton, Baldwin and East streets if requested by their parents."

Adult Education

Director of Adult Education Evander French's request for approval of the winter session was granted this week. The total cost of the program, which will be held Monday through Wednesday evenings at the high school, is projected at $6700.

Registration for the 10-week session will be held Jan. 23-24 from 6:30-8 p.m. in the main office of the high school. Classes start Jan. 28.

Budget

The first report of the fiscal 1981 school budget was published this week. The total is now projected at $9,437,373 compared with this year's $9,448,957; a reduction of $11,584.

Orientation Request

The School Committee denied the administration's request that May 15 be a release day for eighth and ninth graders to participate in an orientation program in view of next year's consolidation program.

From the consensus of the Committee it appeared that the request was denied on the basis of the date selected. Committee members, it seemed, were not against considering the possibility of a proposed release day in June.

MacDonald noted, in discussing the necessity of a release day, that a smooth transition program for students next year could be accomplished without a release day.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1949 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

There were a number of attractive gifts available at the Jenks Senior Center mini-fair on Saturday. (Photo By Susan Simeone)

Smith Trains

Navy Seaman Recruit Lynda M. Smith, daughter of Eileen and Andrew A. Smith Jr. of Wildwood street, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center in Orlando, Fla.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

A 1978 graduate of Winchester High School, Smith joined the Navy in September, 1979.

Active Duty

Navy Lt. Mark P. Fitzgerald, son of Mr. John W. and M. Elaine Fitzgerald of North Border road, has reported for duty with Attack Squadron 174, Cecil Field Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla.

Fitzgerald is a 1968 graduate of Winchester High School and a 1975 graduate of the University of West Florida. He joined the Navy in October, 1973.

Cresse Appointed

Peter R. Cresse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Cresse of Cambridge road, was recently appointed as Group Commander, AFROTC Det. 370 at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. Cresse, who was selected for this honor from a group of university seniors, will command 150 cadets as they prepare to enter commissioned service in the United States Air Force.

Cresse was the third consecutive graduate of Winchester High School, class of 1975, to be appointed Group Commander at U Mass. He will take over the command of Paul J. Amoroso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis R. Amoroso of Taft drive. Amoroso took over the command of Bruce C. West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth West of Collamore road.

71 Residents Donate Blood At St. Mary's Bloodmobile

Seventy-one Winchester residents volunteered to donate blood at the visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile at St. Mary's Parish Hall recently. 59 pints were accepted. Although the drive did not quite reach the goal of 65 collected units, officials say it was a good drive for this time of year and especially for a weekend.

Red Cross Chapter Chairman, Walter Armstrong, said he hoped more donors would respond at the Fourth Annual day-after-Christmas Blood drive at the Chapter House on Church Street. The need is great, he said, especially for O-Positive and O-Negative.

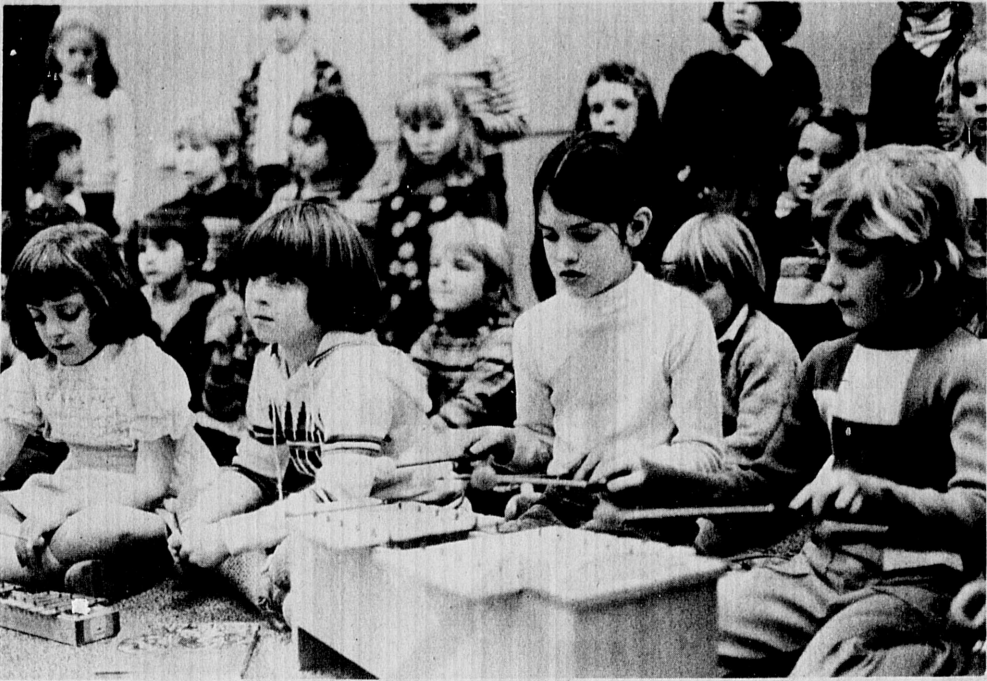

The St. Mary's Bloodmobile visit was chaired by Vincent Berger and Pat Heuchling. They were assisted by: Betty Adelsberger, R.N. Carol Kent, R.N. Pat Skehan, R.N. Dorothy Ulwick, R.N. Nancy Burgatti Betsy Brickley Alice O'Leary Lillian Costello Lisa Marone Jackie McIsaac Diane Tracey Mary Cullen Alice Ambrose Laura Fiorelli Eleanor Duffy Chris Franchi Dorothy Hoar Margaret Torres Chris Lockland Ruth Stevens Marilyn Quigley Angela Dyson

Telephone solicitors for this drive are: Vincent Berger Bob Gerrity Mildred Pride Blanche Webster Jaycee-ette Members: Diana Deering Nuala Ward Angela Catalano Claudine Nacamuli Elaine Russo Mary Falcone Marilyn McClearn Jeannette McKay Joanna Pywell Maureen Looney

Cub Scouts Hold Christmas Party

Cub Scout Pack 503 recently held a Christmas party to which Santa Claus made an unexpected visit. Special thanks go to Priscilla Miller and the Winchester High School Jazz Band which provided entertainment as well as sing along Christmas carols. Cub Scout Pack 503 would like to wish everyone a happy holiday season.

The first major step taken to petition the State Legislature to incorporate South Woburn into a separate town was at a meeting held in the vestry of the Congregational Church Monday Nov. 26, 1819 at 6:30 p.m. Names under consideration for the new town included Appleton, Winthrop, Avon, Channing, Waterville and Winchester.

Lynch Students Collect Food For Area Needy

Members of the Lynch Jr. High School French Club held a food collection Dec. 10-14 in which 937 items of non-perishable food were collected to be distributed by the Woburn Council on Social Concern.

In a competition among Friday first period classes Walter Lewis's eighth grade algebra class collected the most cans of food (118). The class voted to donate their prize money to The Boston Globe Santa Fund.

French Club members made posters, collected and tallied the food collected. Ninth graders in Barbara Norton's English classes prepared publicity notices and made announcements over the school's public address system. John Richmond of grade nine made a mobile for display in the school cafeteria as a reminder of the drive, and spoke at the annual holiday concert to remind parents and students of the collection.

Joseph Marotta thanked the Lynch students in the name of the Council and for the elderly and needy area citizens who will receive the food during the holiday season.

Local Resident Honored For Work In UNICEF

By SANDY THOMPSON
Elizabeth S. Williams ("Lib" to her friends) was honored recently on the occasion of her retirement as Massachusetts State Representative of the US Committee for UNICEF (The United Nations Childrens Fund).

At a party given in her honor by the UNICEF Committee of Greater Boston, Williams was presented with an honorary citation from the US Committee in New York "for distinguished conduct and fidelity in the performance of outstanding service to the world's children."

Accompanying the citation was a letter from the Executive Director, C. Lloyd Bailey, which read in part: "You have performed this service of love to the children of the world for 14 years. Your assistance in the state of Massachusetts, and especially in Boston, has been given with total dedication. We are deeply indebted to you for all you have done." Hugh Downs, chairman of the US Committee for UNICEF added in his own letter of appreciation, "The children in developing countries are better off because of your years of service."

When asked how she became involved with UNICEF, Williams told of her daughter's wanting to collect for UNICEF one Halloween. After getting a trick-or-treat collection box for her daughter, she became interested in UNICEF's work and became a volunteer in what was then an office shared with the World Affairs Council in Boston.

In 1965, the US Committee for UNICEF established a network of State Representatives and Williams was appointed. Since then she has travelled all over the state, speaking to groups about UNICEF's work and encouraging and assisting individuals and groups in their efforts to help UNICEF.

In 1966, Williams had her first opportunity to see first hand UNICEF at work in Guatemala. "I want people to understand, she emphasized, "that all trips such as these are paid for by the participants themselves. UNICEF money is not used. "It was my first experience in a developing country and the thing that really opened my eyes and excited me were the things being done and the great reception UNICEF had everywhere we went."

In 1970, she visited Ecuador and began to realize even more fully what it was like to live in a developing country where the annual per capita income was only $49. She remembers being particularly impressed with the health centers and schools UNICEF had helped establish, and in particular a training school for teachers.

There, for a stipend of $130. per year, UNICEF was able to train young students from rural areas to be teachers so that they could return to their villages and educate the young children there. "I saw so many instances where governments established programs but needed the help of an organization such as UNICEF to make them work. UNICEF provides expert help in planning and carrying out projects and can often assist by getting materials not available in the country," she said.

In 1975, Williams made her third most intensive, trip abroad, a one-month visit to India where she travelled throughout that country. "This trip really affected me," she stated. "The people were just beautiful. We saw everything from the simplest schools where children were sitting cross-legged on the pavement to an elaborate private school for girls where the students were working very hard for UNICEF themselves."

"I felt so privileged to be able to make this trip because although UNICEF has so many committed people working for it, not everyone has a chance to see its work first hand. It really made me see the world differently and I will never be the same."

In any of these trips I think the thing that has really impressed me is how wonderfully well off we are and how grateful we should be for what we have. And then the other thing is just how absolutely much the world depends on UNICEF and appreciates it." How can you measure that, she was asked. "It's just the great warm feeling we had wherever we went. If we were from UNICEF, we were welcomed with open arms."

When asked about her current commitments to UNICEF now that she has retired as state representative, she says she has been devoting time to UNICEF's Cambodian relief efforts.

"As it has in so many past emergencies," Williams said, "UNICEF

Elizabeth Williams, recently retired Mass. representative for the US Committee for UNICEF, receives a check from Alfred Saviano, international relations chairman of Kiwanis of New England. Saviano helped raise $2,000 as the Kiwanis celebration of the International Year of the Child. Between Williams and Saviano is Frank Avrukh of WCVB-TV, a member of the Greater Boston Committee for UNICEF and IYC Chairman.

is responding to the tragedy there." Designated the UN "lead agency" for Cambodian relief, UNICEF has been working from the outset with the International Committee of the Red Cross and OXFAM.

"As is true everywhere," she went on, "children are the most vulnerable to malnutrition and disease at a time when their physical and mental growth are at crucial stages. Severe malnutrition and disease are not only life-threatening, but can cause permanent physical and mental damage. It is said that a whole generation of children in Cambodia are being lost."

Fire Chief Offers Holiday Safety Tips

The Christmas season usually goes hand in hand with traditions. Since many customs revolve around the decorating of the Christmas tree, the Winchester Fire Department offers some tips to make the holiday season safe, not sorry.

Be careful when buying a tree. When purchasing one, buy a firm, fresh tree and store it in a cool place with the base of the tree in water until ready to decorate. If buying an artificial tree, be sure it is UL approved and flame resistant.

Make a check of the decorations to be used. Check the decorative lighting strings for frayed wires, broken cords and loose sockets. These conditions pose potential electrical fire hazards.

Keep the Christmas tree away from the fireplace, radiators and the TV set. Any heat source may cause the tree to become dry, thus creating a fire hazard.

Don't overload the tree by overloading the electrical circuits. Wires that carry more current than they can handle may overheat and cause a fire.

Don't leave the home or retire for the night before turning off the tree and other electrical decorations.

When purchasing gifts, especially electric appliances such as food blenders, hair dryers, and hot combs, make sure they have an Underwriters' Approval.

"What better way to show you really care," says Fire Department Chief Robert McElhinney, "than by purchasing a smoke detector to protect yourself and your loved ones. Consult the Fire Department for advice on the best location for installation of the smoke detector. Your Fire Department wishes you all the happiest and safest Christmas ever."

Two High School Brothers Awarded Eagle Scout Status

Two Winchester High School boys of BSA Troop 507 recently attained the rank of Eagle Scout. Robert and his brother Phil, sons of Roger and Priscilla Baumann, were awarded this highest honor in scouting on Oct. 12 in a ceremony at Crawford Memorial Chrch.

Present to congratulate the boys were Senator Rotondi and Representative Saltmarsh, who brought citations from the Senate and House of Representatives. President Carter also wrote a letter to each boy.

Donald Van Roosen, former scoutmaster of Troop 507 and BSA Minuteman Council President, awarded the Eagle charge.

As his special project Phil designed and constructed the Spartan logo presently mounted on the exterior wall of McCall Junior High School above the auditorium entrance. David Ardito, art instructor at McCall and the high school, says that the "design is elegant" and gives McCall "a symbol which is both functional and artistic."

Robert helped Susan Keats and her colleagues in completion of the Survey of Historical Assets of Winchester. Some of his time was spent photographing older homes in town and in classifying information at the Archival Center. But, his main contribution was the drawing of superimposable transparencies of Winchester buildings, color-coded by decades, over a sketched map of the town. These will provide a resource for the Engineering Department, the Historical Commission, and the Archival Center in explaining the town's history and development.

Rev. Purdy of the Crawford Memorial Church opened the ceremony with a prayer, and Father James Haddad of St. Eulalia's Church brought the evening to a close. About 75 friends and scouts attended.

Vinson-Owen Has Evening Holiday Program

The children of the Vinson-Owen School entertained their families recently with an evening of song and dance in celebration of the Christmas and Hanukkah seasons.

The program was planned and directed by Herman Green, musical director, and was sponsored by the Parents' Association. Following the evening of entertainment, the teachers and staff met with board members of the Parents' Association at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGillicuddy.

Rotary Club Hosts Forty Kids From Nazareth Center

Santa Claus came to town early this year as the local Rotary Club hosted 40 three to nine-year-olds from the Nazareth Child Care Center in Jamaica Plain.

The yuletide spirit permeated the Knights of Columbus hall as the Rotarians awaited the arrival of the children at their regular Thursday luncheon meeting. All was in readiness as the presents were wrapped, the tree was lit and the familiar seasonal songs rang from the piano.

Forty Club members volunteered to serve as big brothers and escort the children from the time of arrival to their departure. When the bus pulled up in front of the hall, the beaming, smiling children were greeted by beaming, smiling Rotarians.

After the matchups were sorted out all sat down to a meal of roast turkey with all the fixings. The Rotarians easily handled the task of digesting their meals while assisting the children with theirs.

When dinner was finished the Rotarians presented each child with an appropriate game after which Rotarians of all ages were seen sitting on the floor with the children learning about the latest games.

The dynamic duo of "Newt" and "Howie" led the gathering in a sing-along of popular Christmas songs and carols. During a rousing rendition of Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer, Santa Claus appeared out of nowhere. Santa, though swamped in a sea of kids, was able to quiet the din long enough to present the children with some large boxes which contained footballs, basketballs, jump ropes, coasters and assorted toys for all the children at the center to enjoy.

One-thirty arrived all too soon when the old and the young kids both had to part company. The bus, loaded with kids and toys, drove off into the snowy afternoon, but left behind a tremendous feeling for the true meaning of Christmas.

Christmas carols, Santa Claus, gifts and turkey dinner highlighted the recent Rotary Club sponsored Christmas party for 40 children from Nazareth Child Care Center in Boston.

May the Christmas season bring peace and joy to all mankind.
Merry Christmas.

INSULATION (Blown in or Batts)

Cellulose insulation can save up to 38% on your heating bill year after year.

Cellulose is a superior loose-fill cellulose insulation which is blown into walls, floors and ceilings. Only Cellulose offers these advantages:

Safe and reliable. Cellulose is non-toxic, non-irritating to the touch, flame-retardant and non-conductive. It meets or exceeds federal specification HH-1-515C, Type 1, Class 25, and carries an Underwriters Laboratories Labeling.

Natural product. Cellulose consists of short cellulose wood fibers made of selected newsprint which has been processed and chemically treated.

Total coverage. Unlike many insulations, Cellulose fills every possible space, giving you even complete coverage.

Higher R-value. Cellulose has a greater R-value resistance to heat flow—the measure for insulation per inch than most insulations.

Non-corrosive and moisture resistant. There's no corroding of pipes, no rotting of wood in walls and ceilings.

Other advantages. Cellulose is vermin-resistant, reduces noise levels and is long-lasting.

Recently appointed an assistant in orthopedics on the staff of New England Medical Center Hospital Department of Orthopedics was Lawrence I. Karlin.

Karlin came to the hospital in 1975 as a resident in orthopedic surgery. After graduating from Tufts University School of Medicine in 1971, he served a surgical internship at Case Western Reserve University Hospitals in Cleveland.

Laura Parkhurst, a junior at Ithaca College who is majoring in psychology, was recently elected as an Inter-Fraternity Council representative of the College's chapter of Gamma Delta Pi, a service sorority.

David Raphael

David G. Raphael, 22, died unexpectedly Dec. 12 in Winchester.

Born in Winchester, Mr. Raphael graduated from Winchester High School and attended Wentworth Institute. In addition to his studies, Mr. Raphael was also a ski instructor.

He was a member of the Green Mountain and Appalachian Mountain clubs.

Mr. Raphael is survived by his parents, Thomas and Elva W.; two brothers, Alan T. of Rocky Point, N.Y., and William G. of Winchester; and one sister, Constance J. of Winchester.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the First Congregational Church. Rev. Walter Davis officiated. Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Norris Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the Camp Scholarship Fund, in care of Troop 503 Boy Scouts of America, First Congregational Church, Winchester.

Paul J. Brown

Canal street resident Paul J. Brown died Dec. 16 at Symmes Hospital after a brief illness. He was 67.

Born in Worcester, Mr. Brown lived in Winchester for 28 years.

He graduated from St. Anselm's Preparatory School in 1929. In 1933 he received a bachelor of science degree from Boston College, and in 1935 he received a master of science degree, also from Boston College.

For over 25 years Mr. Brown was a self-employed manufacturer's representative with the Paul J. Brown Company in Cambridge. For the last 15 years he was also employed by O'Connell Associates in Needham.

He was a member of the Harwichport Golf Club in Harwichport and was an active member of the Immaculate Conception Church Holy Name Society.

He is survived by his wife, Anne L. (Murphy) of Winchester; four daughters, Barbara Anne Brown of Winchester, Nancy Brown Rancourt of Waltham, Paula Brown DiCrosta of Englewood, N.J., and Margot L. Brown of Milwaukee, Wis.; one grandchild; and one sister, Catherine Egan of North Cambridge.

A funeral mass was celebrated yesterday at Immaculate Conception Church by Rev. George Dufor. Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home.

Memorial donations may be made to the New England Home for Little Wanderers, 161 South Huntington ave., Boston.

Salvatore Garofalo

A funeral mass was said Monday for Harvard street resident Salvatore Garofalo, 85, who died Dec. 14 at Symmes Hospital after a long illness.

Born in Gaeta, Italy, Mr. Garofalo lived in Winchester for the last 16 years. He is a former Somerville resident.

Mr. Garofalo was employed for 49 years by the John P. Squires Co. in Somerville until his retirement in 1959.

He is survived by his wife, Micheline (Vanni); two daughters, Maria R. Staffiere of Winchester and Elaine R. Mastrocchia of Medford; three grandchildren; and one brother, Fortunato Conu of Sardinia, Italy.

Rev. Willfred J. Scanlon of St. Mary's Church celebrated the mass which was held at the church. Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home.

Transfer Station

The Winchester Transfer Station will be closed all day Dec. 25 and Jan. 1 for the holidays.

Last week's snowfall was really only a dusting, but the snow and bitter cold of the past few days gave Winchester residents a taste of what is ahead. (Staff Photo)

Red Cross Plans Bloodmobile Wednesday At Chapter House

"This Christmas season give the gift of life," is the Red Cross slogan as the Winchester Chapter prepares to open its Chapter House on Church street, next Wednesday for a visit of the Red Cross bloodmobile.

The Bloodmobile will be doing business from 2 to 8 p.m. Appointments are being made at the Chapter House for the afternoon and early evening. They are important to make because of limited sitting space at the Chapter House.

School and college students at home on vacation often take advantage of the opportunity to serve the community with a gift of blood. One must be 18 years old, 17 with written parental permission, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in good health.

Those Winchester residents who couldn't make the last visit at St. Mary's are urged to attend. Robert Gerrity will act as chairman of the bloodmobile.

...In 1911, four years after the Boy Scouts of America was started, a troop was organized in Winchester by Robert W. Fernald who then became the troop's scoutmaster. On different occasions four of that troop's members later each rescued a drowning person. Girl Scouts in Winchester began on May 18, 1917 at the home of Mrs. Addison R. Pike.

Junior High Drama Workshop Members Act Out Wishes

"In 10 years I would like to be..." Members of the Junior High Drama Workshop completed this entrance line of their "Coat of Arms" to open scenes in a recent demonstration ending the 12-week series.

Examples of scenes included: an astronomer with the rest of the group as various heavenly bodies; an actress with a reporter; another actress with her costume designer, hairdresser and photographer; and two lawyers with a nurse as defendant, Junior Leader Tony Johnson as the judge and the audience as the jury.

Ruth Levy of Reality Theater opened the program by leading a name game to introduce the participants: Kathy Callahan, Chris Duffy, Laura Guild, Chip Katcoff, Lucy Maiullari, Beth Manning, Nicola O'Connell, Denise Preston, Christine Ross, Kim TreVett and Matthew Trotter.

The yoga exercise series, "Salute to the Sun," was accompanied by guitarist Katrina Hemmerdinger of McCall Jr. High School. In an interlude of basic mime the players used the Lecoq Neutral Mask to portray the element of Fire as it kindled, leaped to a climax and died. They then became various animals of the sea, the earth and the air. After playing two fables as animals they improvised on similar themes to play humans with animal characteristics.

As the Junior High group holds a farewell party this week to see photographs taken at their demonstration, the Recreation Dept. prepares to launch a new workshop series for third through sixth graders. Registration opens for there Jan. 2. Information is available from Paulett Taggart, Winchester Drama Workshop, 17 Ridgely Rd.

The 1979 Junior High Drama Workshop group follows Tony Johnson's depiction of a lion's sound and movement in a demonstration ending series last week. After playing fables as animals, they improvised on the same themes as humans with animal characteristics. (Drama Workshop Photo)

Garden Club Holds Annual Open House

The Winchester Estates Garden Club recently held its annual Holiday Open House at the home of Marie Johnson.

Approximately 30 members plus their guests came for hors d'oeuvres while listening or singing along with the music provided by Eva Balazs at the piano. Co hostesses of the party were Debby Padgett and Gini Germain.

The new hors d'oeuvres and desserts cookbooks, compiled by the Winchester Estates Garden Club, have recently been completed.

Each cookbook, a four by five inch loose leaf booklet, contains 114 new recipes, tried and favored by Club members.

Credits go to Maureen Prencipe, who was responsible for putting the book together; Helen Williams, for overseeing the project; Lola Chaisson, for the lettering and drawings; Phyllis Daugherty and her family, for collating the materials.

Information about the cookbook is available by contacting Helen Williams, president.

...On March 20, 1853 the Town of Winchester experienced its first serious fire when, on that Sunday morning, the 12-year-old Congregational Church burned to the ground.

For Senior Citizens

An antique child's chair, which had been brought to the Jenks Senior Center for caning repairs was inadvertently sold during the October Fall Fiesta Fair. Anyone with the chair, or information about it, is urged to contact the Center. The purchase price will be refunded.

Activities at the Senior Center will be cancelled when the Winchester Public Schools are closed because of bad weather. However, the Senior Service Line, 729-2111, will make every effort to be in operation during snow emergencies.

The Center urges citizens to remember the envelope size regulations which were put into effect by the Postal Service July 15. An envelope smaller than three and one-half inches by five will be returned to the sender, while one that's larger than six and one-half by 11 and one-half inches may require as much as seven cents additional postage.

Forms for applying for federal and state funds for fuel assistance are available at the Center or by calling the Senior Service Line. The funds are not available for phone bills, but are available for oil and other utilities.

Energy tips from the Center include: don't turn the thermostat lower than 65 degrees during the day, walk around the house if getting cold; wear layers of clothing; bundle up; but, don't drink alcoholic beverages to warm up - they dilate the blood vessels and then decrease heat reserves.

Tuesday morning yoga classes will continue in the Crafts Room at the Center at 9:15.

Dr. James J. Callahan Jr., former Secretary for the Dept. of Elder Affairs, is conducting a Sunday morning television program called "Senior Circuit" on Channel 7 at 8 a.m.

A legislative committee consisting of Vin Berger, Bill Keith and Ed Sharkey has been formed to keep abreast of pending legislation and to inform seniors, through the Newsletter, about relevant bills.

Free figure skating basics are available at the Arlington Veterans' Memorial Rink on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to noon.

Those interested in finding a tennis partner for a once or twice a week game should contact the Senior Service Line.

The Star welcomes letters to the editor of interest to the citizens of Winchester, written by Winchester residents or former Winchester residents. Letters should be typed, double-spaced, and no longer than 250 words. They must also be signed and accompanied by the author's printed name, address and phone number in order that we may verify letters. Names and addresses will be withheld on request.

Canon AT-1 Telephoto Outfit- $24997

ADD $25 for Canon AV-1 in place of AT-1.
ADD $65 for Canon AE-1 in place of AT-1.

The outfit includes:

- Canon AT-1 camera body
- Lifetime Warranty on Canon (includes free annual clean and checks!)
- 135mm f2.8 telephoto lens
- Skylight filter
- Electronic flash
- Gadget bag

Chinon 35EE with case $6997

PRO CK-1200 Automatic Flash $3497

for Minolta and Pentax universal screw-mount cameras (add $15 for most cameras)

Deluxe 6-Piece Accessory Outfit $9997

(for Canon, Minolta and Pentax k-mount cameras)

Check your Christmas shopping list for any friends or relatives who own a Canon, Minolta or Pentax k-mount SLR camera. Because they'll love this value-packed 6-piece accessory outfit. The outfit includes a 135mm f2.8 telephoto lens...skylight filter...a 2X tele-extender that turns the 135mm telephoto into a 270mm super telephoto...electronic flash with batteries...and a gadget bag (not pictured). (Also available with a 28mm f2.8 wide angle lens in place of the telephoto for just $10 more).

Pentax MV with 50mm f2 lens $19997

Bell & Howell EFT Pocket Camera $3297

Wide Angle AND Telephoto Lens Outfit-just $11997

for both (most mounts)

- fully-coated 28mm f2.8 wide angle lens ($69.97 by itself)
- fully-coated 135mm f2.8 telephoto lens ($69.97 by itself)

Help someone get the most out of their SLR camera with this quality wide angle and telephoto lens outfit!

Guidelines

WHenever I hear someone complaining about the high cost of Christmas trees, I find myself telling a story about a Christmas tree experience long since past. It's a story I'd like to tell again now. Not necessarily because it'll save you any money, but just because it might help to take the edge off having to slap down $35 for this year's tree.

First, I should tell you that we always bought our tree on Christmas Eve. Every year we'd pile into the car after supper and drive to Haymarket Square, where my father, who had a knack for bringing out the kindness in strangers, would approach some man with a truck load of trees. They would talk quietly for an interminable amount of time and he'd return to the car with what we all decided was the best, the biggest and the most beautiful tree . . . ever. My father would inevitably agree and, with a slight smile, say that it cost only $2. This went on for at least twelve of what were certainly inflationary years. Yet, according to my father, the tree never cost more than $2. After a while, we all began to realize that what had always seemed a tradition—this buying and decorating the tree on Christmas Eve—was nothing more than a plan to save a few extra pennies by purchasing at bargain prices at the last minute. And so, for a long time, it became something of a family joke. Everyone would ask how much the tree cost before my father had a chance to even open his mouth. It wasn't until sometime after he died that I realized there was something more than money to this tree-buying venture.

For a while two of my brothers were elected to buy the tree—and they would come home with the same $2 story. Then, it was my turn. I drove into the Haymarket, surveyed the lot, and came upon a beautiful Scotch Pine . . . with a $15 price tag. I told the guy I'd give him $2. He laughed. He told me that the last tree he'd sold for $2 was twenty years ago. I told him that was impossible, since my brothers and father before them had been buying trees for $2 for at least that long. Furthermore, I didn't think it was very much in the Christmas spirit to charge so much when there'd soon be no use for the tree. Well, to make a long story short, I bought the tree for $7.50 and felt pretty good about being able to strike a bargain. But when I got home, and after everyone had told me what a great tree I'd found, someone asked me how much it had cost. I heard myself saying $2. Everyone laughed. I'd finally found out the secret.

Seasonal Suggestions:

BELIEVE IT OR NOT, folks, there is a part of Christmas that does not involve frantically running from store to store, standing in Santa Claus lines, or spending, spending, spending. The best gift you can give your family and friends this or any year is time to be with you. Take the next few days to tune in on the fine points of Christmas. Here follows a collection of things to do and tales to tell, projects to make and projects to bake—all in the spirit of togetherness.

MAKE A COOKIE TREE to welcome young guests. Using your favorite rolled dough, cut out gingerbread men and other seasonal motifs. Poke a small hole in the top of each cookie before baking. Then you will be able to attach a piece of ribbon or yarn for hanging. Display the cookies on a small Christmas tree, an artificial tree, the piece you had to chop off the top of your big tree to fit it into the house, or a bare winter branch "rooted" in clay in a flower pot.

If you're trying to control sugar consumption, make a natural foods snack tree. Decorate with popcorn balls, tiny fabric bags filled with nuts and raisins, granola bars, and oatmeal cookies.

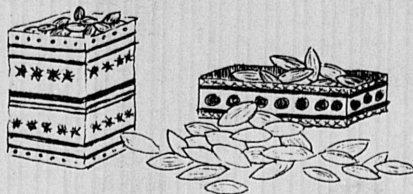

WHILE WE'RE TALKING TREES, consider the birds. Feathered friends will appreciate chunks of suet, pieces of stale bread, and chains of cranberries, popcorn, and raisins strung on an outdoor living tree. Sprinkle birdseed around the base of the tree to be certain ground feeders don't feel left out.

FOR A QUICK AND ATTRACTIVE CENTERPIECE, drill four holes in a birch log. Using modeling clay, anchor a tall red candle in each of the holes, each one symbolizing one of the four Sundays of Advent.

CREATE A MANTLE decoration or a centerpiece by making a bed of pine needles on a tray. Have your kids arrange their tiniest stuffed animals in a woodland scene. Add sprigs of holly for color.

HAVE A PARTY for folks of all ages. For a caroling party, duplicate the words to favorite songs. Invite several families to join you, well bundled and well supplied with flashlights. After the singing is over, return to your house for hot cocoa and glogg.

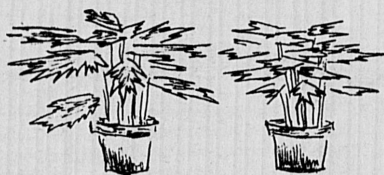

Glogg is a hot drink traditionally served at Christmastime in Sweden. Slowly heat one quart tawny port, with a half-cup raisins, a half-cup whole blanched almonds, eight shelled cardamom seeds, ten cloves, four cinnamon sticks, four pieces of dried ginger root, and one sliced orange. Simmer until steaming. Heat a second quart of port separately, until warm but not steaming. Combine the warm port with the spiced port in a serving bowl. Heat one quart of brandy separately. Place one cup of sugar lumps in a sieve over the serving bowl. Slowly pour the hot brandy over the sugar, which will melt and drip down. If you want to serve your glogg flaming, sprinkle one tablespoon warmed 190-proof alcohol over the top and light a match to it. Serve glogg in mugs with cinnamon stick stirrers. Makes about sixteen servings.

TOASTED ALMONDS IN PRETTY TINS make unordinary homemade gifts. Purchase whole raw almonds (shelled but unpeeled), and bring to a boil in pot of water. Then remove from flame, and peel the skins off. Spread out in single layers on cookie sheets or trays, and let dry for several days. Put two to three tablespoons of butter on cookie sheet with almonds, and place sheet in 300-degree oven until they turn brown. Shake sheets every few minutes to assure even toasting. Remove browned almonds from cookie sheet, and cool on paper towels. Salt to taste.

DRAFT DODGERS make an excellent last-minute gift in an energy-conscious year. Take strips of leftover fabric about four inches wide and 36 inches long. Fold lengthwise with wrong sides together. Sew seam up the length and across one end. Turn right side out and stuff tube with sand. Sew remaining end closed. Tie a ribbon around each end. Draft dodger is snugly pressed across the bottom of a door to eliminate drafts.

WHAT DOES TINSEL HAVE TO DO WITH CHRISTMAS? As legend tells it, many years ago there was a very good woman with many children. She decorated her tree late Christmas Eve. In the deep hours of the night, spiders visited the tree, crawling from branch to branch, leaving trails of intricate webs. To reward the woman for her goodness, the Christ-child blessed the tree and transformed all the webs into shining silver.

WHY IS THE POINSETTIA known as the Christmas flower? As legend has it, a poor child who wished to give a gift to the Virgin Mary was heartbroken because she had nothing of value or beauty to give. In desperation, she pulled some scrawny flowers from near her feet, simply to make a gesture of love. As she presented Mary the offering, the flowers were transformed into the brilliant scarlet blossoms we know today as poinsettia.

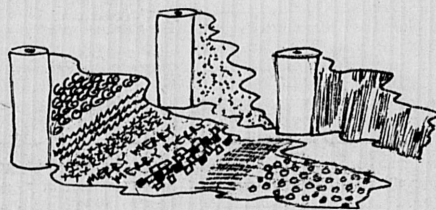

IF YOU HAVE A FIREPLACE, try roasting chestnuts in it. Make an X on the flat side of each nut with a sharp knife. Bury the chestnuts in hot embers and let them roast until done, about 20 minutes.

MAKE A POMANDER, A HANGING SPICE BALL that smells like an herb garden. Choose apples or thin skinned oranges as a base. Press whole cloves into the fruit in rows, closely together but they need not be touching. When completely covered, roll the ball in a mixture of spices including some or all of the following: ground cinnamon, ground cloves, allspice, ground nutmeg, powdered orris root; coat completely. Let the pomander "cure" in the open air for several days. Tie ribbons around each pomander so that it can be hung in a closet or the corner of a room.

Special Holiday Touches

HAVE A TAFFY PULL Check a cookbook for particulars. Most recipes call for sugar, corn syrup, a bit of water, butter, and some kind of flavoring, such as vanilla, peppermint, or fruit flavors. After heating up the ingredients in a saucepan, let the taffy cool on a buttered and chilled pan, turning edges to center with heavy spatula. As soon as it's cool enough to touch, begin pulling. Stretch it out into a shiny ribbon about 18 inches long, and fold it back on itself. Keep pulling and folding until hard. Then divide into three or four pieces to work individually. Roll into ropes one-half to three-fourths of an inch thick. Cut into bite-size pieces, and place on a pan buttered and dusted with confectioner's sugar. Don't forget to have wax paper on hand to wrap the pieces later. Try adding a bit of food coloring so you can make red and green taffy twists.

MAKE YOUR OWN WRAPPING PAPER. Take rolls of plain white shelf paper and write the same word over and over again in different color felt tip markers. You could write the lucky recipient's name or just Merry Christmas. A good project for kids.

THE FIRST ST NICHOLAS was a real person, a bishop in Asia Minor in the fourth century. The story is that the bishop learned of a poor man who was going to have to sell his daughters into slavery because he could not provide them a dowry. St Nick saved them all, anonymously tossing gifts of gold into their home. According to one version, he threw the gold down the chimney and it landed in a stocking that was hanging by the fire to dry. And that's the reason children often find an orange in the toe of their stocking today, to symbolize the gold from St Nicholas.

IF CHRISTMAS DAY IS A HECTIC TIME for you, set aside an evening in advance of the big day to read favorite seasonal stories aloud. Borrow a recording of Dylan Thomas reading his A Child's Christmas in Wales (Caedmon Records) from your library. "One Christmas was so much like another in those years around the sea-town corner...that I can never remember whether it snowed for six days and six nights when I was twelve or whether it snowed for twelve days and twelve nights when I was six..."

WHEN CHRISTMAS ARRIVES, sit back and enjoy it. Remember, whatever it is that you didn't get done, you always have another chance next year. Late in the day or the day after Christmas, start a memory book. Use a large scrapbook to keep a record of Christmas, this year's and those to come. Include snapshots, newspaper headlines, lists of favorite presents, anecdotes, names of people who came to visit, and any other bits of information you might wish to remember. Your memory book can be the beginning of a new Christmas tradition.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Of all the days in the year this is the one when there is no need to offer any suggestion on places to go or things to do. For the devout,

Christmas is a religious holiday of deep meaning and joy. For the less than devout, it is a day of celebration, of families and friends. We hope everyone has a terrific holiday.

CHRISTMAS WASSAIL

An old-time favorite Christmas treat is wassail, a guaranteed warmer-upper. This recipe comes from Butte's [Montana] Heritage Cookbook.

one quart cider
1/3 cup light brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon cloves
1/8 teaspoon allspice three sticks cinnamon a pinch of salt a speck of nutmeg juice of four lemons
Mix sugar, spices, and juice together. Add cider. Bring slowly to boiling point. Boil ten minutes. Strain through a wet cheesecloth, and reheat. Serve in hot cups.

Dinner on us?

Call it an eating contest.
Call it a chance to try a new restaurant.
Or simply call it an opportunity to eat your heart out at an old favorite, compliments of METROGUIDE.
Whatever, simply send in this coupon* with the name of any restaurant you see advertised (not listed) in this week's issue, and we'll draw a winner from the entries submitted.
If your name is chosen, you'll win a free dinner for two (tax and tip included), at the restaurant you've chosen.
So mail your entry today.
Who said there's no such thing as a free lunch?

This week's winner is Mr. Charles E. Samour of Stoneham. Enjoy your dinner at THE ANDOVER INN.

Restaurants

The following is a listing of some of the Boston area's notable restaurants. Credit cards are abbreviated like this:

AE American Express
BA/V BankAmericard/Visa
CB Carte Blanche
DC Diners Club
MC Master Charge

We suggest making reservations, whenever possible, to avoid disappointment.

Hub

Anthony's Pier 4—140 Northern Ave, Boston, 423-6363. The Pier 4 is still dishing up steaks and seafood and is as popular as ever. Moderate to expensive. Full bar, no reservations. Hours: 11:30 am-11 pm Mon-Sat; 12:30-10:30 pm Sun. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Averof—1924 Mass Ave, Cambridge 354-4500. Greek and Middle Eastern food in appropriate surroundings, with belly dancing. Lamb, pasticchio, spanakopita, and kalamaria. Moderate prices. Full bar, reservations recommended, especially on weekends. Hours: Daily 11 am-1 am. BA/V, MC, House Charge.

The Bay Tower Room—60 State St, Boston, 723-1666. High above downtown, haute cuisine (and haute prices). Pomme de ris de veau, filet of beef en cocotte, caviar... Full bar, and reservations are a good idea. Hours: Mon-Sat 6-11 pm. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Benihana—201 Stuart St, Boston, 542-1166. Japanese food cooked at the table by knife-wielding chefs. Hibachi steaks and chicken. Full bar, moderately expensive. Hours: Daily, noon-2 pm and 5:30-10:30 pm; Sun 4:30-9 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Chardas—1306 Beacon St, Brookline, 232-4050. Hungarian food, goulash, chicken paprika, palascinta. Moderately expensive, full bar. Reservations recommended. Hours: Daily for dinner, 5-10 pm; Wed-Fri 11:45 am-2:15 pm. AE, BA/V, DC.

Colonnade Hotel—120 Huntington Ave, Boston, 261-2800. A couple of choices: the Cafe Promenade for international food and snacks, with fashion shows and Sunday brunch, and Zachary's, formerly Continental. Hours vary, call for details. Both, full bar, reservations. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

The English Room—29 Newbury St, Boston, 262-5566. No-nonsense eating on the cheap: Anglo-American soul food like baked beans, mashed turnips, fish plates, meat plates, endless salads. No reservations, no liquor. Hours: Daily, 11 am-9 pm. No credit cards.

Jimbo's Fish Shanty—245 Northern Ave, Boston, 542-5600. Grilled seafood and beef, including stickfood (kebabs); amaretto pie. Full bar. Hours: Daily 11 am-9 pm. No credit cards, no checks.

North

Busetki—407 Squire Rd, Revere, 284-7200. Steakhouse, Japanese-style, with hibachi steak, chicken, and shrimp. Moderately expensive, fully licensed. Reservations accepted. Hours: 5-11 pm Mon-Sat, from 4 pm Sun. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC, Exxon.

Century House—235 Andover St, (Rte 114), Peabody, 531-1410. American cooking: lobster pie, roast duckling Cumberland, twin lobster dinner. Full liquor license. Hours: Mon-Sat, 11:30 am-10 pm; Sun, noon-9 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Natalie's—356 Andover St, Danvers, 777-2600. Italian food, and entertainment, at moderate prices. Full bar, no reservations on Sat night. Hours: Mon-Sat 11:30 am-11 pm, until 1 am in the lounge; Sun noon-10 pm. BA/V, MC.

West

Backside Restaurant—Rte 1A, Dedham (at Dedham Plaza), 326-2144. Turn-of-the-century decoration, with dining and dancing. Prime rib, sirloin, baked stuffed shrimp. Full bar. Hours: Daily, 11-1 am. AE, MC.

LeBellocour—10 Muzzey St, Lexington, 861-9400. Now open under new management, LeBellocour offers French cooking with some other touches, like soft-shell crabs, smoked trout, and medallions de chevreuil, which is venison. Full bar, reservations are recommended. Hours: Mon-Fri, 11:30 am-2 pm and 6-10 pm; Sat, 6-10:30 pm. AE, BA/V, CB, MC.

Legal Seafoods—Rte 9, in the Chestnut Hill Shopping Center, 277-7300. Legal's outpost on the western front is sometimes less hectic than the Cambridge branch, especially if you are willing to eat early or late. Otherwise, the set-up is pretty much the same: the crowds, crowds, crowds are off-set by the fish, fish, fish. Reservations for large parties. Full bar. Hours: Mon-Sat, 11 am-9 pm; Sun, 1-9 pm. AE, and personal checks.

Longfellow's Wayside Inn—Rte 20, S Sudbury, 443-8846. Both the inn and its kitchen are faithfully and sturdily Yankee. Hot corn muffins are a stand-by. Among the other favorites: Massachusetts duckling, lobster, baked stuffed shrimp. Open every day, 11:30-3:30, and 5:30-9. Sun, 12 noon-8 pm. The premises are fully licensed and reservations are strongly advised. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

South

Casa Berrini—Main St, Marshfield, 834-8765. Italian, Continental, and traditional cuisine: veal, prime rib, fresh seafood, and salad Gazebo. Moderate prices, full bar. Hours: Daily except Mon, 11:30-1 am, Sun from 11 am. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

The Greenhouse—8 Stagecoach Way, Cohasset, 383-6770. Continental and seafood specialties on the menu, lots of trees and plants to look at (not on the menu). Teriyaki brochette, veal, daily specials like snapper and swordfish. Full bar, reservations advised. Open for lunch Mon-Sat 11:30 am-2 pm, for dinner Mon-Sat, 5:30-11 pm, closed Sun. BA/V, MC.

The Ground Round—Kings Plaza, Braintree, 848-4848, and other locations, a multi-media dining experience, music and TV along with burgers and other sandwich specialties. Inexpensive. Full bar. Hours: Daily, 11:30-1 am. No credit cards.

Plaza Inn—Rte 1, Wrentham, 384-2800. "The pleasures of the table are of all time, and all ages, of every country and of every day." Entrees, which are French, Italian, and American, start at $5.95. Full bar. Hours: Daily, from 11 am. AE, MC.

#108 What's Cookin'?

By Don Rubin

Each of the label fragments at the right is from a different food item or product as evidenced by its uniquely characteristic nutritional value. Got that? Good.

Now, using your knowledge of food as a guide (and your waistline as an incentive), try to match the data at the top of the can with the ingredients listed at the bottom.

The exercise will do you good.

Answers To Puzzle #106

So much for easy puzzles. Nearly all respondents got it right. Nice work.

About Town Commission On Civil Service Holds Arlington Hearing

By Cathy Walthers

Three local residents will be among the 2,100 delegates UUU to the White House Conference on Small Businesses, to be held in Washington during January. They include: Lewis A. Shattuck, John J. Curtin and J. Alden Cheever.

Paul Slater, the shop foreman at Bonnell Ford, was a winner in the fourth annual Ford Motor Company job skill competition involving 40,000 dealership technicians nationally. Slater, participating in Ford Parts and Service Division's Certified Training Program competition, was the top scorer on a written exam among Bonnell Ford's technicians. He won a cash award.

Two local businessmen have been appointed to a board of advisors of small business men and women to study a contract awarded to study the ways small businesses will be affected by increased metric usage. They are: Lewis Shattuck and Peter Webster.

Two Winchester High School graduates, Donald N. Brown, class of 1960, and Richard F. Burns, class of 1962, were elected senior officers at John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. effective Jan. 1.

Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Brown, was elected second vice president in the city mortgage and real estate department. He joined John Hancock in 1965 after graduating from Boston University. He started as an analyst trainee in the city mortgage department, and has been a senior real estate investment officer in the loan production division since 1975.

Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Burns of Mystic Valley parkway, was elected second vice president, equity real estate and mortgage separate accounts. He joined the company in 1949 as an analyst in the city mortgage and real estate department, advancing to his most recent position as senior real estate investment officer in the separate accounts division.

Jack O'Brien, a Winchester High School junior, has been selected to skate on the United States Junior Figure Skating Team in world competition which will be held in France Jan. 15-20. Jack most recently won the Eastern United States Men's Junior Championship at Twin Rinks, UU Danvers.

Molly Greene is taking a semester abroad from Tufts University while studying International Relations from January through June in Athens.

Paul J. Whitney of Hawthorne road, recently received a mounted Crusader from Holy Cross College, an award which symbolizes membership in the President's Council — an organization of the college's major benefactors. Arlington Town Manager Donald Marquis believes that civil service is saddled with excessive hiring and firing delays, inadequate promotion tests and inadequate appeal processes.

Thomas Groux, Winchester Town Manager, believes that the rules are extensive that a manager is overwhelmed with the system.

Louis Andrews, personnel director in Watertown, says the excessive delay in civil service "is something beyond anybody's imagination."

These testimonies came out of a regional hearing on civil service in Arlington last Thursday. Approximately 25 people testified at the hearing, which was one of a series of seven public hearings being held by the Special Commission on Civil Service. About 100 people attended, some from as far away as Holliston, an hour away from Arlington.

The purpose of the 21-member commission, chaired by Sen. Samuel Rotondi (D-Winchester) and Rep. Nicholas Buglione (D-Methuen), was to gather information about civil service and to prepare reform legislation to be presented next session.

Under the state civil service program, cities and towns usually hire police, firefighters and sometimes clerical workers and building inspectors. The testing, hiring, promoting, and firing of these civil service workers must be done through the state system. There are about 100,000 civil service workers in the state, cities and towns.

The selection process alone, it takes a long time, sometimes years, just to fill one position. Currently, there is a backlog of 2,700 exams.

About half of the speakers who testified about civil service mentioned delays as a great problem. Winchester Town Manager Groux told a typical story. The town requested an exam for a police lieutenant on Oct. 13, 1978. The test was administered on October 1979, and today he town is still waiting for the results.

Woburn Chief of Police Leo McElhinney said crime in his city is up 11 percent and the city desperately needs and wants more officers, yet the department "hasn't added one new man."

In Arlington the hiring of one clerk stenographer took five years. In another case, a promotional test was given to a principal accounting clerk in August 1973 and the results from that test didn't come back until February 1976.

Another problem in the system concerns provisional workers who are hired while lists are being awaited. The town spends time and money to train a provisional worker only to have him or her laid off when the civil service worker comes.

The personnel director in Watertown says the town faces the "consequences in dollars and cents" when it hires provisionals. "If lists don't exist, we hire provisionals, and if the provisionals are not high enough on the list, they are laid off. The unemployment compensation is $5,700 for each employee," he said.

"Their training and experience is worth zero," said Groux, "and the provisionals have no reasonable job insurance."

Many of the police and fire officials complained that the kinds of tests administered by the state do not measure the job. Often, the tests are either too general or too specific.

One manager said the tests do not measure the ability to perform, they favor those with theoretical ability.

An eight-year veteran of the Cambridge Fire Department said the entrance exam should contain fire-related questions. "I don't understand why only the police and firefighters have exams with general knowledge questions."

At one point in the hearing, one commission member became defensive when Jerry Houghton, Arlington Asst. Supt. of Schools for Business, submitted 30 letters of correspondence back and forth from Arlington to Boston concerning one case. He offered the letters as testimony of the inefficiency and complexity of civil service.

Rep. Barney Frank (D-Back Bay), sitting on the panel, asked Houghton if he ever stopped to call or go into Boston about the case. Yes, Houghton replied, "and that brings up another question: Who is the head? Who do you talk to? Who do you get correct information from?"

The issue of veterans' preference in civil service seems to be another thorn in the system for some. With this law, a person could score 99.9 on the test but a veteran with a 70 or better would go above that person to the top of the list.

Rep. Buglione says a lot of veterans have testified that they are willing to go with the point system. Women's groups, he said, are "fiercely opposed."

A few people at the hearing said the preference was unfair. John M. Medford explained how he was 15th on a list, then 7th and then they put on veterans' preference. "What can you do about it?" he asked.

Patrick J. Farino, who said he was speaking for veterans, said he believes in veterans' preference and "that it should hold all the way down in scores."

Many of the participants, if not all, said they did not want to see the end of civil service. They believed strongly in

Seven Vietnamese Refugees Arrive In Winchester

Supported by the Winchester Ecumenical Association, a family of seven Vietnamese refugees arrived in Winchester last week and have moved into a home on Wildwood street.

The arrival of the two parents and five children is seen as a boost to the town's efforts to expand its multicultural program. "I think it adds a lot," said Multicultural Specialist Lee Behnke on Monday. "It has to do with being a foreigner and students greeting them."

The parents, of the Tran family, Tran Kai, the father, and Nyan Chau, the mother are both capable of working as is their oldest son, 22-year old Hien and oldest daughter, 18-year old Quan.

The other three children, 12-year old Thanh, 11-year old LeQuyen and six-year old LeQuan, will enroll in Lincoln School next week. Only the oldest boy Hien can speak English, and only to a slight degree. Tutors are being sought to teach the children English as a foreign language. According to Behnke, five tutors are being sought in town, however no previous training is needed and Behnke will instruct the tutors on how to teach the children.

Last Friday, the three school age children and the oldest boy took a tour of Lincoln School with Behnke and Principal William Warnock. They were introduced to students, teachers and visited the facilities in the building.

During the tour, the children seemed to be slightly intimidated by all of the teachers and students greeting them. "Americans sort of appear like large barking dogs," Behnke points out. "You could see it with the youngest girl. She was just overwhelmed with the noise level."

The home on Wildwood is being rented to the Ecumenical Association, which includes all of the churches in the town, at a reasonable rate to support the Vietnamese family until they are able to support themselves. As yet, none of the adults is working and according to Behnke, the town will assist in finding work for them.

Changes In Civil Service Expected Through Legislative Commission

Civil service reform is coming through the Special Commission on Civil Service which hopes to have its legislative package ready by the end of May.

In hearings around the state, the chairman, Sen. Sam Rotondi and Rep. Nicholas Buglione, say they have been hearing support for changes from the people who work under civil service.

The commission began with the Committee on Public Service which Rotondi and Buglione head. They have used expertise from that committee at no extra cost to taxpayers to do the work for the commission. "We're out to work," says Rotondi. "The members are all committed to it."

The commission was formed with 21 members including legislators, labor and management representatives. Rotondi says they thought they had a pretty good grasp on the general problem, but they have been learning about peculiar problems.

The commission has heard firemen say the civil service test does not measure their ability to be a lieutenant, for instance. There is a backlog of 2700 tests and this has led to the appointment of 18,000 provisional state employees.

Because of absolute veterans' preference, provisional employees who have been doing the job and who score high on the test could never get the job if a veteran took the test. Another problem is that it takes two years once an exam is called for to have a list established. Buglione calls that "an unreasonable time."

Massachusetts is the only state that administers the municipal systems also. Five years ago a trial delegation of responsibility to a local commission was started.

Buglione calls this "more in line with what we should be doing."

Eight communities are trying this now, administering state tests, supervising and scoring them at the local level, and having a list in a week.

Rotondi says that they are hearing from communities that the state is not running the system well, but the communities do not want complete control and say they can't afford it since they would need personnel directors and staffs for recordkeeping and exam administration.

One idea they are exploring is a regional system where communities can share personnel matters.

Rotondi points out that there are restrictions that affect civil service or complicate it. One court ruling said that there has to be minority recruiting and exams geared to minority groups. Another court ruled that a community with more than 1 percent minority population had to have that percentage representation on the police and fire departments.

Another ruling was in favor of absolute veterans' preference. Buglione explains that this means that a disabled veteran who scores more than 70 on a test goes to the top of the list, followed by other veterans. There is no time limit on this. In the hearings they have been learning that veterans are willing to go to a point system, he says.

Rotondi says they heard from a Viet Nam veteran who favored doing away with absolute veteran's preference. In addition, women's groups oppose the preference.

Buglione hopes that their legislative package will be passed in the next session, even though it will probably end early because of elections. He says he and Rotondi and a consultant worked on it during the summer and the commission has been meeting once or twice a week.

One area they will look at for reform is the length of time for appeals. People in the western part of the state have suggested a traveling appeals commission which could hear cases from that part of the state.

Rotondi notes that there are almost no standards for performance evaluation. The federal government allows bonuses, merit and upward mobility, while the Massachusetts system does not. These innovative federal ideas will be looked at, according to Buglione.

The state has a total of about 100,000 civil service jobs, including community jobs. The state alone has 36,000 employees on civil service, but 18,000 of these are provisional.

Rotondi criticizes the provisional hiring, saying that it gives the employer unbelievable control over the employee who must work the job or salary he is given without protection.

A 10-Year-Old's Retired Policeman Sues Town For Withholding Benefits

As of late Monday, a decision had not yet been reached by the courts regarding the suit brought by former Winchester Police Lieutenant James J. Cogan against the town for their refusal to pay him disability retirement benefits.

Colgan was forced to retire June 30 as a result of two open-heart operations he has had, stemming from two heart attacks he's suffered while on duty. He filed his application for disability retirement benefits shortly thereafter and has since been examined by an independent team of physicians who ruled him unfit for service.

"There's really nothing else for them to do," said Donald E. McNamee, attorney for the Winchester Police Association last week. "It's just pure harassment. It's just very, very distressing to him. He feels he's given the town 25 years of service. It's not somebody who's looking for a soft touch or something."

Winchester Town Counsel Douglas Randall could not be reached for comment, but it appears the Winchester Retirement Board is not granting the benefits to Colgan because of a part-time job he has held. The town isn't sure Colgan's heart problems stem entirely from his position on the Police Department.

According to McNamee, that question is answered in the law. "Under the law, if you go on the police or fire departments and you subsequently develop a heart condition, there is a presumption that it was job related," said McNamee.

Presently Cogan, who may seek further court action because of the town's refusal to pay according to McNamee, is owed about $8500 since July 1.

Both sides presented oral arguments to the court on Friday, with McNamee asking the court to compel the town to pay Colgan the money he's owed retroactive since July 1; order the town to reveal why Colgan's application has not been processed and finally, order the town to process his application.

McNamee stated that after the hearing on Friday he asked Randall what the problem was that prevented Colgan from receiving the benefits. According to McNamee, Randall said it was a decision of the Retirement Board and that he should discuss it with them. When McNamee then asked Town Comptroller Alphonse Faggiano, who is a member of the Retirement Board the same question, Faggiano replied that he could not discuss the matter while it was in litigation.

The benefits that Colgan is seeking would give him 72 percent of his paycheck as well as a small allowance for any dependent children. He would also be allowed to participate in health insurance and a death benefit plan to his family.

"The thing that troubles me is that there is absolutely no question that he's disabled," McNamee noted. "It's a simple matter and it has such an impact on people."

the need for reform of the system. Rep. Buglione said before the hearing that one reform which is probable, already in use by eight communities, is the delegation of the civil service function to cities and towns.

He said in Worcester, where the city has taken on some of the functions, the whole hiring procedure takes one week.

The three possible phases for decentralization of civil service could be: Giving the city or town the charge of personnel records and the ability to make certification from lists; administration and scoring of tests and approval of promotions; and placing all personnel function under a municipal director.

The state would maintain an overriding audit function. Most of the communities trying this are at the first step.

The towns of Arlington and Lexington had initiated a variation of this procedure on their own for civil service workers and for regular town workers.

Arlington has its own examination, which includes an oral part, to fill the position of police director. Town employees have performance evaluation and merit salary increases.

Town Manager Marquis said he would like to share the administration for civil service as well. He urged the commission to recognize "That towns are doing some good things." He hopes that the state doesn't make decentralization so rigid that the cities can't set up their own system.

Emelio J. Rosselli, an Arlington firefighter, spoke up against Arlington's procedures. He believes they are "circumventing civil service" and that the town manager is attempting to appoint jobs. "His ultimate goal is to withdraw from civil service," he said.

Winchester was named for Col. William P. Winchester of Watertown, a wealthy Boston merchant who was a Colonel in the Corps of Cadets volunteer regiment.

Heather and her younger sister and brother lived in an apartment in the northern part of the city. Their Iranian landlord and his family were upstairs.

Heather used to play with one of the landlord's daughters who was 12 and called Mahtob. Her name meant moonlight. Mahtob went to an Iranian school and could speak English.

When she mentioned to Heather that her birthday was Dec. 25th, Heather told her that the date was also Jesus' birthday.

"Oh," replied Mahtob, "is he one of your Gods?"

On Thanksgiving, a symbolic American holiday, my son and his family invited the landlord, his wife, and their six daughters and one son to eat dinner with them. Turkey is an expensive treat in Iran and the guests enjoyed the meal.

And on Christmas, the landlord in turn invited my son's family for a typical Persian meal. The landlord's wife, however, did not sit down to eat with the others but stayed in the kitchen.

That family was Muslim but they were willing to help celebrate a Christian holiday.

How nice for everyone, including those in Iran, if the feelings of understanding, friendship and goodwill these two different families shared with each other, spread throughout the world.

Local Nurse Becomes Quota Club Member

Florence Gosselin of Winchester was initiated into the Quota Club at a recent installation at Jeremiah's Restaurant. Immediate past President Gloria Pearson was the officer in charge of the induction of Gosselin into the club of business, professional and executive women.

Gosselin, an R.N., recently became associated with the Aberjona Nursing Home. She holds her B.S.N. from Boston College.

Winchester women are invited to call a member of the membership committee for details on joining the club, which is by invitation only. Membership committee members include Lea Roberts, director of the Winchester Public Library and Anne Feuss.

Winchester Quota members recently completed a service project at the annual Christmas Gift Wrap, held at the home of Mary Wallace. Gifts were wrapped for families and foster children whose names were supplied by Norma James, director of the Woburn Community Service Center, and a member of the Quota Club of Winchester.

An Interview With State Rep. Sherman 'Whip' Saltmarsh

The 1979 session is over and the legislature is in recess until January, 1980. The year is over, and the time has come for an assessment of actions taken while looking towards next year's schedule.

He calls it a "productive year," one which saw an increase in local aid, a budget tax cap, and a clear message to the legislature that residents of the Commonwealth want government spending controlled.

State Representative Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh Jr., now in his third term, sees the legislature's work this year as being compartmentalized.

The area of energy was a major accomplishment this year, according to Saltmarsh. A fuel assistance bill was passed; an energy cabinet post was created; and the process of hydroelectric power was streamlined.

Although the public is now beginning to respond to energy conservation measures, there has to be some vehicle for continuing to monitor the problem. With the newly created energy cabinet post, Saltmarsh feels this will help.

The right turn on red legislation, which also received favorable action, originally filed a few years ago by Saltmarsh, will point out a substantial energy savings.

In the area of environmental issues, Saltmarsh said the legislature set up a state distribution of hazardous waste, and approved four water bills. Matching funds will now be available throughout the state to clean water mains, and a bill for treatment and purification of water was amended to include Winchester.

The drinking age was raised to 20 years; capital punishment legislation was passed; and a blind bidding bill, filed by Saltmarsh, was also approved. Despite opposition from film producers, under this legislation the theatre owners now have to be allowed to preview

State Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh Jr. moves before bidding on them.

The Cable TV Commission was also reorganized. Where there used to be seven parttime cable commissioners, there is now one with a staff.

Changes for exemptions on income taxes, whereby capital gains tax was reduced over 60 percent in a three-year period, was also enacted. Saltmarsh says this should now encourage people to invest within the state, since high capital gains taxes had previously discouraged potential investors.

A transportation bill in excess of $1 billion, which gives funding for interstate highway funding, primary roads, capital improvements and improvements to commuter rail transportation was also approved.

Of the two pieces of legislation most likely to foster dissent - the tax cap and legislative pay raises - Saltmarsh thinks more people will remember the pay raise legislation "because of the manner in which it was done." Some of the raises members received were "excessive" and the legislation was passed on Halloween Night.

When asked why he voted against the pay raise legislation, Saltmarsh replied, "How can I as a legislator vote for that kind of increase when I've asked the Town of Winchester for a four percent tax cap, and the federal government has issued seven percent guidelines." Saltmarsh said that he doesn't think members of the legislature should vote themselves a pay raise while in office. The legislation, should have been effective in January, 1981, not January, 1980, in order that legislators be required to stand for election prior to receiving the increase.

This year was not without some disappointments, however. The Bottle Bill, which Saltmarsh has filed for the last three years, didn't receive favorable action. However, Saltmarsh expects to refile similar legislation next year.

Saltmarsh will file a bill to reorganize the MBTA to give a better balance to the Advisory Board (of which he is Winchester's representative). A bill he filed this year wasn't passed.

Saltmarsh also expects next year to refile bills for a third harbor crossing and to create a depression of the northern section of the Northern Artery, including Levertt circle.

In general, Saltmarsh said the House cut, where redistricting caused a drop in House membership this legislative session from 240 to 160, was evident in a noticeable decrease of time spent and debate within the chamber. However, the session, Saltmarsh said, should have concluded by the end of June. Of the 800 bills passed this year, 200 were approved in the last four days. All hearings on legislation have to be completed by the end of April. There is no reason for the legislature to still be in session by the end of November, said Saltmarsh.

Saltmarsh, whose district includes Winchester and two-thirds of Stoneham, is in his third term of office. One of the committees of which he is a member is the House Transportation Committee. In this legislative session Saltmarsh had a 100 percent voting attendance record.

He was a member of the Board of Selectmen from 1959 through 1962 and from 1969 through 1972, and was the first person re-elected for a second term to the Winchester Board of Selectmen. A Town Meeting member since 1956, Saltmarsh has never missed a session.

Saltmarsh is a graduate of Winchester

High School and Boston College, class of 1953, where he played hockey. He is a US Navy veteran, having served in the Korean conflict.

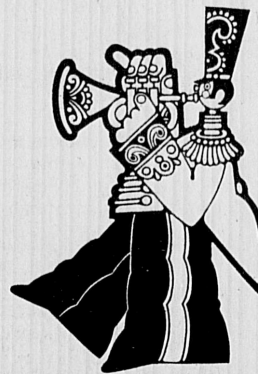

He has served as the chairman for several local committees, and expects to run for re-election to the Legislature next year.

Lynch Teacher Cited For Food Collection Drive

In a letter sent to Leslie Hastings, advisor of the French Club at Lynch Jr. High School, Joseph Marotta, coordinator of the Woburn Council on Social Concern, expressed his thanks for the generous response of the students at Lynch to a recent collection of food for the Council.

This is the second year that Mrs. Hastings and the members of the French Club have sponsored a food drive. Marotta noted the inter-generation aspects of the food collection by junior high school students for distribution to their elderly neighbors.

The letter of thanks and commendation was read to the Lynch students as a farewell message just prior to the school's closing for Christmas vacation.

The Holiday Season

This time of year is often given labels like the season of giving, the season of hope, even the season to be jolly. It is a period that combines both religious holidays with the celebration of the coming new year.

It is a time to be thankful for what we have, not envious of those who have more nor proud before those who have less.

But what are we appreciating? Is it the many gifts that we've been given recently or those who are giving them? The answer, though obvious, is often neglected until the holiday season. For many, it's as if we hold back our care for our loved ones until now, then allow those feelings to rush to the top, and spill out.

This is also the season to reflect on what we've done, how far we've progressed. It's a seasonal measuring stick by which to judge our development. This year is particularly significant because it ends a decade, ten years that may have been the most crucial in many of our lives. Where were you in 1970? What were you then?

At the same turn, we stand at the dawn of a new decade, again, the decade that could be the most crucial in a many of our lives. What are your goals? Where will you be in 1990? What is it you want from life?

But the danger that lies in these questions is that we can become too caught up in achievements. Blind ambition, as a certain book was titled, can often lead to destruction. Before you do anything else, as we step into the 80s, establish your priorities.

Perhaps the true gift of this season is the unity it brings. Families and friends alike are brought together for Christmas, then continue their celebration to New Year's. Indeed, after your new shirt is worn out, the snow blower has broken, the perfume has been used and the toys are outgrown, this is the present that will be remembered.

The real label for this season includes giving, hope and even jolly. It's a label that goes beyond the Christian holiday to all faiths in the world. It's the season of love and peace on Earth.

Noonan New Year's Resolutions

The New Year is synonymous with festivities, feasts, and resolutions. This year The Star asked Edith Riccio's Noonan School first grade class to tell us what their New Year's resolutions are.

Lorette McWilliams: "I will listen to my mother and my teachers."

Kimberly Davis: "I will learn better and think more."

Tara Queen: "I will be a bike rider."

Stephanie Poole: "I want to be a better helper to my mother."

Amy Garrity: "I'm going to be good to my parents, my kitten, my cousins and my grandmother."

Nicole Winn: "I'm not going to fight with my brothers."

Michael Rauson: "I am going to wash the windows and floors."

Craig Forcina: "I am going to clean downstairs."

Melissa Davis: "I am going to be a nurse after I go to college."

Michael McDonough: "I'm going to make the beds."

Deanna Della Cioppa: "I would help my mother in the house and be very good."

Karen Peabody: "I'm going to grandma's house."

Beth O'Connell: "I'm helping with the dishes and the beds."

Michelle Davis: "I'm going to be a good girl."

Michael MacKenzie: "I will be a good helper."

Jennifer Hurley: "I'm going to be a good nurse."

Billy Porter: "I'll try to change a lot."

Andrea Culhane: "I'm going to obey the teacher."

Adam Prower: "I don't have any."

The deep cold was joined by a bit of snow last week, turning the Aberjona River into a white canal through town. (Staff Photo)

50 Years Ago

To the editor of the Star:

You see it happened this way. Somebody told Whitelaw Wright that the deer was thicker 'n hens teeth down Maine way. So "Whitey," he took a trusty rifle under 'sch arm and took his good wife in the other and went down looking for them.

Of course, Mrs. Wright ain't never had much experience with them big shooting irons, so the deer kept pretty close to her, and everytime she would see one of them it would look so goldinged pretty she'd stop and look at it. And by the time she'd get ready to fire, the gosh-durned deer would be half a mile or more away.

So Whitey, he got good and sore, and said I'll do the hunting from now on, and it seems that when he was walking through the woods his foot slipped on a wet leaf, and as he turned around, cussing a blue streak, the gun went off and a poor innocent buck deer just got in the way and that's why we had the dinner.

That is, he says he shot it, but it looks to me mighty suspicious, becuz I seen that animal in the store. Mr. Meek's little boy works in for quite a spell back. Well, anyway, we all went up to "Whitey's" house last night to sample the animal. The Mrs. was there too, but after she seen about four or five of the gang arrive she decided she'd better attend the choir rehearsal.

Sarg, Mobbs and Chief Cook Monk Carroll was doing the K.P. work with Whitey looking on and doing a pretty good job except everybody kept coming into the kitchen to help, mostly by samplin'. Of course, we had to wait for Dick Parkhurst to show up because he had to do the servin', and I ain't found out yet when he got time to eat.

"Paddy" Foley had a date to talk with a feller that wanted him to plumb for him, and stopped in to express his regrets, but when he saw the table groanin' with good eats, he cancelled the appointment.

"Cliff" Towner was there to help Dick out, and Major Grindle had to make sure the dinner went off in military fashion, while the Navy interests were looked after by ex-job Moynihan.

Somebody put the celery out in the back yard in a wash boiler to make sure it kept cold and then forgot to serve it until the dishes were all washed, and Cook Carroll washed. And Cook Carroll refused to put the olives on the table because he couldn't find anything in the manual about whether to use a knife and fork or a sp on awith 'em and he didn't want to pull a faux pas.

Of course, we all had plenty of venison and peas, which we mashed up with potatoes so they wouldn't roll off the knife, and cranberry sauce and coffee. But, they didn't tell us nothing about the pie until after we didn't have any room for it, even after washing everything down with water and coffee.

The Amonia Quartet (Johnson, Wright, Goodwin, and Zaffinia) furnished musical numbers, while Comrade cry Wilde rendered several Naval numbers in true nautical style. Livin' G. Stone was the hit of the evening with his imitable comedy and songs, and he won the sandpaper powder puff in the military drill.

Eben Ramsdell looked after everybody's welfare, and "Cy" Young kept the records, while "Nate" Thumim was telling his stories. Then Mrs. Wright came home and did the dishes and a good time was had by all.

Wishing you the same,
Your Uncle "Cy"

A Storm Caused Fire And Quick Work Saves St. Mary's

(Editor's note: The story reprinted here was taken from an old edition of The Winchester Press and was compiled by Henry Simonds, local historian).

What threatened at one time to be the worst fire for many years was narrowly averted last Saturday night by the persistent efforts of the fire department.

Shortly after 9:30, during the heavy thunderstorm which broke over the town a bolt of lightning struck the metal cross on the tower of St. Mary's church and set fire to the woodwork at the base of the cross.

The flames worked through and quickly spread downward inside the belfry and on the arrival of the firemen the tower was a mass of flames.

The men were badly handicapped by the lack of power in the streams which barely reached the roof of the main building. The supply was drawn from the hydrants at Eaton and Elm streets, which are fed by small mains.

The chemicals and hose were carried through the organ loft, from which point they were able to check the downward spread of the fire and this fact is largely responsible for the comparatively small loss.

It was not until some time after the arrival of the department that a stream was obtained of sufficient force to reach the top of the tower. In the meantime ladders were raised on the front and north side of the church and water poured onto the tower.

The position of the men was one of constant danger, particularly so on account of the pieces of slate which covered the slanting sides of the tower.

As the fire worked through these pieces of slate were continually dropping on the men and several were struck and more or less cut and bruised by them.

John McCarron was struck by a falling piece of slate and received a bad cut on the chin. He was taken to the hospital on Washington street but no one could be found there so he was cared for at the home of Harry Cox next door.

Later a ladder placed against the front of the building broke and the five men who were on it with a line of hose were badly shaken up. George Osborne, John Flaherty and Ernest Polley were the more severely bruised.

It was thought at first that Osborne's leg was broken but an examination by Dr. Dennett showed a bad sprain of the ankle though no bones were broken.

Several times it was feared that the large metal cross which capped the tower would fall. As the flames weakened its supports it seemed to waver, but still remained high above the crowd, a sign of salvation and a signal of impending doom to those beneath.

Fr. Kelcher, the rector, and his assistants Fr. Rogers and Fr. Roche, were early on hand rendering assistance to the men in their work and caring for the injured.

By 11 the fire was well in hand and the danger to the main part of the building was over. Nothing remained but to quench the last smouldering embers and put matters in shape for Sunday services.

Masses were held at the usual hours on Sunday, all in the main auditorium. Fr. Kelcher spoke at all the services congratulating the members of the parish on their good fortune in having their place of worship still spared to them.

Many did not know of the disaster until they came to church Sunday morning and to them he said that their feeling should not be of sorrow for the loss they had sustained but of thankfulness that so little damage had been done and comparatively little inconvenience caused by what threatened to be a calamity.

He thanked the firemen for their efforts which were crowned with success. Every man among them was a hero who never hesitated when the order came to go where the danger was the greatest.

They fought a good fight against a fire in a difficult and dangerous place and deserve the credit for a well earned victory.

The principle damage by the fire was to the upper part of the tower which was completely gutted, only the timbers and part of the walls remaining. This will have to be torn down and entirely rebuilt. Beyond a wetting of the walls and ceiling near the tower the main part of the church escaped with slight damage. Outside of the tower the most of the loss will be in the basement. The vast quantity of water that was poured onto the flames ran down to the base of the tower and flooded the basement.

A portion of the floor will have to be relaid, although the extent of the damage there cannot be determined till it dries out. The church was insured and a satisfactory settlement will undoubtedly be made with the companies.

St. Mary's church was originally a frame structure and was built in 1868 as a mission of the Woburn parish, of which Rev. John Quealy was then pastor. It was set off as a separate parish in 1875 and Rev. Cornelius O'Connor appointed the first resident pastor. Many improvements have been made since that time both inside and outside.

The auditorium has been enlarged and about 10 years ago a brick facing or shell was built about the wooden building making it virtually a brick church.

--After two years of negotiations, the police and town sign a three-year wage and benefit contract.
--The School Committee votes unanimously to add $21,800 to its FY 1980 budget for programs recommended by the Winchester Equal Opportunity Committee.
--The landowners of Woburn Plaza and the New England Rehabilitation Center are ordered by a superior court judge to disconnect their sewer system from the Winchester sewer system.
--Many Winchester residents and businesses suffer extensive flooding damages from a late January rainstorm.

February

--The School Committee unanimously votes to accept a school budget of $9,082,573 for FY 1980.
--The Aberjona Apothecary on Main street suffers extensive damages from a late night fire.
--Y&M Trust, owner of the Woburn Plaza, files a counterclaim for damages in the suit brought by the Winchester Board of Health to secure a court order to disconnect the New England Rehabilitation Center from the Winchester sewer system.
--A special Town Meeting votes to approve $169,000 to fund the recently negotiated police contract.
--Winchester High's varsity hockey team finishes a difficult season but senior Hugo LaFauci and Jackie Collins are named to the Middlesex League all-star team.

March

--Faced with the state's four percent tax cap, Town Manager Thomas Groux releases his budget for FY 1980 at $22,688,065 with cuts being made in the personnel sections of police, fire and public works.
--Former School Committee member Mary Pronski, opposed to the ballot set-up for the upcoming School Committee elections, files a civil suit against the town to have the ballot changed and wins.
--In the elections, Edward O'Connell wins reelection to the Board of Selectmen and Constance Papas defeated challengers John Hackett and Roger Bauman to capture reelection to the School Committee. Newcomers included Wade Welch, who narrowly defeated Robert Ericson in the race for retiring Harry Chetelo's seat, and Marion Crandall won the election for retiring Otto Schaefer's spot on the Planning Board.

April

--Randall's Corp., operators of Randall's Restaurant, submits the first formal liquor license application to the Board of Selectmen.
--An electrical fire caused by frayed wires, leaves extensive damages to second floor of the ABC (A Better Chance) House on Dix Street.
--Twenty-six German students arrive in Winchester for a month long stay as part of a German-American Partnership Program.

Every Thursday: 10 a.m. 2 p.m. fair workshop meetings in the church parlor.

Third Thursday: 7:30 p.m. Pairs and Spares.

Twenty-eight years ago Mrs. Fulton Brown started the tradition of presenting a red rose to each patient in the Hospital on Christmas Day. This year the tradition was continued under the direction of Mrs. Edward McLaughlin, chairman of the Flower Service. She was joined by Mrs. Philip Johnson, president of Friends of Winchester Hospital, and Mrs. John Bernard, chairman of the Volunteer Service Board.

Warm wishes for a continuous "cycle" of fun-filled holidays to all.

Estate of Alva H. Chick late of Winchester in the County of Middlesex.

Notice
A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that Priscilla C. Kidder of Winchester in the County of Middlesex be appointed executrix thereof.
If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Cambridge on or before January 8, 1980.
It is ordered that notice of said proceeding be given by delivering or mailing postpaid a copy of the foregoing citation to all persons interested fourteen days at least before said return day, and, by publishing a copy thereof once in each week for three successive weeks in the Winchester Star a newspaper published in Winchester, the last publication to be one day at least before said return day.
Witness, Edward T. Martin, Esquire First Judge of said Court at Cambridge, the fifth day of December, in the year of our Lord the thousand nine hundred and seventy-nine.

Stop

Everyone has an excuse for not seeing their doctor about colorectal cancer. However, every year 52,000 men and women die of colorectal cancer in this country alone.

Two out of three of these people might be saved by early detection and treatment.
Two out of three.

So what is your excuse?
Today you have a new, simple, practical way of providing your doctor with a stool specimen on which he can perform the guaiac test. This can detect signs of colorectal cancer in its early stages before symptoms appear.
While two out of three people can be saved. Ask your doctor about a guaiac test, and stop excusing your life away.

William Spaulding

Main street resident William E. Spaulding, 81, a retired president and chairman of the board of Houghton Mifflin Co., died Dec. 19 at the New England Rehabilitation Hospital after a brief illness.

After Mr. Spaulding graduated from Harvard in 1919 he went to work for the Boston publishing company as a salesman of college textbooks. He later became editor of college textbooks and then head of Houghton Mifflin's entire educational book department.

Mr. Spaulding was elected vice president of the company in 1940, president in 1957, and chairman in 1963, which was a position he held until he retired in 1966.

Mr. Spaulding was a founder and chairman of the Franklin Books Program, which supplies reading materials to underdeveloped countries. He was the only person to be president of both the American Textbook Publishers Institute and the American Book Publishers Council at the same time.

During World War II Mr. Spaulding was a director of the editorial staff of the US Armed Forces Institute.

Mr. Spaulding was a leading force in the development of developing materials to teach children to read, according to a Houghton Mifflin spokesman.

He was a member of the United States National Commission for UNESCO, the American Council of Education and the Council of Public Schools. Mr. Spaulding was a member of the Boston Center for International Visitors and a trustee of the Center for Applied Linguistics in Washington.

Mr. Spaulding was a member of the Harvard Club of New York, the Union Club of Boston, the Cosmos Club of Washington and the Monday Club of Winchester.

He is survived by his wife, Caroline (Pearson); three sons, William E. Jr. of San Diego, Donald T. of Dublin, N.H., and Richard M. of Tarrytown, N.Y.; 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were scheduled for a later date.

Thomas Jewell

Former Taft drive resident Thomas Jewell died Dec. 18 at Woburn Nursing Home. He was 103.

Born in Quebec City, Quebec, Canada, Mr. Jewell lived in Winchester for 25 years. A veteran of the Boer War, Mr. Jewell was retired from the Canadian Armed Forces.

Mr. Jewell was the husband of the late Mary Ann (Brown) Jewell. He is survived by three sons, Albert J. of Rockport, Robert H. of Winchester and Harold G. of Fort Lauderdale; one daughter, Mrs. Evelyn J. McLain of Newton; three grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services were private. Burial was at Wildwood Cemetery. Arrangements were made by Norris Funeral Home.

Angelina Rosato

Emerson court resident Angelina M. (Millione) Rosato, 88, died Dec. 20 at Liberty Pavilion Nursing Home in Danvers after a brief illness.

Born in Italy, she had been a Winchester resident for 65 years.

Mrs. Rosato was a member of the Ladies' Lodge of the Winchester Sons of Italy, and St. Mary's Church.

Mrs. Rosato was the wife of the late Raffaele Rosato. She is survived by her children, Anthony Rosato of Torrance, Calif., John A. Rosato of Danvers, Joseph P. Rosato of Huntington, Mrs. Catherine Qualiere and Mrs. Margaret Hafey of East Boston; 15 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

A funeral mass was celebrated Monday at St. Mary's Church by Rev. Mark Sheehan. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Lane Funeral Home.

Funeral services were scheduled for a later date.

School Budget

This is a copy of the proposed School Department fiscal 1981 budget to date. A public hearing on the budget will be held Jan. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in Sanborn House.

In a memo addressed to the residents of Winchester, School Committee Chairman Constance Papas notes that "even at this preliminary stage the proposed FY '81 budget is well within the 104 percent tax cap." However, energy costs, Papas continues, is a major concern which makes it difficult to project what future needs one year from now will be.

Town Receives Monies For Public Libraries

The Town of Winchester was the recipient of $8,502 in monies from direct state aid grants for public libraries for the 1980 fiscal year, according to State Rep. Sherman "Whip" Saltmarsh. These grants are awarded to municipalities whose libraries meet the standards of the State Board of Library Commissioners and serve as initiatives for adequate support and improvement in of library services in the Commonwealth.

For Senior Citizens

An antique child's chair, which had been brought to the Jenks Senior Center for caning repairs was inadvertently sold during the October Fall Fiesta Fair. Anyone with the chair, or information about it, is urged to contact the Center. The purchase price will be refunded.

Activities at the Senior Center will be cancelled when the Winchester Public Schools are closed because of bad weather. However, the Senior Service Line, 729-2111, will make every effort to be in operation during snow emergencies.

The Center urges citizens to remember the envelope size regulations which were put into effect by the Postal Service July 15. An envelope smaller than three and one-half inches by five will be returned to the sender, while one that's larger than six and one-half by 11 and one-half inches may require as much as seven cents additional postage.

Forms for applying for federal and state funds for fuel assistance are available at the Center or by calling the Senior Service Line. The funds are not available for phone bills, but are available for oil and other utilities.

Energy tips from the Center include: don't turn the thermostat lower than 65 degrees during the day, walk around the house if getting cold; wear layers of clothing; bundle up; but, don't drink alcoholic beverages to warm up - they dilate the blood vessels and then decrease heat reserves.

Tuesday morning yoga classes will continue in the Crafts Room at the Center at 9:15.

Dr. James J. Callahan Jr., former Secretary for the Dept. of Elder Affairs, is conducting a Sunday morning television program called "Senior Circuit"

on Channel 7 at 8 a.m.

A legislative committee consisting of Vin Berger, Bill Keith and Ed Sharkey has been formed to keep abreast of pending legislation and to inform seniors, through the Newsletter, about relevant bills.

Free figure skating basics are available at the Arlington Veterans' Memorial Rink on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to noon.

Those interested in finding a tennis partner for a once or twice a week game should contact the Senior Service Line.

Travel
Along with

As a rule of thumb for the thrifty traveler, try to steer clear of hotels catering to American tourists or those located along the most plush and famous boulevards. A smaller hotel, a few blocks from the center of things, or possibly an inn located a few miles from the center of the city, can cost the traveler considerably less for accommodations. Chances are, the further the traveler is away from where everyone else stops, the more unusual and interesting his stay will be. How to choose a hotel? Seek out an experienced traveler's advice and ask your travel agent to outline some norms for each area on your itinerary.

It is a good idea to let a professional help you plan a trip. McGRATH TRAVEL SERVICE knows about the lowest airfares available and the best accommodations for your travel dollar. They can plan a vacation to suit your taste and budget. Everyone receives the same personal attention. All of us hope you have a very Happy New Year and we look forward to serving you in 1980.

Tel. 935-0600; 14 Eaton Ave., Woburn; Open Mon. - Fri. 9-5; Sat. and evenings by appointment.

TRAVEL TIP: In the Scandinavian countries, older adults and families with children are accepted in youth hostels.

REAL ESTATE

by Ann Blackham

We all learn from other people's mistakes. But unfortunately, some of us have to be the "other people." One of the mistakes can be selling the wrong selling price on your house. An under-priced house will sell fast, but the owner will lose money. An over-priced house will not move at all, and many excellent buyers will be lost to others.

What your house is worth is not what you think it is, or what the buyer might think it is. Its true value is determined by its location, the general economic climate, the current local real estate situation, the age of the property and the wear and tear it has seen.

Call in a well-established local REALTOR for this vital determination. He's experienced in real estate evaluation and is in constant touch with the local market. He knows what homes are selling at what prices. It's a nice feeling to have him working on your side right from the start.

The Sachems went to the basket in force against Melrose last week with a combination of Jeff Cahill layups....

the same problem as they cut a first quarter lead down to one, 12-11 early in the second quarter. But the Red Raiders couldn't cash in on a couple of opportunities and Cahill kept the Sachems just ahead with a couple of hoops. The half ended with the score 16-15. Neither side was exactly singing the strings, as they say.

Sachem Kevin Thomas, who probably was the best Winchester player on the floor in the Arlington game, opened the second half with a couple of hoops and the Sachems took the lead. The locals expanded their edge behind the play of Ed Pratt and Jimmy Kohr, and though Melrose pulled close near the end, the Sachems had secured victory number one.

Loss number two came on Friday as Burlington, probably the tallest team in the Middlesex League, came to town and did a number on the Sachems.

Superguard John Paganetti was the high scorer in the game, nailing 29 points from the outside and inside for Burlington despite only playing half the game.

The Sachems stayed close in the first period, but Burlington's superior rebounding held the locals to only one shot at the basket just about every time down the floor.

Cahill again lead the Sachems with nine points, followed by Kohr with seven and Pratt with six. The Sachems now face Arlington tomorrow night at the High School.

Sachems Slip Past Melrose, Then Get Bombed By Burlington

The Winchester High boys' basketball team split two games last week, defeating Melrose on Tuesday 44-38, then getting their heads handed to them on Friday by the Red Devils of Burlington, 38-45.

Jeff Cahill led lead his teammates to their first win of the year, scoring 17 points, the high for the game. It was a badly needed win for Winchester, as coach John Myers, trying to instill a winning attitude into a club that had little of it last year, faced the possibility of losing his first two games of the season. Though the game was no masterpiece, a win is a win. Winchester lost their opener to Arlington because of their inability to handle the full-court press. It seemed as though Melrose might give the Sachems

Watertown, Lexington Cruise Past Sachem Skaters

It was not a successful opening week for the Winchester High varsity hockey team. Trying to rebound from a tough season last year with a young club, the Sachems were rocked 8-1 in their opener to Watertown, then 10-2 by a very strong Lexington team.

In the Watertown game, the Sachems were in the thick of things until the Red Raiders asserted themselves in the second period and blew three quick goals past Winchester netminder Bob Surabian which gave Watertown a 5-1 lead at that point.

The Sachems scored their only goal in the first period on a power play by senior Buddy Pronski. Steve Marino had blasted the puck at Red Raider goalie Ed O'Brien who made the initial save. Pronski was there for the rebound however, and the Sachems, for the moment, were on in the game.

Watertown scored three more times in the third period to round out the scoring. It was a surprisingly strong showing for Watertown, a team not expected to make too much noise this season.

In the Lexington game, things went from bad to worse as the Minutemen exerted their "defensive system" on the Sachems, while getting a little offensive in the meantime.

Perhaps the most frustrating moment in a game loaded with aggravation for the Sachems, came in the first period when the Minutemen were hit with two penalties, sending two men off the ice. But the locals couldn't cash in and left the ice trailing 3-0 after the first period.

The Minutemen blasted three more past Surabian in the second period, upping their lead to 6-0 before Jeff Stackpole finally got Winchester on the board with a slapshot that split Lexington goalie Paul Bates' pads.

Ian Donaghey got the Sachems' second goal late in the third period, but not before the Minutemen had netted four more to make the final 10-2.

The Sachems now face the Rockets of Reading at Stoneham Arena on Saturday night at 9 p.m.

St. Mary's Holds Christmas Family Mass Dec. 16

St. Mary's Religious Education Program had a special family mass Dec. 16 in preparation for Christmas. The lower Church was crowded as the procession of children, acolytes and Father Robert Fay, the celebrant came down the aisle to begin the celebration. A group of guitarists, directed by Mrs. Henry Quill, accompanied the singing of "His Banner Over Me Is Love."

During the offertory, the children brought gifts to be given to "Mail for Tots." These were placed around a birthday cake with lighted candles. Then all sang "Happy Birthday, Jesus." One could not help but recall the words of Jesus, "What you do unto the least of my brothers, you do unto me."

Two second grade children, Richard Mawn and James Howrigan, made their First Communion at this mass.

The morning ended with a social hour and refreshments in St. Mary's hall. Families expressed their gratitude for a meaningful liturgy and said, "let's do it again."

Wrestlers Come Alive Pin 38-21 Upset On C-C

The Winchester High School wrestling team showed that they are going to be a team to contend with this season by surprising Concord-Carlisle at the Winchester High gym 38-21 last week.

The win answered two questions heavy on the mind of second year coach Bob Tufts. First, could the Sachems bounce back from an opening loss to perennial power Chelmsford and second, would the four sophomores who are first year wrestlers mature quick enough to be competitive against more experienced opponents?

Well, it only took two matches in Thursday's match to find out the answers. Sophomore Ed Welch at 100 lbs., after falling behind 5-2, scored 5 unanswered points in the third period to take a 7-5 decision. Fellow sophomore Brud Haulihan at 107, pulled the upset of the day with a second period pin giving the Sachems a 9-0 lead.

Then came returning veterans, juniors Jay Berardi at 114 lbs. and Lee Fotsch at 121, both wrestling extremely well. Berardi gaining a pin in the first period and Fotsch taking a superior 12-0 decision. Sophomore Scott Carzo wrestling at 128, lost a tough 8-6 decision, but showed some great potential in his first varsity match.

Senior Mark Sullivan won by forfeit at 134 while juniors Mike O'Reilly and Ed McKenna went down to defeat at 140 and 147, wrestling well.

With the score at 26-15, senior Dave Errico at 157 lbs., lost a nail biter by a score of 6-4, closing the gap to 26-18 but Captain's Gary Errico and Lennie Bellino iced the victory by winning their matches. Errico won by a third period pin and Bellino by forfeit.

With the match in hand, sophomore heavyweight Charlie Kenyon dropped a heartbreaker 4-2 closing out the scoring at 38-21.

Vacation week should prove to be a good indicator of just how far the Sachem program has come when they take on Lexington Dec. 27 in Lexington at 1 p.m. and Weston, Dec. 29 at 1 p.m. in Weston.

Lisa Saliba, who turned 14 on Monday, stands next to the gingerbread house she made for the holidays. According to Lisa if took her two weeks to build the house and though she'll try to preserve it as long as possible, she's not quite sure what she'll do with it. Any suggestions? (Staff Photo)

Cabaret Show Tryouts

Tryouts for the 59th annual Winton Club Cabaret show "Moving Right Along" will be held at Winchester Town Hall Jan. 7 at 7 p.m., and are open to anyone beyond high school age.

"Moving Right Along" is a musical, magical definition of traveling and transportation. It is the creation of Mrs. Paul Gleason, cabaret chairman, and her committee, who have been working on the production since last February. Performance dates are Jan. 29 through Feb. 2. All proceeds from the production are for the benefit of Winchester Hospital.

Greeting newcomers and returning cast members on Talent Night will be Mrs. Karl Sorger and Mrs. Regis Peloux, talent chairmen. Dancers are asked to wear leotards and low heeled shoes. Soloists should bring their own music.

The casting of "Moving Right Along" will be done by the show's director, Clint Hamblin. Hamblin, who was the director and choreographer of the 1978 Cabaret "Surprise!", will be joined by Edward Madden, who will be the musical director and coordinator. Madden, who is the musical director of the Brookline Public Schools, has to his credit the recent Vincent Club of Boston shows.

Hamblin will outline the musical, dance and comic scenes of "Moving Right Along" so that volunteer performers will be able to indicate the acts for which they wish to audition. The director and talent committee then try to place each performer, with rehearsals starting the middle of the following week.

Bretton Woods. The next best thing to Mt. Washington.

2. Follow the leaders. Guess where the U.S. Cross Country Ski Team is holding its final qualifiers. Here. On one of the largest areas in the east. 84 km. waiting for you.

5. Sleep near the slopes. Bretton Woods Motor Inn and Townhouses offer accommodations for singles, groups, families.

4. Apres ski? Me? Oui! At one of the best appointed base lodges anywhere. Stay around for the live entertainment, too.

1. We get snow before you do. Bretton Woods is high-up, and our season is long. So, count on snow, 105 acres of groomed trails, and a lot of excitement for every level of skier.

3. Bring your appetite. Every area has a restaurant. Ours has three. So when you get hungry, just follow your nose.

The dark little blob in the photograph below is a baby bottle-nosed dolphin. It was born November 20 at the New England Aquarium and is, as yet, without a name. To right that wrong, the Aquarium is sponsoring a competition (open to New England boys and girls, up to 16 years old) to Name the Dolphin. The winner will receive a visit to the Aquarium, a family membership to the Aquarium, and a whale-watching trip for the whole family next spring. Entries (one name per card or letter, please) should be sent to the New England Aquarium, Central Wharf, Boston, MA 02110. No entries will be accepted after January 11; judging by Aquarium staff will take place January 15. All decisions are final.

The baby is pictured with its mother, Spit, an Aquarium resident since 1974. The father, we are sorry to report, is unknown, but the female dolphin is a devoted parent, and tries her best to make up for the philandering male. The sex of the baby is unknown; Aquarium officials have not yet gone into the tank. An androgynous name might be the most appropriate.

The bottle-nosed dolphin (Cetacea delphinidae tursiops truncatus) is a member of the whale order and is a cousin, so to speak, of the killer Orca. But the dolphin has a far milder temperament; its mouth is curved in the semblance of a perpetual smile. Flipper, star of television and the silver screen, was a bottle-nosed dolphin. The bottle-nose can see moving objects up to 15 meters away, and the calf, or baby dolphin, is born with its eyes open, and teething occurs after about six weeks. The bottle-nosed dolphin is a warm-water animal (not a fish, remember, but a mammal), a native of the Florida coast. The Aquarium baby is the first to be born in captivity in New England.

Dolphins are noted for their grace, intelligence, playful spirit, and friendly outlook on life. They adapt well to captivity and eat mostly fish. Most people know that dolphins communicate through high-pitched squeals and ultrasonic impulses; they seem to have something to say, and their language is a subject of intense study by marine scientists.

Dolphins have been celebrated in art and literature since earliest times, and are associated with the god Apollo. They like to follow along in the wake of a ship, and ancient mariners who sighted schools of dolphins gamboling in the spray sometimes mistook them for sea serpents; the sleek, curved backs of leaping dolphins in a row resembled serpents' coils.

In the fund-raising department, the Museum of Our National Heritage, in Lexington, has been given a $150,000 Challenge Grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. The grant is awarded on the condition that the Museum match each dollar of grant money with $3 of new gifts, from members of the Scottish Rite of Freemasonry of the Northern Jurisdiction (who sponsor the Museum), or from other sources, corporate and individual. Time limit for matching is three years.

About a hundred thousand people visit the Museum each year, drawn by its exhibits of popular American history, films, concerts, lectures, and an always-free-admission policy. Anyone who wishes to contribute to the challenge fund should write to the Museum of Our National Heritage, 33 Marrett Road, Lexington, MA 02173; or call 861-6559.

Further west, Historic Deerfield, Incorporated, is currently raising funds to restore the Deerfield Inn, which was damaged by fire last February. The inn was built in 1884, and in addition to providing bed and board to the wayfarer, it housed visitor services for the Historic Deerfield museum complex. Contributions are tax-deductible and may be sent to Historic Deerfield, Incorporated, Post Office Box 321, Deerfield, MA 01342. □

LIMITED OFFER!

22-KARAT SOLID GOLD MINIATURE OF THE FAMOUS 1907 UNITED STATES SAINT-GAUDENS $20 GOLD PIECE Only $20 – if you act within 30 days!

In June, 1979, a rare Saint-Gaudens $20 gold piece brought the highest price ever paid for a gold coin at a public auction — $225,000! Fewer than 14 are believed to have been minted! This exquisitely detailed miniature is an authentic replica of this historic coin, reproducing every detail of its "ultra high relief" — even the tiny wing feathers on the eagle and the unique Roman numeral MCMVII date. It is minted from hand-engraved dies in exactly the same manner as the original, and struck in solid 22 Karat gold, which is the standard for all U.S. gold coinage. This is important, because some miniatures being offered today are only 14-Karat gold — a jewelry grade, which contains less than 60% real gold.

Exclusive Limited Offer by The Westport Mint

The 1907 Saint-Gaudens miniature is available in 22-Karat ".900 fine" gold only from The Westport Mint. Each magnificent miniature comes in its own custom designed collector's case, and each is accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity, which we advise keeping in a safe place for use at some future date if you or your heirs might decide to sell it.

Price Guaranteed for Only 30 Days

The price of $20 per miniature is guaranteed only for 30 days following the date of this publication, since the world price of gold is subject to considerable fluctuation and recently rose to a record high of over $305 per ounce. So to avoid disappointment, we suggest you act quickly! There is a strict order limit of five, and you are further protected by an unconditional money-back guarantee — if after inspection you decide not to keep your gold pieces, you may return them within 30 days for a full refund, less postage, handling, and insurance charges. So to assure yourself of risk-free price protection, we suggest you mail the order form today!

FOR THE BIRDS

Winter Birds: Feeding and Habits is the title of a program for kids eight to 12 years-old in which they can learn about what attracts birds to feeders, how to make bird feeders, and how to get close to the feathery creatures without scaring them off. The program begins at 9 am at the Chickatawbut Hill Audubon Center, at the Blue Hills Reservation, in Milton. The cost is $1. For information and to register, call 696-0920. A similar program for kids in kindergarten through grade three is held at the South Shore Natural Science Center, on Jacobs Lane in Norwell. Kids can learn how to make feeders and bird shelters, and the proper seed to use. The cost is $3, $2.50 for members. Dial 659-2559 for details.

ARMOR

The John Woodman Higgins Armory Museum in Worcester has special programs for children set for this holiday vacation week. Today at 11 am Suiting-Up in Armor is featured, and at 2 pm Arms and Armor is the focus of a special presentation. Kids can learn all about how armor was used to protect knights in battle and the various swords and other weaponry of the time is also explained. Tomorrow at 10:30 am an audio visual program The History of Armor, is featured. Workshops and demonstrations are continued January 2 through 4, rounding out the vacation period. All demonstrations are included in the price of general admission (50 cents for kids, $1.50 for adults, and $1 for elders). The museum is located at 100 Barber Road in Worcester. Call 853-6015 for additional information.

JAZZ AT NOON

The Jazz at Noon series, through which professional and amateur jazz musicians are invited to participate in an open jam-session, gets going today at noon at Jason's, 131 Clarendon Street in Boston. The session is led by Dick Johnson, Gary Johnson, Al Reed, Phil Winter, and Bob Winter, well-known local jazz musicians all. There's a $2 music charge. Call 262-9000 for additional information.

WORLD OF WHEELS

The 1980 International World of Wheels rolls into Boston's Hynes Auditorium today through Sunday. The show features hundreds of fully customized cars, trucks, vans, and other specialized vehicles, along with special attractions and a large selection of customize accessories. Candy Loving, of Playboy magazine fame, and Adam Rich, better known as Nicholas on television's Eight is Enough also make special appearances during the three-day show. Show hours are from noon to 11 pm today and tomorrow, and from noon to 9 pm on Sunday. Admission is $4.50, $1 for kids six to 12. The Hynes is at 900 Boylston Street, Boston. Call 262-8000 for additional information.

Tom Rush sings at the Paradise in Boston, Friday and Saturday.

WHAT A RUSH

Tom Rush, the mellow folk singer, performs at the Paradise, 967 Commonwealth Avenue in Boston tonight and tomorrow night at 8:30. Tickets cost $5.50 in advance, $6.50 the day of the show. Call 254-2053 for further information.

HAIR OF THE DOG

There are as many hangover cures as there are hangovers, and though we hope you won't need it, this is one of our favorite pick-me-ups: Soak a sugar cube in Angostura bitters, then roll it in Cayenne pepper. Drop the cube into a glass of champagne—imported or domestic. One caveat: Take it easy with the cure, or you'll be back where you started.

COLLEGE BOWL GAMES

Today's a big day for College Bowl Games, as all you football addicts (and football widows) know. Here are some of the big games available through the wonders of television. (At press time all the contestants in several of the games were not yet determined.)

Sugar Bowl—University of Alabama vs University of Arkansas, at 2 pm on Channel 5.

Cotton Bowl—University of Nebraska vs University of Houston, at 2 pm on Channel 7.

Rose Bowl—at 4:30 pm on Channel 4.

Orange Bowl—at 8 pm on Channel 4.

FIRST NIGHT: Ringing in the Eighties

Compiled By Mark J Wolff

The tolling of Boston's church bells heralds the fourth annual First Night Celebration, announcing not just the end of another year but also the beginning of a new decade. First Night, Boston's unique New Year's Eve performing-arts festival, features more than 100 performing groups, ranging from ballet to mime, jazz to poetry, music to theatre, and film to environmental art.

This year's focus is on the many events scheduled for the evening, most of which are scattered throughout downtown and Back Bay.

The nice part of First Night is that the one-time $1 fee for a First Night button entitles the wearer to attend—at no additional charge—most of the events scheduled for the evening's revelry. Buttons are available at participating Brigham's ice cream stores through December 28. Thereafter, buttons will be available at performance locations (see schedule).

Fireworks have been a traditional part of the First Night festivities. Once again this year, a pyrotechnic display will shower the skies over Boston's inner harbor with brilliant colors at midnight, ushering in the new year. The display will last for approximately 15 minutes and can be viewed from City Hall Plaza.

INDOOR EVENTS

Exceptions to the one-time button fee policy are at John Hancock Hall, where an evening of jazz presentations are in store; and at the Savoy Theatre (the Opera House) where a Dance Showcase is on tap.

An evening of jazz at John Hancock Hall, 180 Berkeley Street, features three performances by different ensembles. The first performance at 7 pm features Decadhedron + 1, Ken Pullig and his 11-piece ensemble, playing original works in the American jazz tradition. At 8:15 pm the Joel Press Evolutionary Jazz Ensemble does its stuff, highlighting guest tap dancer Leon Collins. Finally, Semenya McCord takes a Journey into Jazz, focusing on Afro-American vocal and instrumental pieces. This performance is presented at 9:30 pm and again at 10:45 pm.

For dance enthusiasts, the Savoy Theatre, 539 Washington Street, hosts three one-hour dance programs. The first program, starting at 7 pm in the theatre's lobby, features a Soundstair performance by the Dance Collective, followed by performances by the New England Dinosaur, Boston Ballet Ensemble, Spanish Dance Theatre, and Impulse Dance Company. The second program at 9 pm highlights the Boston Ballet Ensemble, the Concert Dance Company, the Spanish Dance Theatre, and the Leon Collins Dance Company. Rounding out the evening's dance performances at 10:30 pm is a program highlighting Dragongarde, the Concert Dance Company, the Spanish Dance Theatre, and Stan Strickland and Sundance.

Tickets to the jazz and dance performances are available in advance at the Savoy Theatre box office (539 Washington Street, 426-2786), the BOSTIX ticket booth at Faneuil Hall (723-5181), and the Out-of-Town ticket agency in Harvard Square (492-1900). Tickets for each individual performance cost $3.50 and can also be purchased the night of the performance on a first-come, first-served basis.

THE PROCESSION

Another tradition of First Night is the Procession, led by the world-renowned Bread and Puppet Theatre. The colorful procession begins at City Hall Plaza at 5:15 and winds its way to the Common and then on to Newbury Street. A volunteer drum corps also takes part in the procession, and, of course, children and adults are encouraged to take part.

The Procession will stop on the Charles Street side of the Common at around 6 pm, when music, jugglers, and other assorted merrymakers will entertain.

OUTDOOR EVENTS

From 7 pm to 11 pm the Back Bay will become a performing-arts stage for roving minstrels, singers, face painters, and instant-theatre groups.

As you travel among the more-formalized indoor events, you'll encounter Scrubboard Slim the Sideshow Man, an old-time medicine show entertainer; Guru Blanket, an a cappella ensemble; Present Mirth, an a cappella trio; Karen DeNitto and her troupe of face painters; Art Attack, a pedestrian float pulled by instant-theatre performers; Jeff Mauzy, a self-styled oracle, who'll answer any question. Other attractions include a kinetic slide show, a steam sculpture illuminated by a series of strobe lights, and, if you look up to the sky from time to time, poetry flashing from under the wings of a plane.

For directions to this on-the-street entertainment, costumed guides carrying colorful posters will lead sightseers in groups called the Boot Route.

OTHER EVENTS

A sneak preview of a new animation series coming to Off the Wall is another highlight of First Night festivities. The Little Prince, a half-hour animated film by Will Vinton, will be shown every hour on the hour from 7 to 10 pm at Off the Wall, 60 State Street, in the Where's Boston? theatre. Admission is $1 with a First Night button. Call 547-5255 for information.

The First Night Information Center will be at the Charles Playhouse, 76 Warren Street, where Salute to the Era of the Airwaves, live performances of the music of the Twenties, Thirties, and Forties, will be presented from 7:30 pm to 2 am. The latest information on First Night activities will be broadcast by WLYN-FM radio (101.7), including a rundown on goings-on and information on any crowd problem. (It might be a good idea to tote a portable FM radio for this evening.)

In previous years more than 100,000 people from MetroBoston have participated in First Night. This year extra police will be on hand to make sure everything runs smoothly, as it did last year. First Night this year will be the first major event celebrating Boston's 350th birthday.

So make it a safe and fun New Year's Eve, whatever you do, and if you're looking for lots of varied entertainment, First Night is for you. Have a happy one!

If You Decide to Go . . .

By Car: The parking garages and lots in the central areas include the Boston Common garage, Prudential Center garage, and lots at Boylston and Charles Streets, and at Exeter and Newbury Streets. The Government Center garage is convenient to City Hall Plaza. Regular on-street parking—when available—is free. Don't worry about meters after 6 pm.

If you plan to celebrate First Night with alcoholic beverages while you're in town, METROGUIDE urges you to consider another means of transportation or to make plans to stay overnight. One hotel with a First Night special is the Sheraton-Boston, with a $39 rate for a double room. For information call 236-2000.

By MBTA: Service on all subway lines will end at the usual hour, about 12:30 am. The MBTA will try to have extra cars on most lines, but if you're planning on staying for the fireworks you must consider the possibility of being stranded. MBTA bus service follows a regular holiday schedule.

By Train: Boston and Maine Service from North Station follows a regular holiday schedule. The last train leaving the station is at 11:59 pm.

Toilet Facilities: Portable toilets will be in Copley Square and around City Hall Plaza. Public toilets are located in the Boston Common garage and on the Common near the Information Booth, just off Tremont Street. Churches, theatres, and auditoriums, where indoor events will be held, have their own public toilet facilities.

Weather: First Night activities will be held regardless of the weather. Remember the wind-chill factor, dress warmly (there may be occasional lines for events), and wear your galoshes!

Further Information: For more information about First Night, call 536-3121.

The following is a listing of some of the Boston area's notable restaurants. Credit cards are abbreviated like this:

AE American Express
BA/V BankAmericard/Visa
CB Carte Blanche
DC Diners Club
MC Master Charge

We suggest making reservations, whenever possible, to avoid disappointment.

Hub

Another Season—99 Mt Vernon St, Boston, 367-0880. A creative a la carte menu with a French accent, rather expensive. Reservations are a must. Wine and beer. Hours: 5:30-10:30 pm Mon-Thurs, until 11 pm Fri and Sat. Closed Sun. AE, MC.

Black Rose Pub—160 State St, Boston, 523-8486. That's Roisin Dubh (or "Dark Rosaleen") in Gaelic, and the menu is as Irish as the name: stew, corned beef and cabbage, soda bread. Moderate prices, full bar. Sometimes there is a cover charge on weekends. Reservations accepted for dinner. Hours: 11:30-2 am. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Charley's Eating and Drinking Saloon—344 Newbury St, Boston, 266-3000, and in Braintree and Chestnut Hill. Good food: crab-stuffed shrimp, London broil, and excellent service, in an active Victorian room. Full bar and moderate prices. Hours: Daily, 11:30-1 am. AE, CB, DC, MC.

Front Street—280 Berkeley St, Boston, 247-0011. The Boston division of the well-known Provincetown restaurant, with elegant, international cuisine. Full bar, reservations. Hours: Daily, 6-10 pm. AE, BA/V, MC, House Charge.

Gallagher—55 Congress St, Boston, 523-6080. Housed among the marble and bronze of what used to be a bank lobby, Gallagher has formal American and Continental cuisine in the Dining Room, weekday lunch in the Cafe, and light lunches and hot hors d'oeuvres in the Bar. Hours: In the Dining Room, Mon-Wed 5:30-9:30 pm, until 10:30 pm Thurs-Sat, and 11:45 am-2:30 pm Mon-Fri. In the Cafe, Mon-Fri 11:30 am-3:30 pm. In the Bar, noon-2 pm and 4-7 pm for food, to 1 am for drinks. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Hyatt Regency Cambridge—575 Memorial Dr, 492-1234. Three ways to eat the revolving rooftop Spinnaker Lounge for lunches and light suppers: Jonah's on the Terrace for seafood and Sun brunch; and the Empress for continental Chinese cooking. Hours vary. All have a full bar, no reservations at Jonah's. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Scotch 'n Sirloin—77 N Washington St, Boston, 723-3677. Menu specials include teriyaki steak, ale-battered shrimp, and King Crab. Full bar, moderate prices, reservations accepted. Live entertainment. Hours: Daily, 5:30-10:30 pm, until 11:30 pm Fri and Sat. Dinner from 5 when the Bruins or Celtics play the Garden. Sun 3:30-9:30 pm. AE, BA/V, MC.

North

Andover Inn—Chapel Ave, Andover, 475-5903. On the grounds of Phillips Andover Academy, but a far cry from school fare. Some of the far-flung favorites are Loempia, scampi flambe. Make sure that the pastry cart rolls past your table. On Sundays, the dinner feature is Rijstafel, a Dutch-Indonesian buffet. Moderately priced, elegant. Full bar. Open Mon-Sat, 11:30 am-3 pm, and 5-10 pm. Sun, 10:30 am-3 pm, and 4-9 pm. AE, BA/V, DC, MC.

Bistro LeBistingo—8 Front St, Salem, 745-0324. Steaks, shrimps, scallops, and special casseroles like chicken livers Henry VIII. Fully licensed, and reservations are accepted. Hours: Daily, 11:30 am-2:30 pm for lunch, dinner 5 pm-midnight, bar open until 1 am. AE, BA/V, MC.

The Lyceum Restaurant—43 Church St, Salem, 745-7665. The Lyceum is housed in the building in which Alexander Graham Bell made the first public demonstration of the Telephone. The menu is extensive and continental: cuisses de grenouille Provençal, veal Zurichoise, duckling a la Montmorency flambe. The prices are moderate, and there is a full bar. Hours: Daily, from 11 am-10 pm. Reservations are recommended Fri-Sat evenings, and for Sun brunch. BA/V, MC, House Charge.

Rosalie's—18 Seward St, Marblehead, 631-9888. The cucina here is North Italian, the surroundings warmly Victorian. Veal Sorrentino, shrimp Luciana. Open daily, 11:45-2:30, and 5:30-10 pm. Reservations are advised for dinner. Fully licensed, no credit cards.

West

LeBourguignon—79 East St, Dedham, 326-8824. Everything here is French: the cuisine, the atmosphere, and the service. Specialties de la maison include boeuf bourguignon and coq au vin de Bourgogne. Full bar plus extensive wine list, reservations are recommended. Hours: Tues-Sat noon-10 pm; Sun 5-10 pm. No credit cards, cash or personal checks only.

Cafe l'Orange—Thoreau St, Concord, 369-8700. Upstairs in the Concord Depot, the Cafe is low-key, contemporary, and the cuisine is French: boneless rack of lamb, coquilles St Jacques, duckling. Prices are moderate, reservations are accepted. Fully licensed. Hours: Mon-Sat, 11:30 am-2:30 pm, and 6-9 (till 10 pm Fri-Sat), closed Suns. AE, MC.

Marriott Hotel—345 Comm

Ave, Newton, 969-1000. The S&S Livestock Co has a turn-of-the-century style and a varied menu. The Fairfield Inn, with a Mediterranean motif, specializes in crepes. The Windjammer Lounge serves buffet at lunchtime. Hours vary, so call ahead for details. AE, BA/V, MC.

Peking Garden—27 Waltham St, Lexington, 862-1051. Sino-American egg rolls and chow mein for the bashful, and a host of Szechuan, Mandarin, and Shanghai specialties for the initiate. A range of prices: House Special Duck tops the bill at $9. Full bar. Reservations are accepted for parties of eight or more. Open Sun-Thurs, 11:30 am-10 pm; Fri-Sat, 'till 11 pm. AE, DC, MC.

Victoria Station—345 Cochituate Rd, Framingham, 879-3223. Like others in the national chain, a steakhouse with railway decor. Also, seafood dishes and Nina's Seafood Quiche. The children's menu folds into a model boxcar. Full bar, moderate prices. Reservations are encouraged, especially on weekends. Hours: Open daily, for lunch Mon-Fri 11:30 am-2 pm, Sat noon-3 pm; for dinner Mon-Thurs 5:30-9:30 pm, Fri 5-11 pm, Sat 5:30-11 pm, Sun 4-9 pm. AE, BA/V, MC.

South

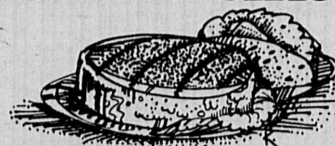

Christo's—782 Crescent St, Brockton, 588-4200. Huge and crowded, the accent at Christo's is Hellenic. A variety of Greek salads, shish kebabs, moussaka and American favorites. Efficient service, inexpensive. Full bar. No reservations, no credit cards. Open Mon-Sat, 11-12:30 am; Sun, 12:30 pm-12:30 am.

Plymouth 1620 Restaurant—158 Water St, Plymouth, 746-9565. Escargots, steamers, swordfish, lobster, steak, all manner of things that once trod the earth or swam the seas, all at moderate prices. Full bar. Hours: Daily, 11 am-10 pm. Reservations are generally a good idea. AE, BA/V, CB, DC, MC.

Boston's best N.Y. Strip Joint.

Don't get us wrong.
The only cheesecake we've ever served is so fresh and moist it made Watson a blushing Babe.
You see, our reputation is at steak.
Nothing but the best.
U.S.D.A. Choice.
Aged, trimmed and served up to your liking high above the new and old Boston.
Or if steak isn't your dish, try our teriyaki chicken, King Crab or lobster.
Whatever you choose, we'll top it off with the best entertainment in town.
For your dancing pleasure.
Valet parking, of course, reservations accepted.

The Puzzle

#109 Plan a Head

By Don Rubin

Thank God you've arrived; you know, we were really starting to worry. The building contractor and housing inspector weren't any help at all. "You designed the house," one of them said, "you find it." And the other one just laughed.

Here, take this pencil. We're in the foyer now, right? Well, all you have to do is draw a line from where we're standing to the bathroom on the other side of this wall. Take the shortest route and, please, hurry!

Rules of the Game

- Names of the first ten contestants with the correct answer will be published in METROGUIDE. All contestants submitting correct answers to any of the puzzles through January 3 by the usual deadline will qualify for the New Year's Lottery and a grand prize of dinner for two with all the trimmings. The METRODINNER winner will be announced in the January 10 issue of METROGUIDE.
- All entries in The Puzzle Contest must be received at the METROGUIDE puzzle desk, 227 Statler Office Building, Boston, MA 02116, by noon, the Thursday one week after publication.
- All entries must be accompanied by the name and address of the contestant.
- Employees of METROGUIDE and their immediate families are not eligible.
- Whenever possible, the Puzzle answer should be entered on the form provided.
